Pennington ADA meet scheduled January 11

Pennington County chapter of the American Dairy Association of Minnesota will conduct its annual meeting Monday, January 11, at 11:30 a.m. at the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls. All dairy farmers and their spouses are invited to take part in the dinner and meeting.

Dairy farmers from nearby counties also may attend if the time and location are more convenient than the meeting planned for their own county.

Short reports by board members and staff will highlight dairy promotion activities and results. The meeting will then be open for general discussion and questions. County promotion business will also be discussed.

"Dairy product consumption, particularly cheese, has continued to increase at a healthy rate during the past year," notes Sherry Newell, producer services coordinator for ADA of Minnesota. "We plan to report on programs funded by the checkoff that have helped to drive those excellent sales gains."

Currently representing Region 1 on the board of ADA/DC of the Upper Midwest are Lori Aakre of Hawley and Norma Hanson of Goodridge.

Roger and Janel Walter of Plummer chair the Pennington county ADA board with Michael and Linda Hanson of Goodridge as vice chair, Tom Willett of Plummer as secretary, Howard Person of Thief River Falls as treasurer, Tom Gerardy of Plummer and Wayne Veitleson of Trail as delegates and Warren Malwitz of Red Lake Falls as alternate.

Long-term care topic of meeting January 8

Glenice Johnson, Pennington county extension educator, will present a workshop on Long-Term Care: How Do We Pay for It? on Friday, January 8, at 1:30 p.m. in the courthouse meeting room in Thief River Falls.

The workshop will focus on types of long-term care, methods of paying for such care, tips when shopping for long-term care insurance and guidelines for individuals or families to use as they make these decisions.

"As Americans are living longer and the fastest growing age group is the people 85 years of age and older," Johnson said, "we all are much more likely to require some type of assistance from others.

"Due to increasing frailty, chronic illnesses, mobility problems or mental confusion, most of that assistance will be some form of long-term care. Such care can include family caregiving, community-based services, in-home services or a nursing home," she said.

The workshop is open to the general public as well as extension home study group leaders. For more information contact the county extension office at 683-7030.

Mara Lunde, director of the Northwest Regional Arts Council, responds to questions about the regional program during a recent Northern Watch interview. An advisory committee to the Northwest Regional Development Commission, the arts council shares offices with the NWRDC in Warren and recommends to the commission how arts funds should be allocated.

Council meets challenge to bring art to NW Minnesota

$147,600 budget shared by arts in seven counties

by Murvin Lundin
Northern Watch Editor

Meeting the challenge of bringing art and art opportunities to the seven counties of northwest Minnesota became a little easier a year ago, but the area is large and the needs are great.

That is the assessment of Mara Lunde, director of the Northwest Regional Arts Council, an advisory committee of the Northwest Regional Development Commission which has its offices in Warren.

"Last year Governor Carlson implemented his arts initiative which gave $12 million to the arts in Minnesota," Lunde said. "This enabled us to nearly double our budget and implement programs we had wanted to do but couldn't afford for a number of years."

Establishing Priorities

Funding the arts in Kittson, Red Lake, Marshall, Pennington, Polk, Norman and Roseau counties is primarily a matter of establishing priorities and allocating available resources. Efforts are also made to coordinate grants with other money available to schools and communities to get the greatest "bang for the buck" out of arts funding.

"We have a number of programs which provide grants to groups and organizations in local communities, and usually a local match of funds is required," Lunde said. "We feel the local effort is important, to assure a wise use of funds and to encourage and emphasize local interest in the arts."

There are 11 regional arts councils in the state and each is allocated state funds on the basis of a formula involving the area's population, geographic area and operations. For the fiscal year running from July 1, 1998 to June 30, 1999, the Northwest Regional Arts Council has been allocated $147,600 from the state. It also receives $19,000 from the McKnight Foundation.

Spreading that $166,600 budget over the arts needs of the residents of seven counties ranging from Ada to Warroad and Fosston to Hallock is a daunting task for the 16-member council and director Lunde. It was even more difficult before the governor's arts initiative last year.

New Public Art Program

"With new funding, the NWRDC has started the Public Art Program," Lunde said. Our plan is to help two or three communities complete a substantial public art piece each year.

"In April 1998, Red Lake Falls received a grant to construct a ceramic compass at the Pierre Bottineau tomb and Fosston has been awarded funds for a cast bronze piece as part of its $30,000 veterans memorial park project. Projects at the University of Minnesota in Crookston, at Old Mill State Park east of Argyle and requested by the Roseau Convention and Visitors Bureau are in line for funding in 1999.

Projects Originate Locally

Local community organizations initiate the activity and complete applications for project support in all areas where grant money is available, the director said. Apart from the public arts project, maximum grants are for $2,500 in matching funds for production or sponsorship.

Decision on grants is made by the arts council (subject to final approval by the Northwest Regional Development Commission) on the basis of geographical area, demand for the art form, merit, need and ability to carry out the project.

There are members of the NWRDC board on the arts council board, which helps with the flow of information between the two bodies, Lunde said. The arts council meets six times a year, with four of those meetings being grant round sessions which precede a meeting of the NWRDC. That permits the arts council to present its recommendations for grants on a timely quarterly basis.

"I think the arts get along well with other programs of the NWRDC," Lunde said. "Right now we have been working on clearing up a few tricky problems with Internet access and creating an agency web page. The web page is still being developed, so it only contains basic information, but anyone is welcome to visit www.nwrdc.org and click on 'Arts'."

150 Artists On Register

Lunde said that the arts council has a registry of about 150 people

Violence Intervention Project (VIP) building fund received a boost recently with a gift from Lowell and Marge Swenson of Thief River Falls. The $100,000 donation is a major private portion of the campaign to raise $1 million for a new regional multi-purpose facility for the organization which provides assistance to victims of domestic violence and abuse. Marge Swenson said she particularly wanted to help with the project because of the need in the seven-county area served by VIP. The new building would include a supervised visitation center, on-site transitional housing where victims of domestic violence can find immediate refuge and/or reside while attending college or training programs, and office space for staff and services. Jean Heinrichs (center), member of the VIP board and chair of the building committee, says that donations can be sent to: Violence Intervention Project, P. O. Box 96, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

Ironman 250 in T.R.F. slated Jan. 16 and 17

Thief River Falls Sno-Drifters Snowmobile Club has announced that the Commercial Sewing Ironman 250, to be held January 16-17, will feature a projected total purse of more than $30,000. The first place finisher in the Pro Class will receive in excess of $10,000 in prize money and contingencies.

The race is expected to draw the world's best professional snowmobile terrain racers, including defending 1998 Ironman Champ Brad Pake, as well as former Ironman winners David Stenlund, Corey Davidson and Eric Loge.

The Commercial Sewing Ironman 250 is one of the featured races of the newly established First American North Star Series (FANS). The race features two days of competition combining more than 200 miles of cross-country racing plus a demanding SnoCross course. The SnoCross race will again be held at the Pennington County Fairgrounds in Thief River Falls. Time and points are accumulated over the two days to determine the overall Commercial Sewing Ironman 250 champion in the Pro Class.

The Make-A-Wish Celebrity Auction will again be held on Saturday evening with a goal of exceeding the $10,000 raised for the Minnesota Make-A-Wish Foundation during the 1998 Ironman Race weekend.

Major sponsors of the 1999 Commercial Sewing Ironman 250 are to date: Commercial Sewing, manufacturer of recreational vehicle covers; Dayco, Inc., manufacturer of drive belts for snowmobiles and accessory belts for automobiles; McKinnon Company, distributor of Miller beer in Northwestern Minnesota and Arctic Cat Inc., manufacturer of Arctic Cat snowmobiles, ATV's and Tigershark watercraft. Supporting sponsors include Pennington Main/Pennington Square of Thief River Falls; St. Paul MetalCraft; Agri-Industrial Products: International Engineering; InterGraphic Decals; Pepsi-Cola Bottling of Thief River Falls; and the Thief River Falls Convention and Visitors Bureau.

Sheriff returns to White Earth

White Earth - Beltrami County Sheriff DeeWayne Rognstad is going home to White Earth.

Rognstad who was recently named director of public safety for the new White Earth Reservation police force, has had something of a roller coaster ride in his four years as Beltrami County Sheriff. His term ends January 1.

During his first three years the outspoken sheriff, a White Earth native, was admired in Beltrami county as he made popular changes at the county jail. But his department had trouble staying within its budget and Rognstad sparred occasionally with county commissioners. He decided not to seek reelection after a series of incidents in which he suspended or fired deputies, including his chief deputy.

Many of Rognstad's family members still live on White Earth. As the director of public safety for White Earth, he will oversee the 10-officer police force as well as conservation officers, security personnel and the dispatch office. Detroit Lakes Tribune

Bird counter aids in rescue

Bemidji - Doug Johnson was standing on the Lake Avenue Bridge recently tallying the number of waterfowl on Lake Bemidji during the 20th annual Christmas Bird Count when he saw a snowmobile and its driver plunge through the lake's thin ice.

First session of 1999 for the Cloverbuds program will be on Tuesday, January 12, at 3 p.m. at Challenger elementary school. Youngsters participating must be picked up at 4 p.m. at the front door of the school because the back doors will be locked.

4-H Knowledge Bowl regional at Grand Rapids

Regional 4-H Knowledge Bowl has been scheduled for March 6 at the middle school in Grand Rapids. Registration information is available at county extension offices and deadline to register is February 12.

Each team must pay a $20 entry fee, plus $10 if it does not submit the name of a helper for the contest. The $10 will be reimbursed if the team competes.

U.S. population now surpasses 271 million mark

Population of the United Sates as of Jan. 1, 1999, has been projected to reach 271,645,214 people—up by 2,578,000 (1.0 percent) from New Year's Day in 1998, according to the Census Bureau of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

The nation's population is projected to grow less (2,316,000) during 1999 than it did during 1998, primarily because of an expected rise in the number of deaths.

The New Year's Day 1999 population represents a 9.2 percent increase over the 1990 Census Day (April 1) total of 248,765,170.

Knight in shining armor proposes

Crookston - Craig Larson donned armor last week to propose to Lisa Glass at the Irishman's Shanty in Crookston. And when she got over the shock and found her voice she said, "Yes!"

Larson had been planning his surprise proposal since October. He rented his costume, worked with the restaurant staff and arranged for Liza's parents, six sisters and friends to be there.

Glass is from Mentor where she works for the Minnesota Housing Authority. Larson lives in Crookston and works for Proulx Refrigeration. The couple hasn't set a wedding date but will probably be married sometime this spring. Crookston Daily Times

TC teacher named McAuliffe Fellow

Elaine Ruud, a kindergarten teacher from Tri-County in Karlstad has been named one of six Minnesota educators to participate in the 1998-99 Christa McAuliffe Fellowship program.

Ruud and the others received their awards during the Minnesota Education Effectiveness Program (MEEP) Winter Conference in Bloomington on December 3.

The Christa McAuliffe Fellowship program is a federally funded, state administered program which recognizes teachers with eight or more years of experience, helping them improve classroom instruction through training and other activities. McAuliffe Fellows each receive a $3,000 grant and are expected to attend three special two-day training sessions throughout the school year. The six educators will also have opportunities to help other teachers in their regions.

Elaine has taught kindergarten at Tri-County since 1971 and has been the Grad Standards technician at Tri-County since the program was introduced there about three years ago. She developed a manual explaining the standards, and in addition to assisting Tri-County teachers in the standards, she has also helped out at other area schools.

Approximately 100 applications for the fellowships were reviewed by several panels of representatives across the state. A Children, Families & Learning group selected Minnesota's McAuliffe Fellows based on the panel's recommendations. The award is named for Christa McAuliffe, the teacher who died aboard the space shuttle Challenger.

How about some quick New Year's Eve party ideas? If you aren't planning on going to or having a party, make the evening special for the family with some of these recipes.

This would be great for that family get-together, and the kids can help make it:

WREATH-SHAPED TACO LAYERED DIP

1 (16 ounce) carton sour cream
1 (4 ounce) can chopped green chilies, drained
1 (1 1/4 ounce) package taco seasoning mix
1 1/2 cups shredded lettuce
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
1 large tomato, chopped and drained
1 medium avocado, peeled, pitted and chopped
2 tablespoons sliced green onion
2 tablespoons sliced ripe olives
Tortilla chips

In medium bowl, stir together sour cream, chilies and taco seasoning.

On large platter, sprinkle lettuce in a wreath shape (10 inch ring). Spoon taco mixture over lettuce, mounding slightly and smoothing the top and sides of wreath.

Sprinkle top and sides with cheese, tomato, avocado, onions and olives. Serve with tortilla chips.

Have an easy, spicy supper on New Year's Eve with this prepare-ahead, crock pot or top of stove dish and you can enjoy the rest of the evening:

FOUR CAN CHILI

1 (16 ounce) can tomatoes, undrained, cut up
1 (15 ounce) can chili without beans
1 (15 1/2 ounce) can pinto beans, drained
1 (15 1/2 ounce) can red kidney beans, drained
1/4 cup bottled barbecue sauce

Seeding legumes into grass pastures yields forage at lower cost

Renovating pastures by adding legumes yielded a bounty of low-cost forage in a three-year research project recently completed at the University of Minnesota's West Central Experiment Station at Morris.

At the beginning of the study, pastures consisted primarily of smooth bromegrass, bluegrass and quackgrass. Renovation began with spraying three-fourths pound per acre of Roundup when pastures were four inches tall in the spring. The next step was to no-till drill either alfalfa, a red clover and birdsfoot trefoil mix or a graziers' mix containing many legumes and grasses. An untreated area served as a control.

"All pasture renovation treatments produced more forage than the control," says Greg Cuomo, University of Minnesota forage agronomist who headed the team of scientists conducting the study. "Over the three years of the study, alfalfa produced 7.0 tons per acre more forage, the clover/trefoil produced 3.8 more tons per acre more and the graziers' mix yielded 5.5 tons per acre more forage."

The study also evaluated the cost of the extra forage, taking into account seed, herbicide, machinery and labor expenses. The additional forage cost $8.07 per acre for alfalfa, $12.81 for the clover/trefoil mixture and $9.95 for the graziers' mix.

"These costs represent about 10 to 15 percent of the cost of buying that forage as hay," Cuomo said, "and that doesn't include the benefits of increased forage quality and intake, or that these pastures lasted beyond the study."

Of the many species planted in the study, Cuomo said, alfalfa, orchardgrass and red clover were the most persistent.

The study also showed that forage left in a pasture at the end of the grazing season isn't wasted.

"Forage left in a pasture after grazing helps the pasture to regrow more quickly," Cuomo said. "This means more forage available for the next grazing."

He said grazing intensity treatments were grazed to leave 2-4, 4-6 and 6-8 inches of residue after grazing. Pastures that were grazed to leave 6-8 inches of residue produced 5.5 tons of forage per acre per year over the three-year study. Pastures grazed to leave 4-6 inches produced 5.4 tons per acre per year, but those grazed to leave 2-4 inches of residue produced only 4.7 tons per acre per year.

The pastures used in the study contained cool-season grosses (smooth bromegrass, bluegrass and quackgrass) and legumes (alfalfa, red clover and birdsfoot trefoil).

President hands U.S. economy to foreigners

"Despite grave bipartisan warnings from Congress since the conclusion of the United Nations Global Climate Summit in Kyoto, Japan, the President insists on committing our country to an agreement that I believe threatens our way of life; indeed, it threatens the heart of our nation's power—the American agricultural economy."

These are the words of U. S. Senator Larry Craig of Idaho, writing in the Viewpoint column of Farm Bureau News for Dec. 21, 1998.

Sen. Craig points out that U.S. agriculture is the world's most efficient because of enormous investments in technology over the years and because it is highly energy intensive. For example, 12 percent of the diesel fuel used in the United States is used by farmers.

"With evidence continuing to mount that compliance with the Kyoto Protocol will severely burden American farm families, I am extremely concerned about the administration's disregard of ag economic realities and its blind pursuit of the misguided and very political environmental agenda of Vice President Al Gore," the senator adds.

According to Craig, American farmers buy $166 billion worth of inputs and services, sell about $212 billion worth of products and services, and receive just over $54 billion in cash income to cover costs and provide incentives for future investment. Further, American agriculture depends on more than $60 billion in export sales.

"Every American farmer knows that Vice President Gore is the main proponent of this ill-conceived campaign to avoid what he calls 'an imminent environmental holocaust' caused by global warming," Sen. Craig says. He goes on to quote the respected British publication The Economist as follows:

"If global warming were truly an 'environmental holocaust' in the making, as America's Vice President Al Gore must wish he had never said, then, yes, countries should at once lock up their motor cars and shut down their coal plants. But none of the science points to an inevitable holocaust, still less an imminent one. Guarding against such hazards requires cool weighing of the risks and benefits. If global warming is real, but disaster is not imminent, there is much to commend a gradual approach to tackling it."

Senator Craig also notes an article in Nature magazine in which Martin Parry and four other lead authors of the United Nations Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change say that reductions required by the Kyoto Protocol would only lower the global temperature by 0.05 degree Celsius by the year 2050.

"Considering the 1-2 degree increase projected by current global climate models," Sen. Craig says, "that's an insignificant impact.

"While the effects of the Protocol would have an undetectable change on global climate, the effects on the U.S. farm economy would be stifling. The Energy Department estimates a 52 percent increase in gasoline prices, an 86 percent increase in electricity, a 4.2 percent decrease in the gross domestic product and a 2.5 percent decline in personal income."

Senator Craig says the President's willingness to exempt China, India, South Korea and Mexico from this treaty to reduce emissions is "even more mystifying." The Energy Department's Energy Information Administration recently projected that the total carbon emissions of China and India will exceed that of the United States by the year 2010.

"Clearly, farmers and ranchers in these developing countries will be the winners with this exemption. There is simply no compelling reason for our government at this time to force Americans to take preventative measures of uncertain competence against a problem that may or may not lie in the earth's future. The administration carries a very heavy burden of persuasion that the compliance measures contained in the Kyoto Protocol are worth the sacrifice it will require of the American people." Senator Craig said.

"By signing the Kyoto Protocol, it is the first time in our history that an American President has exposed the growth of the U.S. economy to foreign control. This must not stand ..."

If the President doesn't withdraw his support of the Kyoto agreement, Sen. Craig said the Senate will vote to deny ratification. One would hope that common sense prevails in the Senate and the Idaho senator is right in his assertion that it will not ratify the treaty. We wonder what it is that has motivated President Clinton to embrace an agreement so clearly detrimental to our nation.

The China Connection

If you think you saw the China imprint on more than the normal amount of merchandise passing through your house at Christmas, you're probably not mistaken. According to the U.S. Census Bureau, China was the leading country in dollar volume of U.S. imports in 10 of 15 categories of items, ranging from $11.3 million in golf clubs to more than a billion dollars worth of stuffed toys. The period covered in the study was from January through August of 1998.

Japan, which once seemed the dominant import country, led in only one small category—$7.2 million in scale model assembly kits. Mexico led in wheeled toys designed to be ridden by children (such as tricycles) and parts and accessories at $25.7 million. Pakistan led in soccer balls at $14.2 million, France in skis at $25.6 million and Italy in jewelry at $855.1 million. The rest of the leadership belonged to China.

According to the Census Bureau, China led in the following categories: Dolls, $641.9 million; stuffed toys, $1,170.8 million; toys (not stuffed) representing animals or non-human creatures, $432.8 million; electric trains, $35.7 million; puzzles, $15.8 million; golf clubs, $11.3 million; tennis rackets, $28.4 million; basketballs, $27.8 million; ice and roller skates, $65.9 million; and sports footwear, $201.9 million.

Also in the Census Bureau statistics were figures for 1996 which showed that 233 U.S. manufacturers employing 3,429 people shipped $300 million in dolls and stuffed toys— compared to the combined total of $1,812 million dolls and stuffed toys imported from China in the first eight months of 1998. No wonder there is concern in many areas for our nation's balance of trade on the world market.

Daily Risk

I do not allow my 10-year-old daughter to drive the family mini-van to town for groceries. I do not sight in my deer hunting rifle on Main Street in Baudette. I do not eat dairy products that are more than three weeks past their stale date. I do not sit on public toilet seats without at least briefly inspecting them first. I do not drive, walk or belly crawl on anything less than four inches of ice.

Let's take this a step further. I do allow my daughter the occasional privilege of backing the van down the driveway to get the mail. I do sight in my rifle at the gravel pit by the state park. I once drank milk that was five days "overdue." I still use public toilets even though I realize anything they might transmit would be invisible to the naked eye, anyway. I feel comfortable in a Bombardier on 12 inches of ice.

Somewhere between each of those pairs of declarations, a line of judgment has been crossed. I'm not much of a risk-taker, so the crossing point is probably pretty close to the conservative end of each spectrum, although its exact location is unimportant to this paragraph. Simply accept that in all of these instances, judgment is pertinent and since I'm supposed to be addressing the out-of-doors here, we'll head in the "ice" direction rather than attack the other issues mentioned above. If you've got some milk in the fridge that's lumpy, please throw it out.

Yes, I agree with the heavy-handed DNR press releases claiming that the "ice is never safe." I don't, however, see that as a reason for not venturing out on the ice. The highways are never safe, but I'm still going to drive to town for groceries each week, accepting that inherent risk while defensively trying to minimize it in any way I can. I'll drive 55, use my headlights and keep the 10-year-old out of the driver's seat. All I can do is hope that I don't come across a careless or drunk driver or encounter a rogue spot of "black ice."

Likewise on the lake, I'll take control of the percentages that are on my side. I know the weight of my vehicles, from snowmobile on up to Track Van, and have a good grasp of how their undercarriages spread those weights across each square foot. I am not too proud to consult the State's charts offering guidance on recommended pounds per inch of ice thickness. And most importantly, I assume nothing.

I try to know the thickness of every meter of ice that I cross. I don't accept others' eyeball estimates as they auger through the frozen sheet; I like the tape measure method for sizing. Ignorance of these basic facts is not good. Ignorance is what creates problems. I would never, for example, consider firing my .270 without first determining exactly what was behind the target.

Now, having established this good Episcopalian tone of self-righteousness, I will move on to a more Catholic mode and offer some confessions. Despite all my caution and care, I have been in some rather marginal situations on the ice. In fact, I have been exceedingly lucky on occasion to suffer little more than the loss of a few dollars and a bruise or two to my ego.

Unforeseen variables are a standard and to believe that you can eliminate them is ludicrous. Like the inevitable "ditch run" or "fender bender" that plague the paved world, there are certain inherent risks on the ice and percentages will eventually win out. Ask any insurance company.

Yet understand that the risk is an important part of the whole process. Using my judgment a couple of times a year is an imminently satisfying event and without the risk, I would never get the chance to do just that. I want to sneer in the face of 9.5 inches of ice, but casually label 10.25 inches "more than adequate." I want to experience a little adrenaline during that first Bombardier excursion across the bay, all the while knowing deep down that I've factored in every variable possible and the odds are heavily weighted in my favor. Heaven knows I'm not getting paid enough to do this; there had better be an added kick somewhere.

And understand, also, that when April rolls around and I'm feeling pretty good about having correctly assessed another winter on Lake of the Woods, then, and only then, might you catch me and my reckless, gambling, overly-confident self using a public toilet without giving the seat so much as a second glance.

currently listed as practicing artists in the seven counties. She says she continues to be impressed by both the quantity and quality of art and artists in this part of the state.

"We may not have continuous access to arts available in some of the more heavily populated areas," she said, "but we are by no means without artistic talent in northwestern Minnesota. One of our goals is to help those artists develop and improve as well as to provide art exposure to the general public."

The council attempts to accomplish this goal by bringing people together for training and advancement, although the distances involved and the relatively small number of people in artistic disciplines such as dance and media arts often makes this difficult.

Building And Staffing Needs

In a 1996 needs assessment, focus groups meeting with arts groups throughout the region determined that two major needs involve building renovation and staffing—both costly items.

"Local buildings such as those used for community theaters and other arts programs are often old and in need of major repair," Lunde said. "They are used because they are available, economical spaces but often they need many changes to serve the arts group's purpose and community financial support falls short.

"Another problem for groups is that many of the volunteers who have been mainstays of arts in the communities for years are burning out and it is difficult to find new people with the same level of commitment," the director added.

Lack of funding to provide arts specialists in the schools continues to be a problem, she said, but new graduation standards may accelerate efforts by the schools to provide a greater share of funding for such arts enrichment programs.

Flooded Artists Helped

"It was particularly gratifying last year to be able to help a number of artists who lost their supplies and equipment in the floods of 1997," Lunde said. "Through a grant from the Jerome Foundation of Minneapolis and in partnership with the North Valley Arts Council in Grand Forks, ND, we were able to provide $45,000 to support artists in replacement of some of their lost items."

Lunde is a graduate of East Grand Forks senior high school and holds a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree from the University of Minnesota at Duluth. She studied music and dance while in high school, playing the trumpet and piano and being a vocalist as well. At UMD her emphasis was on visual art, primarily in fiber work and photography.

The arts council has had a director since its formation in 1976. Mara succeeded Linda Nelson in April of 1993 when Nelson moved to a different area in the NWRDC office.

Previously Lunde had worked as a graphic designer with the Duluth News Tribune and organized resources and set up exhibits at the Tweed Museum at UMD. She moved back to this area after college and served for three years as a dance instructor at the Northern Expressions School of the Arts at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls while working for the NWRDC. She moved to Warren when the NWRDC offices moved there from Thief River Falls in 1995.

Arts Council Members

The regional arts council is currently chaired by George French of Crookston with Kim Johnson of Kennedy as vice chair and Marlene Baatz of Nielsville as secretary. Other members of the council are Mavis Benson, Stephen; Dawn Bly, Fosston; Rob Conwell and Gen Knott, Red Lake Falls; Patricia Dunning and Mary Follett, Thief River Falls; Dorothy Gehrke, Roseau; Betty Halvorson, Plummer; Charlene Kuznia, Argyle; Larry Braford, East Grand Forks; Georgine Lutz, Karlstad; Gene Lysaker, Twin Valley; and Bonnie Nordvall, Warroad.

Russ Smith Northwest Holiday Classic basketball...

Opener highlights first round

■ Wolfpack out-scores Storm 75-73 in Game 1

A down-to-the-wire finish in Game 1 highlighted first day activity at the 16th annual Thief River Falls Russ Smith Northwest Holiday Classic boys high school basketball tournament Monday.

Kittson Central held on to beat Stephen-Argyle 75-73 in the quarterfinal opener that was followed by a 51-38 Badger/Greenbush-Middle River victory over Tri-County, a 75-53 Thief River Falls win over Marshall County Central and a 71-50 Fertile-Beltrami decision over Clearbrook-Gonvick.

Kittson Central..................75
Stephen-Argyle..................73

Jason Urbaniak sank two free throws with 15 seconds remaining to lift Kittson Central past Stephen-Argyle 75-73.

Urbaniak's trip to the free throw line broke a tie, but didn't end the excitement. After an exchange of turnovers, Stephen-Argyle wound up with two tantalizing-close rim shots in the final frantic seconds that rolled off and kept the game from going into overtime.

The Storm led 17-12 after one quarter and had a 36-31 halftime edge before falling behind 60-50 in the third quarter.

Aaron Austin, a 6-2 junior, scored 34 points, to lead the Wolfpack. Jared Hanson, a 6-3 junior, had a 21-point game to head the Storm offense.

In a close game, free throws can often play a role in the outcome, and it did this time, with Kittson Central hitting 13 of 19 while Stephen-Argyle went 6-for-12.

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	T
Stephen-Argyle	17	19	14	23	73
Kittson Central	12	19	29	15	75

S-A - Reece Setterholm 9, Brett Stoltman 6, Darin Adolphson 10, Bart Stoltman 9, Ryan Safranski 4, Jared Hanson 21, Michael Wagner 8, Waylon Safranski 6.

KC - David Hatton 2, Mike Olsonawski 5, Mitchell Deere 16, Aaron Austin 34, Jason Urbaniak 10, Ben Stechmann 8.

Tri-County..........................38

Three-point second half shooting broke open a close game and carried Badger/Greenbush-Middle River past Tri-County 51-38 in the second portion of the first-day afternoon bracket.

The two teams were tied at 27-27 with 3:50 remaining in the third quarter when the Gators suddenly turned it up a notch offensively. Fueled by three straight treys to finish the third quarter, they went on a 14-0 win-producing run. Chauncey Hanson, David Truscinski and TJ Super all hit from behind the arch to make it 36-27 at the break. Super added a rebound basket to open the final quarter, then hit another 3-pointer to cap the breakaway, making it 41-27 with 6:29 to play.

"Those 3-point shots opened things up for us," confirmed Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "Those three kids – Super, Truscinski and Hanson – are good shooters. They've got the green light to put up the 3-pointer whenever they get a good look at the basket."

Tri-County managed to chop the 14-point deficit in half following a basket on the inside by Kyle Kuznia with 1:44 remaining, but they were out-scored 6-0 down the stretch.

The Gators, who were up 12-9 after one quarter and ahead 23-20 at halftime, were led by Truscinski, a 5-10 junior, and Super, a 6-0 sophomore, with 15 points each. Tri-County's attack featured a 16-point game by 5-9 junior Aaron Olson.

Half of the Gators' second half baskets (they were 8-for-19 after intermission) were from 3-point range. They also made 8 of 13 second half free throws and were 10-for-20 overall. The Wildcats did not go to the line in the second half and had just a 1-for-2 first half.

Marshall Co. Central..........53

Led by 6-8, 300-pound senior Matt Myers, Thief River Falls was just too strong for Marshall County Central as the host Prowlers began the Day 1 evening session with a 76-53 win over the Nordics.

Myers scored 21 points as the Prowlers snapped a four-game season-opening losing streak. He had offensive support from 6-2 sophomore Nate Sorvig, who came off the bench to score 14 points, 6-5 senior Kelly Cota with 13 and 6-1 junior Josh Gallagher, a transfer student from Goodridge, with 12.

"It was a brutal game – real physical," offered Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "They (Prowlers) are just too physical for us. We're just not strong enough to compete with that kind of team right now. Myers was tough when he got the ball inside, and whatever anybody else missed, he was there to clean up."

The Prowlers' size and strength led to a big 43-28 rebound advantage. The fact that 21 of those Thief River Falls rebounds came on the offensive boards was one of the game's biggest tell-tale factors.

"That's good rebounding," said Thief River Falls coach Bob Johnson when informed of the Prowlers' numbers on the boards. "We did a good job on defense and rebounding. That's the third game in a row where we played pretty good defense."

Only Marshall County Central lead of the night, a 6-4 edge on a long jump shot by David Wilcox, was followed by a 9-0 Thief River Falls run. Gallagher hit from long range, Cota connected on a short jumper, Myers scored off a drive and Sorvig came up with a steal and a three-point play to give the Prowlers a 13-6 advantage they would never surrender.

"Nate came in and did a great job, and Matt played real well," said Johnson. "I can't say enough about the perimeter players who got the ball inside Matt. They all did a nice job. Our offensive skills are starting to come around."

It was 21-12 at the first quarter stop, 39-27 at halftime and 54-35 through three quarters.

"The best thing I can say about the game is that we played 32 minutes of pretty consistent basketball, both offensively and defensively," offered Johnson.

David Wilcox, a 6-1 sophomore, was the Nordics' only double figure scorer, netting 15 points.

Thief River Falls was 29-for-67 from the field (43 percent) and 17-for-27 at the free throw line. Marshall County Central went 19-for-54 from the floor (35 percent) and 14-for-22 at the line. Both teams had 13 turnovers, but the Prowlers lost the ball just six times through 3 1/2 quarters.

Fertile-Beltrami cemented a 71-50 win over Clearbrook-Gonvick in the final game of Day 1 by out-scoring the Bears 25-11 during the fourth quarter.

The two teams played to a 10-10 first quarter tie and the Falcons led only 26-24 at halftime. They were up 46-39 through three quarters.

Jason Franklin, a 6-3 senior, scored 23 points for Fertile-Beltrami. Chris Westrum, a 6-5 freshman, had a 13-point game for Clearbrook-Gonvick.

The Prowlers' Collin Schafer (11), along with the Nordics' Dustin Jarshaw (55) and Kyle Muetzel (23), were also involved in the play. Thief River Falls advanced into the semifinals with a 76-53 win.

A battle under the basket featured Andy Gieseke (53) and Josh Smith (11) of Badger/ Greenbush-Middle River, who were going against Luke Freeman of Tri-County during Monday's quarterfinal game in the Thief River Falls Russ Smith Northwest Holiday Classic boys high school basketball tournament. Brett Spilde (20) of the Wildcats and TJ Super of the Gators looked on. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River won the game 51-38.

Prowlers, Trojans skate to tie

■ Start of hockey tournament in Grand Forks

Duluth Central and Thief River Falls played to a 5-5 overtime tie Monday in the first round of the Grand Forks Hockey World/Bauer Holiday Invitational high school hockey tournament.

The outcome should not have surprised the 2-4-3 Prowlers. It was their third straight overtime game and the fifth time in their last six starts that an extra session was required when the horn sounded ending regulation time. It was also the eighth straight one-goal (or tie) game in which the Prowlers have been involved.

This one, however, should not have fallen into that category, according to Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland. "It should have been a win," he said. "If we play up to our capabilities we win the game, no question. But we didn't play very well. We didn't play until the third period."

Thief River Falls senior forward Wade Chiodo had a memorable outing in the first portion of the three-day, four-team, round-robin tournament at Purpur Arena in Grand Forks with a four-goal effort. Jaymie Holmes picked up the Prowlers' fifth goal.

It was a game-long come-from-behind effort by the Prowlers, who came back from 2-0, 3-2 and 5-3 deficits to tie the Trojans.

Elk management plan is available to public for review, comment

What's the best way to manage Minnesota's small herd of elk in the extreme northwestern corner of the state? That is the focus of a draft elk management plan that the Department of Natural Resources released for public comment.

Elk once roamed across most of Minnesota, but were largely eliminated from the state by the early 1930s. The current population is the result of an elk reintroduction program in 1935. Since then, the herd has been the subject of considerable controversy because of the small herd size, damage that the elk have caused to area agricultural crops, and failed legislative attempts to force the DNR to move the elk.

There are currently approximately 30 animals in the primary elk range near Grygla, and an unknown number of elk scattered between there and the Manitoba border. Limited elk hunts have been held the last three years to keep the herd in check and prevent more widespread crop damage.

The draft management plan is the product of extensive discussions held by the DNR in 1996 with local farmers, elk advocates, environmental interests and others. It outlines strategies to address problems associated with crop damage, illegal killing, habitat loss, elk population and habitat research needs, potential range expansion, population viability and recreational use.

Draft plan copies are available by contacting the DNR Section of Wildlife, Box 7, 500 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, MN 55155-4007 or by calling the DNR at 651-296-3344. Comments will be accepted through Jan. 15, 1999.

Thief River Falls is winner over Minot

A second period scoring burst carried Thief River Falls past Minot 5-1 Tuesday in the Grand Forks Hockey World/Bauer Holiday Invitational high school hockey tournament.

The Prowlers put 19 shots on net in the first period, but it was still a scoreless tie before Wade Chiodo broke the deadlock at 2:34 of the second period.

That ignited a flurry of scoring activity that also included goals by the Prowlers' Casey Enge and Jaymie Holmes, and the Magicians' Josh Slind – all in a 3:17 span.

Jeff Rislov and Treavor Peterson added third period goals for the Prowlers, who snapped a five-game winless streak that included two ties.

"That's as good as we've played for three periods, all year," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland. "We came ready to play hockey and eliminated a lot of the mental mistakes that we had been making."

Thief River Falls out-shot Minot 50-25 while improving to 3-4-3 heading into the final session of the four-team, three-day round-robin event.

Wolfpack, Falcons reach title contest

Early leads carried Kittson Central by Badger/Greenbush-Middle River and Fertile-Beltrami past host Thief River Falls Tuesday in the semifinals of the 1998 Russ Smith Northwest Holiday Classic boys high school basketball tournament.

The Wolfpack beat the Gators 71-53 and the Falcons handled the Prowlers 58-40 to move into Wednesday's championship game.

Earlier in the day, Clearbrook-Gonvick downed Marshall County Central 61-46 and Stephen-Argyle edged Tri-County 48-46 in the consolation semifinals.

Kittson Central..................71
B/G-Middle River..............53

Mitchell Deere lit it up early and Aaron Austin continued his assault on the tournament scoring record as Kittson Central posted a 71-53 win over Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

Deere drained five three-point shots in the first half when he scored 17 of his 19 points and Austin poured in 30, to go along with the 34 he had in a 75-73 first round win over Stephen-Argyle as the Wolfpack produced quarter leads of 25-14, 41-23 and 55-37.

"The Deere kid killed us in the first half, and Austin got his points," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "They know how to spread the court. Austin's on one side doing his thing, and Deere is on the other side. They're a better team than we are right now."

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River added fuel to the Kittson Central offense with a rash of early turnovers. Four of the first five Kittson Central baskets came after the Gators turned the ball over.

It was a 12-9 game when the Wolfpack took off on a 3-point basket by Deere, a steal and a fast break slam dunk by Austin and another trey by Deere in a 42-second span that made it 21-9. The outcome was never in doubt after that.

Kittson Central shot 63 percent from the field in the first half (17/27) and 52 percent from the floor for the game (27/52). The Wolfpack also cashed in on 10 of 13 free throw attempts. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River shot 43 percent from the field (23/53) and went 4-for-8 at the line. The Gators had a 30-23 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 19-10.

"We probably played our best game of the year tonight," said Kittson Central coach Louis Deere. "It was our most complete game on both ends of the court. You're always going to look good when you're hitting, and we did a good job defensively."

The Gators' offense was led by TJ Super with 18 points, including 13 second half points when the two teams played to a 30-30 standoff.

"We fell behind and never caught up," said Sparby. "We knew we didn't want to get into a fast break game with them. It was an 18-point game, but it would have been a lot worse if we would have tried to run with them."

Fertile-Beltrami..................58
Thief River Falls................40

Fertile-Beltrami jumped out to a 9-0 lead and never looked back en route to a convincing 58-40 victory over Thief River Falls in the second Tuesday night semifinal game.

[illegible] at both ends of the court while building a 14-4 first quarter lead and a 33-14 halftime cushion. In the first 16 minutes they forced 16 Thief River Falls turnovers and shot 58 percent from the field (15/26) with a mixture of fast break baskets and wide-open back-door lay-ups behind the Prowlers' defense.

"The kids played well," said Fertile-Beltrami coach Neil Steffes. "It was one of our better games of the year. Offensively, we found holes in their zone and took the ball to the basket. But the key was our pressure defense. They (Prowlers) had trouble with our 2-2-1 zone press. They turned it over and we got some easy baskets off it."

It was already a 21-10 spread when Fertile-Beltrami put together a 12-0 second quarter run that pushed the difference to 33-10. The final eight points in that three-minute blitz came off four consecutive Thief River Falls turnovers.

The Prowlers did mount a mini-comeback with a 10-0 surge that made it 40-30 at the end of the third quarter and four occasions pulled within eight points in the first half of the fourth quarter before giving up the final eight points of the game.

Jason Franklin burned the Prowlers with his inside play that produced a game-high 20 points. Collin Schafer scored 12 points and Matt Myers had 10 to lead the Thief River Falls offense.

The Prowlers shot just 35 percent from the field (18/52) and finished with 23 turnovers. The Falcons shot 51 percent from the floor (25/49) and lost the ball 17 times. The free throw line produced a 3-for-4 night for the Prowlers and a 6-for-9 game for the Falcons, who were out-rebounded 29-22.

Clearbrook-Gonvick cashed in on the opportunity against the mistake-prone Nordics with a 12-for-14 second quarter showing at the free throw line.

Paul Gustafson scored 16 points to lead the Bears, who closed out the third quarter with a three-basket flurry in the final minute to open up a 52-34 spread.

Sources can be published prose, poetry, fiction, comedy, humor, children's literature, news articles, speeches, letters, journals, etc. Appropriate sources can be put together with brief bridging statements.

Time limits are the same as for public speaking in each age category. Presentations must include the source, author and a short introduction. Judges are to receive a duplicate copy before the presentation.

Intermediate entries are to be two or three pages, written or typed, with one-inch margins and a cover page that lists the title, author and county. Senior entries should be typed, double-spaced with one-inch margins and four pages in length plus a cover page that lists the title, author and county.

Ashley Peters and Jade Kilen compete in Minnesota state wool sewing contest

Ashley Peters

Jade Kilen

Ashley Peters, daughter of Scott and Charmaine Peters of Viking and Jade Kilen, daughter of Doug and Cindi Kilen of Thief River Falls, participated recently in the Minnesota Make It Yourself With Wool contest in New York Mills.

Jade was selected for the Preteen honor group for entrants age 12 and younger and Ashley was awarded honorable mention in the Junior group for entrants ages 13-16. Also named to the Preteen honor group was Chelsey Basinger of Clearbrook.

There were 52 entries in the four age divisions of the competition and they used more than 200 yards of wool fabric and yarn to create their home-sewn garments.

Advancing to national competition were Courtney Craig, Anoka, Junior division; and Eir Christopherson, Worthington, Senior division. Adult winner was Jean Olson, Woodbury.

Serving as state directors for the contest were Donna Geiser of New York Mills and Sharon O'Gorman of Detroit Lakes.

Purpose of the contest is to focus attention on the beauty and versatility of wool and encourage the use of wool fabric or yarn in sewing, knitting or crocheting fashionable garments. Contestants must use fabric or yarn of at least 60 percent wool.

[illegible] ... Crookston buyout tally has 13 down with six to go

Crookston - "I'm surprised ... smooth everything ... so far," said Judi Bruggeman of Northwest Minnesota Multi-County HRA, when reporting on the home buyouts and relocations of families living in the path of the new levee in the Woods Addition.

Of the 18 homes in the Woods Addition and one rural homestead that must be relocated as part of the Corps of Engineers $10 million flood protection project in Crookston, Bruggeman said only five homes and the homestead remain to be bought.

Minimum security dorm to include women's section

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Tuesday, January 5, Pennington County Board of Commissioners approved a recommendation to include in the minimum security dormitory a women's section, pending review by the project architects.

A women's section was originally included in the minimum security dormitory facility concept which will be located south of the Pennington County Law Enforcement Center. As bids came in, however, the women's section was removed from project plans.

The women's section, as currently envisioned, would include beds for 12 women. The cost of adding the section has been estimated at $36,915.

Pennington County Sheriff Mike Hruby explained that there were a number of reasons why the county board has decided to add the women's section back into the project. Consideration for changes in building codes, material and labor costs, and state correctional facility requirements were all factors in his estimation that led to the decision to include it in the project now. Basically, he said it would be a lot less expensive to do it now than to add the women's section later.

County Board Chair Bob Carlson said it was a matter of finding the money now rather than having to try and find a lot more money to build it in the future. It won't be easy to find the money, but he believes they will be able to come up with it.

Commissioner Carlson also said that he has asked the sheriff to put together some numbers regarding how many state minimum security prisoners could be served by the facility. He noted that throughout the state there is a shortage of space for prisoners. It is coming to the point, he said, where judges are becoming impatient when hearing that the person just sentenced to prison or jail will have to wait several months before there's room in the jail. There will be a day, he said, when judges will have had enough and order the county to house the prisoners in outside locations. It is possible that this facility could provide another source of income for the county.

Construction at the facility is proceeding as anticipated. Sheriff Hruby estimated that the project is about 30 to 35 percent complete. They have the concrete work, wiring, and plumbing are nearly complete. The 48-bed section for men is expected to be completed in April. Adding the women's section to the plans will not delay completion of the men's section, but it will add 15 to 21 days to completion of the entire project.

In the meantime, the county board approved hiring Mitch Borneman as project manager. Sheriff Hruby said that one of the duties of Borneman will be to help develop a staffing plan for the facility. Hruby said he anticipates having to hire another five full-time and two part-time individuals to operate the facility. He added though, that there are many factors to consider when hiring, such as state requirements regarding space, number of inmates, safety, and whether there are men and women in the facility. He added that he's not hiring now.

When the project is completed, Hruby said he would like to see an open house held at the facility to give the public an opportunity to see what's been done with the building. Those plans will be announced later.

Santa caricatures are among the many carvings of Bob Johnson. In December Johnson carved primitive Santas like the ones holding trees in the center of photograph for his mother and each of his 10 siblings. The Santas were made from the wood of a barn built by his father before World War II. The barn, later turned into a shed, was destroyed by a tornado last summer. Bob salvaged some of the wood when he and his sisters and brothers gathered to clean up the yard.

Tri-County art teacher carves as means of self-expression

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Standing on the ice, the old fisherman beams with pride as he poses with the Northern Pike he's just speared. His back is slightly arched as he struggles to hold up the huge fish. His decoy, a red and white sucker, and his spear are nearby and complete the scene.

[illegible] photograph but one of the wood carvings created in the workshop of Bob Johnson.

Once his wife, Christle, and their young sons, six-year-old Andy and two-year-old Dylan, have retired for the evening, Bob retreats to a small unfinished area in the basement of the family's home on North Knight Avenue in Thief River Falls.

Though Christle refers to his work area as his "cave," Bob finds the space comfortable and practical. There, he creates delightful works of art that are found throughout the rest of the charming older home.

Art occupies Bob's days also as he teaches seventh through twelfth grade students at Tri-County school [illegible].

A 1979 graduate of Waubun High School and a 1985 graduate of Valley City State College, Bob was inspired to pursue a career in art by his high school art teacher. His teacher, Ken Kylmanen, continues to teach in Waubun and was selected as the Minnesota Deer Hunter Association's artist in 1996. Bob has taught art at Tri-County for 13 years.

Bob has painted with oil, acrylic and water color paints, done ceramics and wood burning and has experimented with just about every other art medium. Impressive paintings line the walls of the Johnson home. Bob made a whimsical ceramic dragon to show his students [illegible] thing more interesting than vases and bowls.

Usually, when working with a particular medium, Bob perfects his skill until he is satisfied with it and moves on to another medium. Carving has been different and has held his interest for six years.

Make-A-Wish auction back at Ironman 250

Make-A-Wish Foundation will again be a part of the Commercial Sewing Ironman 250 Snowmobile Race to be held in Thief River Falls on January 16 and 17. Former professional boxer Scott LeDoux and Viking All-Pro Joey Browner will be in attendance to emcee the Make-A-Wish Auction on Saturday evening.

The Make-A-Wish Foundation grants wishes to children under the age of 18 who have been diagnosed with a life-threatening illness. Funds raised during Saturday night's auction will help the Foundation grant wishes to some of these children. The auction will be held from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Best Western in Thief River Falls. The auction will consist of both a silent auction and a live auction. Auctioned items have been donated by both local businesses and the Make-A-Wish Foundation. Items will include snowmobile accessories, clothing and autographed sports items from professional athletes. Last year over $10,000 was raised at the Ironman 250 race event.

The Thief River Falls Sno-Drifters are sponsoring a raffle this year to raise additional funds from Minnesota Make-A-Wish. First prize is an Arctic Cat Z370 snowmobile, second prize a Range snowmobile trailer, and third prize is an Arctic Cat Kitty Cat. Tickets are $1 and can be purchased at area businesses and from Thief River Falls Sno-Drifters members.

Event chairman Todd Woods thanks all of those local businesses and individuals who have made donations to support this year's auction. The response from the community has been greater than ever, according to Woods. Anyone

Questions answered on wetland mitigation project

1,886-acre Vesledahl project near Winger reviewed at public meeting in Winger hall Thursday

by Marvin Lundin
Northern Watch Editor

To answer questions regarding the proposed Vesledahl wetland mitigation project west of Winger in Polk county, representatives of three state agencies conducted an informational hearing attended by about 60 people at the Winger hall Thursday, January 7.

Representatives of the Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT), state Board of Water and Soil Resources (BWSR) and the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) reviewed the purpose of the project and their roles in the cooperative venture. More than an hour was devoted to questions and comments by those attending.

Because Minnesota law passed in 1991 provides for no net loss of wetlands in the state, private and public parties are required to replace (mitigate) wetland areas destroyed in construction or development. The Vesledahl project would be a large area where wetlands could be restored in exchange for wetlands lost to state, county and township road construction.

Mike Kamnikar, wetlands coordinator for Mn/DOT at the district office in Bemidji, served as spokesman for Mn/DOT at the meeting. He explained that his department makes every effort to avoid disturbing wetlands or to mitigate lost wetlands on site, but averages a need for 20 to 25 acres per year to mitigate wetlands lost to state highway construction.

Mn/DOT proposes to purchase 1,886 acres of land in 18 parcels from Steve and Bob Vesledahl at a cost of approximately $1.2 million. The wetland restoration project would be designed and constructed by BWSR and, when the project is completed, title would be transferred to the DNR for use as a Wildlife Management Area.

Projections are that about 600 acres of land in the area to be acquired could be restored to its pre-agricultural wetland status, mostly through the installation of some 117 ditch plugs to back up water into low-lying areas on the property. The plugs would not affect several drainage ditches which carry water through the area, it was emphasized at the meeting.

Roger Williams from the state's Office of Dispute Resolution, served as facilitator for the hearing which began at 5:30 p.m., following a half hour open house to permit those attending to view maps of the area and meet with agency representatives.

Mn/DOT Presentation

Mike Kamnikar opened the information session with a review of the Mn/DOT involvement in the project. He referred to a tax summary sheet attached to an agenda given to those attending and which showed an estimated 1999 tax on the 18 parcels of land in the project to be $11,914. Since the Vesledahl families prefer to retain building sites and those sites would have no value to the project, Kamnikar said, they should be deducted from the estimated tax total.

He explained the Mn/DOT mitigation requirements under the state wetland law and said the department is supportive of finding a means to replace tax revenue resulting from converting the private lands in the Vesledahl project to public use.

BWSR Presentation

Bruce Sandstrom, wetland banking coordinator for BWSR, utilized a handout information sheet to explain his agency's involvement in the project. The 1996 legislature required BWSR to develop wetland mitigation for county, city and township road improvements, he said, and that requirement is the basis for sharing wetland credits with Mn/DOT in the Vesledahl project.

The BWSR role, he said, would include contribution of $447,000 to

Winger elevator challenges county

Winger - According to Polk county auditor-treasurer Gerald Amiot the $1,750 overcharge by the county to Farmer's Elevator in 1998 on the business' solid waste tax fee is history.

A deadline policy for solid waste tax abatements has been in place since 1992. July 1 is the deadline, and Farmer's Elevator did not submit its application for abatement until December 8.

Regardless, the elevator manager, Robbie Jones, says that the elevator will pursue its $1,750 in lost funds. "If we made a mistake in billing here at the elevator and a customer pointed it out, we would give that person their refund . . . no matter how many months passed," Jones said. "This county policy is not impressive." The Thirteen Towns

Crookston buyout tally has 13 down with six to go

Crookston - "I'm surprised how smooth everything has gone so far," said Judla Bruggeman of Northwest Minnesota Multi-County HRA when reporting on the home buyouts and relocations of families living in the path of the new levee in the Woods Addition.

Of the 18 homes in the Woods Addition and one rural farmstead that must be relocated as part of the Corps of Engineers $10 million flood protection project in Crookston, Bruggeman said that only five homes and the farmstead remain to be bought out.

Over the course of the winter Bruggeman looks forward to getting the homes purchased and everyone relocated by late spring. At that time demolitions will begin. Crookston Daily Times

RLF man seeks Bible owner

Red Lake Falls - About two years ago David Olson found a Bible in an old shed by Maple Lake. He brought it home to Red Lake Falls and forgot about it. Recently, he rediscovered it while going through some things in his room and would like to return it to its owner or the owner's family.

While the small Bible is in very good condition, the copyright date on the inside dates 1909. It is written in Norwegian, and the name Gunder Loiland is printed in gold letters on the front cover.

The owner's family can call (218) 253-4467 to claim the Bible.

Minimum security dorm to include women's section

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Tuesday, January 5, Pennington County Board of Commissioners approved a recommendation to include in the minimum security dormitory a women's section pending review by the project architects.

A women's section was originally included in the minimum security dormitory facility concept which will be located south of the Pennington County Law Enforcement Center. As bids came in, however, the women's section was removed from project plans.

The women's section, as currently envisioned, would include beds for 12 women. The cost of adding the section has been estimated at $36,915.

Pennington County Sheriff Mike Hruby explained that there were a number of reasons why the county board has decided to add the women's section back into the project. Consideration for changes in building codes, material and labor costs, and state correctional facility requirements were all factors in his estimation that led to the decision to include it in the project now. Basically, he said it would be a lot less expensive to do it now than to add the women's section later.

County Board Chair Bob Carlson said it was a matter of finding the money now rather than having to try and find a lot more money to build it in the future. It won't be easy to find the money, but he believes they will be able to come up with it.

Commissioner Carlson also said that he has asked the sheriff to put together some numbers regarding how many state minimum security prisoners could be served by the facility. He noted that throughout the state there is a shortage of space for prisoners. It is coming to the point, he said, where judges are becoming impatient when hearing that the person just sentenced to prison or jail will have to wait several months before there's room in the jail. There will be a day, he said, when judges will have had enough and order the county to house the prisoners in outside locations. It is possible that this facility could provide another source of income for the county.

Construction at the facility is proceeding as anticipated. Sheriff Hruby estimated that the project is about 30 to 35 percent complete. They have the concrete work, wiring, and plumbing are nearly complete. The 48-bed section for men is expected to be completed in April. Adding the women's section to the plans will not delay completion of the men's section, but it will add 15 to 21 days to completion of the entire project.

In the meantime, the county board approved hiring Mitch Borneman as project manager. Sheriff Hruby said that one of the duties of Borneman will be to help develop a staffing plan for the facility. Hruby said he anticipates having to hire another five full-time and two part-time individuals to operate the facility. He added though, that there are many factors to consider when hiring, such as state requirements regarding space, number of inmates, safety, and whether there are men and women in the facility. He added that he's not hiring now.

When the project is completed, Hruby said he would like to see an open house held at the facility to give the public an opportunity to see what's been done with the building. Those plans will be announced later.

Sante caricatures are among the many carvings of Bob Johnson. In December Johnson carved primitive Santas like the ones holding trees in the center of photograph for his mother and each of his 10 siblings. The Santas were made from the wood of a barn built by his father before World War II. The barn, later turned into a shed, was destroyed by a tornado last summer. Bob salvaged some of the wood when he and his sisters and brothers gathered to clean up the yard.

Make-A-Wish auction back at Ironman 250

Make-A-Wish Foundation will again be a part of the Commercial Sewing Ironman 250 Snowmobile Race to be held in Thief River Falls on January 16 and 17. Former professional boxer Scott LeDoux and Viking All-Pro Joey Browner will be in attendance to emcee the Make-A-Wish Auction on Saturday evening.

The Make-A-Wish Foundation grants wishes to children under the age of 18 who have been diagnosed with a life-threatening illness. Funds raised during Saturday night's auction will help the Foundation grant wishes to some of these children. The auction will be held from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Best Western in Thief River Falls. The auction will consist of both a silent auction and a live auction. Auctioned items have been donated by both local businesses and the Make-A-Wish Foundation. Items will include snowmobile accessories, clothing and autographed sports items from professional athletes. Last year over $10,000 was raised at the Ironman 250 race event.

The Thief River Falls Sno-Drifters are sponsoring a raffle this year to raise additional funds from Minnesota Make-A-Wish. First prize is an Arctic Cat Z370 snowmobile, second prize a Range snowmobile trailer; and third prize is an Arctic Cat Kitty Cat. Tickets are $1 and can be purchased at area businesses and from Thief River Falls Sno-Drifters members.

Event chairman Todd Woods thanks all of those local businesses and individuals who have made donations to support this year's auction. The response from the community has been greater than ever, according to Woods. Anyone

Tri-County art teacher carves as means of self-expression

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Standing on the ice, the old fisherman beams with pride as he poses with the Northern Pike he's just speared. His back is slightly arched as he struggles to hold up the huge fish. His decoy, a red and white sucker, and his spear are nearby and complete the scene.

No, this isn't a description of a photograph but one of the wood carvings created in the workshop of Bob Johnson.

Once his wife, Christie, and their young sons, six-year-old Andy and two-year-old Dylan, have retired for the evening, Bob retreats to a small unfinished area in the basement of the family's home on North Knight Avenue in Thief River Falls.

Though Christie refers to his work area as his "cave," Bob finds the space comfortable and practical. There he creates delightful works of art that are found throughout the rest of the charming older home.

Art occupies Bob's days also as he teaches seventh through twelfth grade students at Tri-County school in Karlstad.

A 1979 graduate of Warroad High School and a 1985 graduate of Valley City State College, Bob was inspired to pursue a career in art by his high school art teacher. His teacher, Ken Kylmanen, continues to teach in Warroad and was selected as the Minnesota Deer Hunter Association's artist in 1996. Bob has taught art at Tri-County for 13 years.

Bob has painted with oil, acrylic and water color paints, done ceramics and wood burning and has experimented with just about every other art medium. Impressive paintings line the walls of the Johnson home. Bob made a whimsical ceramic dragon to show his students that a potter's wheel can yield something more interesting than vases and bowls.

Usually, when working with a particular medium, Bob perfects his skill until he is satisfied with it and moves on to another medium. Carving has been different and has held his interest for six years.

Questions answered on wetland mitigation project

1,886-acre Vesledahl project near Winger reviewed at public meeting in Winger hall Thursday

by Marvin Lundin
Northern Watch Editor

To answer questions regarding the proposed Vesledahl wetland mitigation project west of Winger in Polk county, representatives of three state agencies conducted an informational hearing attended by about 60 people at the Winger hall Thursday, January 7.

Representatives of the Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT), state Board of Water and Soil Resources (BWSR) and the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) reviewed the purpose of the project and their roles in the cooperative venture. More than an hour was devoted to questions and comments by those attending.

Because Minnesota law passed in 1991 provides for no net loss of wetlands in the state, private and public parties are required to replace (mitigate) wetland areas destroyed in construction or development. The Vesledahl project would be a large area where wetlands could be restored in exchange for wetlands lost to state, county and township road construction.

Mike Kamnikar, wetlands coordinator for Mn/DOT at the district office in Bemidji, served as spokesman for Mn/DOT at the meeting. He explained that his department makes every effort to avoid disturbing wetlands or to mitigate lost wetlands on site, but averages a need for 20 to 25 acres per year to mitigate wetlands lost to state highway construction.

Mn/DOT proposes to purchase 1,886 acres of land in 18 parcels from Steve and Bob Vesledahl at a cost of approximately $1.2 million. The wetland restoration project would be designed and constructed by BWSR and, when the project is completed, title would be transferred to the DNR for use as a Wildlife Management Area.

Projections are that about 600 acres of land in the area to be acquired could be restored to its pre-agricultural wetland status, mostly through the installation of some 117 ditch plugs to back-up water into low-lying areas on the property. The plugs would not affect several drainage ditches which carry water through the area, it was emphasized at the meeting.

Roger Williams from the state's Office of Dispute Resolution served as facilitator for the hearing which began at 5:30 p.m., following a half hour open house to permit those attending to view maps of the area and meet with agency representatives.

Mn/DOT Presentation

Mike Kamnikar opened the information session with a review of the Mn/DOT involvement in the project. He referred to a tax summary sheet attached to an agenda given to those attending and which showed an estimated 1999 tax on the 18 parcels of land in the project to be $11,914. Since the Vesledahl families prefer to retain building sites and those sites would have no value to the project, Kamnikar said they should be deducted from the estimated tax total.

He explained the Mn/DOT mitigation requirements under the state wetland law and said the department is supportive of finding a means to replace tax revenue resulting from converting the private lands in the Vesledahl project to public use.

BWSR Presentation

Bruce Sandstrom, wetland banking coordinator for BWSR, utilized a handout information sheet to explain his agency's involvement in the project. The 1996 legislature required BWSR to develop wetland mitigation for county, city and township road improvements, he said, and this requirement is the basis for sharing wetland credits with Mn/DOT in the Vesledahl project.

The BWSR role, he said, would include contribution of $447,000 to

Thank You

A heartfelt thank you to relatives, neighbors and friends for all of the phone calls, support, flowers, prayers, food and cards our family has received since Doyle's death.

A sincere thank you to Pastor John Jorgensen, Pastor Bob Dahlen, Father Dennis Wieland, Sister Kathy Kuchar and Pastor Eugene Floistad for being here when we needed words of encouragement.

A very special thank you to the St. Bernard's Church community and especially the St. Bernard's School family as you continue to embrace us with boundless kindness. We are most fortunate to be part of your family.

Blessings and joy to each of you in the coming year.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiete
email: gabriele@northernnet.com

This is soup weather if I've ever seen it. Let's have soup every cold day this week, ok? Here are some recipes you can try from the St. Paull Church Cookbook.

Here's a soup that doesn't take long to make and has all the good things that you love in a hearty soup:

MORMON WHOLE MEAL SOUP
Dodie Turkelson

2 pounds lean hamburger
1 tablespoon butter
2 quarts hot water
2 cups diced potatoes
1 cup diced celery
2 cups tomatoes
1 cup carrots, diced
2 cups shredded cabbage
2 diced onions
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 cup rice

Melt butter. Add hamburger and brown. Add water and bring to a boil. Add vegetables and bring to a boil again. Add rice and seasonings and simmer 1 to 1 1/2 hours.

I have same cheddar left from New Year's Eve and ham left from New Year's Day and this might be a good soup to make to use them up:

CHEDDAR CHOWDER
Burh Nelson

2 cups water
2 cups diced potatoes
1/2 cup diced carrots
1/2 cup diced celery (if desired)
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup butter
1/4 cup flour
2 cups milk
1 cup cubed ham
2 cups grated Cheddar cheese

Combine water, potatoes, carrots, celery, onion, salt and pepper in large kettle. Boil 10-12 minutes.

Meanwhile, in small pan, make white sauce by melting butter and adding flour and stirring smooth. Slowly add milk and cook until thickened.

Add cheese to white sauce and stir until melted.

Drain vegetables and add white sauce and ham. Heat through.

Here's another hamburger soup, this one with a spicy Italian flavor.

ITALIAN VEGETABLE SOUP
Sharon Bugge

1 pound ground beef
1 cup diced onion
1 cup sliced celery
1 cup sliced carrots
2 cloves minced garlic
1 (16 ounce) can tomatoes
1 (15 ounce) can tomato sauce
1 (15 ounce) can red kidney beans
2 cups water
5 teaspoons beef bouillon granules
1 tablespoon dried parsley flakes
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon oregano
1/2 teaspoon sweet basil
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 cups shredded cabbage
1/2 cup elbow macaroni

Brown beef. Add all ingredients except cabbage and macaroni. Simmer 20 minutes. Add cabbage and macaroni and cook until tender.

And this soup would be a little different taste treat, but oh so good on a cold day:

CABBAGE SOUP
JoAnn Hurst

Polish kielbasa or Polish sausage
1 (1 quart) jar or equivalent canned tomatoes
1/2 green pepper
1/2 onion
1 head cabbage
3 stalks celery
Lemon pepper
Chicken broth or 4-6 chicken bouillon cubes

Cut up kielbasa, celery, green pepper and onion. Add to tomatoes. Cut cabbage into chunks. Boil all until tender in the soup base. Add lemon pepper to taste.

Here's a good, old-fashioned family favorite, and the dumplings have a little snap with, of all things, cinnamon:

HOMEMADE CHICKEN DUMPLING SOUP
Eddie Jesme

4-5 pieces chicken
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon basil
1/2 teaspoon oregano
Dash of paprika
Salt and pepper
Chicken bouillon
1/4 cup minced onion
1/4 cup diced celery
1/4 cup carrots
1/4 cup fresh broccoli
1/4 cup peas
1/4 cup corn
1/2 cup egg noodles
Dumplings
2 eggs
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 cups flour
1/4 to 1/2 cup milk

Boil chicken. When cooked, remove and cut into small pieces, discarding bones and skin. Add bay leaf, basil and other seasonings. Add cut up vegetables and cut up chicken. Boil together until vegetables are cooked and tender. Add noodles.

Make dumplings by beating eggs, milk, 1 1/2 cups flour and cinnamon together. If needed add more flour until the mixture can be spooned in little clumps. Add to boiling mixture. Cover. When dumplings "puff," remove from heat. Cover and let cool 10 minutes.

And this recipe is from a new Amish cookbook I bought last week - doesn't it sound different:

SALMON SOUP

1/3 can salmon
1 quart scalded milk
2 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour (optional)
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
Sprinkle of pepper

Drain oil from salmon, remove skin and bones, and crumble. Add gradually to seasoned hot milk. If thicker soup is preferred, make a thin paste with the flour and add to the salmon broth. (And I bet those little oyster crackers would taste great with it. -SL)

Approximately 60 people attended the Mn/DOT hearing on the Vesledahl wetland mitigation project Thursday, January 7, at the Winger community hall. Bruce McWilliam of Winger is shown at the speaker's stand at left as he asks several questions of agency representatives.

Mike Kamnikar

Tom Wenzel

Terry Wolfe

the project in engineering and design, permitting, construction, erosion control and vegetation management and the agency would coordinate wetland banking issues with other agencies.

Credits would be used by BWSR to replace wetland losses by local government units in northwestern Minnesota. There is a present need, he said, to replace 86 acres in the immediate vicinity as a result of projects in Clearwater, Marshall, Norman, Pol., Beltrami, Kittson and Clearwater counties during the 1996-1998 period.

Tom Wenzel, design engineer with BWSR, said topographic maps on display at the meeting had been developed from aerial photographs and a couple weeks of work would be required in the spring to inspect the site, determine the accuracy of the maps and to establish and record ditch levels, road elevations and other information. Discussions would likely be held with neighboring landowners, he said, to get their input on observation of water flows and other information on the site.

Wenzel said there is no intention to abandon any of the township roads in the project nor to restrict flow in any of the several ditches which carry water through the project area. His job is to make sure there are no adverse impacts off the site, he said, and an effort would be made to do as much as possible for flood control. He anticipated some work on the project may begin next fall if weather conditions are favorable but that most construction on the project would be in the year 2000.

DNR Information

Terry Wolfe, area wildlife manager for DNR, said the area would be managed as a typical Wildlife Management Area after title transfers to the DNR. Since there are few trees on the site, it would be managed primarily as a grassland area with management by prescribed burning, mowing and haying and/or possibly rotational grazing. While native grasses to be planted on the site compete well with weeds, he said, spraying of weeds would be done as necessary.

The DNR makes payments to the county in lieu of taxes, he said, with payment based on three-fourths of one per cent of assessed value per year. If land on the site averages $400 per acre in value, payment in lieu of taxes would be $3 per acre annually, or about half of the amount currently paid. Wolfe also said the DNR pays ditch assessments on the same basis as private landowners do.

Questions And Comments

Some of the points made and comments given during the question and answer session—at which about 10 people commented—were as follows:

• If the project area was determined to cause a problem during wet years, BWSR would be required to correct it.

• Appraisal of the property has been done but no offer has been extended to the landowners, despite the comment by one questioner that the project appeared to be a "done deal."

• Mn/DOT would purchase the property for the project but has no authority to make payment of taxes or in lieu of taxes. No determination has been made regarding loss of tax revenue during the period between Mn/DOT land purchase and transfer of title to DNR. The site is expected to provide Mn/DOT and BWSR mitigation for 10 to 15 years.

• Property taxes on rural private land are distributed to county, township and school district. DNR payments in lieu of taxes go only to county and township. A questioner wondered if school districts are compensated for the loss of private tax revenue. Answer was to be obtained.

• DNR wants commitment from BWSR that costs of development will be paid prior to transfer of title to DNR since operational funds for DNR land management are already short. Wenzel said an escrow account would be established by BWSR for site maintenance.

• Asked if the agencies would be willing to put their promises of no adverse impacts outside the project area in writing, representatives said they would be subject to lawsuit if they caused damage to landowners.

• Comment was made that lowering of appraised value due to conversion from agricultural land to wetland to accomplish a state mandated purpose should not result in a loss of revenue to the local governing bodies. "If an individual wants to make that conversion on his own land voluntarily, that's one thing," the questioner commented. "If it is required by state mandate, we are not comparing apples to apples. The public should pay its full share so tax dollars can be maintained."

• Close attention will be paid to the adjoining wetlands outside the project area and additional acquisition may be considered if advisable.

I wish to invite the readership to Common Sense 101: You Are What You Eat.

Last evening's CBS news had a report on certain processed meats which have been found to have a certain bacteria which has killed people in this country as well as made a good many ill. The story went on to describe one good solution to the bacteria problem: irradiation. To the casual observer, this may sound plausible and "why not?" After all, our FDA has approved so many other methods of treating our foods, what can be wrong here?

You admit that somewhere in the recesses of your mind you seem to feel that, as time goes by, the general population in this country (and probably in others) is going downhill. We seem to be sicker, we seem to be heavier, we seem to have more cancer in general, we seem to have gotten away from a health enjoyed by our parents, grandparents and past generations.

You also observe that there are too many fad diets out there, there are too many ads on television advertising antacids, the drinking water supply doesn't taste good and has not for a long time, the environment seems mediocre and you observe that when you drive Columbia Road by Altru Clinic and Hospital in Grand Forks, ND, it is not shy for a full parking lot or patients. Why? What is really wrong?

I don't profess to have all the answers, but my common sense tells me that there must be some kind of link between our food, our water, our environment and our changed lifestyles. In fact, I just had a small basal cell carcinoma (a skin cancer) on my face removed, which is the result of too much sun exposure, dating back to my youth when there was no discussion of the ozone hole depletion, when sunbathing was never ever discussed as being unhealthy, and when chlorination and fluoridation were not part of our drinking water.

Would it be safe for all of us to really take a hard, objective look at factors that control our destiny — our water, food, lifestyle? For purposes of brevity, I shall limit this to just the meat and vegetables we eat. Who of you in this readership dare to take this look? For those of you who dare, I shall pose the following:

(1) Do you feel the use of antibiotics, steroids and hormones used by the cattle, chicken and pork industry should in turn be okay and consumed in our daily diets, even when approved by our FDA? Why is this done in the first place? Well, just coincidentally, the use of antibiotics in particular speeds up the growing time for these animals, putting foods(?) into the supermarkets at a faster pace and, coincidentally, creating more profit for the food producers.

May I invite you to check me out? How about starting with reading the Winter 1998-99 issue of Nucleus (the magazine of the Union of Concerned Scientists)—a non-profit, objective magazine that is not too thick. This is just one of many magazines that have published on this issue. In fairness, not all cattle, hog and chicken growers use this methodology, but a good deal do.

(2) Do you feel the now discussed use of radioactive waste material from nuclear power plants (the safe (?) kind) should be used in our food supply, even when approved by our FDA? Why is this done in the first place? This is being carefully proposed now to get us used to the idea and acceptance. And, well, just coincidentally the use of radioactive waste, or irradiation as that industry prefers, takes the responsibility out of the slaughter houses, packers, and "cleans up the whole problem."

Now also just coincidentally, this not only creates more profits in the long run (getting away with former mandated and shipping responsibilities for cleaner standards), but gets rid of a certain amount of nuclear waste at the same time. You can also check me out on this one. Go to your local library and look it up.

(3) For additional tidbits about our food supply, irradiation is also being used in select areas of this country on our fruits and vegetables, again "cleaning up" a problem of sloppy handling of foods and growing conditions. With our GATT and NAFTA treaties, we have more foreign foods in our supermarkets from countries whose health standards and use of pesticide standards are much below ours (which are and have been questionable on their own merits).

Have you observed the reports of these incidents on the news, or have you simply turned the report off or gone into the other room?

Is any of this progress? We can continue to bury our heads in the sand and subsequently watch our mediocre health go downhill further or you can become proactive and take some responsibility for what you eat. It is up to you.

Sincerely,
Mrs. John (Connie) Ondahl
Warren, Minnesota

TRF Retail Situation Needs Some Attention

We can remember back a decade or two or three ago when the local Chamber of Commerce received some criticism for placing too much emphasis on the community's retail businesses. There was a good deal of involvement and expense by the C of C in promotions and events intended to draw customers—from this community and outlying communities—to the city's retail stores.

Complaint was that too much attention was being given by the organization to that one phase of the community's business. More attention needed to be paid, some said, to the attraction and development of industry and jobs it would offer. There was reason to that appeal, and the creation of additional employment opportunities was attractive to just about everyone—not the least of which was the community's labor pool.

To the community's good fortune, industry and the employment it offers did develop in Thief River Falls. It came in the most healthy of manners—it grew here. Entrepreneurs created business enterprises in several areas and those businesses continue to grow, largely from within but certainly fostered and encouraged and supported by local effort....and that's great! We need and appreciate having our companies which provide employment and bring money into our community from outside the area.

In the diversion of attention to this phase of activity, however, some things have become a little neglected. One of these is the city's vital retail business community. We don't refer to how the existing retail businesses in the community are being operated, but rather how little concern has been demonstrated about a decline in the city's retail offerings. Businesses that attracted people from a wide area have been allowed to disappear and not enough community leaders have rallied in support of maintaining a thriving retail industry in Thief River Falls.

For generations Thief River Falls was the place to go for shopping trips. It was the "big" town of the area where people could come from miles around to find the things they didn't have available closer to home. It was the place local residents could fill virtually all their needs and rarely have to consider making a shopping trip out of town.

We use the term "was" advisedly, for some will claim that Thief River Falls still is such a place. We will not argue that claim. Our city still has a lot to offer. But the point is that if there is a concern and desire that Thief River Falls be an established and recognized retail center for the area, then there must be a determined and concentrated effort made to accomplish that goal.

Although the effort must involve all facets of the community for most satisfactory results, initial impetus must come from within the retailing group itself. Like farmers, owners of small businesses tend to be endowed with a fiercely independent nature. While that determination sometimes has enabled survival, it also has inhibited advantageous cooperation.

Ability of all in the retail community to show a united and cooperative front will go a long way in attracting total support for a retail resurgence. Maybe a step back a couple of decades to the era of emphasis on retail leadership is in order to provide a new perspective.

Teresa Friend's Poem Earns Writing Award

Lincoln high school senior Teresa Friend earned third place in the 15th annual Emerging Writers Awards contest sponsored by the College of St. Catherine. Here at the Times/Northern Watch we like to encourage student creative writing as much as possible. One way we do this is by publishing student work in our editorial section. With Teresa's permission, we are privileged to publish her winning poem as follows:

SIOUX CITY
by Teresa Friend

I remember when I was five years old—bouncing four-square at recess and kickball on the old lot on Pierce Street.
My friend Sara and I spent hours on the swings daring each other to kiss
Shane Sweeny, and when I did he stuck
a stupid fluffy dandelion
in my mouth and I came home crying—
though he had kissed back.
Early Monday mornings, becoming a world-famous archaeologist—uncovering
the neighbor's trash cans.
Crouching in the grass—popping heads off
white daisies.
Making my face glow with streaks of smashed fireflies. Sitting on Ms. Shirley's porch at her feet, and listening to stories of her late husband when he lived with her in the little white house on the corner.

Two weeks ago, I turned seventeen.
Strangers' children play on the playground.
There is a Kmart that stands on the old lot on Pierce Street.
Shane Sweeny moved to Wisconsin eight years ago, but we were never friends.
The swings have been torn down, and Sara and I have grown apart. I do not want to be an archeologist and I'll never be famous. My yard is dry dirt. There are no white daisies, and I never see the fireflies anymore. The little white house on the corner is brown, and I didn't go to Shirley's
funeral three years ago. A sad, scowling Spanish lady sits on the old porch with eight cats at her feet.

It Was a Cold and Snowy Night

I could see the Burbot sitting at the end of the long mahogany bar, sipping coyly on some slushy blend of minnow entrails and Tullibee scales. I found her all too easy to ignore. With her ludicrously large mouth and smallish, set-back eyes, she was hardly enticing.

I glanced briefly at the grotesque bulge of her midsection, swollen to obesity with the eggs that would offer the world yet another generation of writhing, slimy, bottom feeders. My eyes moved down her flanks to the clownish broadening of her flattened tail. No, I wasn't interested in this homely mess. I threw back what was left of my beer and made a move toward harder stuff, slapping a fiver on the counter and demanding whiskey.

I was here for Walleye, one of those enticing lake dwellers that rarely turn up on a raw, cold evening in a place like this. Yeah, when the temps drop to a frigid 25 below a guy has to hope he can get lucky, and that's just what I was hoping. I'd set my goals high, knowing that the odds were tilted away. But I was a gambler, and the evening was young. Something desirable would soon turn up.

I swung the stool around to face the front door as a rush of cold air announced the arrival of new potential. A form appeared amidst the crowd. I looked for the telltale greenish flush through the hazy room and when I could make out no discernible color, dropped my gaze in a more frantic search for the Walleye white tail-splotch. I exhaled disappointment—just another Burbot.

As she slithered by my station at the bar it was clear that she was available—too available. An involuntary shudder worked its way up my spine as the thought panned briefly through my brain that this one wasn't quite as hideous as the fish I'd noticed earlier. I swung my stool back around, giving her the cold shoulder, and drank.

The warm, blurring effects of the booze took their toll. I found myself entertaining the notion of compromise. A Sauger is certainly nothing to scoff at, I reassured myself. Heck, it's just a funny-colored Walleye. Should the situation present itself, a Sauger would be a fine conquest, I concluded.

I studied the now-dwindling crowd. It was getting late and the number were definitely ebbing. There were Burbots aplenty, but even the Saugers seemed to have disappeared. Hadn't I been here a mere two weeks ago and seen more Saugers than a guy could have considered in his wildest dreams? Where were they when you wanted them?

I took another long gulp, making a conscious effort to look away from several Eelpout clustered at a table to my left, their tails wrapped tightly around the chair legs in constrictor-like fashion. I reconsidered my options.

Perch! There's always a cute little Perch darting around spots like these. Perch aren't so bad. I'm looking for Perch, I burped to myself confidently as I nosed around every darkened corner table I could locate. There had to be a stripe or two in here somewhere.

I'd never been on one of these excursions without stumbling across at least a couple of them, even in conditions as cold and unbearable as tonight's. But my search proved fruitless, and as I slunk back to my barstool and ordered another round, I noticed that the crowd had grown uncomfortably thin. Another healthy swallow of courage.

I let my eyes roam another time across the room. No Walleye, no Sauger, no Perch. Lots of Burbot. I took another sip and snuck a peek at the Pout still finning at the end of the bar. Misshapen and rotund, perhaps, but still there was something appealing about that size. The odd yellowish-brown marbling of her skin was actually attractive in the dim, shadowy lighting of the smoky room. And I'd heard the rumors, get past that slimy, viscous overcoat and there's a flaky, white meat underneath that you'll never refuse again.

I drank deeply once more and glanced at my watch...almost time to go. I ordered a shot from the barkeep and nodded in the direction of Miss Burbot. "And get her another of whatever it is she's having."

I swung the squeaky stool around, established eye contact and flashed a quick smile. She reciprocated. I slid from my stool and made my way to the end of the bar. It was cold, even for a Minnesota winter.

Sporting a red plaid jacket this fisherman, carved by Bob Johnson, beams as he shows off his prize catch.

This detailed carving by Bob Johnson captured first place in the caricature division at the Wood Carvers Festival in Lake Bronson last summer.

Tri-county art teacher carves

"There's so much to learn," he says.

While the interest was always there, it was another carver who influenced Bob. George Koland is a Karlstad motel owner who carved in his spare time, and grant money afforded Bob the opportunity to bring the talented Koland into his classroom to show the students his carvings and talk about his art.

Bob's early carvings were patterned from the work of others. His first carving was a bird, and the second was an Eskimo. A picture in one of Christie's magazines inspired an early primitive Santa.

Soon Bob began drawing his own designs and relying on his own talents. "Every year my skills have matured and become better," he says.

The many awards Bob has accumulated at area shows is proof of his skills. He was particularly pleased to take first place in the caricature division at the competition in Lake Bronson last summer.

Bob's prize-winning carving includes a hunter, the goose he's just bagged, his gun, decoys and dog. Like many of Bob's carvings, this one includes remarkable detail. Intricately carved stitches outline the clothing. Tiny goose calls are individually carved and hang from a thin jute rope around the hunter's neck. His boots sport the Sorrel logo. The decoys have been sanded and stained to create an unique appearance, and the eyes of the Golden Retriever hold a look of anticipation as he gazes steadily at his master.

Bob's dog posed for the drawing he used to create his carving, and he patterned the hunter's gun from one he shoots himself. Bob is an avid hunter and fisherman, and many of his carvings and other works of art reflect his love for the outdoors.

While most carvings are made of basswood, Bob has also used pine, driftwood and cottonwood bark. His carving knife is the tool he uses the most along with sets of small chisels and gouges. He cuts the rough figure out with a bandsaw. Nearly all of the accessories are carved with the exception of a few. The fisherman's spear, for example, is fashioned from metal.

The type of carving Bob does is called chip carving or flat plain carving, a Scandinavian style that requires little sanding. The figures are painted with either acrylics or thinned oil paints depending on finish he desires.

Bob has learned a lot from carvers he's met at the shows he's attended. Almost everyone, when asked, is helpful and willing to share tips on carving and painting techniques.

Whatever the medium, Bob teaches what he knows to his students at Tri County. "And if I learn something new," he says, "I share it with them." The youth in his classroom are exposed to and try many art mediums and are encouraged to discover those that suit their interests and talents.

Currently, Bob's eighth-grade students are working on an exciting carving project and learning about their state at the same time.

Fish spearing is unique to our state's heritage, and Minnesota remains one of only six states where the practice is legal. The students' assignment not only includes making decoys but researching the sport and interviewing someone who engages in it. Once the decoys are carved and painted, the highlight of the assignment will be a field trip to Lake Bronson where the eager youth will have the opportunity to test their decoys.

Growing up in the Naytahwaush-Waubun area, Bob's appreciation for the outdoors was rooted early. The area, peppered with lakes, includes rolling hills in one direction and forest in another.

Bob's mother still lives in the rural home where he grew up with eight sisters and two brothers. Before World War II Bob's dad built a barn on his property. He quit farming in 1957 and worked as the Mahnomen County Auditor. He tore part of the barn down and turned the remaining lean-to into a shed. His dad died when Bob was 13 years old. Though timeworn, that shed stood until this past summer when a tornado touched down and destroyed it. Bob and his siblings gathered to clean up the mess.

Some salvaged wood ended up in Bob's garage, and in December when he reached for the nearest two-by-four to carve a Santa, it was a piece of the barn wood that was quickly transformed into a primitive Santa. The old wood carved so easily, and after looking at the calendar Bob realized that he had enough time to create some very special gifts for his siblings and mother.

The Santas, each unique, were painted with thinned oil paints, allowing the grain of the popple, the cracks and tiny worm holes to show through. Then Bob sat down and did something he'd never done before. He wrote a touching poem that included memories of the old barn.

Every other year Bob's entire family gets together for Christmas. The Hilltop Supper Club, owned by Bob's sister, is the gathering place as the family now includes spouses, 32 grandchildren of varying ages and a half-dozen or so great-grandchildren.

Bob's special gifts were treasured, and his heartfelt poem evoked memories and emotion. "There were plenty of tears," he said.

All of the Santas he created for his family were easily carved from that first two-by-four, and when he attempted to use another he was surprised to discover that it was more difficult to work with. Had that second piece of lumber fallen into his hands first, he wouldn't have had time to complete so many Santas before Christmas.

Whatever medium he's working with, Bob's art reflects his interests and personality. Even the faces of the caricatures, though old, reveal his happy, curious and easy going nature.

Veronica Hanson, a Tri-County senior, has enjoyed his art classes every year since seventh grade and declares, "Mr. Johnson is the best!"

Christie says, "His art is so much about who he is." Christie worked as a journalist and editor before opting to stay at home and raise their children. Andy is a kindergarten student at Challenger Elementary, and Dylan spends his days playing with the children that Christie cares for in her home day care business. RLCC press nets win

Early success with the press earned the Red Lake County Central girls past East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 64-36 Thursday in high school basketball at Plummer.

The Mustangs led 7-0 just 23 seconds into the game. They were up 20-8 at the end of the first quarter and took the press off after only 12 minutes. It was 39-16 at halftime and 53-20 through three quarters.

"Our press was pretty effective," acknowledged Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto, whose team improved its record to 7-3. "It was a good outing for us."

Tracy Rosten scored 14 points while Heather Schiefert and Emily Fisher both netted 12 for the winners. Cassie Benson was the only Sacred Heart scorer in double figures, finishing with 13 points.

Red Lake County Central shot 48 percent from the field (27/56) and went 10-for-16 at the free throw line. Sacred Heart shot just 31 percent from the floor (14/45) and was 8-for-9 at the line. The Eagles had a 25-22 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 25-13.

Fertile-Beltrami is 55-14 winner over Prowler wrestlers

Fertile-Beltrami won 10 of 13 matches Thursday en route to a 55-14 high school wrestling win over visiting Thief River Falls.

It was the Prowlers' first match since Dec. 15 and their sixth loss in seven dual meet decisions.

"We were emotionally flat," reported Thief River Falls coach Rick Yanke. "We had not wrestled for such a long time, and we had a lot of kids missing practice during the holiday break. Our concentration level was down."

Thief River Falls winners were Jeremy Anderson and Beau Abrahamson in the first two matches (103 and 112 pounds, respectively), along with Jon Swanson at 145.

"Jon Swanson was real aggressive," noted Yanke. "He didn't waste any time. He really went after the pin hard."

Yanke also liked the effort of Carson Comstock, who made his varsity debut at 140. He wound up getting pinned, but only after challenging the Falcons' Stephen Larson.

Crookston goalie Joe Reese covered the goal mouth as Thief River Falls forward Jerod Relerson (9) battled with Pirates defenseman Dominick Hammer in front of the net during Thursday's Section 8A high school hockey game at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center. The Prowlers rallied from an early 4-0 deficit to win the game 5-4.

Prowlers rally, beat Pirates

■ TRF spots Crookston 4-0 head start, wins 5-4

Thief River Falls spotted Crookston a 4-0 lead just three minutes into the game, then stormed back to beat the Pirates 5-4 in a Thursday Section 8A high school hockey match-up at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

Linemates Jeff Rislov and Wade Chiodo had a hand in all five Thief River Falls goals. Rislov finished with a three-goal hat trick and two assists, while Chiodo had a goal and four assists as the Prowlers boosted their record to 4-5-3.

"They (Prowlers) showed a lot of character, a lot of guts coming back like that," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland. "This is going to be a big-time springboard for the the rest of the season for us."

A loss wasn't what the Pirates had in mind when they watched four of their first five shots get by Thief River Falls goalie Mike Dowers. He was pulled briefly when it became 4-0 at 3:01 of the first period, but was sent back in by Bergland just 78 seconds later and kept Crookston off the board the rest of the way.

"They got four terrible goals," said Bergland. "It was a mental thing with Mike. He came back and played well the rest of the night. Goaltending is so much mental. Mike has all the physical tools to be a Division I goaltender. But he has to work on the mental part of it."

It took the Pirates all of 20 seconds to score their first goal. A centering pass out of the corner by Ryan Kleven found a wide-open Jeremy Yeager in the slot between the two face-off circles in front of Dowers, and he didn't waste the opportunity.

A slap shot from the point by Todd Chandler made it 2-0 at 1:38.

Two Thief River Falls defenders couldn't stop Crookston's Joey Corbin from cutting across the goal mouth with the puck and making it 3-0 when he pushed a soft shot under Dowers at 2:23.

Final piece of the early-game Crookston outburst came at 3:01 when Mitch Riopelle poked in a loose puck on a scramble in front of the net.

Thief River Falls' comeback started at 7:10 of the first period when Chiodo's centering pass in front found Rislov waiting on the doorstep for a quick conversion.

It became a 4-2 game before the first period was over on a neat-looking 2-on-1 Thief River Falls rush that saw Chiodo slip a last-second pass across the goal mouth to Rislov, who directed the puck past Crookston goalie Joe Reese at 11:33.

The second period ended in a 4-4 tie as Dustin Melby beat Reese with a wrist shot that caromed off the goalie's glove at 3:06 and Chiodo scored on a low wrist shot off the left wing at 9:39.

Game-winner came just 21 seconds into the third period when Rislov put the puck over Reese's right shoulder on the first shot of the period.

Dowers finished with 23 saves. Reese had 25.

"Take away the first three minutes of the game and we dominated," noted Bergland. "We moved the puck as well as we have all year."

It was the only outing of the week for the Prowlers, who will be in Warroad Tuesday to face another Section 8A rival.

Scoring

B/G-MR girls shut down Nordics

Another strong defensive effort by Badger/Greenbush-Middle River netted another win Thursday as the Gators shut down visiting Marshall County Central 51-33 in girls high school basketball.

"Offensively we're not where we should be, but our defense is carrying us," explained Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. "You hold teams in the 30s, you should have a pretty good chance of winning."

Three Gators did reach double figures, with Kelsey Foldesi scoring 16 points, Alison Holmes 13 and Melissa Smith 10. Kristi Kilen scored a game-high 17 points for the Nordics, but nobody else had more than six.

"We didn't have enough people in double figures," noted Marshall County Central coach Alice Dahl. "Kristi played well, but we need other people to score more."

Early foul trouble also cost the Nordics, who watched the Gators hit 13 of 14 free throws in building quarter leads of 8-6, 30-15 and 40-22.

The Badger/Greenbush-Middle River defense came up with 17 press-prompted steals, with five of them by Tabetha Blazek that were converted directly into points.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was 19-for-40 from the field (48 percent), while Marshall County Central went 15-for-40 (38 percent). The Nordics were 5-for-9 at the free throw line. The Gators finished with a 25-23 rebound edge.

The outcome put the Gators at 8-2 and dropped the Nordics to 2-7.

TRF hockey JV wins 3-2 game vs. Pirates

John Marben scored two goals, Paul Leister got one and Josh Gryskiewicz picked up two assists Thursday as Thief River Falls beat Crookston 3-2 in junior varsity high school hockey.

Melissa Clark was in goal for the winners, who led 2-0 after one period and had a 3-1 second period edge.

MIDDLE SCHOOL

Franklin Middle School eighth grade girls basketball team beat Warren-Alvarado-Oslo 36-15 Monday, but lost to Roseau 50-40 Thursday. Stacia Kalinoski and Melissa Skjerven scored 7 points each against the Ponies, while Kalinoski, Skjerven and Ashley Harbott scored 8 points apiece vs. the Rams.

The Franklin seventh grade girls beat Roseau twice Thursday – 24-11 in the A game and 38-14 in the B contest. Renee Pagnac scored 8 points and Shara Guidry 6 in the A win, while Casey Nelson, Alicia Biever and Runee Jorgenson scored 6 points each in the B game.

Franklin eighth grade boys lost a 41-40 Thursday game to Bagley on a final-second shot. Kyle Gerardy scored 14 points, John Walrath 9 and Pat Johnson 7 for the Prowlers.

Strong start leads to win for Nordics

David and Mark Wilcox scored 18 points apiece and Tyler Ryba chipped in 11 Tuesday to lead Marshall County Central past host Grygla-Gatzke 66-41 in boys high school basketball.

The Nordics jumped out to an early lead and never looked back. They were ahead at the quarter breaks 20-11, 36-17 and 51-30. Results put Marshall County Central at 4-6 and Grygla-Gatzke at 2-4. The Nordics were coming off an 0-3 showing at the Thief River Falls Russ Smith Northwest Holiday Classic Dec. 28-30. The Eagles had been idle since Dec. 22.

"We got a lead right away," noted Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "We made some shots, got a couple of steals and got up on them at the start. We're real satisfied. We did a good job in all areas of the game. We played pretty well for 32 minutes, and not for just a half like we did in the tournament."

Alex Holte was the Eagles' lone double figure scorer, netting 14 points.

It was a disappointing showing on the part of the Eagles, according to Grygla-Gatzke head coach Vern Johnson. "We did not come ready to play," he said. "They jumped on us right away and we never threatened."

Marshall County Central shot 49 percent from the field (27/55) and went 8-for-16 at the free throw line. Grygla-Gatzke shot only 28 percent from the floor (16/58) and had a 6-for-7 free throw night. The Nordics finished with a 34-23 rebound advantage. The Eagles had more turnovers, 17-15.

Mustangs' missed free throws costly

Missed free throws caught up to Red Lake County Central Tuesday in a 57-50 boys high school basketball loss at Mahnomen.

The Mustangs went just 9-for-21 at the free throw line in their first game since Dec. 19. Effects of the long holiday break were evident, according to Red Lake County Central head coach Chris McLean, whose team fell to 4-4.

Mahnomen led 12-11 at the end of the first quarter. The game was tied 25-25 at halftime. Red Lake County Central started the final quarter with a 43-40 edge.

"Mahnomen did enough things right to win the game," pointed out McLean. "We had a lead, but we didn't value our possessions. We took a couple of shots we probably should not have taken."

Red Lake County Central was backed into a must-foul situation at the end, and Mahnomen went 4-for-4 at the free throw line down the stretch to ice it.

The winners were led by 6-3 Josh Thorpe, who had an impressive 20-point, 13-rebound performance. The Mustangs' offense featured Nick Waldal with 16 points and Mark Larenson with 13.

Red Lake County Central, in addition to the 43 percent showing at the free throw line, also struggled through 35 percent 20-for-57 shooting from the field. Mahnomen made 11 of 17 free throw attempts and shot 42 percent from the floor (23/54). Rebounds were even at 20-apiece. The Mustangs topped the turnover charts 20-12.

Second quarter edge carries Green Wave past Mustangs 61-55

East Grand Forks out-scored Red Lake County Central 22-9 in the second quarter Tuesday and went on to beat the visiting Mustangs 61-55 in girls high school basketball.

The Green Wave led only 13-10 after eight minutes, but had a 35-19 halftime cushion and maintained a 48-31 third quarter spread. The Mustangs finished strong, however, and chopped the difference to just three points with 11 seconds left. But they couldn't finish the rally.

"They (Green Wave) scored six-seven points in the last two minutes of the half," pointed out Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto. "We came back, though. We had them going in the fourth quarter, but we couldn't quite get them."

Jill Effhauser led East Grand Forks with 20 points. Sylvia Hilgeman of Red Lake County Central netted 18. Heather Schiefert, the top rebounder and No. 2 scorer for the Mustangs, missed the game because of illness.

Fouls also created problems for the Mustangs, who were playing for the first time since Dec. 21. They had only eight players dressed for the game, and three of them fouled out. East Grand Forks went to the line 37 times, hitting 22. The winners' free throw totals included an 11-for-22 fourth quarter when they hit just one field goal – at the end.

The parade to the free throw line also included a 14-for-22 showing by the Mustangs. Both teams hit 19 field goals, with East Grand Forks putting up 48 shots (40 percent) and Red Lake County Central attempting 50 (38 percent). With Schiefert sidelined, the Mustangs out-rebounded for the first time all season, 41-31. The Green Wave had more turnovers, 17-15.

'White House' to be a home again

Crookston - The stately white frame house, built in 1906, was originally the home of William Robertson, superintendent of the Northwest Experiment Station and head of the Northwest School of Agriculture.

Until the early 1970s, the "White House" was home to families of Experiment Station and Northwest School personnel. In 1973 the house was moved to the northwest corner of the University of Minnesota, Crookston campus and used for offices.

Last week the large house was moved again and will become the home of Tony and Jennifer Peterson and their three children. Crookston Daily Times

Prisoners waiting in line for turn in jail

Detroit Lakes - The 48-bed Becker county jail is full of Becker county prisoners, a state of affairs that costs county taxpayers several hundred thousand dollars a year.

Up until a few years ago the jail was a money maker for the county, and up until October of 1997 people were taken in. Now Becker county is boarding people out. Through November of 1998 the county had taken in $9,000 in boarding fees and spent $334,000 to board adults and juveniles elsewhere.

At one point 60 to 65 people were waiting to get into jail in 1998. Currently Becker county prisoners are being housed in Benton, Clearwater, Morrison and Hubbard county jails.

Before adding on to its jail, county officials are awaiting the results of a study concerning the feasibility of a eight-county regional jail. Becker County Record

Fish houses hit for first time in years

Baudette - Lake of the Woods County Sheriff Bob Paulseth advises fisherman not to leave anything of value in their fish houses.

This advice comes after a flurry of burglaries to ice fishing houses located along the border. Eight burglaries were reported last week alone.

It's been six years since the last rash of break-ins occurred in the area. The Baudette Region

Warroad Food Pantry seeks help

Warroad - Up until two months ago, Mary Anderson took care of the Warroad Food Pantry, an active emergency food distribution service. When she moved out of the community, Father Duane Pribula stepped in.

Father Pribula has discovered, however, that there is more to the service than one person can handle, especially one who has so many other duties to perform.

To keep the service operating, a number of volunteers are needed to handle the paperwork, staff a board of directors, handle finances and make grant requests. Volunteers are also needed to take and fill requests, maintain inventory, gather boxes for packing food and simply defrost the freezer. Father Pribula said that if the tasks are spread among a number of volunteers, the load on each can be minimal. Warroad Pioneer

Dylan qualified for the regional science fair in Bemidji. County officers list priorities for 1999

by David Hill
Associate Editor

In taking the Oath of Office Tuesday, January 5, many newly elected officials were considering their priorities for 1999. Many of those priorities include projects that will, undoubtedly, make headlines in 1999.

Pennington County Commissioner Bob Carlson was elected in November to represent Commission District 2 again, and on Tuesday, fellow commissioners elected him chairman of the county board. Carlson said he's been thinking about taking a closer look at those items costing the county between $3,000 and $5,000. Things aren't going to get any cheaper, he said, and they have to take a close look at everything.

If, he said, he's understood the new Governor's message, the county will have to hold the line. Once the county completes its two current projects, the minimum security facility and the highway department building, the county will have to hold the line on expenses and find ways to cut taxes. The governor, he said, was elected by people who are saying taxes just can't keep going up, and he agrees with that.

Carlson said he's looking forward to a good year. The people he's working with on the county board, he said, are the finest group of men he has had the pleasure to work with.

Newly elected Sheriff Mike Hruby said his priorities include completing the minimum security facility, the enhanced 9-1-1 project, and continuing to provide quality law enforcement to the residents of Pennington county.

Pennington County Auditor Ken Olson said his priorities for the new year include seeing the completion of the Highway shop and minimum security facility, working on the Year 2000 project, which already is in committee, and keeping close

Gravel mining prosposal open to public review

Plans by MNDAK Concrete Inc. to mine gravel from a 58-acre site in southwestern Pennington county has resulted in preparation of an environmental assessment worksheet (EAW) by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources

The worksheet describes the potential environmental effects associated with the gravel mining and is available for public review.

According to Don Buckhout of the Minnesota DNR planning division, MNDAK Concrete intends to expand its existing gravel mining operation by mining a 58-acre parcel of state-administered land within the Higinbothum Wildlife Management Area adjacent to MNDAK's current pit.

The project site is currently farmed under a cooperative agreement with a private individual, Buckhout said. After the gravel would be removed, in about 10 years, the site would be restored to provide a mix of upland prairie and wetland habitat to benefit a variety of wildlife species.

The EAW released by the DNR provides a detailed description of the proposed mining operation and the potential adverse environmental effects. Impacts reported include noise, visual impacts, temporary disruption of the on-site habitat values during the mining operation and truck traffic associated with the mining activity.

Long-term end use would provide a net benefit to wildlife by establishing a more diverse habitat than currently exists, Buckhout said.

The EAW is available for public review during a 30-day comment period which began January 11. Copies are available for inspection and review at the Northwest Regional Library at 101 East First Street and the DNR area wildlife office at 123 North Main, both in Thief River Falls, and from the DNR Library, 500 Lafayette Road, St. Paul.

Written comments on the proposal must be submitted by 4:30 p.m. on February 10 to Thomas Balcom, Minnesota DNR, 500 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155-4010 or by fax to 651-296-6047. For more information or for copies of the EAW call 651-296-8212.

Couple keeps St. Hilaire SHARP

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Because they both grew up there, Sean and Stacy Myhrer knew that St. Hilaire, like every other small town, didn't have much to offer its young people. And, at 28 and 26 years old, they remember what it's like to be a kid.

"Our parents were pretty good about taking us places, but we know that some parents aren't," Sean said. With this in mind, Sean and Stacy took it upon themselves to provide recreational opportunities for kids in St. Hilaire.

The program they named St. Hilaire Area Recreational Program (SHARP) began with an open gym night once a week. Because Sean was working nights at the time, Stacy opened the gym at the school in St. Hilaire and supervised the youth for a couple of hours.

In a conversation with Thief River Falls police officer Jim Haugen, Sean mentioned what he and Stacy were doing for the youth in St. Hilaire, and Jim suggested that their program might qualify for grant money.

The Community Education department of School District 564 is the site host for the Community After-School Enrichment Grant from the Minnesota Department of Children, Families and Learning. The focus of the grant is to provide new after-school enrichment programs for children between 9 and 13 years of age in grades 3 through 9 and emphasizes the recruitment of at-risk youth.

Sean and Stacy's application was presented to the Youth Development committee and reviewed by the Community Education Advisory committee. The application was approved and the couple received funding for the 1997-98 school year. They also received grant money for the 1998-99 school year.

With funding, the couple was able to expand the program, and an album reveals a photographic journal of their first year-and-a-half as part of the school district's After-School Enrichment program

Last year the group was so large — up to 28 youth — that they often met twice a week for a total of 63 times. The group consisted of an equal number of boys and girls.

Because some of the children moved and others became too old for the program, the numbers are down this year. The group of 10 to 15 youth meets on Thursday evenings, and this year, there are many more girls than boys participating. A dozen or so youth is a much easier number for two volunteers to handle. Attendance has run at about 75 percent since the program began.

Sean and Stacy Myhrer are the volunteer directors of St. Hilaire's After-School Enrichment program and spend many hours planning the games, activities and community service projects enjoyed by 9 to 13-year-olds youth each week throughout the school year. About 15 youth are participating in the program.

Rep. Finseth will address Landowner's Rights meet

Rep. Tim Finseth of Angus, newly-appointed chair of the House Agriculture and Rural Development Committee, will be guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Minnesota Landowner's Rights Association Saturday, January 23, in Thief River Falls.

The meeting is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. at the Best Western Inn. Coffee and refreshments will be served and door prizes will be awarded.

'White House' to be a home again

Crookston - The stately white frame house, built in 1906, was originally the home of William Robertson, superintendent of the Northwest Experiment Station and head of the Northwest School of Agriculture.

Until the early 1970s, the "White House" was home to families of Experiment Station and Northwest School personnel. In 1973 the house was moved to the northwest corner of the University of Minnesota, Crookston campus and used for offices.

Last week the large house was moved again and will become the home of Tony and Jennifer Peterson and their three children. Crookston Daily Times

Prisoners waiting in line for turn in jail

Detroit Lakes - The 48-bed Becker county jail is full of Becker county prisoners, a state of affairs that costs county taxpayers several hundred thousand dollars a year.

Up until a few years ago the jail was a money maker for the county, and up until October of 1997 people were taken in. Now Becker county is boarding people out. Through November of 1998 the county had taken in $9,000 in boarding fees and spent $334,000 to board adults and juveniles elsewhere.

At one point 60 to 65 people were waiting to get into jail in 1998. Currently Becker county prisoners are being housed in Benton, Clearwater, Morrison and Hubbard county jails.

Before adding on to its jail, county officials are awaiting the results of a study concerning the feasibility of a eight-county regional jail. Becker County Record

Fish houses hit for first time in years

Baudette - Lake of the Woods County Sheriff Bob Paulseth advises fisherman not to leave anything of value in their fish houses.

This advice comes after a flurry of burglaries to ice fishing houses located along the border. Eight burglaries were reported last week alone.

It's been six years since the last rash of break-ins occurred in the area. The Baudette Region

Warroad Food Pantry seeks help

Warroad - Up until two months ago, Mary Anderson took care of the Warroad Food Pantry, an active emergency food distribution service. When she moved out of the community, Father Duane Pribula stepped in.

Father Pribula has discovered, however, that there is more to the service than one person can handle, especially one who has so many other duties to perform.

To keep the service operating, a number of volunteers are needed to handle the paperwork, staff a board of directors, handle finances and make grant requests. Volunteers are also needed to take and fill requests, maintain inventory, gather boxes for packing food and simply defrost the freezer. Father Pribula said that if the tasks are spread among a number of volunteers, the load on each can be minimal. Warroad Pioneer

County officers list priorities for 1999

by David Hill
Associate Editor

In taking the Oath of Office Tuesday, January 5, many newly elected officials were considering their priorities for 1999. Many of those priorities include projects that will, undoubtedly, make headlines in 1999.

Pennington County Commissioner Bob Carlson was elected in November to represent Commission District 2 again, and on Tuesday, fellow commissioners elected him chairman of the county board. Carlson said he's been thinking about taking a closer look at those items costing the county between $3,000 and $5,000. Things aren't going to get any cheaper, he said, and they have to take a close look at everything.

If, he said, he's understood the new Governor's message, the county will have to hold the line. Once the county completes its two current projects, the minimum security facility and the highway department building, the county will have to hold the line on expenses and find ways to cut taxes. The governor, he said, was elected by people who are saying taxes just can't keep going up, and he agrees with that.

Carlson said he's looking forward to a good year. The people he's working with on the county board, he said, are the finest group of men he has had the pleasure to work with.

Newly elected Sheriff Mike Hruby said his priorities include completing the minimum security facility, the enhanced 9-1-1 project, and continuing to provide quality law enforcement to the residents of Pennington county.

Pennington County Auditor Ken Olson said his priorities for the new year include seeing the completion of the Highway shop and minimum security facility, working on the Year 2000 project, which already is in committee, and keeping close

Plans by MNDAK Concrete Inc to mine gravel from a 58-acre site in southwestern Pennington county has resulted in preparation of an environmental assessment worksheet (EAW) by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

The worksheet describes the potential environmental effects associated with the gravel mining and is available for public review.

According to Don Buckhout of the Minnesota DNR planning division, MNDAK Concrete intends to expand its existing gravel mining operation by mining a 58-acre parcel of state-administered land within the Higinbotham Wildlife Management Area adjacent to MNDAK's current pit.

The project site is currently farmed under a cooperative agreement with a private individual, Buckhout said. After the gravel would be removed, in about 10 years, the site would be restored to provide a mix of upland prairie and wetland habitat to benefit a variety of wildlife species.

The EAW released by the DNR provides a detailed description of the proposed mining operation and the potential adverse environmental effects. Impacts reported include noise, visual impacts, temporary disruption of the on-site habitat values during the mining operation and truck traffic associated with the mining activity.

Long-term end use would provide a net benefit to wildlife by establishing a more diverse habitat than currently exists, Buckhout said.

The EAW is available for public review during a 30-day comment period which began January 11. Copies are available for inspection and review at the Northwest Regional Library at 101 East First Street and the DNR area wildlife office at 123 North Main, both in Thief River Falls, and from the DNR Library, 500 Lafayette Road, St. Paul.

Written comments on the proposal must be submitted by 4:30 p.m. on February 10 to Thomas Balcom, Minnesota DNR, 500 Lafayette Road, St. Paul Minnesota 55155-4010 or by fax to 651-296-6047. For more information or for copies of the EAW call 651-296-8212.

Couple keeps St. Hilaire SHARP

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Because they both grew up there, Sean and Stacy Myhrer knew that St. Hilaire, like every other small town, didn't have much to offer its young people. And, at 28 and 26 years old, they remember what it's like to be a kid.

"Our parents were pretty good about taking us places, but we know that some parents aren't," Sean said. With this in mind, Sean and Stacy took it upon themselves to provide recreational opportunities for kids in St. Hilaire.

The program they named St. Hilaire Area Recreational Program (SHARP) began with an open gym night once a week. Because Sean was working nights at the time, Stacy opened the gym at the school in St. Hilaire and supervised the youth for a couple of hours.

In a conversation with Thief River Falls police officer Jim Haugen, Sean mentioned what he and Stacy were doing for the youth in St. Hilaire, and Jim suggested that their program might qualify for grant money.

The Community Education department of School District 564 is the site host for the Community After-School Enrichment Grant from the Minnesota Department of Children, Families and Learning. The focus of the grant is to provide new after-school enrichment programs for children between 9 and 13 years of age in grades 3 through 9 and emphasizes the recruitment of at-risk youth.

Sean and Stacy's application was presented to the Youth Development committee and reviewed by the Community Education Advisory committee. The application was approved and the couple received funding for the 1997-98 school year. They also received grant money for the 1998-99 school year.

With funding, the couple was able to expand the program, and an album reveals a photographic journal of their first year-and-a-half as part of the school district's After-School Enrichment program.

Last year the group was so large — up to 28 youth — that they often met twice a week for a total of 68 times. The group consisted of an equal number of boys and girls.

Because some of the children moved and others became too old for the program, the numbers are down this year. The group of 10 to 15 youth meets on Thursday evenings, and this year, there are many more girls than boys participating. A dozen or so youth is a much easier number for two volunteers to handle. Attendance has run at about 75 percent since the program began.

Sean and Stacy Myhrer are the volunteer directors of St. Hilaire's After-School Enrichment program and spend many hours planning the games, activities and community service projects enjoyed by 9 to 13-year-olds youth each week throughout the school year. About 15 youth are participating in the program.

Historical Bagley jail gets new owner

Bagley - It would be a crime to let what is apparently the oldest jail in Minnesota to be turned into a pile of rubble, and that is why the jail's former owner, Clearwater County, decided to give the building to the City of Bagley.

The county has a brand new jail and no longer has need for the old facility. The Clearwater County Historical Society is working on a grant to have the old jail restored.

The jail's old fashioned setup includes prefabricated cages to hold prisoners with the small brig structure built around the cells. Bagley Mayor Steve Beltz was told by a state inspector that there are no other jails of its type in Minnesota. Farmers Independent

81-year-old still fighting fires

Norby has been a member of the Mahnomen Volunteer Fire Department since 1958, and as long as he remains healthy he plans to continue fighting fire. "I've got to have something to do," he said. Mahnomen Pioneer

Woodland Container in Roseau receives ISO 9001 certification

Woodland Container Corporation, a Minnesota-based package engineering company that ships nationally and internationally, achieved its first ISO 9001 certification at its Roseau plant, company officials announced recently.

As a broadly accepted industrial quality control measurement, ISO 9001 encompasses a collection of generic international standards independent of any specific industry or economic sector, providing direction for quality management and assurance.

These standards describe the elements that quality systems should encompass, but not how a specific company should implement those elements. ISO 9001 is the most stringent of the quality standard ISO 9000 series.

"The ISO implementation project is our long-term commitment to true quality improvement," said Pat McGuire, Woodland Container Corporation's president and chief operating officer. "This certification represents our commitment to our customers, clearly indicating that we have an effective quality management and assurance system throughout operations, and that we produce a high quality product."

Woodland Container's Roseau plant and corporate employees spent several months planning and preparing for the ISO audit, which involved numerous internal quality audits to verify compliance to the ISO 9001 standard and Woodland-documented procedures, with eventual evaluation and certification by ITS Intertek, a nationally known accredited RAB Registrar.

In addition to the Roseau plant, and the company's headquarters and plant in Aitkin, the firm also operates facilities in Cleveland, TN, Jackson, TN, Estherville, IA, Juneau, WI, Tomah, WI, and Hickory, NC, all of which will be certified within the near future.

For more than 50 years, the company has built a national reputation as package engineering experts. Specializing in the design, manufacture, and delivery of industrial packaging products, the company had about $40 million in sales last year, providing its services to a number of Fortune 500 companies.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Hot dishes, casseroles, whatever they are called, they're great for these cold winter days, and most of them are really fast to make. These are from my new Amish cookbook.

One of the first things I cooked in my high school home ec class was Spanish Rice. We used bacon in ours and I thought it tasted great. However, when I tried to cook it at home, I had three large pans filled with rice - whoops! I never heard the end of it - my uncle talked about it every time I saw him. Anyway, this is a quick meal that you can cook up in no time - pop some cornmeal muffins in the oven at the same time and cut up some salad greens and you've got a great meal for a cold day:

SPANISH RICE

1/2 cup dry rice
1/2 cup green pepper
1 onion, minced
1/2 to 3/4 pound ground beef
1 cup water
3/4 teaspoon salt
1 (#2) can tomatoes (regular size)
1/2 teaspoon celery salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper

Brown rice, green pepper, onion and hamburger, stirring to prevent over browning.

Add water, salt, tomatoes, celery salt and pepper and let simmer slowly until all liquid is absorbed and rice is tender, about 30 minutes.

Everyone likes meatballs and these are simple as can be. Fix them ahead and pop into the oven when you get home from work:

MEAT BALLS IN GRAVY

4 pounds hamburger
1 cup diced celery
1 medium onion
4 eggs
3 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 can milk

Mix hamburger, celery, onion, eggs, salt and pepper well. Make into balls. Brown and arrange in roaster.

Pour mushroom soup over the meatballs and then add can of milk that has been heated. Bake at 350 degrees for about 45 minutes.

Onion rings that aren't rings - here's something different that would really pep up those "same old" hamburgers you're having tonight, or they'd be a good snack food while watching that special show on TV tonight:

ONION PATTIES

3/4 cup flour
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon cornmeal
2 1/2 cups finely chopped onion
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup milk

Mix dry ingredients together and then add milk. Batter should be fairly thick.

Add onions and mix thoroughly. Drop by spoonfuls into deep fat. Turn and flatten slightly when they are turned. Fry until golden and drain on paper towels.

This is an unusual combination, but I bet it tastes great. This recipe serves 8, so you might want to make half for your family:

RICE KRISPIE HOT DISH

6 cups crispy rice cereal
1 onion, finely chopped
2 pounds ground beef
2 cans chicken and rice soup
2 cans cream of mushroom soup

Mix all ingredients together and bake 1 hour at 350 degrees.

This casserole sounds really good - something like lasagna, only easier to make - bet your family would love it:

HAMBURGER AND CHEESE CASSEROLE

1 pound hamburger
1/2 cup onion
16 ounce can tomato sauce
1 teaspoon sugar
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon garlic salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
4 cups noodles, uncooked
8 ounce package mozzarella, American or other type cheese
1 cup cottage cheese
1/4 cup sour cream
1/4 cup green pepper
1/4 cup Parmesan cheese

Combine onion and hamburger and brown. Stir in tomato sauce, sugar, salt, garlic salt and pepper. Remove from heat.

Meanwhile, cook noodles and drain. Combine cheeses and sour cream and green pepper.

Spread half of noodles in an 11x7 inch pan. Top with some of the meat sauce and then top with all of the cheese mixture. Add remaining noodles and rest of meat sauce.

Top with Parmesan cheese and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

Historical Bagley jail gets new owner

Bagley - It would be a crime to let what is apparently the oldest jail in Minnesota to be turned into a pile of rubble, and that is why the jail's former owner, Clearwater County, decided to give the building to the City of Bagley.

The county has a brand new jail and no longer has need for the old facility. The Clearwater County Historical Society is working on a grant to have the old jail restored.

The jail's old fashioned set-up includes prefabricated cages to hold prisoners with the small brig structure built around the cells. Bagley Mayor Steve Beltz was told by a state inspector that there are no other jails of its type in Minnesota. Farmers Independent

Mahnomen - At age 81, Lester Norby of Mahnomen is considered to be one of the oldest fire fighters in Minnesota.

Woodland Container in Roseau receives ISO 9001 certification

Woodland Container Corporation, a Minnesota-based package engineering company that ships nationally and internationally, achieved its first ISO 9001 certification at its Roseau plant, company officials announced recently.

As a broadly accepted industrial quality control measurement, ISO 9001 encompasses a collection of generic international standards independent of any specific industry or economic sector, providing direction for quality management and assurance.

These standards describe the elements that quality systems should encompass, but not how a specific company should implement those elements. ISO 9001 is the most stringent of the quality standard ISO 9000 series.

"The ISO implementation project is our long-term commitment to true quality improvement," said Pat McGuire, Woodland Container Corporation's president and chief operating officer. "This certification represents our commitment to our customers, clearly indicating that we have an effective quality management and assurance system throughout operations, and that we produce a high quality product."

Woodland Container's Roseau plant and corporate employees spent several months planning and preparing for the ISO audit, which involved numerous internal quality audits to verify compliance to the ISO 9001 standard and Woodland-documented procedures, with eventual evaluation and certification by ITS Intertek, a nationally known accredited RAB Registrar.

In addition to the Roseau plant, and the company's headquarters and plant in Aitkin, the firm also operates facilities in Cleveland, TN, Jackson, TN, Estherville, IA, Juneau, WI, Tomah, WI, and Hickory, NC, all of which will be certified within the near future.

For more than 50 years, the company has built a national reputation as package engineering experts. Specializing in the design, manufacture, and delivery of industrial packaging products, the company had about $40 million in sales last year, providing its services to a number of Fortune 500 companies.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere
email: gabriel@northernnet.com

Hot dishes, casseroles, whatever they are called, they're great for these cold winter days, and most of them are really fast to make. These are from my new Amish cookbook.

One of the first things I cooked in my high school home ec class was Spanish Rice. We used bacon in ours and I thought it tasted great. However, when I tried to cook it at home, I had three large pans filled with rice - whoops! I never heard the end of it - my uncle talked about it every time I saw him. Anyway, this is a quick meal that you can cook up in no time - pop some cornmeal muffins in the oven at the same time and cut up some salad greens and you've got a great meal for a cold day:

SPANISH RICE
1/2 cup dry rice
1/2 cup green pepper
1 onion, minced
1/2 to 3/4 pound ground beef
1 cup water
3/4 teaspoon salt
1 (#2) can tomatoes (regular size)
1/2 teaspoon celery salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper

Brown rice, green pepper, onion and hamburger, stirring to prevent over browning.

Add water, salt, tomatoes, celery salt and pepper and let simmer slowly until all liquid is absorbed and rice is tender, about 30 minutes.

Everyone likes meatballs and these are simple as can be. Fix them ahead and pop into the oven when you get home from work:

MEAT BALLS IN GRAVY
4 pounds hamburger
1 cup diced celery
1 medium onion
4 eggs
3 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 can milk

Mix hamburger, celery, onion, eggs, salt and pepper well. Make into balls. Brown and arrange in roaster.

Pour mushroom soup over the meatballs and then add can of milk that has been heated. Bake at 350 degrees for about 45 minutes.

Onion rings that aren't rings - here's something different that would really pep up those "same old" hamburgers you're having tonight, or they'd be a good snack food while watching that special show on TV tonight:

ONION PATTIES
3/4 cup flour
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon cornmeal
2 1/2 cups finely chopped onion
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup milk

Mix dry ingredients together and then add milk. Batter should be fairly thick.

Add onions and mix thoroughly. Drop by spoonfuls into deep fat. Turn and flatten slightly when they are turned. Fry until golden and drain on paper towels.

This is an unusual combination, but I bet it tastes great. This recipe serves 8, so you might want to make half for your family:

RICE KRISPIE HOT DISH
6 cups crispy rice cereal
1 onion, finely chopped
2 pounds ground beef
2 cans chicken and rice soup
2 cans cream of mushroom soup

Mix all ingredients together and bake 1 hour at 350 degrees.

This casserole sounds really good - something like lasagna, only easier to make - bet your family would love it:

HAMBURGER AND CHEESE CASSEROLE
1 pound hamburger
1/2 cup onion
16 ounce can tomato sauce
1 teaspoon sugar
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon garlic salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
4 cups noodles, uncooked
8 ounce package mozzarella, American or other type cheese
1 cup cottage cheese
1/4 cup sour cream
1/4 cup green pepper
1/4 cup Parmesan cheese

Combine onion and hamburger and brown. Stir in tomato sauce, sugar, salt, garlic salt and pepper. Remove from heat.

Meanwhile, cook noodles and drain. Combine cheeses and sour cream and green pepper.

Spread half of noodles in an 11x7 inch pan. Top with some of the meat sauce and then top with all of the cheese mixture. Add remaining noodles and rest of meat sauce.

Top with Parmesan cheese and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

NW Regional Library urges family reading

Barb Kalinoski, director of the Northwest Regional Library System, encourages families to read together and to participate in the Family Reading Program now being conducted in the regional library system.

Focus is on families this month in the Northwest Regional Library System as libraries in Red Lake Falls, Thief River Falls, Warren, Warroad, Greenbush, Hallock and Roseau kick off their Family Reading program.

Families registering for the program at the libraries listed above will receive a free Family Time Reading Book Bag (one per family) to use in bringing books home and returning them to the library.

"The days are cold and the nights are long—the perfect time to read," suggests Barb Kalinoski, director of the Northwest Regional Library System. "Although the Family Reading program ends in March, we hope that families will continue to use the book bags for library visits throughout the winter and the rest of the year."

Theme for Family Reading Time at the regional libraries is Be the Leader of the Pack—Read! Reading with children and encouraging them to read are important parts of being parents and caregivers, Kalinoski adds.

She also encourages families to check out the Reading Web Site at http://www.arrowhead.lib.mn.us/wrp.htm.

Quin County Board to meet

The Quin County Board and Advisory Committee meeting will be held on Monday, January 18 at 7:30 p.m. at the Newfolden Community Center. Board organization is the main item of business on the agenda.

watch of legislative issues.

Ken Schmalz, Pennington County Recorder, said his office will be working on implementing and utilizing a new computer imaging system. The new system allows his office to record property transactions with the use of a scanner. Schmalz said the new system of recording transactions will considerably reduce paper use, and the space problems they are now facing. In the past 10 years, the number of yearly transactions has nearly doubled. His office is filled with expensive and cumbersome folders.

Schmalz is also chairman of a county committee charged with responding to the Year 2000 computer problems.

Vickie Bjorgaard, Pennington County Treasurer, said she'll be working on a new system of collecting on delinquent mobile homes through Revenue Recapture. She said her office will also be looking at banking services, all in an effort to reduce costs for local taxpayers.

Pennington County Attorney Dave Olin said his office plans to continue to provide the quality service that it has been providing to the county board and citizens of the county.

It was a tough year last year, as far as crime, and Olin said he expects that next year will bring more of the same. He said he plans to try to find more ways to prevent crime, especially juvenile crime.

Bud Comstock, county commissioner for District 4, said there are a lot of projects he wants to keep an eye on, including completion of the new truck route, minimum security facility, and events center. He also plans to keep focused on what the city of Thief River Falls plans to do about a bridge (Greenwood, Sherwood or both) enhanced 9-1-1 for the county, county mapping, welfare reform, and the selection of a new director for the Red Lake Watershed district.

HEAVY WATER
Ice Fishing for the Dense

It really bothers me when I have to acknowledge the value of something I may have learned in high school. I can easily see the Physics teacher's face, self-righteously pointing out that what he's giving me today will benefit me sometime in the future. I nod obligingly, more in effort to insure a passing grade than to convince him I actually believe anything he might have to offer.

I'm preoccupied, thinking about the post-school trip to a lake where a buddy and I have scheduled a late afternoon fishing expedition. Mr. LaBrecque's twelfth grade science and the great out-of-doors will never brush shoulders, I reassure myself with a grin. Who's he kidding?

And then, 20 years later, past and present collide with such an abrupt and practical resonation that the snotty, knowing smile is wiped permanently from my face. I hate it when I don't get the last laugh. I'd be embarrassed if any of my classmates knew I even remembered his words: "Water at its densest is 39 degrees Fahrenheit ...."

It's mid-winter in northern Minnesota, and it's cold. Nearly three feet of ice cover the lakes and an extension on the Jiffy is a must. I'm moving my fish house today and scratch my head in puzzlement as I consider the options. The traditional drift of fish shanties toward deeper water is underway. Historically, it is there that the coldest stretch of the year offers success.

Instinctively, however, I am drawn to shallower depths, where logic suggests that I'll find warmer water and, occasionally, the active fish.

I've jumped into enough Midwestern lakes in May to understand that the deeper one goes, the colder it gets. Tradition versus Instinct; it's a divisive battle. Is this the year I buck the patterns of the past and become my own, self-indulgent fisherman? Or do I bow spinelessly to the time honored, cliche patterns of the past? It's right about then that the vision of my high school Physics teacher reincarnates itself with advice about water density and settles the debate.

Consider the obvious. Frozen water (ice) is floating on top of the lake. If that sheet of ice was denser than the water, it would sink. If the water below it was colder than the frozen surface, the whole thing would have turned to ice, right? The colder stuff is on top. So we have to understand that somewhere along the way, our standard summer conceptions about density in water and the way that it layers itself have to be discarded for winter use. Once again, water at its densest is 39 degrees F.

Now, before we descend to a level of dryness and tedium normally reserved for In-Fisherman articles, let's apply this practically to our winter fishing. If this is a northern tier Midwestern state and our lines are getting wet in a prairie pothole, then this body of water is cold.

As a matter of fact, that 39 degrees will be the warmest water you can expect to find, and by virtue of its density, will have hurtled its way to the deepest reaches of the basin. If I'm a fish, I'm following the consistency and comfort of that flow. In short, deep is where it's at for the fishing world.

On Lake of the Woods, for example, sauger, perch and walleye cluster together in the deepest mud depressions that the south basin has to offer. The 30 to 40-foot depths might sound intimidating for the traditional June angler, but these fish are experiencing as much bodily stress as they will all year and the ability to maintain predictable levels in metabolism is what gets them successfully into next season's open water.

The predictability the fish are seeking, then, comes in the same spots that the fisherman should be fishing. The nearly painful wait as a sixteenth-ounce jig drags 40 feet of stubborn monofilament to the bottom can be more than many can tolerate. This time of year, however, is a good example of 90 percent of the fish being in 10 percent of the water and to catch them you have to go where they are.

I'm moving my fish house over deeper water. I'd like to claim that I'm doing so in deference to the wisdom of the seasoned fishermen who have already moved that way. Honestly, however, I have to concede the wisdom to the convincing arguments provided by Mr. LaBrecque.

The limits of my own practically acquired knowledge, jumping into farm ponds and abandoned mining pits during my younger days, did less to promote my knowledge of winter fishing than did that Physics class. And to think, all those times that a teacher told me to "go jump in a lake" I thought he was responding to my buffoonery in the back row, when all he was trying to do was make me a better ice fisherman.

Stamp Price Hike Takes A Licking

It's only a penny added to the cost of mailing a first class letter but it means a billion dollars more in revenue to the U.S. Postal Service. The rate increase from 32 cents to 33 cents for a first class stamp, which went into effect January 10, has taken a sound thumping from an organization calling itself the Coalition To Make Our First Class Mail FIRST CLASS. The coalition includes more than 200 organizations representing more than five million Americans.

"There is not one good reason advanced by the Postal Service to justify this billion dollar increase in first class mail rates," states John F. Robinson, president and CEO of the National Minority Business Council—one of the members of the coalition.

"Combine that with the fact that no one—not even Congress—was able to halt this greedy money grab from the captive customers of the first class mail monopoly and you can see why we must have more protection for postal customers in 1999," Robinson added. "The final say on first class mail rates must be taken away from the Postal Service Board of Governors and given to the independent Postal Rate Commission."

The Board of Governors approved the rate hike despite a 393-12 vote in Congress to demand that no such increase takes place— which says something about the effectiveness of Congress, we suppose.

According to Robinson, the increase will provide "money the agency doesn't need and will almost surely waste." As examples he points to a $124,000 retirement party for former Postmaster General Marvin Runyon; year-end bonuses to 900 postal executives that averaged $10,400 each "despite ongoing serious delivery problems;" losing almost $85 million on starting up new non-delivery related products that largely compete with private business and do nothing to help get the mail delivered on time; sponsoring a bike team in the Tour de France which has a mostly European audience; and spending millions of dollars on "feel-good advertising for the first class mail monopoly."

We're not as incensed over the rate increase as Robinson and others in the coalition, although we would have liked to see a plan for using the new revenue for speeding delivery service— especially since the past four years have produced record profits for the Postal Service and the rate hike wasn't needed to cover losses.

Then again, we're from the era that can remember the penny postal card and the three-cent first class stamp. We can also remember one specific of what must be considered exceptional service. While working at the Warren Sheaf in the mid-1950s, we could mail photos to an engraver in LaCrosse, WI, on the Winnipeg Flyer at the Great Northern Railroad depot at 11 p.m. Monday nights and have the engravings back in Wednesday morning's mail for publication that day—virtually without fail.

Postal service didn't die when mail cars were discontinued and the passenger trains quit running. Our example above is not necessarily typical of that era. Postal service didn't die when stamps for air mail service were outdated because sending mail by air became common. Postal service isn't necessarily dead now, but it is ailing—suffocating in a volume that the average person can't begin to comprehend and which did not exist decades ago.

First Class mail, however, is deserving of more attention and emphasis. The glut of mail did not occur overnight and postal administrators on a national scale, although attempting to make necessary changes, may have been guilty of inadequate response to the growth. It would have been nice if the recent rate increase would have been directed to quicker and more consistent First Class mail delivery. It would have at least been an indication of concern for the public's needs.

It seems to us that the growing popularity of fax machines and e-mail on the internet is due at least in part to the failure of the Postal Service to address First Class needs.

An Element Missing In Sexual Harassment Case

In a case presently under review in the U.S. Supreme Court, a mother in Georgia is suing her local school district for failing to prevent a male classmate from sexually harassing her daughter. The appeal to the highest court in the land has created a stir in the national media regarding the school district's liability in the matter.

According to news reports, the mother and her daughter say they complained repeatedly to school officials over a five-month period that a fifth grade classmate had "grabbed LaShonda's breasts and crotch, simulated a sex act and made threatening remarks." School officials reportedly had refused even to move the boy from his seat next to the girl in class.

In the Georgia case, the school board said federal law does not make the school liable for a student's bad conduct. A federal appeals court threw out the case on the grounds that the disputed federal law does not cover harassment between fellow students.

Most surprising in the news account was the response of some members of the high court. "Little boys tease little girls," Justice Sandro Day O'Connor said. "Is every one of these incidents going to lead to a lawsuit."

"How does the school define....the harassment, as distinguished from teasing?" Justice David Souter asked. "In the first grade, boys tease girls because they are girls."

This is a case which should not have reached any court, much less the Supreme Court. Once aware of the situation, school officials should have removed or at least moved the offending student, let him know in no uncertain terms that such offensive behavior would not be tolerated and contacted his parents or guardians to inform them of the situation and urge correction. These should be basic actions, none of which were indicated in the news accounts to have taken place. If indeed left undone, these actions are a significant element missing in the controversy.

School officials, or anyone else in public life, should not need a specific legal requirement in order to do what is right. They probably also shouldn't be directly liable for interaction between students; there are already too many instances of liability beyond the individuals directly involved.

We recently saw a cartoon in which a lawyer was addressing a farmer on the witness stand. "So, you admit it," he said. "YOU planted the corn used by the distillery to make the whiskey sold to the bar that served my client, causing him to have an accident while driving home drunk!" The cartoon is almost too close to the truth to be funny.

Supreme Court Justices, supposedly wise and learned people, should not refer to fifth graders as first graders nor confuse groping with teasing. There is a substantial difference between objectionable talk and unwanted physical contact and even between a one-time incident and repeated acts. This situation seems to have been extraordinarily mishandled and Justices' comments hold little hope for a logical resolution.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

The Minot Flames Bantam B hockey team would like to thank the city of Thief River Falls for its hospitality and generosity during the recent Bantam B hockey tournament.

A special thank-you to Jane Mattson of the Evergreen Eating Emporium who graciously opened the restaurant early and served 15 hungry hockey players plus their families a delicious spaghetti dinner. It was a wonderful gesture on her part since we were looking for a place to fill the boys up on spaghetti at 3 p.m. and the restaurant didn't open until 5 p.m.

Just watching Jane serve dishes upon dishes of spaghetti and garlic bread made us realize just how hospitable the people of Thief River Falls are. Her kindness and hospitality shines brightly as a representative of Thief River Falls businesses. You can be sure that anyone and everyone who inquires about the Thief River Falls area will get high recommendations from us.

Thank you.

When planning the weekly events, Sean and Stacy strive to provide variety of activities — a balance between what Sean calls the "fun stuff" and community service activities.

The "fun stuff" includes games such as Bingo, Bunko and an evening of Disney Trivia, a pajama party, special holiday parties and open gym activities. The St. Hilaire Community Club donates the use of the gym where most of the program's events are held.

Community service projects have included such activities as making and distributing Christmas ornaments to every home in St. Hilaire and going door-to-door during a Scavenger Hunt to collect items for the Violence Intervention Project.

In an effort to involve the community and keep its citizens abreast of the group's activities, a monthly newsletter was started in October. Youth are given writing assignments for the newsletter which is distributed to individual members and every boxholder in St. Hilaire.

Sean and Stacy have strived also to encourage family and community participation in a number of events. "Bunko" is a fun, old-fashioned dice game that is enjoyed by people of all ages. The group has enjoyed two Bunko parties where the youth were encouraged to invite their grandparents. If grandparents weren't available, Sean and Stacy recruited local residents to fill in for the absentees.

A Bunko Family Night was held last spring and a Community Bunko Party was held in November with most of the kids bringing neighbors as their partners.

To help the youth develop a sense of responsibility and citizenship Sean and Stacy have initiated a couple of special programs.

In October, as youth distributed the 110 Halloween refrigerator magnets they made to every household in St. Hilaire, they handed out flyers. The flyers explained that one of the program's goals is to promote good relationships between youth and their neighbors. The kids are asked to perform "friendly neighbor acts" such as carrying in groceries, raking leaves and shoveling snow. To enable Sean and Stacy to recognize and reward the friendly neighbor acts they ask that service recipients record the service provided along with their name and the date on a piece of paper.

The group also plans to do a community-wide service project each month. The flyer passed out while distributing the refrigerator magnets in October also explained the November Scavenger Hunt. The activity was actually a door-to-door campaign to collect items for the Violence Intervention Project. In December the group again went door-to-door — this time distributing holiday cheer and handmade Christmas ornaments.

To promote responsibility, each of the young people participating in the program has been given a job or placed on a committee. One committee plans community service projects as another plans parties. Other youth are in charge of equipment at the gym or setting up the equipment for gym activities. When the kids fulfill their obligations they are rewarded with points in the form of play money, and they use the money to gain entrance to parties.

If the youth don't perform their duties, they are not allowed to participate in the fun activities. Sean says Stacy doesn't back down to the kids. "I'm the softie," he says.

The couple often spends many hours planning and preparing for the weekly activities. For example, they invented a game entitled "That Number's Right" for an October meeting. It was based on the television game show, "The Price Is Right," and Sean and Stacy spent 25 hours planning the various components of the game and gathering supplies and prizes. They spent 30 hours preparing for the Halloween party that took place only two weeks later.

The program is carefully documented. An evaluation sheet for every event includes the type of activity, items needed such as decorations, prizes, game supplies and food, names of children attending, amount of preparation time and comments. Copies of receipts are also attached to the evaluation sheet, and the evaluations are sent to the Youth Development committee every quarter where they are reviewed before being sent on to the State Department.

Sean is currently working as a carpet layer with his father-in-law, and Stacy is employed by the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce. The couple's daughter, Michaela, will be two years old on January 30. Sean is the son of Jerame and Donna Myhrer, and Stacy's parents are Tom and Sandy Ratliff. The couple's parents often watch Michaela while Sean and Stacy are volunteering their time to benefit other St. Hilaire youth. The Myhrers and Ratliffs have helped out in other ways, too — picking up supplies or filling in for grandparents unable to attend an activity that includes them.

Sean and Stacy remain very enthusiastic for what they are doing, and they will continue to strive for more family and community involvement as they work to provide recreational opportunities for the youth of St. Hilaire — the kids in their home town.

Grain marketing clubs to organize in western Minn.

Minnesota Wheat Research and Promotion Council has scheduled a series of meetings in western Minnesota to organize grain marketing club. The meetings are in response to strong producer response at earlier marketing seminars.

Agenda for the meetings will include introduction of attendees and the club leader (a farm business management instructor); discussion of club expectations; establishment of a regular meeting time and place; introduction to charts and charting; discussion of current market indicators and situations; and a question and answer period.

Area meeting schedule includes sessions January 21 at Northland Inn of Crookston; January 25 at the community center in Badger; January 27 in the courthouse extension meeting room in Hallock; and January 28 at LaFond's Restaurant in Warren. All of the sessions are from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. Other meetings are in Ada, Fergus Falls, Rothsay (tentative) and Elbow Lake.

Producers interested in participating in a marketing club but unable to attend one of the meetings mentioned are encouraged to contact the MWRPC at 1-800-242-6118 for dates and locations of future meetings.

357,000 pesticide containers are recycled

Through the empty pesticide container collection and recycling program operated by the Minnesota Department of Agriculture, 357,000 containers equaling 128 tons of plastic were recycled during 1998. Since the program began in 1990, 675 tons of plastic pesticide containers have been recycled.

The 1998 collection results represent a 10 percent decline in recycled containers from the previous year.

"The decline can be attributed to growers taking advantage of alternative forms of packaging such as mini bulk containers, which reduces the number of two and one-half gallon containers used," states Minnesota Department of Agriculture Commissioner Gene Hugoson.

Recycling empty pesticide containers saves landfill space. If the containers collected in 1998 were piled on the floor of the metrodome, they would cover the football field to a depth of six feet, Hugoson said.

Swift county led all counties—as it has for several years—by recycling 15,400 containers. Other major collections were: Renville county, 13,530; Grant county, 11,500; McLeod county, 11,000; Otter Tail county, 10,648; Martin, Stevens and Watonwan counties, 10,000 each.

Hugoson said the empty pesticide container collection program will continue in 1999. It is open to all farmers, pesticide users and businesses. For more information contact Steven Poncin, Minnesota Department of Agriculture, 90 West Plato Blvd., St. Paul, MN 55107 or call 651-296-5136.

The Painkiller Trio

You're in pain, and you're looking for relief. But three pain relievers are staring at you from the shelf—aspirin, acetaminophen and ibuprofen. Which one do you use? Sometimes the choice isn't easy. Each one has its pluses and minuses. Here are a few points to consider on each:

- Aspirin: Relieves moderate pain, reduces fever and acts as an anti-inflammatory. Can cause stomach upset, inhibits blood clotting and may cause severe allergic reactions.
- Acetaminophen: Relieves pain and reduces fever. Does not reduce inflammation. Causes less stomach irritation than aspirin or ibuprofen. (Safe alternative for those who cannot take aspirin.)
- Ibuprofen: Relieves slightly greater pain than aspirin or acetaminophen. Higher doses used as directed provide anti-inflammatory action. Causes less stomach irritation than aspirin but more than acetaminophen.

Safe driving stressed during snowmobiling season in Minnesota

Snowmobiling can be a fun and exciting way to spend a winter's day in Minnesota. The sport can also be very dangerous when basic safety rules are ignored, say Department of Natural Resources conservation officers. Last season there were 19 snowmobile-related fatalities in Minnesota. Snowmobilers can reduce accidents and fatalities by following a few safety rules.

"Drive safely and drive smart when operating a snowmobile," said Leo Haseman, DNR Enforcement Division chief. "Drivers should always be aware of potential hazards and use good judgement."

Those new to the sport, youth age 12 through 17, or those born after Dec. 31, 1979, are advised to take the Minnesota Snowmobile Safety Training Course. Classes are offered throughout the state by volunteer instructors who have been certified by the DNR Enforcement Division. Participants completing the course receive a snowmobile safety certificate. Call 1-888-MINNDNR to find a class in your area.

In addition to snowmobile safety training requirements, snowmobilers should follow these safety tips:

• Don't drink. Drinking and driving can be fatal. Drinking alcohol before or during snowmobiling can impair judgement and slow reaction time. Snowmobilers who have been drinking may drive too fast or race across unsafe ice. Alcohol also causes body temperature to drop at an accelerated rate, which increases the likelihood of hypothermia.

• Slow down. Speed is a contributing factor in nearly all fatal snowmobiling accidents. Drivers should proceed at a pace that will allow ample reaction time for any situation. Remember, when driving at night a speed of only 40 miles an hour may result in "over driving" the reach of the snowmobile's headlight.

• Be prepared. When traveling, make sure to bring a first aid kit, a flashlight, waterproof matches and a compass.

• Stay alert. Fatigue can reduce a driver's coordination and judgement.

• Ice advice. Avoid traveling across bodies of water when uncertain of ice thickness and strength of ice on lakes and ponds. Snow cover can act as a blanket and prevent safe ice from forming. Never travel in a single file when crossing bodies of water.

• Dress for success. Use a full-size helmet, goggles or face shield to prevent injuries from twigs, stones, ice and flying debris. Clothing should be warm in layers and should fit just snug enough so that no loose ends catch in the machine.

• Watch the weather. Rapid weather changes can produce dangerous conditions.

• Bring a buddy. Never travel alone. Most snowmobile accidents result in some personal injury. The most dangerous situations can occur if a person is injured and alone. If you must travel alone, tell someone your destination, planned route, and when you will return.

• Report accidents. The operator of a snowmobile involved in an accident resulting in medical attention, hospitalization, death, or damage exceeding $500 must file a written report with the DNR. If the operator is killed or is unable to file a report due to incapacitation, any peace officer investigating the accident can file the accident report within 10 business days.

Deadwood race produces shootout

The inaugural appearance of WSA's Snocross World Wide International Championship in this legendary Wild West town produced a shootout of appropriate proportions at the aptly named Deadwood, SD, Snocross Shootout. Round four of the championship chase proved a weekend of rejuvenation for two former champions, and the continuation of title form for three others.

The challenging track at the Deer Mountain Ski Resort in the Black Hills had great elevation changes, breathtaking vistas and heart pumping action. In Saturday's Pro 600 final, Connecticut's Chris Vincent broke a winless streak of over one and one-half years with a dominant run. Still adjusting to his new sleds, Vincent nonetheless broke to the front early and set a pace no one could match. In celebration of the long overdue win, Vincent nailed a major heel-clicker for the fans over the finish line double. Toni Haikonen tweaked an ankle when he suffered a huge off in the fast downhill section in qualifying, and still fought to a second place finish, while Vincent's teammate Tim Maki came home third.

In another major and far less pleasant development, rising superstar Noel Kohanski suffered a fluke knee injury, ending a season off to a brilliant start. On the positive side, following an eight-to-ten week rehabilitation, doctors say the prognosis for a full, 100 percent recovery is excellent.

In the Pro 440 final, Blair Morgan's start had him back in the top five as the pack arrived at the tight hairpin turn at the top of the mountain. After a number of sleds banged and bounced, he scraped his way into a lead he wouldn't lose, and gradually built his margin. After getting stuck behind a couple of sleds early, Vincent made it into second and started to chip away at Morgan's advantage and closed it up near the end until Morgan put in one last burst to put it away. Again, Maki finished third.

In one of the most exciting races the series has seen, Idaho's Nathan Titus got the winless-streak monkey off his back as well with a thoroughly dominant display in Pro Open. Titus has said the speed has been there all year and he only needed some luck, and he went easily undefeated in qualifying. Then, he got a solid start in the final, quickly went to the front and simply overpowered the field. Titus' teammate Carl Schubitzke stayed in touch, then was passed by Vincent who also could keep up. Finally, the amazing Toni Haikonen took up the chase. After enduring another painful qualifying crash and a throttle hand badly hurt at round two, Haikonen eventually battled into second, but had nothing for the flying Titus. Morgan rebounded from a poor start to claim third.

Gabby Rivard went back to the front of the pack in the Pro Women's division with another strong win, and Kirk Hibbert won the ongoing duel he's been waging all season with TJ Montgomery for Pro Vet honors. Johnny Mold, who's been brilliant in qualifying this year but couldn't seem to buy a break in the finals kept the "breakthrough" theme alive with two sterling victories in Semi-Pro 440 and 600.

Next up for the World Snowmobile Association is the ESPN Winter X Games invitational in Crested Butte, CO, January 14-17, 1999.

SNOWMOBILING

Snowmobile trail program effective resource

In a Review Draft of the State Comprehensive Outdoor Recreation Plan (SCORP), an outline of recreation issues and strategies developed by the DNR's Office of Planning compiled to guide the agency's planning for the rest of the 1990s issued on October 15, 1993, the snowmobiling grant-in-aid system in Minnesota was described as a program that has proven itself to be effective in meeting recreational needs in a time when funding sources for recreation are very nearly in crisis. The report suggests the dynamics of the grant-in-aid system should be assessed and its strengths applied to other recreational programs in Minnesota.

Snowmobiling is Self-Funded.

The snowmobile trail program spoke of so highly in the SCORP report is a self-funded system that operates on monies derived solely from snowmobile registration-based revenue plus uncounted thousands of volunteer hours on the part of snowmobile club members throughout the state.

No funds from the state's general fund will be used to support this program in 1997 yet, as the SCORP report pointed out, it has become a model of effectiveness in providing recreational opportunity in Minnesota."

It is a tribute to the organizational skills and willingness of this large group of Minnesotans to volunteer their time to create a resource for all to enjoy that the grant-in-aid trail program exists at all. The fact that natural resources planning professionals recognize the potential of this kind of recreational resources program to enhance other recreation opportunities in Minnesota underlines the value of the snowmobiling program in the state.

A Large and Important System of Trails.

Since snowmobiling emerged as a family outdoor activity in the late 1960s, over 18,000 miles of trails in Minnesota on public and private land have been created and made available each winter for snowmobiling. Approximately, 255,000 snowmobiles are registered in the state, the largest number of all the snowmobiling states, and snowmobiling is the primary winter recreation for about 120,000 Minnesota families each year.

In addition to providing a snowmobiling resource, the funding methods developed by the snowmobiling community have had a major hand in creating hundreds of miles of multiple use trails - trails used year round by other users such as equestrians, bicyclists, hikers and OHV riders. This effective trails creation during the past two decades has made Minnesota number two among states in terms of total trails and trail users, behind Michigan but ahead of more populous California, according to criteria established by the recently-enacted federal Recreational Trails Fund Act.

The Volunteer Effort.

Each winter, snowmobile club volunteers go out to clean up and mark their trails for the season. Fallen trees and branches are cleared, signs fixed up and replaced, routes changed to reflect local and use changes, and so on. Also during the winter pre-season, many clubs are involved in fund-raising activities aimed at helping finance the winter trail maintenance program. Because modern grooming equipment can cost upwards of $75,000, many clubs and "trail associations" need to supplement the basic grant-in-aid payments to make an effective maintenance program work financially.

As the trail network has developed and the snowmobiling population has grown in Minnesota and surrounding states, snowmobiling has become a major component of winter season quality of life and an economic force as a component of the state's tourism industry.

Today, organized snowmobiling faces the challenge of providing this resource in the face of ever-rising costs and an ever-growing user base. As a result, MnUSA is looking hard at ways to better partner with government to keep this volunteer-driving state asset going strong.

Non-resident snowmobile trail stickers are required on designated state trails

In order to legally use Minnesota snowmobile trails, out-of-state snowmobilers operating snowmobiles not registered with the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources need to purchase a $16 trail sticker.

The non-resident sticker must be displayed directly above or below the snowmobile's headlight. The sticker represents payment of a user fee and does not serve as a snowmobile registration. Non-resident trail user fees are credited to the snowmobile trails and enforcement account.

The out-of-state user fee is only required of snowmobile operators who are using designated state and/or grant-in-aid snowmobile trails. Snowmobilers riding on frozen waters, private land or in other authorized use areas, but not on state trails, are not required to purchase the permit.

Out-of-state trail stickers are being distributed through county auditors to game and fish licensing agents.

All snowmobilers should bear in mind that if their snowmobile is equipped with metal traction devices, commonly known as studs, they are required to pay a $51 user fee in addition to any other required fee or registration. The fee is required for operation of studded snowmobiles anywhere in the state. Even with the $51 permit, studded snowmobiles may not be operated on any paved trail within the state of Minnesota.

For more information, contact the DNR License Bureau registration section toll free at 1-800-285-2000 in Minnesota.

Youth riding law in effect

A new law requiring persons age 20 and under to complete a snowmobile safety training course went into effect October 1, meaning this winter young people will no longer be able to ride snowmobiles simply with the possession of a driver's license as the previous statute allowed.

According to the statute, "Effective October 1, 1998, any resident born after December 31, 1979, who operates a snowmobile in Minnesota, must possess a valid snowmobile safety certificate or a driver's license or identification card with a valid snowmobile qualification indicator issued under section 171.07 subdivision 12. The certificate or qualification indicator may only be issued upon successful completion of the course authorized under section 84.86."

Snowmobile Task Force will be used by Minnesota DNR

Snowmobilers can look forward to aggressive patrols by the Department of Natural Resources Snowmobile Task Force this winter.

The Snowmobile Task Force, comprised of experienced conservation officers, begins work after the first major snowfall and remains active until the season ends. Conservation officers throughout Minnesota can request that the Task Force be positioned in areas where increased law enforcement may act as a deterrent.

"I'd say snowmobilers are pretty conscientious, but like any user group, there's that one to two percent that are reckless," said DNR Enforcement Chief Leo Haseman. "The Snowmobile Task Force will concentrate on careless operation, excessive speed and alcohol-related violations. Rogue snowmobilers will not be tolerated."

Conscientious snowmobilers follow a code of ethics that calls for, among other things, respecting private property, not interfering with other recreationalists, not consuming alcohol while riding, and not harassing wildlife.

Minnesota registered more than 300,000 snowmobiles in 1997, making it among the biggest snowmobile states in the nation. The state has 18,000 miles of trails actively patrolled by conservation officers. Any person born after Dec. 31, 1979 must possess a Snowmobile Safety Certificate before lawfully operating a snowmobile. Classes are offered throughout the state by volunteer instructors who have been certified by the DNR Division of Enforcement.

Profiles of fatal snowmobile accidents show that more than 90 percent of victims are males, generally between 20 and 40 years old. Typical accidents involve a single snowmobile wrecking on the shoulder of a trail or a road. More than half the deaths involve alcohol use.

"With the power of these things and the speed they go, they're just as dangerous as a car, but you don't have the protection around you," said Snowmobile Task Force member Sgt. Julie Olson. "That's why it's imperative for anyone on a snowmobile to be aware of his or her limitations and the terrain and conditions, and ride with care and caution."

In response to the growing popularity of snowmobiles, the DNR Snowmobile Task Force will concentrate on new and traditional problem areas identified by various law enforcement agencies. Snowmobile enthusiasts can also expect the Snowmobile Task Force to use every means available to ensure a safe snowmobile season.

"We had incredible success using our Aviation Unit to enforce personal watercraft rules this past boating season," said chief pilot Cpt. Jerry Engelbrecht. "Snowmobilers can expect the same."

Spuds handle Prowlers 74-48

■ Unbeaten Moorhead boys beat Thief River Falls

Thief River Falls knew what to do but couldn't do it. Not against the No. 5¢-raned Class 4A boys high school basketball team in the state. Moorhead's board strength and breakaway style of play carried the Spuds to a 78-48 Tuesday win over the host Prowlers.

"We talked in before the game how rebounding and stopping their transition game were the keys," explained Thief River Falls coach Bob Johnson. "We didn't do a very good job doing either one. I was disappointed in our defensive effort, and in our rebounding."

Eight offensive rebounds were part of a 21-9 Moorhead advantage on the boards as the Spuds built a 39-20 first half lead. They also made the Prowlers pay for nearly every mistake, scoring points off eight of the nine Thief River Falls turnovers in the first 16 minutes.

The turnover-to-points thing started immediately. The Prowlers mishandled the ball on their first three possession, and the Spuds followed each mistake with a basket, including a 3-point shot by Tony Birmingham, to open the contest with a 7-0 lead.

Thief River Falls made a game of it briefly by chopping the difference to 13-11 on a 3-point basket by Justin Skjerven with one minute left in the first quarter.

But Moorhead then took charge with a 19-0 run that made it 32-11 following a turnover-produced fast break lay-up by Doug Schellhase with 3:38 to play in the half.

A 5:22 Thief River Falls scoreless streak finally ended on a Matt Myers tip-in 3:24 before intermission.

"The second quarter hurt us, without question," acknowledged Johnson.

Thief River Falls did put together a competitive second half of basketball by feeding the 6-8 Myers a steady diet of lobs under the basket that produced 16 of his team-high 20 points over the final two quarters. It was 56-34 at the last of the quarter stops, and to the Prowlers' credit, all five Moorhead starters were still on the court midway through the final period.

Birmingham, a 6-3 junior, led all scorers with 24 points, while Schellhase, a 6-5 senior, netted 15 and Garrett Johnson, a 5-8 junior, had 12.

Moorhead was 28-for-61 from the field (46 percent) and a busy 18-for-34 at the free throw line. Thief River Falls went 20-for-48 from the floor (42 percent) and 6-for-11 at the line. The Spuds finished with a 35-20 rebound edge over the Prowlers, who topped the turnover charts 21-14.

The win pushed the Spuds to 9-0, allowing them to keep pace with the Moorhead girls who are 12-0 and ranked No. 1 in Class 4A. The Moorhead girls will be in Thief River Falls for the Prowlers' regular season finale Feb. 20.

Moorhead defenders Sven Grosan (right) and Doug Schellhase tried to keep Thief River Falls center Matt Myers away from the basket during Tuesday's high school basketball game in the Lincoln gym. Myers scored 20 points, but the Spuds beat the Prowlers 78-48.

Warroad picks up second 3-2 win over TRF

Warroad bunched three goals into a two-minute span late in the first period Tuesday, then held on for a 3-2 Section 8A high school hockey win over Thief River Falls.

It was the second meeting of the year between the two long-time rivals, and the second 3-2 win by the state's No. 1-ranked team in Class A.

"We were all right," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland. "We were decent, but we've got to get better. Take away two minutes – the last two minutes of the first period – and we win the game."

The visiting Prowlers opened the scoring with a goal by Dustin Melby at 3:16, and that 1-0 edge stood up until Warroad's Justin Skogman scored at 12:52. Aaron Pederson then got the tie-breaker and eventual game-winner at 13:32 and 14:53.

"Three mental mistakes by our defensemen," was the way Bergland described the action setting up the Warroad goals.

Thief River Falls answered with a goal by Wade Chiodo just 29 seconds into the second period, but had to fight through Warroad's clutch-and-grab style of hockey the rest of the night in an unsuccessful attempt to pick up the equalizer.

It was the third one-goal loss of the year, to go along with three ties, for the 4-6-3 Prowlers. They host East Grand Forks Tuesday.

TRF girls lose to Detroit Lakes

Thief River Falls girls ended the 1998 portion of their 1998-99 high school basketball season with three straight wins and a championship at the Northland Community and Technical College Invitational. The Prowlers have started the New Year in opposite fashion, losing three straight games, all by wide margins. Latest setback came Tuesday in a 69-47 contest at Detroit Lakes.

"Things did not go real well," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "I was disappointed. I didn't think we played with much intensity. We played intimidated."

Detroit Lakes started the game with an 11-0 run and led at the quarter stops 11-4, 31-19 and 54-33.

Thief River Falls was 20-for-53 from the field (38 percent) and 7-for-10 at the free throw line. Detroit Lakes went 24-for-60 from the floor (40 percent) and 18-for-27 at the line. The Lakers had a 36-22 rebound advantage. The Prowlers had more turnovers, 30-14.

After being held to less than 30 points in consecutive losses to Roseau and Bemidji, the Prowlers' offensive production did provide a bit of optimism. "We did score better," noted Loe. "We put some points on the board. That was a plus."

Jessica Abrahams and Lisa Eidenschink provided the Lakers with a 1-2 scoring punch by netting 18 and 17 points, respectively. The Prowlers' only double figure production came from Sara Jensen with 10 points.

It was the second North Sub-Section 8AAA loss of the year for the 6-6 Prowlers at the hands of the Lakers, who won a Dec. 11 contest in Thief River Falls 45-44.

NCTC losing streak is now at 30 games

University of North Dakota-Lake Region beat Northland Community and Technical College 81-57 Tuesday in a men's basketball game played at Devils Lake.

The Royals jumped out to a 32-8 lead and were never threatened. The Pioneers finished the first half with a 14-2 run, making it 34-22, but couldn't put together a second half comeback.

"We just didn't play well," reported Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "We didn't shoot well early, and we turned it over."

Dwight Goodwin of Northland and Rich Hanks of Lake Region shared game-high scoring honors with 23 points each.

Northland was still without starting center Matt Moen, injured in the Pioneers' Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division opener last Friday against Mesabi.

Both teams put up 65 shots, but the Royals made 32 of them (49 percent) while the Pioneers hit just 22 (34 percent). Northland was 5-for-7 at the free throw line, where Lake Region struggled through a 4-for-14 night. The Royals finished with a 38-21 rebound advantage over the Pioneers, who topped the turnover charts 26-17.

The loss dropped Northland to 0-11. The Pioneers, 1-20 last year under Ted Krize, have lost 30 straight games.

B/G-MR boys beat Marshall County Central...

Gators' start nets 68-58 win

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River carried a 10-0 start to the final horn Tuesday, finishing with a 68-58 boys high school basketball win over rival Marshall County Central.

The Nordics came into the game with back-to-back wins under their belt and the Gators had lost three straight. But just two minutes into the contest, the final spread was already established.

It was 18-8 at the end of the first quarter, 33-23 at halftime and 44-35 through three quarters. The Gators never trailed. After the quick start they led by margins ranging from 4 to 20 points the rest of the way.

"It was a game of streaks," noted Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "We didn't have much intensity, and they (Gators) did a good job taking away things that we do."

All five Badger/Greenbush-Middle River starters scored in double figures, led by Derek Fugleberg with 16 points, a figure matched by the Nordics' Kyle Muetzel.

"It was our best outing of the year," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "Played with some intensity from all positions, something we haven't had this year. We got off to a good start, and the kids played with some confidence after that."

Shooting percentages were high on sides, with the Gators hitting 27 of 47 shots (57 percent) and the Nordics knocking down 23 of 45 (51 percent). Both teams had a 50 percent night at the free throw line, where Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was 10-for-20 and Marshall County Central was a similar 11-for-22.

A change for the Gators found them speeding things up, both offensively and defensively, according to Sparby. "We went to a more up-tempo style with the fast break and press," he explained. "It's something we've done in the past only out of necessity. It worked to our benefit. It was fun coaching again."

The Gators finished with a 31-20 rebound advantage over the Nordics, who topped the turnover figures 27-19.

Results put Badger/Greenbush-Middle River at 3-6 and left Marshall County Central 5-7.

Wildcats' shooters blitz Huskies 73-60

Goodridge defense, one of team's strengths this winter, fell victim to Tri-County shooting Tuesday as the visiting Wildcats rolled to a 73-60 boys high school basketball win.

Aaron Olson scored 19 of his game-high 23 points in the first half as Tri-County raced to a 21-11 first quarter lead and a 42-22 halftime cushion.

"We played what I felt was pretty good defense in the first half," said Goodridge coach Eric Mickelson. "I've been happy all year with our defense – until the first half, that is. We played on our heels. We spotted them 20 points, and that's too many to come back."

Tri-County shot 61 percent from the field (28/46) and made 16 of 28 free throws. Goodridge also shot well with a 52 percent 25-for-48 performance from the floor and an 8-for-12 free throw night.

Kyle Kuznia was right behind Olson in the Tri-County scoring spree with 20 points. Travis Scheel netted 16 points and Chancey Halvorson had 15 for the Huskies, who did cut the Wildcats' lead to 51-41 by the end of the third quarter.

The Huskies out-rebounded the Wildcats 28-17, but also had more turnovers, 17-12, in falling to 3-6 for the year.

Rebounds key 60-54 MCC girls basketball win over Wolverines

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke led most of the game, but when it counted – at the final horn – Marshall County Central was on top as the Nordics beat the Wolverines 60-54 in a Monday girls high school basketball game played at Goodridge.

It was the third meeting of the year between the two. Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke opened the season with a 67-65 overtime victory, but Marshall County Central came back with a 54-49 win in a Northland Community and Technical College Invitational match-up.

The Wolverines started the third encounter with a 13-10 first quarter lead and had a 28-25 halftime edge. The Nordics were ahead 41-40 at the close of the third quarter.

Kristi Kilen scored 15 points and Tera Davidson had 14 for the winners. Angie Gast netted 19 points and Dana Wiseth scored 16 for the Wolverines.

Marshall County Central was 25-for-58 from the field (43 percent) and a not-so-sharp 10-for-27 at the free throw line. Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke went 21-for-54 from the floor (39 percent) and made 12 of 19 free throws. The Nordics had a 32-28 rebound edge.

"They beat us on the offensive boards," pointed out Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach Mike Gast. "We gave up 17 offensive rebounds. That really hurt. They would miss free throws, but grab the rebound."

The win was the result of hard work, explained Marshall County Central coach Alice Dahl. "I thought everyone who went in played hard, and played well," she said. "They never gave up. They kept working harder and harder."

Warroad rebounds beat Eagles

Warroad's work on the offensive boards in the first half paved the way for a 60-55 boys high school basketball win over host Grygla-Gatzke.

The winners jumped out to an 18-11 first quarter lead, maintained a 36-22 halftime spread and carried a 48-43 edge into the final quarter.

Grygla-Gatzke caught Warroad at 52-52 with two minutes left, but the Eagles turned it over without getting off a shot on their next two possessions to curtail the comeback.

"The first half boards killed us," pointed out Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "We gave up too many offensive rebounds in the first half. They out-worked us for the rebounds."

Disappointed in the Eagles' first half performance, Johnson found reason to smile with his team's second half play. "We got off to a little bit of a slow start," he explained. "It was an uphill battle all the way. But the kids never quit. They gave a good effort. We were able to pull even, but it takes a lot of energy coming from behind like that and we just didn't have enough left to finish it."

Gavin Nordby of Grygla-Gatzke and Mike Peterson of Warroad shared game-high scoring honors with 12 points each.

Grygla-Gatzke was 20-for-47 from the field (43 percent) and 12-for-19 at the free throw line. Warroad went 22-for-60 from the floor (37 percent) and 14-for-25 at the line. Warroad wound up with a 30-23 rebound advantage, getting 10 of them on the offensive boards. The Eagles had more turnovers, 15-11.

Mustangs hold on, defeat Wolverines

Red Lake County Central, after leading by as many as 16 points in the first half, held on at the end to beat Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke 61-56 Tuesday in girls high school basketball at Oklee.

The Wolverines scored the first four points, but never had a lead after that. The Mustangs led at the quarter stops 12-7, 28-19 and 44-38.

"We had the early lead, but we didn't play very well the rest of the half," reported Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach Mike Gast. "But they didn't die. We played pretty good ball in the second half. We played awfully hard in the second half."

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke sliced the difference to three points in the final minute of play, but Red Lake County Central iced it on a Heather Schiefert free throw with 11 seconds left.

"We played a fairly decent first quarter," said Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto. "We executed our offense and played pretty good defense. But we were just hanging on at the end. They (Wolverines) did play a good second half."

Schiefert scored 17 points, Sylvia Hilgeman 11 and Tracy Rosten 10 for the Mustangs. Dana Wiseth picked up 18 of her game-high 22 points in the second half for the Wolverines, who also got an 18-point, 11-rebound game from Angie Gast and 10 points out of Natalee Holte.

Red Lake County Central was 23-for-50 from the field (46 percent) and 14-for-21 at the free throw line. Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke went 21-for-54 from the floor (39 percent) and 9-for-13 at the line. The Wolverines finished with a 35-33 rebound edge. The Mustangs had more turnovers, 18-13.

TRF wins rematch with Pirates 60-49

It it was a mark of progress, then the Thief River Falls boys high school basketball team has come a long ways this winter, despite a 3-8 record. The Prowlers, who opened the 1998-99 season with an one-sided 78-35 loss at Crookston Dec. 3, won the rematch Thursday, 60-49 in the Lincoln gym.

Senior center Matt Myers scored 24 points and sophomore guard Brian Loe had 10 for the Prowlers, who began the game with a 7-0 lead, but trailed 17-11 at the first quarter break. The Pirates, who put together a 21-2 scoring run, were up 33-26 at halftime. However, Thief River Falls out-scored Crookston 34-16 in the second half for the win. Ahead 43-42 at the close of the third quarter, the Prowlers iced it with 10-for-13 free throw shooting over the final eight minutes. They were 14-for-21 at the line for the night.

"Except for a short lapse, we played well," said Thief River Falls coach Bob Johnson. "We started out of the box well, then we had some trouble. But the third and fourth quarters was our strongest defensive effort we've had in my two years here. It was a tremendous effort on the part of our kids."

Johnson gave senior guard Darin Bjerknes much of the credit for the Prowlers' offense-stifling play. "Darin came off the bench and sparked our defense," he said. "He really worked hard and got us going.

Myers, meanwhile, was the offensive standout. "Matt really stepped it up," said Johnson. "They (Pirates) were really frustrated. No matter who was in there, they couldn't stop him. It was a great effort by the rest of our kids to get him the ball at the right times."

Leading Crookston scorer JJ Scheving picked up all 11 of his points in the first half. Elliot Erdmann and Brian Axness both netted 10. The Pirates' 7-for-10 free throw night included an 0-for-1 second half.

Crookston is 6-6.

"It was a great team effort," added Johnson. "Everybody contributed. The kids knew we played poorly at Crookston, and they wanted to show they were a better basketball team than that."

Ben Myers scored 15 points, John Sjoberg 10, Seth Harlow 10 and Zach Bosh 9 for the winners, who trailed 12-10 and 28-26 at the first two quarter stops, but led 46-41 at the end of the third quarter.

Nordics rally to top Lake of the Woods

Marshall County Central came from behind to beat Lake of the Woods 53-52 Thursday in girls high school basketball at Newfolden.

A free throw by Kristi Kilen with 16.4 seconds on the clock broke a tie, but the Nordics couldn't claim victory until they controlled a rebound on a Lake of the Woods miss with 5.3 seconds to play.

It was the second win of the week for the Nordics, boosting their season record to 4-7.

"We didn't have a very good first quarter, but we played well in the second, third and fourth quarters," said Marshall County Central coach Alice Dahl.

The Bears doubled the Nordics 18-9 in the first quarter, had a 29-25 halftime edge and maintained a 41-37 spread at the end of the third quarter.

"We fell behind 18-4 at the start, but slowly came back," noted Dahl. "We made some key free throws at the end."

A halftime switch by the Nordics that changed their press prompted the Bears to commit 15 of their 25 turnovers in the second half.

Kilen scored 13 points and Tera Davidson 12 to lead the Nordics' balanced attack that also included Mandi Blawat and Tiffany Bring with 8 points each. The Bears were led by Heather Hanson with 20 points.

Marshall County Central was 18-for-41 from the field (44 percent) and a busy 16-for-26 at the free throw line. Lake of the Woods went 22-for-42 from the floor (52 percent) and 7-for-11 at the line. The Nordics out-rebounded the Bears 29-20. The winners wound up with 22 turnovers.

Defense carried the Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke girls to a 48-35 Thursday high school basketball win over Warroad.

The Wolverines trailed 10-7 at the end of the first quarter, but went ahead 21-12 at halftime, maintained a 30-21 third quarter spread, then pulled away down the stretch.

"We played all right," said Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach Mike Gast. "I saw some good things. We had a slow first quarter, but then we did okay. We played good defense."

Angie Gast had a 16-point, 8-rebound game, while Kathryn Stanley scored 12 points and grabbed 9 rebounds for the winners, who wound up with a small bench due to fouls and injuries. Holly Pahlen led Warroad with 14 points.

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke went 18-for-47 from the field (38 percent) and 10-for-14 at the free throw line. Warroad was 16-for-48 from the floor (33 percent) and 2-for-6 at the line. The Wolverines, who improved to 5-7, finished with a 32-26 rebound advantage.

RLCC falls to Fosston

A normally effective Red River County Central press couldn't contain speedy Fosston eighth grade guard Kelly Roysland Thursday, and as a result the Mustangs lost a 57-44 girls high school basketball game to the host Greyhounds.

"Roysland is really quick," noted Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto. "She beat the press and gave them some 2-on-1 breaks."

Fosston led at the quarter stops 14-10, 29-22 and 43-33.

"It was a lackadaisical performance on our part," said Koivisto. "We couldn't get anything going."

Amy Christen scored 14 points and Roysland had 13 for the Greyhounds. Tracy Rosten scored a game-high 16 points for the Mustangs. Sylvia Hilgeman chipped in 10.

Red Lake County Central shot just 36 percent from the field (16/45). "We missed a lot of easy shots in the first half," mentioned Koivisto. His team also struggled at the free throw line with a 10-for-20 showing. Fosston shot 48 percent from the floor (20/42) and went 14-for-26 at the line. The Mustangs finished with a 27-23 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 17-13 in falling to 8-4 for the year.

Fourtown/Grygla Sportsman Club meeting is set Tuesday

Fourtown/Grygla Sportsman Club monthly meeting will be held Tuesday, Jan. 19, at 7:30 p.m. at The Club in Thief River Falls.

Grygla-Gatzke beaten by 72-54 Thursday vs. Warren-Alvarado-Oslo

Warren-Alvarado-Oslo used its new up-tempo style of play to beat visiting Grygla-Gatzke 72-54 Thursday in boys high school basketball.

The Ponies jumped out to a 26-14 first quarter lead and never looked back. They were up 41-27 at halftime and led 57-36 after three quarters.

"They (Ponies) got off to a quick start on us," said Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "The pace of the game didn't help us. They're a good ball club."

Four Warren-Alvarado-Oslo scorers hit double figures, led by Jerod Steer with 15 points. That figure was matched by the Eagles' Barry Olson.

Warren-Alvarado-Oslo was 30-for-62 from the field (48 percent) and 7-for-13 at the free throw line. Grygla-Gatzke went 23-for-49 from the floor (47 percent) and 6-for-9 at the line. The Ponies finished with a 27-18 rebound advantage and the Eagles had more turnovers, 19-13.

"I didn't think we played that bad," said Johnson. "We gave up too many offensive rebounds, and we turned it over a few times, but I was happy with the effort."

The Eagles are 3-7.

Rodney Erickson found guilty of two charges

Rodney Lee Erickson, 49, Warren, was found guilty by a St. Louis County jury Wednesday of indecent exposure and disorderly conduct. A pre-sentence investigation was ordered by Sixth District Judge Carol Person.

The charges against Erickson stem from an incident February 26, 1998 at the Edgewater East Best Western. It was alleged by the Duluth police department that while at the motel Erickson exposed himself to other guests at the motel. The former sales and marketing instructor at Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) was acting as a chaperone for five NCTC students participating in a Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) competition in Duluth.

A jury trial was held in the matter. The trial was concluded on Wednesday at 2:51 p.m. and the jury returned its verdict at 5:38 p.m.

A pre-sentence investigation must take place prior to sentencing. Both charges are misdemeanors.

Plummer Recreation Center was the recipient of memorials for Clara Halley who died in December of 199B. The John Halley family thought it would be appropriate to donate the memorials to the Plummer School District, owner of the recreation center, in consideration of Clara's love for youngsters and endless time working with youth. Shown with recreation board president Gary Brantl (right) and the plaque placed in Clara's memory in the recreation center by tho school district are Halley family mambers Mary, Karmit, John Sr. and Barb. "It's great to receive a gift of this nature," Supt. Richard Lorenson said, "especially a gift that keeps on giving."

Hearings set on animal feedlot rules

Three meetings are being scheduled by the Minnesota Environmental Quality board to receive comment about proposals to udopt rules regarding animal feedlots and mandatory environmental assessment worksheets and exemption requirements for animal feedluts.

The three public hearings will be held at the following times and places: Thursday, January 21, 1999, in room 301, Centennial Bldg., 658 Cedar Street, St Paul, MN, commencing at 9 a.m. and continuing until all testimony has been received; Monday, January 25, 1999, in Conference Center A of the John Votku Conference Center, South Central Technical College, 1920 Lee Boulevard, North Mankato, MN, two sessions — 1:30 p.m. until 4:30 p.m. and from 7 p.m. until all testimony has been received; and, Tuesday, January 26, 1999, in Edson Auditorium of the Student Center, University of Minnesota, 600 East Fourth Street, Morris, MN, two sessions at 1:30 p.m. until 4:30 p.m. and from 7 p.m. until all testimony has been received.

Subject of rules. The proposed rule amendment includes three main parts: (1) it would eliminate the requirement that certain multisite animal feedlots be treated as 'connected actions;' (2) it would lower the size thresholds at which new feedlots and expansions require preparation of Environmental Assessment Worksheets; and (3) it would change the exemption category for feedlots, to exempt certain feedlot projects that are not now exempted from the program.

Eliminating the application of 'connected actions' provisions to animal feedlots' would mean that the number of animal units at the various sites of multi-site feedlot proposals would no longer be aggregated because they are 'connected actions' when determining if an Environmental Assessment Worksheet (EAW) is mandatory. The size thresholds (measured in 'animal units' at which animal feedlot projects automatically require preparation of an EAW, which is now 2,000 animal units for total confinement feedlot facilities, is proposed to be lowered to 1,000 animal units, except that in certain locations with a heightened potential for water pollution it is proposed that any new feedlot or feedlot expansion be required to prepare an EAW. The threshold below which a new feedlot project would be exempt from the program is proposed to be raised from 100 to 300 animal units and the modification of an existing feedlot without any expansion of its capacity is proposed to also be exempted provided the feedlot is no larger than 300 animal units.

Contact person. The agency contact person is Gregg Downing at Environmental Quality Board, 300 Centennial Building, 658 Cedar Street, St. Paul, MN 55155, telephone 651-205-4660, fax 651-296-3698.

Public comment. Public comment may be presented either orally at the hearings or in writing at any time before the close of the hearing record. All evidence presented should relate to the proposed rule amendments. Written comment may also be submitted in the hearing record five working days after the public hearing ends.

TRF receives grant to promote airline service

Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT), office of aeronautics has announced that the City of Thief River Falls has been awarded a grant to promote their local air service. The grant totaling $19,836, and matched by the city under a 60/40 grant program, will assist the city with the goal of increasing ridership. This helps ensure the continuation and improvement of air service to Thief River Falls. Funds for this grant come from aviation taxes and aviation user fees.

Lyle Mehrkens, manager of the air service programs in the office of aeronautics said, "Thief River Falls is a participant in the Northwest (Airlines) "Fly Local" program. With the grant Thief River Falls has received, the city will be able to continue to make people aware of the scheduled air service in and out of their city, and the new lower fare schedules," Mehrkens added. "the scheduled air service opens the door to that community. The promotion program makes the local citizens and businesses aware of the service. It also provides significant communication with travel agencies to help them provide the air service information to their customers. That opens the community's front door to the world!"

There are currently 11 cities around the state that have scheduled airline service. It provides those cities and surrounding communities with direct air connections to Minneapolis-St. Paul and beyond. The service also makes the cities and nearby communities more attractive to new and expanding businesses by having direct air links to core cities. This in turn provides jobs outside the major metropolitan areas and strengthens the overall economic vitality of the state.

East Grand Forks businesses to relocate

East Grand Forks - Hardware Hank owner Craig Buckalew is anxious to move his business across the street into the the old Hugo's grocery store building. Buckalew purchased half the building, and the new facility will give him over 2-1/2 times the amount of space he now occupies.

The other half of the Hugo's building will be occupied by American Legion Post 157. The American Legion isn't as excited about the move. The Legion has been in the Holiday Mall since the flood of 1997 and has done well there with an increase in membership and business.

However, the city wants to make more retail business space available. Interested businesses have been in contract with City Hall recently, especially since Cabela's has announced it is coming to East Grand Forks. The Exponent

'Buy a Brick' program off to solid start

Grafton - As Grafton's new school takes shape, so does the Alumni Association's "Buy a Brick" program.

For a minimum donation of $100 anyone can purchase one of the 1,100 bricks. The names of donors will be inscribed on the bricks, and they will make up the wall in the new entryway of the high school.

So far, 140 bricks have been sold with donations received from all over the country. The program will bring in revenue to add more features to the new elementary school, ninth grade addition and renovations of Central School. The Walsh County Record

New Winger mayor excited about position

Winger - Winger's new mayor, Tiffany Smith, brings youth, energy and hopes of rejuvenating the town to her position.

After graduating from Mahnomen High School in 1985, she moved to California. Smith returned to the area in 1992, and she and her mother purchased Beaner's Pub. In addition to working at the bar, Smith is employed in the marketing department at the Shooting Star Casino. She owns a home in Winger.

"We need more businesses in town (Winger)," she said. She also plans to "get the young people involved." Mahnomen Pioneer

Brinkman receives annual Service Award

McIntosh - Joyce Brinkman was presented with the annual Service Award by the Fosston Community Club recently for her contributions to many East Polk county organizations and citizens.

She has been actively involved with Hospice, the Embassy Community Center's Senior Meals program and the Area Christian Singles Club. She is a member of the board of directors of Lutheran Brotherhood and Pioneer Memorial Care Center. Volunteer activities at the hospital and nursing home are numerous, and she is affiliated with both Kingo Lutheran Church in Fosston and Our Savior's Lutheran Church in McIntosh.

"Volunteering has been my whole life," said Brinkman. "I just love it." The McIntosh Times

Incidence of Dutch Elm disease continues decline

Incidence of Dutch Elm Disease (DED) in Thief River Falls continues to decline. Last year, a total of 32 losses due to DED were recorded. Due to an aggressive treatment program, about 40 percent of the city's elm forest remains.

When the city began discovering trees infected with Dutch Elm Disease which is carried by beetles, it was anticipated that nearly all of the city's elm forest would be destroyed. In an attempt to delay and prevent the spread of the disease, infected trees were ordered cut down and burned.

At the height of the infestation (1989), a total of 344 trees (135 city and 209 on private property) were identified and removed. Since then, the number of trees removed due to DED has declined. In 1997, 53 were removed. In 1998, 32 (21 on city property and 11 on private property) were removed.

Because of the aggressive efforts to deal with the situation, the city forestry department anticipates that the incidence of DED will continue to decline.

Eighteen other trees were removed during the year, most were dying box elders.

The city has been as aggressive in dealing with the re-forestation of the city. It has focused on quality rather than quantity, and planted a variety to lessen the impact of any potential disease having a significant impact on the city's forest. Over the years, the city has received recognition for its efforts including awards such as the Tree City USA designation.

A total of 28 trees were planted on city property in 1997, this includes the three trees planted during Arbor Day. During the year, Sentence to Serve assisted with the planting of some of these trees.

Tree planting and removal are just two elements of the city's forestry program. The city is also involved in tree pruning, Christmas tree pick up, residential brush pick up, and Arbor Day activities.

City crews do considerable pruning of trees along city streets during the winter. Last year, the bucket truck broke down in mid-March temporarily putting those activities on hold. Some summer pruning was done primarily for Street Department equipment clearance and traffic control devices. Pruning is a continuous task that must be performed to keep young trees growing properly and removing nuisance or hazardous branches on older trees.

The city picked up a total of 350 Christmas trees in 1998. Lee Nursery of Fertile uses the chipped material for mulch and potting mix.

The city provides a residential brush pick up service from May through October. The forestry department reported that there has been no reduction in the amount of material being picked up, possibly a slight increase. They estimate that they are picking up five to seven tons each week.

Arbor Day for 1998 was held on Friday, May 1, at City Hall. two red splendor and one spring snow flowering crab were planted. Second grade students participated in a coloring contest and

Law enforcement agencies coordinate chaplaincy program

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Thief River Falls Police, Pennington County Sheriff's departments and the Minnesota State Patrol in Thief River Falls asked local ministers Thursday morning to participate in a Chaplaincy program they are calling Northwest Minnesota Law Enforcement Chaplaincy Program.

With the assistance of the International Conference of Police Chaplains and local ministers, the three law enforcement agencies hope to offer a program that benefits officers and their families, and the people they come into contact with who are in crisis and are faced with emotional, mental, and spiritual burdens. The program would provide a method for training of the ministers and certification under the International Conference of Police Chaplains.

It was explained Thursday, that a committee of law enforcement personnel have taken the first steps toward establishing a program by developing a mission statement, creating a tax-exempt organization, and developing a manual.

Local law enforcement officials feel there is a need for the program. Several officers in attendance at the meeting expressed their need for assistance by describing a number of situations they experienced during work.

In the past, law enforcement officials have called upon ministers to assist them in a variety of situations. Law enforcement officials, have not however, made it a common practice.

Under the new program, Law Enforcement Chaplains would be called upon on a regular basis to assist officers in a variety of situations including, but not limited to, death notification, homicide/suicide cases, fatal or serious injury accidents, critical incidents, comfort to victims and families, line of duty injury or death, personal issues of department personnel, if requested, and visitation of sick or injured officers and their family members in the hospital.

If supported by local chaplains and their congregations, training opportunities, pagers, and identification would be provided. Chaplains would be asked to be on call and on occasion, ride along with officers.

Officers assured the ministers that they would not be placed in dangerous situations.

Thief River Falls Police department has had a ride-along program with the law enforcement class at the local college for as many as eight years. During that time, no student has ever been injured. The same can be said of a ride-a-long program offered to Lincoln High School students.

Local law enforcement officials are hopeful that the ministers and their congregations will approve of the opportunity to reach out to others in the community.

Horses seized Tuesday by the Minnesota Federated Humane Societies rest in hay donated by individuals concerned about their health after seeing news reports of the seizure. As of Thursday afternoon, 22 horses remain out of the 41 seized. Nineteen have been claimed by owners who were boarding them at the rural Pennington county farm.

Boarding owners pick up horses from farm at Thief River Falls

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Almost as soon as the first reports of the conditions at a rural Pennington County farm were reported, individuals who had been boarding their horses under the care of Cindy Carter, began calling and picking up their horses.

Minnesota Federal Humane Societies escorted by the Pennington County sheriff's office executed a civil search and seizure order Tuesday at a rural farm in Pennington county. The order allowed authorities to take control of 41 animals.

As of noon Thursday, a number of horses had been picked up by owners. Twenty-two horses were still in corrals. A deputy at the farm said he anticipates the number of remaining horses on Friday to be at between 18-20. Originally, they counted 40 horses, and one donkey.

Thursday, a family from Hope, ND, arrived to take possession of five of their horses. It was the second time in two days that they had made the trip to pick up some of their horses. They did not wish to comment about the horses or the situation. One person in the family did say they were surprised when they saw the story. In taking their horses, it brought the number of horses in the corrals from 27 to 22.

No criminal charges have been filed in the case. Carter did pick up the court order at the law enforcement center Tuesday afternoon, the day representatives of the Minnesota Federated Humane Societies and Pennington County Sheriff's department seized control over the horses.

Carter could not be reached for comment, but a message was left with a contact person offering her an opportunity to comment on the recent events.

Thursday, a deputy said they are waiting for results of a necropsy from North Dakota State University Veterinary Diagnostic laboratory.

Telephone calls to the law enforcement center in Thief River Falls had begun to slow down by Thursday, but from Tuesday afternoon through Wednesday, the telephones were ringing constantly at the Pennington County Law Enforcement Center. Dispatchers said they were receiving calls from Minnesota, North Dakota, and Wisconsin, and so many calls that they were unable to count them all. One dispatcher said she had to put a judge on hold to answer calls about the horses. Thankfully the judge was very understanding, she said.

Bob Cardinal, crew leader for the Sentence to Service jail laborers, said his crews were providing hay and monitoring the horses. He said on Tuesday they moved some of the horses from a field a couple miles away to the main farm so that they could be monitored.

The response to a request for hay has been incredible, Cardinal

Argyle's "main" street assumed a different look in 199B with the construction of the Argyle Enterprise Center. The multi-tenant building has room for four businesses, and spaces are available on a lease-to-own basis. Three of the spaces are occupied. Tenants include Solum & Sundby Insurance, Northstar Services and KJ's Fitness. The fourth bay remains available.

Argyle no "sleepy little town"

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

While many communities of its size might be described as "sleepy little towns," Argyle would not be among them.

Individuals like Craig Molstad won't let the town of approximately 650 residents sleep. Molstad is the director of the Joint Economic Development Authority for the Cities of Argyle and Warren, and currently, there are some exciting things happening in Argyle.

The most pressing problem in Argyle, and many other northern Minnesota communities, is the lack of new businesses," Molstad says. "Many of the existing businesses are profitable but find themselves without a new generation of entrepreneurs to take the reins. Second, the cost of setting up a new business is very high. Construction of a building takes months and burdens the new company with a great deal of debt. This is why the Argyle Rural Economic Development Authority (AREDA) has embarked on a multifaceted program to attack both problems."

The first step of the program has been completed and involved the purchase and demolition of the buildings on Argyle's "main" street. In the fall of 1997, the old pool hall, ice house, barber shop and cafe were purchased and demolished by AREDA. A new multi-tenant building, the Argyle Enterprise Center, was constructed on the site with assistance secured through the cooperation of PKM Electric Cooperative and the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA).

The Argyle State Bank provided additional financing. Banker Pete Carlson needed little convincing that the project would work as the idea had already proven itself successful with the development of the Argyle Mall.

The Enterprise Center, like the Argyle Mall, is available on a lease-to-own basis. This means that the tenants will build equity during their lease. "One of the biggest problems of other 'incubator' type buildings is the inability of the business to leverage its assets," Molstad says. "This building will eventually be the property of its tenants. This is the 'exit' strategy for AREDA."

Because the space will eventually belong to them, business owners are willing to make improvements to the property.

Three of the four spaces are occupied, and the fourth bay remains available. Two spaces are occupied by businesses that were dislocated by the property acquisition and demolition. They are Solum & Sundby Insurance and Northstar Services, a commercial floor mat and uniform cleaning business. KJ's Fitness is a recent

Draft horse rescued from well

Bemidji - Joe Dahlby inadvertently left a gate unhitched recently, and his draft horse Molly wandered into a neighbor's yard, broke through the covering of a well pit and fell in.

After searching for the animal, he found her struggling to escape from the well pit. At that time, her hind section was in the pit, and her front legs were still up on the ground.

As Dahlby and a neighbor tried to free Molly with a strap and pickup the worst happened — the strap broke and Molly's entire body fell into the hole.

A call for help went out and about 15 people from the Harness Club came to help. Another neighbor brought a sling used for setting pipeline in the ground. Using the sling and a hydraulic boom the horse was lifted from the hole.

It appeared that Molly had escaped the ordeal with only a few scratches and swelling to one leg. The Pioneer Arctic Cat unveiled its Millennium Edition ZR 500 2K at the fan appreciation event held on Friday prior to the start of the Ironman 250 in Thief River Falls. The new snowmobile features state-of-the-art paint technology that "moves." Movement and changing light causes the Arctic Cat-exclusive hood color to shift from emerald green to a brilliant purple, with copper, gold and champagne tones in between. The company has since put a picture of the snowmobile on the World Wide Web. The address is <www.arctic-cat.com>.

Arctic Cat unveils Millennium snowmobiles

As of January 20, the first major consumer products available as limited production collector editions commemorating the new millennium were viewable on the World Wide Web. The address is www.arctic-cat.com

Snowmobile manufacturer Arctic Cat Inc. is giving the world a sneak preview of the Millennium Edition ZR 600 2K and Powder Special 600 2K models sporting power and ride enhancements, plus the industry's first use of a new, state-of-the-art paint technology that "moves." Movement and changing light causes the Arctic Cat-exclusive hood color, Millennium Thunder Flair, to shift from emerald green to a brilliant purple, with copper, gold and champagne tones in between.

Arctic Cat limited total production to 1,000 total units and has given each snowmobile its own Millennium Edition serial number. In addition, the company has reserved sled #0001. Every customer who orders a 2K model will have a chance to go home with sled #0001. The Millennium Edition snowmobiles, the first year 2000 models to arrive on the market, will begin arriving at participating Arctic Cat dealerships this week. Arctic Cat is producing 700 of the ZR 600 and 300 of the Powder Special 600.

"With the year 2000 approaching, dealers and customers asked if Arctic Cat would be celebrating the milestone," said Mark Blackwell, vice president of marketing. "So we looked for ways to make special edition sleds that would lead the way as unique, stunning celebrations. The colors-and-graphics scheme truly is going to be something different on the snow. And I believe customers will have a tremendous amount of fun being part of a limited production run."

The ZR 600 2K and the Powder Special 600 2K, which is set up and tuned for high performance in the mountain states, retail for $7,199 ($9,199 CAN) and $7,299 ($9,899 CAN), respectively.

Since I am still eating (and trying to give away) leftover Christmas cookies, and I am trying to finish the last of the delicious birthday cake my daughter baked for me last weekend, I just can't think of any sweet recipes yet. Let's have some more one-dish meals to pep up our flagging winter appetites, again from the ladies (and gents) of St. Pauli Church. If you are planning a Super Bowl party, you might like to consider one of these.

Nearly everybody seems to enjoy this breakfast pizza dish - wouldn't it taste good for Sunday brunch:

2 tablespoons onion
1/4 teaspoon oregano
1 cup shredded Mozzarella cheese

Spread dough on bottom of greased 9x13 inch cake pan.

Heat and chop up sausage. Put sausage and Cheddar cheese on top of dough.

Mix eggs, milk, salt, pepper, green pepper, onion and oregano. Pour on crust, over sausage and cheese. Top with Mozzarella cheese and bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes.

This really big casserole would serve a bunch of the Super Bowl crowd - but you can just half it for a smaller, family-sized meal - yum, just add a big salad and you're set to go:

BEEF RICE CASSEROLE
Becky Stickler

1 cup uncooked wild rice
1 cup uncooked white rice
2 pounds ground beef
1/2 cup butter
1 pound fresh mushrooms
1 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup soy sauce
1/2 cup water
8 ounces sour cream
1 can cream of celery soup
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
8 ounces sliced water chestnuts
3 ounces slivered almonds

Cook wild rice. Cook white rice just 10 minutes. Brown beef, drain and set aside.

Saute mushrooms, onion and celery in butter.

Combine soy sauce, water, sour cream, soup, salt and pepper in large bowl. Stir in rices, beef, mushrooms, celery, onion and half of almonds.

Pour into greased 3 quart casserole. Sprinkle with remaining almonds.

Bake covered at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Uncover and bake another 15 minutes.

A tasty dish that can be made in minutes, and could surely be made ahead on a busy day for a quick meal later - doesn't it sound delicious:

PICANTE ENCHILADAS DE HUEVOS
Cay Donlin

1 can spicy refried beans
1 to 1 1/2 cups shredded Cheddar or Monterey Jack cheese
1 cup picante sauce
1/4 cup dairy sour cream
3/4 teaspoon ground cumin
1/2 teaspoon salt
8 flour tortillas (6-8 inches in diameter)
Avocado slices and sour cream (optional)

Combine refried beans, 1/2 cup of cheese, 1/4 cup picante sauce, sour cream, cumin and salt, mixing well. Spoon about 1/3 cup of mixture down center of each tortilla and roll up.

Place, seam side down, in 11x7 inch baking dish. Spoon remaining picante sauce evenly over tortillas. Cover dish tightly with foil and bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes.

Uncover and sprinkle evenly with remaining cheese. Continue baking, uncovered, about 10 minutes or until enchiladas are hot and cheese is melted. Garnish with avocado and sour cream if desired. Serve with additional picante sauce and tortilla chips. (Serves 4-6.)

Another easy dish that you can put together in minutes after you've been out sledding, or skating, or skiing, or snowblowing, or put together before the exercise so it's ready to pop into the oven. I bet everyone will love it, too:

SPAGHETTI CASSEROLE
Deone Cerny

1 (7 ounce) package spaghetti
2 tablespoons margarine, melted
1/3 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 pound ground beef
1 small onion, chopped
1 (30 ounce) jar spaghetti sauce
3 to 4 cups Mozzarella cheese
2 eggs, beaten well
1 (3 1/2 ounce) package pepperoni slices

Cook spaghetti as directed. Rinse and drain.

Brown beef and onion. Drain and layer over spaghetti. Pour spaghetti sauce over the top and sprinkle with Mozzarella. Arrange pepperoni slices over cheese.

Cover, and bake 20 minutes at 350 degrees. Uncover and bake 15 minutes longer. Let stand 5 minutes. Cut and serve.

Here's one more spicy dish that sounds like it will become a family favorite - kind of like a Mexican pizza - and so simple:

TACO PIE
Janet Strandlie

1 1/4 pounds hamburger
1 package taco seasoning mix
1/2 cup water
1/3 cup sliced ripe olives
1 can refrigerator crescent rolls
1 1/2 or 2 cups broken corn chips
1 cup sour cream
1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese

Brown hamburger and add seasoning mix, water and olives.

Place crescent rolls flat and pinch together in pan to form crust.

Break up corn chips onto the crust. Top with hamburger mixture and spread sour cream over top. Sprinkle with cheese and add more chips for garnish.

Bake at 375 degrees for 20-25 minutes.

Keeping An Eye On Things

"How's fishing?" I threw out as I burst into Steve Sweet's fish house unannounced some five or six years ago. Sweet is generally unflappable and my efforts to rattle him with abrupt ice house entrances usually meet with little success. That day was no exception.

"Pretty slow," was Sweet's tepid response without so much as glancing up from the paper.

"Well, of course it's slow, you're not even jigging," I attacked. "You can't expect to catch anything on Lake of the Woods without jigging. Go to Mille Lacs if you want to sit and bobber watch." I made a strong play to put him on the defensive.

"Nothing down there to catch," he calmly replied as he turned another page and went on reading.

"How can you say that?" I pressed on. "You can't see down there!"

Sweet glanced up at me. "Watch." His gruff, intolerant, confident tone suggested I had pushed too far.

Reaching into the minnow bucket, he grabbed a fathead and pinched it in two, tossing the brainier half into his fish hole. It was then that I noticed his Vexilar, a depth finder that until that moment I had had no experience with, although I'd heard the rave reviews. We watched in silence as the minnow head, now transformed into a thin, greenish-yellow line on the flasher's dial, drifted slowly to the bottom where it settled softly some 15 seconds later.

My quick wit collided harshly with my aversion to positive technological advancement and I blurted out, "So!"

"Nothing down there to catch," Sweet grinned back victoriously and went back to his paper perusal. I zipped my coveralls, moaned something about Stella and streetcars, and stumbled awkwardly back through the fish house door in retreat.

This winter has blessed me with a co-worker who is addicted to Vexilar fishing. As fate would have it, this winter has also been a particularly good one for the use of such technology. A lack of snow cover, combined with impressively clear ice, seems to have pushed a lot of fish further off the bottom than usual. Jake's very average fishing talents, coupled with his Vexilar's uncanny ability to coincide his jig with a suspended walleye, allow his access to fish that I'm not even aware exist. Add in to that mix his electronically enhanced attractiveness to the more traditional fishy shapes along the bottom, and my natural talents are rarely enough to win out in any battle of fishing skills.

This is not intended to be an endorsement column unless, of course, Vexilar would like to see it that way. But I have to confess to being far more optimistic about a group's chances at fishing success when they enter one of my houses if someone has one tucked under his arm. I've watched summertime wannabes like Eagles and Hummingbirds fall short. I even had one of the lighted versions of the notorious "underwater cameras" in a house last week and all I learned was that this water is dark and turbid indeed. None could match wits with the Vexilar.

Jake's recent successes may have gone to his head with claims that he will catch 15 percent more fish on a given day than he would have before his technological transformation, but the math is fun to play with. If you're good enough to catch 10 fish a day on average now, and multiply that over just 30 days of winter fishing a year, then that's 45 more fish you've pulled up before the April thaw.

I'm still stubborn when it comes to innovation. I like the old "set the hook and throw the pole" excitement provided by a basic jig-stick. I've got concerns about the under water fish cam. I still think the pitcher should have an at-bat. But maybe it would raise Steve Sweet's eyebrows just a tad in surprise if I were to acknowledge that he pushed me a bit further into the 20th Century with an introduction to the Vexilar. It's a lot easier to catch something when you know there's something down there to catch.

What To Do With The State Tax Surplus

Just about everyone with a finger to stir the political pot in Minnesota has been in up to the wrist with suggestions for how to get the projected tax surplus back to Joe and Josephine Citizen. The most recent proposal under discussion is Gov. Jesse Ventura's pruposal for what he calls a "prudent, simple and fair sales tax rebate."

Despite his description, however, the plan may not be prudent, isn't necessarily simple and is not a true sales tax rebate, but that doesn't make it a bad plan.

According to the Minnesota Department of Finance's November forecast, the income tax accounts for about 33 percent of the projected surplus with another 30 percent coming from the state's tobacco settlement and 17 percent results from lower state expenditures. All other tax and non-tax revenues—including the sales tax—account for the remaining 20 percent. In other words, total sales tax payments are only a fraction of 20 percent of the projected surplus— probably less than half of the total accounted for by the income tax.

The tobacco settlement percentage of the surplus can be set aside from rebate consideration, because it doesn't come directly from the state's taxpayers and isn't owed as a return to anybody. The 17 percent reportedly resulting from lower expenditures also can be discounted. That leaves just over 50 percent of the surplus as what might be considered legitimate "excess."

About three-fourths of that remaining 50 percent comes from income taxes. A portion of the other fourth results from sales taxes. In neither case was the surplus amount budgeted by the legislature. The surplus happened when the rates set to cover budgeted expenses produced more revenue than expected—because taxpayers as a total entity earned more income than anticipated and purchased more sales taxable items than anticipated. This was the result of very good economic conditions in the state and very low unemployment—businesses and individuals earning more money and more people having taxable incomes.

Just as sure as the surplus was unanticipated, the day is coming when Minnesota government will not be so fortunate. There have been shortfalls in tax receipts in the past and they will happen in the future. Wouldn't it be great if the state could meet those shortfalls with money already on hand, rather than having to increase taxes during an economic downturn when people would be less able to pay?

Yes, the average taxpayer could use the extra few hundred dollars a robate plan would provide. But the money is already gone and as such will not be missed as part of the household budget or the business profit. If the state could resist the temptation to spend it, the surplus could be invested and provide the people of Minnesota with a comfortable cushion against darker days ahead. It could be protected against use until the state's budget is in deficit.

Rebates make good political activity and in reality are probably the "right" thing to do. Our governments shouldn't be in the business as a general rule of taxing for more than what is needed to cover expenses. And tax surpluses do belong to "the people," although "the people" would have a definite self-interest in a prepaid hedge against future deficits.

Be assured, however, that some form of tax money return will be authorized by the legislature this session. Among the many ideas for distributing these funds, the governor's "sales tax rebate" plan may be as good as any. For the most part, suggestions we have seen involve some form of redistribution rather than actual rebate, which would return money in the same area and proportion it was received. The governor's plan takes a reasonably middle ground. It also has the advantage, as we understand it, of exempting returned funds from federal income taxes— something an income tax refund would not do.

"We made it simple and efficient by not requiring any bureaucratic paperwork," Gov. Ventura said. "If you qualify for it, you get it."

Simple? Efficient? The state will have to determine the amounts to be returned based on income and average sales tax paid for 1,650,000 households eligible for the property tax rebate paid in 1998 and issue the appropriate checks for each. That sounds like a costly process to us, but not as burdensome as the suggestion by the persistently whining Taxpayers League of Minnesota which insists that "a fair rebate plan would be based on the percentage of all types of taxes paid including sales, income and other taxes." Imagine trying to compute that on an individual basis!

A Treatise On Departed DNR Commissioner

Alan Homer only stays
Commissioner for seven days,
Having raised enough commotion
To invoke family devotion.

Resigned because his family
Comes first, he says, and so we see
An abdication of profession
Rather than a full confession.

Although he had Ventura's trust
His record proved to be a bust:
Noted among his complications
Several fishing violations;

Hunting, too, in South Dakota,
Not only here in Minnesota;
Alack, alas, a situation
Thwarting job perpetuation.

He was wise to move on out,
Removing Minnesotans' doubt
He had sufficient motivation,
Confidence or approbation

To rise above these things bizarre
And head the maligned DNR.
That leader, to achieve perfection,
Would need another crucifixion.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

I wuld like to comment on the recent article in the Northern Watch about Mn/DOT buying agriculturol land in the Winger, Minnesota area for mitigation needs.

I am glad to see that a state agency is trying to buy private land and not write a rule or regulation to take it without paying for it, but......

In 1995, when we were trying to change the Wetland Conservation Act, we asked that public road construction be exempt from wetland mitigation. It failed. Thus state agencies are required by state law to mitigate wetlands.

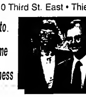
Mn/DOT does not care if it spends $1.2 million or even $8 million on farmland. It's not earned money, it's free money, collected from your gasoline tax to construct public roads. It also does not bother Mn/DOT for the loss of tax base for roads, schools and drainage by converting private lands to public lands. This tax shift puts a greater burden on fewer taxpoyers

Minnesota owns millions of acres that are not wetlands that could easily be converted to wetlands, with no acquisition cost to the taxpayer. MnDOT has written three letters to the DNR requesting using state land for mitigation purposes, but no replies.

I support allowing the use of public lands for public wetland replacement and banking. U.S. Congress should also allow the use of federal lands for public wetland replacement and banking.

Has anyone taken a look at how many impoundments the watershed districts have created in the last 10 years? Why aren't they being used for replacement banking purposes?

I want my legislators to change the law and make it mandatory to mitigate wetlands on currently-owned state lands or that no mitigation be required at all. I want road dollars to go to building and maintaining safe roads, not buying private farmland to mitigate wetlands.



And as for the picture caption with DNR area wildlife manager Terry Wolfe saying, "The DNR pays ditch assessments on the same basis as private landowners do," it's a lie. The DNR has not paid its ditch assessments to Marshall, Beltrami or Roseau counties for seven years. What he should have said is, "We pay our assessments if we want to."

Sincerely,
Dave Zavorol

MCC boys fall prey to Warroad, illness in 20-point setback

Marshall County Central boys had one quarter of basketball in them Tuesday before the effects of flu that had struck the team caught up to the Nordics, who wound up losing a 56-36 North Border Conference game to Warroad at Newfolden.

First quarter ended in a 16-16 tie, but Warroad went ahead 26-18 at halftime and had a 38-26 third quarter advantage.

A 23 percent shooting performance (12/52) sealed the Nordics' fate. They were 1-for-14 from 3-point range. "We just could not shoot the ball," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "Our 3-point shots were good looks, but we couldn't hit them. A part of that had to do with the fact we had no energy. The flu just decimated us. We had a little bit of fire in the first quarter, and the score shows it. But after that, the kids had nothing."

Mike Peterson scored 24 points to lead the winners. The Nordics were led by Kyle Muetzel with 11 points.

Warroad shot 43 percent from the field (25/58) and went 11-for-15 at the free throw line, where Marshall County Central was 6-for-7.

"We never got to the free throw line," pointed out Ueland, who was frustrated by the non-calls throughout the course of the game. "Unfortunately it was a big game for us," he said. "A win would have given us a chance to play Roseau (Feb. 5) for the conference championship."

Warroad finished with a 38-28 rebound advantage and topped the turnover charts 13-12.

Bears quiet Huskies' offense in 58-35 win Tuesday at Baudette

Goodridge had trouble on offense Tuesday, leading to a 58-35 boys high school basketball loss to Lake of the Woods at Baudette.

"Poor shooting," said Goodridge coach Eric Mickelson. "Poor shooting and poor passing. Not a good night. We thought we could play with them. It was disappointing."

The Huskies shot just 22 percent from the field (11/51) while falling behind at the quarter stops 10-4, 23-16 and 37-23.

Lake of the Woods' inside game, led by Andy Hart with 15 points and Tony Caldwell with 14, gave the Huskies problems on defense. "They're much bigger and much more physical than we are," pointed out Mickelson, who was without 6-4 center Trovis Scheef much of the night due to illness.

Chad Johnson scored 13 points and Chancey Halvorson had 11 for the Huskies, who fell to 3-8 with the loss.

Lake of the Woods was 23-for-54 from the field (43 percent) and 12-for-18 at the free throw line, where Goodridge went 10-for-16. The Huskies did finish with a 38-25 rebound advantage, but they also had more turnovers, 21-13.

SPORTS BRIEFS

NCTC player honored

Jenny Johnson, a Northland Community and Technical College sophomore guard from Goodridge, was selected as the Minnesota Community College Conference women's basketball Northern Division Player of the Week for her performances in the Pioneers' Jan. 15-16 games against Hibbing and Rainy River.

Johnson scored 43 points, grabbed 18 rebounds, handed out 11 assists and came up with 11 steals in the two games – a 79-53 Friday night win over Hibbing and a 78-74 Saturday afternoon overtime loss to Rainy River.

The puck was on the stick of East Grand Forks goalie Tom White as Thief River Falls forward Dustin Melby tried to get past Green Wave defenseman Scott Johnson for the rebound during second period action in Tuesday's Section 8A high school hockey match-up. White turned in a 21-save shutout to lead the Green Wave past the Prowlers 4-0.

Green Wave shuts out TRF 4-0

East Grand Forks turned a 1-0 lead into a 4-0 Section 8A high school hockey win over Thief River Falls Tuesday with three goals in a 3:09 third period flurry at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

The loss, which dropped the Prowlers to 4-7-3, didn't sit well with Thief River Falls head coach Scott Bergland. "We got physically out-matched," he said. "We got beat on every one-on-one situation. It was a huge game for us, and we let them come in and take control of it physically. We just didn't do a very good job."

It was the final outing of a three-game stretch against Section 8A rivals Crookston, Warroad and East Grand Forks that the Prowlers had hoped to use as a springboard in securing one of the top post-season seeding positions. But after coming from behind to beat Crookston, they dropped back-to-back decisions to Warroad and East Grand Forks. A case of taking one step forward and two backward, acknowledged Bergland.

Only goal in the first 30 minutes came on a rebound shot by Scott Johnson at 9:47 of the second period.

It looked like a down-to-the-wire finish before the Green Wave broke it open midway through the final period. Jon Hussey converted a centering pass from behind the net into a 2-0 lead at 7:20, Ryan Boline poked in a rebound at the 8-minute mark; and Jon Stordahl tipped one in from the side at 10:29 to put it out of reach.

Goalie Mike Dowers kept the Prowlers in the game most of the night with several strong stops in a 28-save performance. Tom White of the Green Wave also played well, and was rewarded for his 21-save effort with a shutout.

Gators stop Prowlers 49-39

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River put enough offense together to go along with its usual top-of-the-line defense Tuesday and beat Thief River Falls 49-39 in girls high school basketball.

In a game that did not have a single double figure scorer, the Gators won with Merri Reese, Tabetha Blazek, Alison Holmes and Dezi Sovde all netting eight points each. They led at the quarter stops 12-10, 25-17 and 35-29.

"Our team defense is pretty good," confirmed Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. "Our man-to-man offense is getting better every game. We still need work on our zone offense, but fortunately, when they (Prowlers) were in a zone, our kids were smart enough to be patient on offense and run 40 seconds off the clock on each possession."

Fouls kept part of the Gators' offense in check, according to Neibauer. "Our post people (Sovde, Melissa Smith) were in foul trouble," he said. "The game was called pretty close."

An eight-point figure – by Laura Follett – also led the Prowlers.

"We just couldn't get anything going offensively," explained Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "Give them (Gators) credit; defense is one of their strengths. But we just didn't shoot very well."

Thief River Falls shot just 34 percent from the field (16/47), while Badger/Greenbush-Middle River shot 45 percent (20/44). The Prowlers were 9-for-13 at the free throw line, while the Gators went 6-for-11. The winners finished with a 29-17 rebound edge. Turnovers were even at 14-apiece.

Nicole Kopari made her way back into the Thief River Falls line-up for the first time since going down with an ankle injury Dec. 17. After missing four games, the team's leading scorer was used in short stretches of the contest in Greenbush. It will take a while for Kopari, and the team, to get in full sync, acknowledged Loe. "I knew offensively we would struggle a little bit working Nicole back into the line-up," he said. "Everybody had found a role after she was hurt, and now they all have to change those roles again with her back in there."

It was the seventh straight win for the 12-2 Gators and the fifth straight loss for the 6-8 Prowlers.

Fast start carries Grygla-Gatzke

Grygla-Gatzke jumped out to a 22-6 first quarter lead Tuesday and went on to beat Kittson County North 54-44 in a match-up of two boys high school basketball teams at less than full strength because of a widespread flu bug.

"We got off to a good start," noted Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "We ran our offense pretty well, and we shot well. It's a good thing we got that lead, because we had so many sick kids and we started to fade pretty fast after that."

The Eagles maintained a 33-17 spread at halftime and had a 42-27 third quarter lead.

Sophomore Gavin Nordby came off the bench to score a game-high 22 points for the winners, with teammate Alex Holt adding 12. Not coincidently, pointed out Johnson, those two were the Eagles' only healthy players. Michael Hill scored 13 points to lead the visiting Cougars.

Grygla-Gatzke was 21-for-39 from the field (54 percent), but struggled through a 10-for-22 free throw night. Kittson County North went 19-for-47 from the floor (40 percent) and 6-for-11 at the line. The Eagles had a 24-20 rebound edge over the Cougars, who topped the turnover charts 10-9.

"We played pretty good defense," said Johnson. "We switched defenses off and on throughout the game. We wanted to slow things down and make them work for every shot."

The Eagles are 4-8.

Size edge leads to RLCC win

East Grand Forks Sacred Heart stayed close for a while, but Red Lake County Central's size won out Tuesday as the Mustangs beat the Eagles 75-66 in boys high school basketball at Plummer.

Mark Lorenson scored 24 points, Nick Waldal had a 21-point, 13-rebound game, while Matt Bjerkhe and Darren Vanek netted 10 points each for the Mustangs, who trailed 22-20 at the end of the first quarter and faced a 37-34 halftime deficit before going ahead 55-47 in the third quarter.

"We started a little slow, but that was probably our best third quarter of the year," said Red Lake County Central coach Chris McLean, whose club has more often than not had trouble at the start of the second half in most games this winter. "We did a good job blocking out and getting the rebounds in the third quarter," he added.

The win pulled the Mustangs to .500 for the year at 6-6.

Red Lake County Central shot 49 percent from the field (25/51) and cashed in on 20 of 31 free throw opportunities. Sacred Heart shot 45 percent from the floor (25/56) and had a 9-for-15 free throw game.

"We got a lot of good looks inside," explained McLean, "and Mark (Lorenson) shot well from the outside. We tried to take advantage of our size."

Red Lake County Central had a 31-26 rebound advantage and also topped the turnover charts, 11-10.

Warroad won the first encounter 62-47 back on Dec. 15, but Badger/Greenbush-Middle River took the Friday (Jan. 15) boys high school basketball rematch 61-51.

"It was a pretty fair performance," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "We played much better defense this time, and we took care of the ball."

The game was tied 14-14 after one quarter and Warroad led 28-25 at halftime before Badger/Greenbush-Middle River went up 44-41 in the third quarter and lengthened the lead over the final eight minutes.

Richard Wockenfuss scored 19 points and David Truscinski 11 for the winners. Mike Peterson led the host team with 17 points.

TRF wrestlers fall to Mahnomen/Waubun

Mahnomen/Waubun was a 49-22 winner over host Thief River Falls Tuesday in high school wrestling.

"We did a pretty decent job," said Thief River Falls coach Rick Yanke. "Mahnomen/Waubun has beaten a couple of pretty tough teams. I thought we wrestled pretty well."

Thief River Falls' Chris Lian, Bob Strutz and Josh Jensen were winners by decision, while Beau Abrahamson and Philip Hermanson registered pins.

Hermanson, for the second straight match, overcame an eight-point deficit (10-2) to pull out a win. Abrahamson was aggressive in his win. Lian, an eighth grader, won for the second straight time, while Strutz, a senior, and Jensen, a junior, gave the Prowlers some points out of the upper classes, mentioned Yanke, whose team is 1-8 in duals.

Central Lakes adds to Northland streak

Central Lakes tacked on another game to the Northland Community and Technical College men's basketball losing streak Wednesday when the Raiders beat the Pioneers 87-63 in a Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division contest at Brainerd.

The loss dropped the Pioneers to 0-15 this year and extended their two-year losing streak to 34 games. Next start comes Monday when they host defending National Junior College Athletic Association Division III champion Fergus Falls, whose line-up has been bolstered with the recent addition of former University of Minnesota recruit Kevin Loge from Morris. Loge sat out the first part of the 1998-99 season as a transfer, but was in uniform as the Spartans started defense of their Northern Division title with four straight wins since returning from a holiday break.

Central Lakes is right behind Fergus Falls in the division race with a 4-1 MCCC mark and 11-4 overall record. The Raiders beat the Pioneers with a balanced attack that featured five scorers in the 11-to-16-point range. They led 47-35 at halftime.

It was a typical Northland outing, according to Pioneers head coach Rick Nikunen, whose team has made a habit of sabotaging solid outings with short stretches of mistakes that turn 9 or 10-point contests into 20 to 25-point losses.

"Again, we played pretty well most of the time," Nikunen said after the Central Lakes game. "They (Raiders) had a couple of mini-runs on us where they scored 9, 10 points in a row to pull away."

Chad Nelson was the Raiders' 16-point scorer. Dwight Goodwin led Northland with 15 points.

Northland turnovers and Central Lakes rebounds added up, noted Nikunen. "They're a huge team, both in height and in bulk," he said.

The Pioneers were 9-for-18 at the free throw line, where the Raiders went 14-for-24.

Davidson, Kilen lead Nordics past Ponies

Tera Davidson scored 17 points and Kristi Kilen had 16 to lead the Marshall County Central girls to a 48-38 Tuesday high school basketball win over Warren-Alvarado-Oslo.

The two teams played to a 7-7 first quarter draw before the visiting Nordics went up 18-13 at halftime and carried a 32-29 edge into the final quarter.

"It was a real slow paced game," reported Marshall County Central coach Alice Dahl, whose team was battling the effects of the flu that has struck the school recently. The bench was shortened by absences, and many of the players on hand were at less than full strength," she explained.

Kate Loeslie had a 16-point game for the Ponies.

Marshall County Central was 16-for-37 from the field (43 percent) and a busy 16-for-25 at the free throw line, where Davidson played a major role in the outcome with a 7-for-9 showing. Warren-Alvarado-Oslo was just 3-for-11 at the line. The 5-7 Nordics wound up with a 32-17 rebound advantage, but also had more turnovers, 20-12.

Raiders' shooters light up Northland

First half shooting figures told the story Wednesday in Central Lakes' 78-50 Minnesota Community College Conference women's basketball win over Northland at Brainerd.

The Raiders went 18-for-34 (53 percent) and the Pioneers were a horrible 5-for-27 (18 percent) from the field in the first 20 minutes. That added up to a 40-17 scoreboard spread at the half.

"We couldn't shoot and they could," said Northland coach Mike Zachow.

Central Lakes shooters didn't loose their shooting touch during intermission. In fact, the Raiders bumped their figure to 57 percent in the second half (16/28) to finish the game at 55 percent (34/62).

"They have a really good team," noted Zachow. "They've got 12 players, and they use them all. They don't have any superstars, but they have a bunch of very good players. They're very balanced."

That was witnessed in the scoring totals where six Raiders scored in the 8-to-14 point range, led by Gina Jacobs and Sarah Nagel with 14 each. Northland got a game-high 21-point performance from Becky Perreault and 16 from Jenny Johnson.

"We did improve in the second half," said Zachow. "We played much better."

Northland was 18-for-56 from the field for the game (32 percent). It was a quiet night at the free throw line, where the Pioneers were 4-for-6 and the Raiders went 5-for-9. Central Lakes finished with a 40-30 rebound advantage and Northland topped the turnover charts 23-15.

Northland fell to 3-10 overall with the loss, 2-3 in the Northern Division. Central Lakes improved to 8-3 and 4-1 in the division, where they are in a three-way race for first place with Vermilion and Rainy River.

Thief River Falls led at each quarter break, but wound up losing a 59-52 game to Badger/Greenbush-Middle River Tuesday in girls junior varsity high school basketball.

Kylie Rogalla scored 13 points, while Chelsea Haviland and Megan Nelson both had 10 for Thief River Falls, ahead at the stops 16-10, 27-25 and 39-33.

Kara Gregerson scored 13 points and Vanessa Modall 12 for the winners.

Storm snaps Gators' win streak

A three-game Badger/Greenbush-Middle River winning streak ended Tuesday, but it wasn't due to a drop in the Gators' performance level, according to head coach Eldon Sparby after watching Stephen-Argyle secure a 66-60 victory with some final minute free throws.

"We played a good, solid ball game," said Sparby. "We had won three-in-a-row, and we played as well in this one as we did in those three games we won. I was pleased."

The Storm, who beat the Gators 54-49 earlier this season, led at the first two quarter stops 23-21 and 35-29. The Gators pulled into a 45-45 tie at the close of the third quarter.

It was still tied with just under two minutes remaining. Up two, Stephen-Argyle had a clock-draining possession stopped by a Badger/Greenbush-Middle River foul with 1:30 to play, leading to a single free throw. The Gators came up empty when they got their hands on the ball, and watched additional Stephen-Argyle free throws pad the final spread at the end.

The Gators' TJ Super led all scorers with 21 points. Bartt Stoltman scored 17 points to lead the Storm.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was 23-for-54 from the field (43 percent) and 12-for-20 at the free throw line. Stephen-Argyle, after a strong start, wound up 25-for-60 from the floor (42 percent). Thief River Falls boys swim in pair of meets

A busy schedule finally caught up to the Thief River Falls boys high school swim team, according to head coach John Vukmanich. The Prowlers competed in five meets over a 13-day span, including back-to-back multiple-team outings Friday at Crookston and Tuesday at Bemidji.

"Time-wise, there are a few guys making good drops, but others are stuck in the mid-season doldrums," explained Vukmanich. "We're kind of flat, but that's not unexpected. We're in the middle of the season, and we've had a busy schedule. We've just got to get through it. The kids are still working hard and making improvements."

Grand Forks' Central-Red River cooperative won the Crookston Invitational, where the pool is measured in meters, with 313 points, followed by Park Rapids Area with 241, Thief River Falls 232, Detroit Lakes 206, Crookston 168, and Perham 97.

Hibbing emerged the winner in a triangular at Bemidji with 535 points, followed by Bemidji with 426 and Thief River Falls 252.

Argyle no "sleeply little town" new tenant.

Due to the one-percent loan from PKM/USDA, the building will cash flow with three of the four spaces rented. "Now we have a low cost place for new businesses," Molstad says.

The second step of Argyle Rural Economic Development Authority's plan is to create a new generation of entrepreneurs. To accomplish this, AREDA has been a major supporter of the Northwest Gateway Association's Integrated Community Network project. The project is a series of educational programs conducted up and down Highway 75 — the Gateway "corridor" including the communities of Warren, Argyle, Stephen, Kennedy and Hallock.

The project will host a Vision Workshop and Technology Fair at the Hallock City Hall from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Tuesday, January 26, bringing world-class experts on telecommunications to the area.

The presentation team will include Mark F. Whittier, director of Integrated Community Networks, Nortel. A renowned lecturer and contributor to international forums on community networks, educational technology and public policy direction of public sector telecommunications applications, Whittier has been a consultant to governments around the world at the community, state, provincial and federal level.

Francis J. Knott, founder and president of VITAL Resources, a communications technologies consulting firm, will also make a presentation.

The Technology Fair will enable participants to see demonstrations of technology as it is being used in local businesses and school districts. Participants will include Wickstrom Telephone, Rural Access Internet, Sunsdahl Cable, DTN, and the school districts of Warren/Alvarado/Oslo, Marshall County Central and Stephen/Argyle. All interested persons are welcome to attend.

In the attempt to bring telecommunications to the public, the Stephen/Argyle School District has embarked on a project entitled "Internet in the Community." The project will place internet-connected computers in "off campus" locations around the community.

Other recent efforts of AREDA include the construction of a new group home for persons with developmental disabilities. This project was funded with a Minnesota Housing Authority Grant and includes a number of innovative features including the use of landscaping and fill to create a handicapped access to the building without constructing a visible ramp.

There are other projects on the drawing board of the Argyle Rural Economic Development Authority, also.

One of these projects is the construction of a 20-unit senior "assisted living" facility. "We want our seniors to be able to stay in Argyle all of their lives," Molstad says. Two for-profit companies have visited Argyle and are considering the project.

AREDA also seeks to further implement its home builders incentive program which was created in the wake of the flood of 1997 in an effort to attract dislocated rural residents to Argyle. Under the program, which is subject to income limits and other limitations, home builders may qualify for up to $8,000 in financial assistance. Since its inception, the program has provided assistance to the owners of four new homes.

"The foresight of the City in constructing a ring dike system cannot to overemphasized," Molstad says. "This ring dike allows us to continue development secure in the knowledge that those improvements will not be washed away."

As AREDA director Craig Molstad exemplifies the energy and enthusiasm exuding from the Argyle community.

Molstad is a native of Thief River Falls and a 1979 graduate of Lincoln High School. He graduated from North Dakota State University with a Masters degree in community planning in 1986.

Prior to assuming his position in Argyle and Warren on June 1, 1996, Craig was employed as an economic developer for Rusk county in Wisconsin for four years. He refers to his work in Wisconsin as "a good experience." Craig was especially impressed with and learned from an enterprising city administrator in Ladysmith.

It was the death of his father, Oliver, that brought Craig back to the area so that he could be closer to his mother, Marlys, who continues to make her home in Thief River Falls.

Craig is happy to be back in the area. He and his wife, Wendy, have made their home in Argyle in a house with a floor plan almost identical to Craig's childhood home. Wendy is a director at REM-Valley Homes, Inc. in Karlstad, and the couple has a two-and-one-half year old son, Gunnar.

Molstad isn't the only one who's excited about the things that are happening in Argyle.

In the letter that accompanied the annual 1998 newsletter to Argyle "alumni," Mayor Glenn Rivard told former residents about community accomplishments during the year, including the building of the Argyle Enterprise Center.

The City completed its water, sanitary sewer and street upgrade on the east side of Argyle. All of the town's households now have city sewer service. This means that not only has the City of Argyle complied with upcoming state mandates, but has done its part to keep groundwater safe for future generations.

The Fire Department has added a new fire truck, providing Argyle's residents with a well-equipped fire and rescue department. Vacant and dilapidated houses were torn down before they became health hazards or part of unsightly neighborhood landscapes.

With dedicated citizens and employees Argyle isn't a "sleepy" little town, but the community boasted in its colorful brochure — "a little known paradise. . .that offers a secure, old-fashioned way of family life in an up-to-date environment."

Foundation gives grants to Crookston, Stephen, Alvarado

Otto Bremer Foundation recently announced awarding of grants to three northwestern Minnesota communities at its December meeting of the board of trustees.

The City of Alvarado received $10,000 to purchase equipment for the volunteer fire department and first responder emergency service.

Water quality plan meeting Jan. 28

Northern Local committee of the Red River Basin Water Quality Plan will meet Thursday, January 28, at 6 p.m. in the Red Lake Watershed District office in Thief River Falls, according to the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency.

The committee hopes to wrap up its discussion on issues and goals of the basin plan and begin making progress on priorities and strategies, said Nolan Baratono of the MPCA office in Detroit Lakes. The committee has just three more meetings scheduled after this one to finalize its recommendations to the full basin committee.

The January 28 meeting and all basin planning committee meetings are open to the public. Those who want to receive mailings for the meetings should call Baratono at 218-846-7385 and indicate the committees they are interested in and they will be put on the mailing list for the committees they request.

KJ's Fitness is the newest tenant of the Argyle Enterprise Center. Build in 1998, the center replaces four old buildings located on Argyle's "main" street. The four spaces in the building are available on a lease-to-own basis. Solum & Sundby insurance and Northstar Services also occupy the building.

Boarding owners pick up horses from farm at Thief River Falls said. Many area farmers immediately came forward with hay, and he said he had as many as 48 messages on his answering machine from people offering hay. He said he would try to get back to all of them. At the moment he was preparing a crew for a delivery of hay from an individual in Wisconsin.

To offer a donation of hay call the Northwest Sentence to Serve at 683-7001. To offer a cash donation call the Minnesota Federal Humane Societies at 1-612-935-1846.

Tim Shields, general counsel for the Minnesota Federated Humane Societies reported that they had received many calls in the first two days. Of the calls received, some were confused over the name of the organization, many were interested in adopting the horses, which he said was a bit premature, and many wanted to donate hay, services or money. The response in greater Minnesota, in particular, he said was very heartening.

Although a veterinarian had examined the horses Tuesday, no treatment had begun. Shields explained that they believed a number of the horses were owned by other individuals and they wanted to wait for the owners to decide what to do. A number of horses will probably receive some treatment soon. He said they were concerned about one horse that had a severely split hoof.

According to law, the county is responsible for the care of the horses, but Shields said that when they make a public appeal for support like this, they spend those dollars first.

The seizure of the horses on Tuesday was accomplished through a civil court process. Shields said Carter has until the close of business next Thursday to post a $10,000 bond and file a "demand for a hearing" with the court administrator. If that is done, he said, a judge will set a date for a hearing. During that hearing there will be two issues: one, to determine the physical condition of the horses; and second, Carter must prove that she is capable of caring for the animals.

Area food shelf gets donations of beef and pork

Thief River Falls area food shelf has received recent donations of both beef and pork, according to Evonne Moe, food shelf director.

The food shelf received 125 pounds of ground beef from a dairy cow slaughtered by area farmers recently in response to a predicted severe drop in milk prices.

"If overproduction of one percent is going to cause a 40 percent drop in prices, we thought that by eliminating that one percent of production it would help hold the price level for milk," said Terry Nelson, area dairy director for the National Farmers Organization (NFO).

Meat from the animal slaughtered was divided among the Greater Grand Forks Food Cupboard, East Grand Forks food shelf, Care & Share Center in Crookston and the Thief River Falls area food shelf.

Moe said the local food shelf has also been given six hogs by the Trantvet family of Thief River Falls and that the hogs have been processed for distribution to food shelf participants. Distribution at the food shelf takes place each Tuesday from 1 to 4:45 p.m.

It is unusual for the food shelf to have meat of this type, Moe added. There are two freezers at the food shelf but part of the pork recently donated is being stored at the processing plant until needed at the food shelf.

Food safety training and certification test offered

Accepted as the industry standard for food safety education, a ServSafe Certification course will be offered February 4, 9 and 16 from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls, according to Glenice Johnson, Pennington county extension educator.

ServSafe was developed by the National Restaurant Association and is recommended for all food service personnel, including those in restaurants, grocery store deli departments, resorts, hotels and other food service establishments.

The New Model Food Code soon to be adopted by the Minnesota Department of Health will require that all food service establishments employ at least one full-time manager or supervisor who has taken a sanitation course and passed a certification test. The ServSafe course provides the necessary training and the certification exam will be given at 5 p.m. on February 16.

"Course topics include types of contamination, common foodborne diseases, how to build an effective personal hygiene system, how to purchase and receive safe food, accident prevention and action for emergencies, appropriate storage procedures for foods, how to control pests, dealing with sanitation regulations and standards and much more," Johnson said.

The course is offered by the University of Minnesota, Crookston and will be taught by Sharon Steward, registered dietician and a certified instructor for the ServSafe program. Cost is $100 per person and includes textbook and testing fee.

Class size is limited to the first 30 people to register and early registration is advised. Registration forms are available at the Pennington county extension office in the courthouse in Thief River Falls. Stop in or call 218-683-7030 for a form or further information. Or call the outreach and continuing education office at UMC at 1-800-232-6466.

Grants available for community Festivals in MN

Arts Across Minnesota Festivals grant applications are available for communities and organizations to apply for funding to support an arts festival. Workshops scheduled in the area offer an introduction to the program and assistance with the applications process.

Arts Across Minnesota is a statewide program that provides grants to support a series of arts celebrations that recognize community, honor creativity, and strengthen identity in each of the 11 arts regions of the state. Arts Across Minnesota has two major components, festivals and community arts residencies.

Twenty-six Minnesota communities received a total of more than $535,000 through Arts Across Minnesota to support arts programming. This year 15 communities will present large-scale, family-oriented festivals that feature a significant arts component, showcasing the work of individual artists and arts organizations from the region. Eleven groups will sponsor touring performances that include residencies, classes, and public performances.

The Arts Across Minnesota Festivals grant program is open to community groups, arts groups, local governmental units, or other non-profit tax-exempt organizations. Applicants may request grants from $2,000 to $50,000 for established festivals, and from $2,000 to $5,000 for new festivals. The application deadline is May 17, 1999.

Workshops to introduce communities to the program and to assist applicants with the application process are scheduled for 11 locations around the state. One of the 11 workshops will be held in Red Lake Falls on Thursday, February 18, 1999, from 6 to 7:30 p.m. (RSVP by Monday, February 15); Red Lake Falls Public Library, First and Champagne Avenue SW.

For more information and an Arts Across Minnesota Festivals application form, contact the Minnesota State Arts Board, Park Square Court, 400 Sibley Street, Suite 200, St. Paul, MN 55101-1928, 651-215-1600, 800-866-2787, or e-mail <msab@state.mn.us>. The application forms may be printed from the Arts Board website at <www.arts.state.mn.us>.

67-year-old New Yorker enters Warroad 500 race

Believing it is "better late than never" to fulfill your dreams, Rudy Sabine of Richland, NY, has entered the Legends Class of the Warroad International 500 snowmobile race to take place January 29, 30 and 31 at Warroad. Rudy is 67 years of age.

Sabine is not a regular racer. In fact, the last time he participated in one of the several little races he has entered was in 1991.

But don't suggest he isn't taking the race seriously. He purchased a 1998 model Arctic Cat SnoPro machine from Brian Sturgeon of Black Magic and is eagerly awaiting the January 29 race start.

"I may not be as agile as I was 30-some years ago," Sabine said, "but I'm in good shape for my age and I'll give it everything I've got! As long as the sled holds up, I'll hang in there with the best of them."

More than 30 years ago Rudy was introduced to snowmobiling when his buddy bet him $50 that he could beat him in a race at Oswego, NY. That night Rudy went out and purchased a 340 Ski-Doo, raced with it that weekend and finished 19th in a field of 33 racers. Knock $50 off the price of the sled—his buddy finished 24th, and Rudy was hooked on snowmobiling.

Rudy Sabine

In addition to Rudy, his wife Susan and their three daughters all started riding snowmobiles. In 1972 Sabine sustained a back injury that required surgery and was troubled by the condition for many years.

In 1991 he and his wife started snowmobile riding again—Rudy on an Arctic Cat Puma and Susan on an Arctic Cat Prowler. They were among a group of 12 which formed the Pulaski-Boylston Snowmobile Club. In 1995 they joined the Kesong Trailblazers and worked to have a trail established around the Redfield Reservoir and to keep sleds off the reservoir itself.

"I'm still a kid at heart," Rudy says of his entry in the I-500, "and am thankful for my good health and the opportunity to fulfill my dream."

Polaris declares 20-cent dividend

Polaris Industries has declared a quarterly dividend of 20 cents per share, payable on or about February 15 to shareholders of record on February 1. This represents an increase of 11 percent from the dividend paid by the company in the fourth quarter of 1998.

Leonard Skeer, a member of the Pennington County Soil and Water Conservation District board of supervisors for the past 30 years and its current chairman, received a service recognition award from the district on Wednesday. Board member Danny Johnson (left), who is the board member with public relations responsibility, made the presentation at a 50th anniversary open house at the SWCD offices in the USDA building in Thief River Falls.

50th anniversary of the establishment of the Pennington County Soil and Water Conservation District office in Thief River Falls was observed at an open house Wednesday, January 20. Leonard Skaar (second from right) was recognized for 30 years of service as a member of the board of supervisors. Mike Ratzlaff (center) is the current district conservationist. Among the guests were past district conservationists Bob Kloubec (left) of Moorhead and Al Gustafson (right) of Thief River Falls and SCS technician Gordon Jalla (second from left) of Grygla.

Richard Sculthorp retirement party set for January 28

Retirement party for Richard Sculthorp, an employee at the U.S. Post Office in Thief River Falls for 33 years, will be held Sunday, January 31, from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Heritage Community Center in Thief River Falls.

Dick often rode along with his father who was a Star Route contractor beginning in 1952, and drove the route off and on from 1962 to 1966.

He entered the postal service on Jan. 20, 1966, and became a regular on March 15, 1969. He began working the customer window on May 13, 1969, and continues in that service. His last official work day will be Thursday, January 28.

Dick is a member of the American Postal Workers Union, American Legion Post 117, Thief River Falls Model Railroad club and Thief River Falls Trap Club. He is a past president of the Sno-Drifters Snowmobile club, a past member of the Thief River Falls Bowling Association and has been a Webelos leader and assistant scout leader in Cub Scout Pack 59 and Boy Scout Troop 59.

The public is invited to attend the January 31 open house.

Greenbush student has poem published

Child injured in fall from bleachers

Bemidji - A second broken arm was detected in a follow-up exam of the two-year-old who fell from the bleachers during a Bemidji State University women's basketball game last week.

The little girl was playing on the gymnasium bleachers with her twin brother when she fell through a 12-inch space from a height of approximately 18 feet to the gymnasium floor. The Pioneer

Mayor wishes to give EGF new identity

East Grand Forks - In an effort to give the city an identity of its own, Mayor Lynn Stauss wants to change the name of East Grand Forks. He says that people from all over confuse East Grand Forks with neighboring Grand Forks.

He wants to change the city's name to River City and recently introduced his idea to receptive City Council members.

Stauss used examples to back up his theory. A 1998 Governor's Proclamation signed by former Minnesota Governor Arne Carlson proclaimed Grand Forks as the community that survived the Flood of 1997, and current Governor Jesse Ventura also called the city Grand Forks when recently discussing flood recovery issues with city officials.

City councils members are quick to point out the name change is only in the preliminary stages, and Stauss says he wants to get the feeling of the community before acting any further. The Exponent

Bill Marvin cited for industry contributions

Warroad - William S. Marvin, chairman and CEO of Marvin Windows & Doors, has been named by Builder Magazine as one of the 100 most influential individuals to the building industry over the last century.

Marvin joined the family business in 1939 and helped guide the company from an eight-man lumberyard to the world's largest made-to-order wood window and door manufacturer.

The publication had a difficult task in narrowing the list to 100 influential people with as many as 50 million people having worked in the housing industry in the last 100 years. Warroad Pioneer

Fate of annual Sheep Days up in the air

Greenbush - Due to lack of volunteers and the loss of local committee member Roger Dvergsten, members of the Greenbush Sheep Producers board of directors do not know if Sheep Days will continue.

Sheep Days has been held in Greenbush during the first part of June for 60 years, and Dvergsten was in charge of many of the activities. Before a decision is made, letters will be sent to board members asking for opinions and what they are willing to do to keep Sheep Days alive. The Tribune

Service award for 12 years of membership on the Red Lake Watershed District board of supervisors was presented to Richard Dougherty (left) of Grygla at the January meeting of the board Thursday in Thief River Falls. Making the presentation was 1999 board chairman Vernon Johnson of Clearbrook.

Smeby begins service on Watershed District board

Lowell Smeby of Grygla began his service on the board of supervisors for the Red Lake Watershed District at the first meeting of 1999 Tuesday, January 12, at the district offices in Thief River Falls.

Smeby was appointed to the board by the Beltrami county board of commissioners as successor to Richard Dougherty who had served for the previous 12 years.

Lowell is a member of the Grygla-Gatzke-Skime board of education and the Beltrami county Farm Service Agency (FSA) board. He is a lifetime resident of Beltrami county where he is engaged in dairy farming.

Vernon Johnson of Clearbrook was elected president of the board at the meeting to succeed Dougherty. Johnson has previously served as president and has also headed the state association of watershed districts.

Dale M. Nelson of Thief River Falls was elected vice president to succeed Johnson while George Dailey of Red Lake Falls was reelected secretary and Leonard Mee of Grygla was reelected treasurer.

Other members of the board in addition to Smeby are Wally Jorgenson of Fisher and Dennis Nikolayson of Erskine.

Crop loss disaster program meetings scheduled in area

Public information meetings on the Crop Loss Disaster Assistance Program administered by the Farm Service Agency (FSA) have been scheduled at five area communities in early February, according to Glenn Schafer, Pennington county FSA executive director.

Sign-up for the program begins February 1 and continues through March 12. The sign-up is not on a first come, first served basis and all interested farmers will be given an opportunity to apply, Schafer said. Payments will not be issued until after the sign-up period has concluded.

Although the sign-up period begins February 1, county offices of the Farm Service Agency will not receive all of the program details until the first week in February. That is the reason the information meetings are not being held before the sign-up period opens. FSA encourages producers to attend an informational meeting to find out about the program before signing up to participate.

The program provides compensation to producers who have sustained crop losses in the single year of 1998 or multiple losses in at least three of the five years from 1994 through 1998.

The public informational meetings are scheduled as follows:

Thursday, February 4—10 a.m., Grygla Community Center in Grygla and the Eagles club rooms in Thief River Falls; and 2 p.m., Goodridge Community Center;

Monday, February 8—10 a.m., American Legion club rooms in Warren; and 2 p.m., Newfolden Community Center in Newfolden.

"Once in a blue moon" – twice in two months

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Hmm... two full moons during the month of January, one on the 2nd and the other tomorrow evening (Sunday, January 31). Is this a rare phenomenon? Is the second full moon in a month a "blue moon?" And does the event occur, say, only "once in a blue moon?"

These questions were raised earlier in the month, and for this reporter, whose interest was piqued, the subject warranted a trip to the public library.

Information about the moon, a huge natural satellite, was not difficult to find. Although many of the facts about earth's nearest neighbor were probably once learned in elementary school, they had been forgotten, and the "moon lesson" proved quite interesting.

While much is known about the moon, its existence can still only be explained in theory. Through the centuries, the moon has been the subject of legends and folklore, and its beauty and romantic qualities have inspired literary works and music.

Early people believed the moon to be a powerful god or goddess. Diana was the moon goddess of the ancient Romans. As goddess of the hunt, she used the crescent of the moon as her bow and moon beams as arrows. The ancient Greeks worshiped moon goddess Selene, and Konshu was the moon god of the Egyptians. Babylonians deemed Sin or Nannar to be the most powerful of the sky gods. Some American Indian tribes believed the sun and moon were brother and sister gods.

Even those who did not consider the moon to be sacred believed that it influenced life. Early philosophers and priests taught that the phases of the moon were related to birth, growth and death.

Some people feared that lunar eclipses were signs of famine, flood, war or other disasters. According to another superstition,

Farm Alarm: Coping with Stress to be presented at NCTC Feb. 18

A new play intended to bring stress reduction and safety messages to farm families, Farm Alarm: Coping with Stress will be presented Thursday, February 18, at 6 p.m. at Northland Community and Technical College cafeteria in Thief River Falls. The play will be presented in conjunction with a light supper.

Presentations will also take place at the Small Grains institute and Potato Expo at the Fargodome on Tuesday, February 9, at 1:30 p.m. and at the Sahlstrom Center in Brown Dining Hall at the University of Minnesota in Crookston Friday, February 19, at 6 p.m. There is no charge for these presentations.

Although entertainment is the main purpose of most theater productions, this play about stress also has the health and safety of Minnesota farm families in mind. The play is part of a new University of Minnesota Extension Service project called "Partners for Farm Health and Safety." It is funded by the Minnesota Department of Agriculture, and involves three regional coordinators working with U of M faculty and staff on the St. Paul campus.

Carolyn Weber, project coordinator in the Red River Valley, says stress is an increasing concern in farming today.

"Early in this project, I talked with dozens of people to find out which farm health and safety issue they are most concerned about," she said. "The response was overwhelming....'stress.'"

Weber herself is active in a farming operation near Crookston.

"Farming has become a very demanding big business with time constraints, deadlines and enormous financial pressures," she says. "Many farmers I have talked with are also consumed at times with internal stressors such as being afraid of failure, pressure to succeed and concern about the possibility of losing the family farm."

Weber says the play and workshop that follows will help farmers see that they're not alone as they work through the current farm crisis. The play and workshop will provide very specific, concrete, manageable strategies to reduce stress and the potential for a serious injury or illness.

"The play should be a good educational vehicle," says John Shutske, farm safety and health specialist with the University of Minnesota Extension Service and Partners project director.

"Good educational programs are engaging, fun and involve participants in an interactive way," he notes. "We will be presenting true stories through the actors. The stories are based on our research with dozens of farm families, as well as agribusiness people such as feed and fertilizer salespeople, lenders and consultants.

"Our own research," Shutske adds, "supports the fact that farmers like to learn from other farmers. A study we've just completed on the occupational health and safety

67-year-old New Yorker enters Warroad 500 race

Believing it is "better late than never" to fulfill your dreams, Rudy Sabine of Richland, NY has entered the Legends Class of the Warroad International 500 snowmobile race to take place January 29, 30 and 31 at Warroad. Rudy is 67 years of age.

Sabine is not a regular racer. In fact, the last time he participated in one of the several little races he has entered was in 1991.

But don't suggest he isn't taking the race seriously. He purchased a 1998 model Arctic Cat SnoPro machine from Brian Sturgeon of Black Magic and is eagerly awaiting the January 29 race start.

"I may not be as agile as I was 30 some years ago," Sabine said, "but I'm in good shape for my age and I'll give it everything I've got! As long as the sled holds up, I'll hang in there with the best of them."

More than 30 years ago Rudy was introduced to snowmobiling when his buddy bet him $50 that he could beat him in a race at Oswego, NY. That night Rudy went out and purchased a 340 Ski-Doo, raced with it that weekend and finished 19th in a field of 33 racers. Knock $50 off the price of the sled—his buddy finished 24th, and Rudy was hooked on snowmobiling.

Rudy Sabine

In addition to Rudy, his wife Susan and their three daughters all started riding snowmobiles. In 1972 Sabine sustained a back injury that required surgery and was troubled by the condition for many years.

In 1991 he and his wife started snowmobile riding again. Rudy on an Arctic Cat Puma and Susan on an Arctic Cat Prowler. They were among a group of 12 which formed the Pulaski Boylston Snowmobile Club. In 1998 they joined the Kesony Trailblazers and worked to have a trail established around the Redfield Reservoir and to keep sleds off the reservoir itself.

"I'm still a kid at heart," Rudy says of his entry in the I-500, "and am thankful for my good health and the opportunity to fulfill my dream."

Polaris declares 20-cent dividend

Child injured in fall from bleachers

Bemidji - A second broken arm was detected in a follow-up exam of the two-year-old who fell from the bleachers during a Bemidji State University women's basketball game last week.

The little girl was playing on the gymnasium bleachers with her twin brother when she fell through a 12-inch space from a height of approximately 18 feet to the gymnasium floor. The Pioneer

Mayor wishes to give EGF new identity

East Grand Forks - In an effort to give the city an identity of its own, Mayor Lynn Stauss wants to change the name of East Grand Forks. He says that people from all over confuse East Grand Forks with neighboring Grand Forks.

He wants to change the city's name to River City and recently introduced his idea to receptive City Council members.

Stauss used examples to back up his theory. A 1998 Governor's Proclamation signed by former Minnesota Governor Arne Carlson proclaimed Grand Forks as the community that survived the Flood of 1997, and current Governor Jesse Ventura also called the city Grand Forks when recently discussing flood recovery issues with city officials.

City councils members are quick to point out the name change is only in the preliminary stages, and Stauss says he wants to get the feeling of the community before acting any further. The Exponent

Bill Marvin cited for industry contributions

Warroad - William S. Marvin, chairman and CEO of Marvin Windows & Doors, has been named by Builder Magazine as one of the 100 most influential individuals in the building industry over the last century.

Marvin joined the family business in 1939 and helped guide the company from an eight-man lumberyard to the world's largest made-to-order wood window and door manufacturer.

The publication had a difficult task in narrowing the list to 100 influential people with as many as 50 million people having worked in the housing industry in the last 100 years. Warroad Pioneer

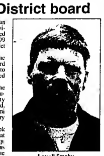
Fate of annual Sheep Days up in the air

Greenbush - Due to lack of volunteers and the loss of local committee member Roger Dvergsten, members of the Greenbush Sheep Producers board of directors do not know if Sheep Days will continue.

Sheep Days has been held in Greenbush during the first part of June for 60 years, and Dvergsten was in charge of many of the activities. Before a decision is made, letters will be sent to board members asking for opinions and what they are willing to do to keep Sheep Days alive. The Tribune

Service award for 12 years of membership on the Red Lake Watershed District board of supervisors was presented to Richard Dougherty (left) of Grygla at the January meeting of the board Thursday in Thief River Falls. Making the presentation was 1999 board chairman Vernon Johnson of Clearbrook.

Smeby begins service on Watershed District board



Lowell Smeby of Grygla began his service on the board of supervisors for the Red Lake Watershed District at the first meeting of 1999 Tuesday, January 12, at the district offices in Thief River Falls.

Smeby was appointed to the board by the Beltrami county board of commissioners as successor to Richard Dougherty who had served for the previous 12 years.

Lowell is a member of the Grygla-Gatzke-Skime board of education and the Beltrami county Farm Service Agency (FSA) board. He is a lifetime resident of Beltrami county where he is engaged in dairy farming.

Vernon Johnson of Clearbrook was elected president of the board at the meeting to succeed Dougherty. Johnson has previously served as president and has also headed the state association of watershed districts.

Dale M. Nelson of Thief River Falls was elected vice president to succeed Johnson while George Dailey of Red Lake Falls was reelected secretary and Leonard Moe of Grygla was reelected treasurer.

Other members of the board in addition to Smeby are Wally Jorgenson of Fisher and Dennis Nikolayson of Erskine.

Crop loss disaster program meetings scheduled in area

Public information meetings on the Crop Loss Disaster Assistance Program administered by the Farm Service Agency (FSA) have been scheduled at five area communities in early February, according to Glenn Schafer, Pennington county FSA executive director.

Sign-up for the program begins February 1 and continues through March 12. The sign-up is not on a first come, first served basis and all interested farmers will be given an opportunity to apply, Schafer said. Payments will not be issued until after the sign-up period has concluded.

Although the sign-up period begins February 1, county offices of the Farm Service Agency will not receive all of the program details until the first week in February. That is the reason the information meetings are not being held before the sign-up period opens. FSA encourages producers to attend an informational meeting to find out about the program before signing up to participate.

The program provides compensation to producers who have sustained crop losses in the single year of 1998 or multiple losses in at least three of the five years from 1994 through 1998.

The public informational meetings are scheduled as follows:

Thursday, February 4—10 a.m., Grygla Community Center in Grygla and the Eagles club rooms in Thief River Falls; and 2 p.m., Goodridge Community Center.

Monday, February 8—10 a.m., American Legion club rooms in Warren; and 2 p.m., Newfolden Community Center in Newfolden

"Once in a blue moon" – twice in two months

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Hmm . . . two full moons during the month of January, one on the 2nd and the other tomorrow evening (Sunday, January 31). Is this a rare phenomenon? Is the second full moon in a month a "blue moon?" And does the event occur, say, only "once in a blue moon?"

These questions were raised earlier in the month, and for this reporter, whose interest was piqued, the subject warranted a trip to the public library.

Information about the moon, a huge natural satellite, was not difficult to find. Although many of the facts about earth's nearest neighbor were probably once learned in elementary school, they had been forgotten, and the "moon lesson" proved quite interesting.

While much is known about the moon, its existence can still only be explained in theory. Through the centuries, the moon has been the subject of legends and folklore, and its beauty and romantic qualities have inspired literary works and music.

Early people believed the moon to be a powerful god or goddess. Diana was the moon goddess of the ancient Romans. As goddess of the hunt, she used the crescent of the moon as her bow and moon beams as arrows. The ancient Greeks worshiped moon goddess Selene, and Konshu was the moon god of the Egyptians. Babylonians deemed Sin or Nannar to be the most powerful of the sky gods. Some American Indian tribes believed the sun and moon were brother and sister gods.

Even those who did not consider the moon to be sacred believed that it influenced life. Early philosophers and priests taught that the phases of the moon were related to birth, growth and death.

Some people feared that lunar eclipses were signs of famine, flood, war or other disasters. According to another superstition

Farm Alarm: Coping with Stress to be presented at NCTC Feb. 18

A new play intended to bring stress reduction and safety messages to farm families, Farm Alarm: Coping with Stress will be presented Thursday, February 18, at 6 p.m. at Northland Community and Technical College cafeteria in Thief River Falls. The play will be presented in conjunction with a light supper.

Presentations will also take place at the Small Grains Institute and Potato Expo at the Fargodome on Tuesday, February 9, at 1:30 p.m. and at the Sahlstrom Center in Brown Dining Hall at the University of Minnesota in Crookston Friday, February 19, at 6 p.m. There is no charge for these presentations.

Although entertainment is the main purpose of most theater productions, this play about stress also has the health and safety of Minnesota farm families in mind. The play is part of a new University of Minnesota Extension Service project called "Partners for Farm Health and Safety." It is funded by the Minnesota Department of Agriculture and involves three regional coordinators working with U of M faculty and staff on the St. Paul campus.

Carolyn Weber, project coordinator in the Red River Valley, says stress is an increasing concern in farming today.

"Early in this project, I talked with dozens of people to find out which farm health and safety issue they are most concerned about," she said. "The response was overwhelming . . 'stress.'"

Weber herself is active in a farming operation near Crookston.

"Farming has become a very demanding big business with time constraints, deadlines and enormous financial pressures," she says. "Many farmers I have talked with are also consumed at times with internal stressors such as being afraid of failure, pressure to succeed and concern about the possibility of losing the family farm."

There was a mistake made in last week's recipes. Part of the Spaghetti Casserole directions were missing. To all of you who tried to make the dish and found yourself not knowing how to put it together, I am very sorry. To Ms. Cerny, who has been fielding numerous calls from people asking, "What do I do next," I am very sorry. The mistake was entirely mine - I did it all my myself - I can't even blame it on the typesetters, since I send the recipes in by e-mail. Please don't call Ms. Cerny any more - here is the complete recipe:

SPAGHETTI CASSEROLE

1 (7 ounce) package spaghetti
2 tablespoons margarine, melted
1/3 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 pound ground beef
1 small onion, chopped
1 (30 ounce) jar spaghetti sauce
3 to 4 cups Mozzarella cheese
2 eggs, well beaten
1 (3 1/2 ounce) package pepperoni slices

Cook spaghetti as directed. Rinse and drain. Combine with melted margarine, Parmesan cheese and beaten eggs until well blended.

Spread in 9x13 inch greased baking pan. Brown beef and onion; drain and layer over spaghetti. Pour spaghetti sauce over the top and sprinkle with Mozzarella cheese. Arrange pepperoni slices over the cheese.

Cover and bake 20 minutes at 350 degrees. Uncover and bake 15 minutes longer. Let stand 5 minutes. Cut and serve.

Now that all the Christmas cookies are gone, I can't stand to think about cookies for a while and maybe you can't either. But here are some other sweet treats you might enjoy (from that St. Paull cookbook again, which is starting to get a little tattered). Some of them sound really old, but simply delicious, and you might like to try them on these dreary cold winter days when we are waiting for signs of spring.

Don't bother if you're dieting, but this is a great winter pie:

BROADWELL'S SOUR CREAM RAISIN PIE
Jennifer Davidson

(Recipe has been halved to make one pie - double for two)

1 cup raisins
1 cup water
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons and 1 1/2 teaspoons flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 egg yolks, broken
1 cup sour cream
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cooked pie shell

Boil raisins in water until half of liquid is left. Mix sugar and flour together and stir into raisin mixture.

Add vanilla, egg yolks, sour cream and salt and boil until thick, stirring constantly. Cool and pour into pie shell. Top with meringue.

Meringue for one pie
2 egg whites
1/4 cup sugar

Beat egg whites until very foamy. Slowly add sugar, beating until stiff. Spoon lightly into cooled pie.

Brown in 425 degree oven for 5 minutes. Cool for at least 4 hours before serving.

This sounds like a good dessert to enjoy on one of these lazy winter days:

QUICK, RICH, MOIST COFFEE CAKE
Jodie Torkelson

2 cups flour
3/4 cup sugar
2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter
1 egg
Milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
Honey Bre Glaze
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup milk
1/4 cup butter
1/4 cup honey
1/2 cup crushed nuts

Sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Cut in 1/2 cup butter.

Break egg into measuring cup and add enough milk to make 1 cup. Beat and add to flour mixture. Add vanilla.

Pour batter into greased 9x13 inch pan and cover with Glaze. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes.

To make Glaze, stir sugar, milk, butter, honey and crushed nuts. Bring to boiling over low heat and then pour over batter.

This is an old recipe that makes a tasty, gingerbread-like dessert or snack - serve it plain, or with whipped cream, ice cream, or a little lemon soure for a special treat. The recipe is a little vague, but I've added some tips at the end - it might be well worth the effort to try it:

MRS. FEDER ENGELSTAD'S MOLASSES CAKE
Fern Williams

1 cup shortening
2 cups sugar
1 1/2 cups molasses
3 cups cooked coffee
4 eggs
3 teaspoons soda
Raisins
Orange peeling and juice
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon allspice
1/2 teaspoon cloves
About 6 cups flour

The directions say, "Mix together and bake."

(I would mix in order given, adding coffee last of all. Use enough flour to make a nice cake-type batter, 5 to 6 cups. With this much flour, the recipe must make two 9x13 inch cakes, so grease and flour 2 cake pans. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes to an hour, checking to see if top springs back. Now take one of the cakes to the neighbor who has been blowing the snow off your sidewalk all winter.)

Here's another odd recipe that sounds a lot like the old-fashioned "fruit soup" our grandparents loved:

SVISKEGROT
Jana Loken

1 package pitted prunes
Water to cover prunes
2-3 cinnamon sticks
1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/3 cup minute tapioca
2 cups water

Cover prunes with water in bowl and soak overnight until plump and soft.

Next day, pour prunes and water in saucepan, add cinnamon sticks, and cook 15-20 minutes, stirring occasionally to break up prunes.

Remove cinnamon sticks and add sugar. Add a little more water if too thick. Add lemon juice and cook a few minutes longer.

In separate saucepan, combine the 2 cups water and tapioca. Boil until mostly clear, stirring constantly. Add tapioca mixture to prunes, stirring to combine thoroughly. Pour into bowl and cool.

When cooled, top with whipped cream and serve.

This cake sounds good enough for company - and it can be served hot or cold:

MANDARIN ORANGE CAKE
Ivette Garrett

3 eggs
2 (11 ounce) cans mandarin oranges
2 cups flour
2 cups sugar
2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons batter
3/4 cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons milk

Beat eggs and oranges, with their juice, until oranges are in small pieces.

Mix flour, sugar, soda and salt. Add to orange mixture in 1/2 cup portions until well blended. Place in 9x12 inch greased and floured cake pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 30-35 minutes.

Cook butter, brown sugar and milk until boiling, stirring constantly. Pour over warm cake in spoonfuls. Cake will absorb topping.

Serve with whipped cream.

One more good old winter recipe - something to warm up your innards and make you glow all over:

ALMA MATHSON'S RAISIN RICE PUDDING
Inez Mathson

1 1/2 cups cooked rice
3/4 cup raisins
2 beaten eggs
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
Dash of nutmeg
2 cups scalded milk

Combine rice, raisins, eggs, sugar, vanilla, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. Stir in scalded milk. Place in baking dish and bake 1 hour at 350 degrees.

Dates for LHS Sno-Fest change

Dates for the Lincoln High School Sno-Fest have changed. Originally, the event was scheduled for the end of January, but due to a couple of conflicts, the event dates have been changed to February 16-20.

The event begins on Tuesday, February 16, because there will be no school on President's Day, Monday, February 15. An additional change is the day of the dance. This year, the dance will be held on Saturday, instead of on Friday as in past years.

Poor shooting hurts NCTC

A poor shooting performance cost Northland Monday in a 54-53 Minnesota Community College Conference women's basketball loss to Fergus Falls.

The Pioneers challenged the visiting Spartans at the end, making it a 54-53 game when Becky Perreault hit a 3-point shot with 4 seconds to play.

But with no time outs left, the clock ran down to 1.9 seconds before Northland could pick up a play-stopping foul and put Fergus Falls at the free throw line. The Pioneers controlled the rebound when the Spartans missed the front end of the bonus opportunity, but there wasn't enough time to get into position for a final shot.

"Defensively I thought we played an excellent ball game," said Northland coach Mike Zachow. "We held Anita Follingstad, the No 4 scorer in the nation, to just eight points. But we couldn't hit anything. That was our biggest problem. We beat them in every statistical category except shooting."

Northland shot just 30 percent from the floor for the night (19/64). Fergus Falls shot 46 percent (21/46). The game turned, said Zachow, when Fergus Falls went on a 14-2 run in the final five minutes of the first half to turn a 20-14 deficit into a 28-22 lead at intermission.

Northland is 4-11 overall and 3-4 in the MCCC Northern Division.

Poor shooting hurts NCTC

A poor shooting performance cost Northland Monday in a 51-53 Minnesota Community College Conference women's basketball loss to Fergus Falls.

The Pioneers challenged the visiting Spartans at the end, making it a 51-53 game when Becky Perreault hit a 3-point shot with 4 seconds to play.

But with no time outs left, the clock ran down to 1.9 seconds before Northland could pick up a play-stopping foul and put Fergus Falls at the free throw line. The Pioneers controlled the rebound when the Spartans missed the front end of the bonus opportunity, but there wasn't enough time to get into position for a final shot.

"Defensively I thought we played an excellent ball game," said Northland coach Mike Zachow. "We held Anita Follingstad, the No. 4 scorer in the nation, to just eight points. But we couldn't hit anything. That was our biggest problem. We beat them in every statistical category except shooting."

Northland shot just 30 percent from the floor for the night (19/61). Fergus Falls shot 46 percent (21/46). The game turned, said Zachow, when Fergus Falls went on a 14-2 run in the final five minutes of the first half to turn a 20-14 deficit into a 28-22 lead at intermission.

Northland is 4-14 overall and 3-4 in the MCCC Northern Division.

Three Cheers For Judge Donovan Frank

Let's hear it for U.S. District Court Judge Donovan Frank who used uncommonly good sense recently in rejecting a request for an injunction on a logging effort outside the western border of the Boundary Waters Canoe Area Wilderness (BWCA).

Federal Judge Frank rejected a lawsuit filed by the Superior Wilderness Action Network (SWAN) and several individuals asking the court to issue a restraining order to prohibit extension of a logging road in the area. SWAN claimed that the U.S. Forest Service violated federal law by failing to do an adequate environmental assessment on the effects of the road and the logging.

It turns out instead that SWAN failed to do an adequate job of checking to see what actually had been assessed and what the results were.

Judge Frank ruled that the U.S. Forest Service had indeed already completed "a detailed and well-supported" environmental assessment and that the public interest, while justifying protection of some forests, also allows for logging in others.

The area in question is known as Little East Creek and is a mixture of state and private land within the Superior National Forest. Timber on the state land was sold in 1995 to Boise Cascade Corporation, and the U.S. Forest Service is obligated by federal law to allow road-building across its land to reach the state property.

SWAN and others objected to the timber cutting because the area contains a large number of century-old pine trees, few roads and good habitat for timberwolves and Canadian lynxes.

As usual, the "environmental" group is based in St. Paul and its executive director, Ray Fenner, said it would make a decision soon on whether to appeal the judge's ruling. There seems to be something about the Twin Cities metro area that brings out the urge in some people to preserve everyone else's environment. They don't want to reside or try to make a living in the area of their environmental concerns, they just want to "protect" it. Actually, "control" it would be a better term.

For instance, the Audubon Society wants to establish a five-mile buffer zone around the BWCA. The Sierra Club would like to end all timber management on the national forests, recommending instead that federal dollars be provided to re-train people and communities whose livelihood and existence depend on the forest product economy. Both organizations suggest that the national forests should be renewed through massive wildfire or other massive "natural" disturbance.

It's good that people are concerned about the environment and its protection. It's not good that they are so willing to ignore the needs and rights of others and are so quick to initiate legal action—warranted or not—to preserve their occasional playgrounds and/or narrow interests.

A preservationist looks at a 100-year-old pine and dotes on its majestic appearance, its impressive size, its ability to withstand all nature has thrown at it since it was a seedling, the bird in its branches and the gap in nature when it is gone.

A logger looks at the same tree and measures it in board feet, stacks of lumber to build homes for people, room for younger trees to grow and become large trees, continuing the cycle. Trees left to themselves will grow and die and fall and decay and contribute to new growth. Logging simply intervenes in the cycle, utilizes the product for human good and accelerates regrowth with replanting and management.

For too many years self-styled environmentalists have been able to thwart loggers and other business entities by filing lawsuits with unsubstantiated charges that nonetheless require time-consuming legal procedures and delays. In the case of Little East Creek, however, a Federal Judge has refused to be a party to that ploy. Not every tree needs to be burned or die a natural death and be wasted, seems to be Judge Frank's reasoning. Some protection for some trees is justified, yes, but others should be put to good use.

Judge Frank also did something else after denying the request for an injunction. He requested that the different parties in the suit attempt to negotiate a settlement on the question of logging. That would be an interesting bit of negotiation.

We would suggest that SWAN selects the place for a meeting, and that it selects a building that utilizes no natural resources in its construction materials or heating. If no such place conveniently can be found, then opt for a building built from materials whose use has the least adverse impact on the earth's resources. A building made from a renewable resource such as wood should have preference over one built with expendable resources—metal, concrete, brick, plastic.

It should become apparent to even the narrow interests of SWAN that utilizing a renewable resource is preferable to depleting other non-renewable resources. Let these environmental activists leave their wood frame homes in the urban sprawl suburbs, drive their air polluting cars on the wetland disturbing highways coated with resource-depleting surfacing to the BWCA and get their two-week nature infusion by hugging the protected century-old pines there—and stop clogging the courts with unnecessary and irrational legal actions.

One more time, let's hear it for the uncommon common sense of Judge Donovan Frank: Hip, hip, HOORAY! Hip, hip, HOORAY! Hip, hip, HOORAY!

And oh, yes, we almost forgot.......

Oh, and by the way, we almost forgot....the National Football League's Super Bowl is to be played this Sunday. Let us give an appropriate cheer: whoopee. If you have a quarter, call someone who cares.

Final score: Atlanta Falcons 23; Denver Broncos 20.

Transition Zones

Is Stairway to Heaven a slow song or a fast song? You know, that late seventies Led Zeppelin favorite that began so slowly and romantically, only to irresistibly wind itself up about halfway through and eventually spin out of headshaking control into a full-blown rock anthem.

I could never get my arms around that musical transition, which, by the way, is what we post-pubescent teenagers felt was the sole purpose for the ballad in the first place— getting our arms around each other at the end of the bi-monthly school dance. "Serious relationships" were gauged by a Stairway to Heaven partner, with social commitments and perceptions arising directly from the way a couple adhered to or ignored the beat.

Locking against a member of the opposite sex, in wrestler-like fashion, was a no-brainer for the first third of the tune; it was too deliberate and lethargic to dance it any other way. But the inevitable increase in tempo would come, and with it the uncomfortable demand for decision-making. If you could remain clenched through the middle third of the song, with its call for bodily separation and more aggressive dance steps, then maybe this girl thought as highly of you as you did of her.

And if she didn't politely push you away and resort to the standard two yards of arm-waving dancing space during the frenetic chords of the final few stanzas, then you could surely bet you'd have a partner for lunch on Monday.

Fishing has been good this past month. Maybe too good. I'm hearing Led Zeppelin somewhere in the back of my mind on a fairly regular basis.

My guests enter the fishhouses with confident, eager smiles. They've heard the reports. I reassure them, fishing has been good and I expect it to continue. Fishing has been good enough that I even offer a good-natured reminder about limits and laws. The guests smile again—fishermen like hearing optimistic banter like that.

We have clenched and are comfortably, even happily shuffling in unison to a slow series of leisurely chords.

The fish bite well, pails are filled, and I again offer reminders about lawfulness. The guests reassess their catch totals, express some disappointment at being able to keep only two more fish, and suggest I take a few of the smaller ones from them. I refuse. The law is discussed again, this time a little more directly, and I move on, having successfully thrown a cloud of gloom over what had been a happy group of fishermen. I grow anxious about their sporting intentions and they grow anxious about my self-righteous, accusing tone.

The music's tempo has picked up and my partner seems uncomfortable with the way I have refused to change the pace of my feet while they begin to move to the new-found beat.

It's a new day, the next day, begun with empty pails. My guests are excited again, ready for more fish action as they assure me they've eaten virtually everything they caught the day prior. I nod politely, trying my best to imagine if I'd even be able to get out of bed having digested the richness of a dozen or so saugers the night before.

When I check at noon, the pail is much less full than the previous day, but chances are good that a limit has been achieved, depending on what actually still exists back in their private freezer. Their grumblings about the slowdown in the fishing allow me to rationalize some of my closed-mouth guilt: being slightly illegal is better than being grossly illegal, especially if times are tougher. I offer my standard words on the law and am met with the same polite, insincere smiles that I offered that morning. I'm no longer in control of this situation, but can't help feeling that I'm still a part of it.

The song has wound up to its fullest potential and we are now two very distinct, singular dancers, gyrating in our own personal interpretations of the same music. The slow dance I entered into has been transformed somewhere along the way and is moving too fast for me. My partner now dictates the pace and separation is the only reluctant possibility. As the song ends, we part with the standard head nods and handshakes, both relieved that our uncomfortable social posturing has ended. Chances are good we won't dance again.

Is Stairway to Heaven a slow song or a fast one? It's not so much a case of being one or the other, it's that darn transition period that gets me every time.

Arctic Cat sales, earnings down for quarter and year

snowmobile shipments resulting from moderately lower orders from dealers."

Retail sales for Arctic Cat and the industry through December were slightly lower than expected, he added, but retail sales have increased in late December and early January with the arrival of good, ridable snow over most of the snowbelt.

To help dealers sell their remaining inventory, Arctic Cat has initiated programs which appear to be stimulating retail sales, the CEO added. With the increased snow, retail business for parts, garments and accessories also appears to be strong at the dealer level—which will help dealers to experience a profitable overall snowmobile business this year.

"With continued good snow conditions driving retail sales," he said, "we expect to end the year with very manageable inventory levels and look forward to our exciting model year 2000. Our year 2000 sleds will be unveiled at our dealer shows in Reno, Nevada, in late February."

Advantages of diversification in manufacturing became more evident in calendar year 1998 when the all-terrain vehicle (ATV) market grew at a double-digit rate. Retail sales of Arctic Cat ATV models continued to outpace the industry's growth rate during that period.

"We expanded our model line during 1998 to cover all major market segments," Twomey said. "As a result of increased brand awareness and having models in every major market segment for the entire year, we look forward to continued strong future sales growth in this area of our production."

Arctic Cat Inc. designs, engineers, manufactures and markets snowmobiles and all-terrain vehicles under the Arctic Cat brand name and personal watercraft under the Tigershark brand name, as well as related parts, garments and accessories.

Weather Service office established in Grand Forks

Starting February 2, the National Weather Service office in Grand Forks, ND, will officially become the weather forecast office (WFO) for northwest Minnesota and eastern North Dakota.

The process of establishing a WFO in Grand Forks began nearly four years ago. During this time various forecast products were transferred to Grand Forks from NWS forecast offices in Bismarck, ND and Minneapolis.

Development of a forecast office in Grand Forks is part of a national plan to modernize the National Weather Service. "What the completion of a regional forecast office in Grand Forks means for the citizens of eastern North Dakota and northwest Minnesota is the issuance of more accurate and timely forecasts and warnings," states Lee Anderson, meteorologist-in-charge of the WFO in Grand Forks.

The National Weather Service provides daily forecasts for aviation, general public and hydrologic interests. It also serves specialized users such as forest or rangeland firefighters in Minnesota. NWS is the nation's only official voice for severe weather watches, warnings and advisories.

Ag-Arama at UMC Jan. 29-30

Ag-Arama, the annual competitive and fun event of the University of Minnesota, Crookston (UMC), will be held Friday and Saturday, January 29 and 30, at the University Teaching and Outreach Complex. The mech-ag-athon will be held January 23 in Owen Hall.

Ag-Arama provides students the opportunity to showcase their knowledge and skills in their individual interest areas. There are contests in horticulture, agriculture aviation, agronomy, soils, natural resources, mechanized agriculture and animal science showmanship.

All of the Ag-Arama events during the day are open to the public, as well as to the UMC community, students and alumni.

"Once in a blue moon" – twice in two months

sleeping in the moonlight caused one to become "moonstruck" or insane. Lunatic is a derivative of luna, the Latin word meaning moon.

The "man in the moon," according to legends of various lands, was imprisoned there because he broke the Sabbath. Others saw other figures in the moon's markings.

From ancient times until the early 1900's, many people believed that some form of life existed on the moon.

Even today, there are some who continue to worship the moon. Others believe that the moon affects the weather or plant growth. The moon is also an important element of astrology, a popular pseudo science.

"Moonshine" was one of the names given to the unlawful liquor that was made or smuggled, often at night, during the prohibition era. "Moonlighting" is the practice of holding a second job, usually at night, in addition to a regular day-time job.

Science explains how two full moons occur in a single month. Every 29-1/2 days the moon, held in place by the force of gravity, makes a trip or orbit around the earth. Scientists call this period a synodic month, and during this time we see the moon "change" from a slim crescent to a full circle and back again.

These day-to-day changes are called phases of the moon and occur as the moon orbits the earth as the earth and moon travel around the sun. Actually, the moon gives off no light of its own but shines by reflecting sunlight.

Because the moon is made chiefly of dark gray rocks and dust (and not green cheese!), it reflects only about ten percent of the light it receives. Though a full moon seems bright on a clear night, a whole sky of full moons would only be about one-fifth as bright as the sun.

Half of the moon is always in sunlight, but varying amounts are visible from earth. As the moon and earth move along their orbits, more of the sunlit part is seen until it shines as a full moon, and then less and less of the sunlit part is seen until the dark new moon returns.

Since ancient times people have measured time by the phases of the moon. American Indians recorded that a harvest or hunt took place a certain number of "moons" ago. People in Muslim countries continue to use a 354-day calendar consisting of 12 synodic lunar months.

Jews use the lunar calendar to establish religious holidays, and Christians celebrate Easter on a date that varies from year to year because it is related to the full moon.

However, we base our calendar on the 365-1/4 days it takes the earth to orbit the sun, not the synodic calendar. Thus, because the average month is about 30-1/2 days long, it is possible for two full moons to appear in a single month.

January's first full moon appeared on the 2nd, and 29 days later, it will appear again on Sunday, January 31. Because February has only 28 days, there will be no full moon during the month, and then it will appear twice in March, again on the 2nd and 31st. The remaining months of the year have 30 or 31 days, and the full moon will appear only once during these months.

How often do we experience two full moons in a single month? Is the second full moon occurring in a calendar month a "blue moon." Is this where the saying "once in a blue moon" originated?

The answer seems to be in the stars! The opinions of archivists and students of folklore differ with regard to the origin and meaning of the expression "blue moon." However, it is believed that it has been used to describe the second full moon of a month since the 1940's.

"Once in a blue moon," according to one researcher, was first used about 150 years ago and meant "hardly ever."

On the average, two full moons appear during a single month 41 times in every century. In other words, the event occurs about every two-and-a-half years. While that's not often and the saying is appropriate, perhaps "once in a blue moon" better describes a Presidential impeachment trial or — sorry sports fans — the Vikings playing in the Superbowl!

Bemidji 60-41 winner over mistake-prone Prowlers...

TRF turnovers prove costly

Turnover figures are acceptably high at the start of the high school basketball season. But that number is expected, or rather, it has to drop as the season progresses. Twenty-eight turnovers in a game played at the end of January won't cut it. And that's how many times the Thief River Falls boys handed the ball over Tuesday in a 60-41 home court loss to Bemidji.

"Defensively, I think we played as well as we can," said Thief River Falls coach Bob Johnson, "but offensively we're just not getting it done." "And it wasn't because of their pressure. It was just a lot of unforced turnovers that killed us. We didn't take care of the basketball at the right time."

Despite the mistakes, Thief River Falls stayed close for three quarters.

Josh Gallagher, left open on the wing, beat the first quarter buzzer with a 3-point shot to pull the Prowlers within 14-12. A lob pass underneath to Matt Myers produced a 22-22 tie with 2:03 left in the first half that ended with the Lumberjacks scoring on a 3-point play by Paul Winge and a turnover-producing drive by Jake Sand with 5.6 seconds showing.

Gallagher, a 6-1 junior, scored seven of his team-high 17 points in a third quarter scoring flurry that included a steal and fast break layup, a 3-point basket from the side and a short jumper off a block by teammate Kelly Cota to turn a 29-24 deficit into a 31-29 lead.

But that was the last time Bemidji trailed. After a basket and three free throws by Winge, Thief River Falls sophomore Justin Skjerven drilled a 3-point shot out of the corner to tie the game for the final time, 34-34, with 3:05 left in the third quarter. The Lumberjacks took over at that point, out-scoring the Prowlers 26-7 the rest of the way.

It was 41-34 at the third quarter break. Myers, a 6-8 senior who scored 11 first half points, knocked down his only basket of the second half when he drove the middle and pulled up for a short jumper to keep the Prowlers in it at 45-38 with 3:32 to play. But Bemidji pulled away with a 15-3 finishing kick – eight of those points coming at the free throw line.

"Take away those free throws at the end, and we only gave up 50 points to a pretty good ball club," noted Johnson.

Four Bemidji scorers hit double figures, led by Sand, a 6-5 senior, with 19 points.

Thief River Falls was 17-for-43 from the field (40 percent) and 3-for-4 at the free throw line. Bemidji went 20-for-49 from the floor (41 percent) and cashed in on 14 of 17 free throw opportunities. With just 10 turnovers, Bemidji was able to overcome Thief River Falls' 29-20 rebound advantage.

Results put the Prowlers at 3-10 and the Lumberjacks at 7-7.

Scoring

TRF - Matt Myers 13, Kelly Cota 6, Brian Loe 2, Josh Gallagher 17, Justin Skjerven 3.

Thief River Falls' Josh Gallagher tried to drive around Bemidji defender Chris Fairchild in the first half of Tuesday's boys high school basketball game played in the Lincoln gym. Gallagher scored a team-high 17 points, but the Prowlers lost to the Lumberjacks 60-41.

Crookston wins rematch 4-2

■ Pirates beat Prowlers in Section 8A hockey

In their first meeting Jan. 7, Thief River Falls overcame a 4-0 deficit to register a 5-4 Section 8A high school hockey win over Crookston. Tuesday, the Prowlers' come-from-behind efforts fell short as the Pirates won a 4-2 rematch.

Goals in the first and second period by Jeremy Yeager provided Crookston with a 2-0 lead. Brett Johnson made it 2-1 before the second period ended, only to have Shawn Kleven rebuild the two-goal Crookston edge midway through the third period.

Jarod Reierson again pulled the Prowlers to within one goal by scoring at 11:12 of the third period, but Ryan Kleven wrapped it up with an empty-net clincher with just eight seconds to play.

It was the fourth straight loss for the 4-9-3 Prowlers, who haven't won since beating the Pirates three weeks ago. They played without leading scorers Wade Chiodo (injury) and Jeff Rislov (one-game disqualification).

"They played hard," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland, who watched the game from the stands after having been ejected from the Prowlers' 4-3 loss to Moorhead Saturday. "We were obviously limited offensively without our top two scorers. We had to make a lot of changes."

Thief River Falls has six regular season games left on the 1998-99 schedule, starting tonight (Saturday) against Lake of the Woods in Baudette. The Prowlers will then play three home games in five days as they host Bemidji Tuesday, Roseau Thursday and Hallock Saturday. "We haven't been healthy for three-four games," noted Bergland. "We've got to get everybody back and everybody healthy. If we can to that, we can still be a good hockey team."

First period - Crookston, Jeremy Yeager (Todd Chandler-John Fitzgerald), 5:30.

Second period - Crookston, Yeager (Ryan Kleven-Chris Myrold), 2:59. TRF, Brett Johnson (Trevor Peterson-Jarod Reierson), 19:47.

RLCC finish overtakes Bears

Red Lake County Central, after struggling through much of the game, went on a 14-0 run in the fourth quarter en route a 52-45 Tuesday girls high school basketball win over host Clearbrook-Gonvick.

The Bears led at the quarter stops 15-9, 26-23 and 38-34. They were still up 42-38 when the Mustangs came alive.

"Our press finally got to them," said Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto in explaining the Mustangs' game winning, double-digit run that was ended only by a 3-point Clearbrook-Gonvick shot at the buzzer. "It (press) was pretty ineffective most of the game."

Sylvia Hilgeman scored 14 points and Tracy Rosten had a 12-point, 9 rebound game for the Mustangs, who improved to 11-4. Brig Rettmann and Crystal Skime both netted 12 points for the Bears.

"It was a pretty lackadaisical performance," admitted Koivisto, whose team was 19-for-42 from the field (45 percent) and 12-for-18 at the free throw line. ClearbrookGonvick was 17-for-45 from the floor and 9-for-12 at the line.

The Mustangs had a 23-19 rebound edge over the Bears, who topped the turnover charts 15-9.

Late-game free throws aid RLCC

Fourth quarter free throw shooting cemented a 73-62 Red Lake County Central boys high school basketball win over Red Lake Falls Tuesday in Oklee.

The Mustangs, ahead 14-10 at the end of the first quarter and up 33-25 at halftime, had just a 49-48 edge to start the final period. But they outscored the Eagles 24-14 over the last eight minutes, thanks to a 10-for-10 free throw effort by Mark Lorenson (6/6) and Nick Waldal (4/4).

It was the second meeting of the year between the two rivals, with Red Lake Falls winning the first one 63-60 in overtime back on Dec. 10.

"I thought our kids came out and played with great intensity," noted Red Lake County Central coach Chris McLean. "We did a really good job defensively, and we shot the ball well. We got good shots – the shots we wanted – and we made them."

Lorenson finished with 25 points and 10 rebounds. Waldal contributed 17 points and Darren Vanek had 12. Four Red Lake Falls players hit double figures, led by Danny Gagner with 12 points.

Red Lake County Central shot 60 percent from the field (27/45) and went 16-for-25 at the free throw line. Red Lake Falls shot 47 percent from the floor (20/43) and had a 15-for-17 free throw night. The Mustangs out-rebounded the Eagles 29-17. Turnovers were even at 11-apiece.

The win lifted Red Lake County Central to .500 for the year at 7-7.

Thief River Falls girls drop 4-point decision

Crookston finished with a sizeable advantage in free throws and rebounds Friday, paving the way for a 45-41 girls high school basketball win over host Thief River Falls.

The once-beaten Pirates doubled the Prowlers on the boards, 40-20, and went 15-for-22 at the free throw line, where Thief River Falls was just 3-for-7.

"We're just not aggressive enough on offense to draw fouls, and we didn't have very good position on the rebounds," explained Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe, whose team lost its sixth straight game and fell to 6-9 for the year.

However, the Prowlers, who were beaten by the Pirates 57-45 earlier this winter, turned in a solid beginning-to-end performance, according to Loe. Thief River Falls jumped out to a 13-6 first quarter lead and held on to a 23-20 edge at halftime. Crookston pulled even at the end of the third quarter, 32-32, and gained the advantage down the stretch.

"It was a good game," said Loe. "We started real well. We played them tough the whole way."

Jenny Boll had a 20-point game for the Pirates. Nicole Kopari led the Prowlers with 14 points.

Thief River Falls was 18-for-47 from the field (38 percent). Crookston went 15-for-41 (36 percent). Turnovers were even at 21-apiece.

Jenny Blazejewski netted 10 points and Brooke Brekke had 6 against East Grand Forks, when the Prowlers trailed at the stops 12-10, 28-14 and 36-21.

Win-E-Mac is 72-46 winner over RLCC in boys basketball

A strong Win-E-Mac team played well at both ends of the court Friday (Jan. 22) in a 72-46 boys high school basketball win over visiting Red Lake County Central.

"They (Patriots) played a tremendous defensive game," reported Red Lake County Central coach Chris McLean, who said his team, despite giving up 72 points, worked hard on defense, too. "I was pleased with our defensive effort," he added. "The kids did everything I asked them to do. We just didn't shoot the ball very well."

The Mustangs shot only 39 percent from the field (19/49), while the Patriots shot 42 percent (28/66). Red Lake County Central went 4-for-8 at the free throw line; Win-E-Mac was 5-for-8. The Patriots had a 30-28 rebound edge.

Wockenfuss leads B/G-MR past KCN

Richard Wockenfuss scored 22 points and grabbed 13 rebounds Tuesday to lead Badger/Greenbush-Middle River past out-manned Kittson County North 70-32 in boys high school basketball.

"They (Cougars) had nobody to match up with Wockenfuss," noted Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "We put a little pressure on them defensively, and on offense we did a good job getting the ball to Richard in the middle."

The Gators had quarter leads of 11-5, 28-13 and 51-20.

David Truscinksi and Brian Wilhelmi joined Wockenfuss in double figures with 11 points each. The visiting Cougars did not have a scorer in double digits.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River turned in a 40 percent 21-for-53 shooting performance from the field while limiting Kittson County North to a 29 percent 10-for-34 showing. The Gators were a busy 25-for-40 at the free throw line, where the Cougars went 7-for-16. The winners won the rebound battle 52-20, and the Cougars were charged with 20 of the game's 32 turnovers.

The win improved the Gators' record to 6-8 heading into a game today (Saturday) vs. Lake of the Woods in Baudette. A water main break forced postponement of a Jan. 22 meeting between the two teams in Greenbush, a game that has been rescheduled for Feb. 11.

Prowlers down host Ponies in triple dual

A triple dual high school wrestling meet hosted by Warren-Alvarado-Oslo Tuesday included a 1-2 showing by Thief River Falls.

The Prowlers beat the host Ponies 37-30, but lost to Crookston 63-12 and fell to Red Lake County Central 38-27.

The loss to the Mustangs followed a 40-25 Thief River Falls win when the two teams met Saturday in the Detroit Lakes Dual Invitational.

"They (Mustangs) made some changes in their line-up that we didn't anticipate," explained Thief River Falls coach Rick Yanke. "That was good coaching on their part."

The Prowlers are 3-12 in dual meet competition. Top performances, according to Yanke have been provided by eighth grader Jeremy Anderson, who has won six straight matches at 103 pounds to take over the team lead in wins; eighth grader Chris Lian, who has been accumulating wins at 119; sophomore Carson Comstock, who won back-to-back matches at 140; and freshman Jon Swanson, who has been steady throughout the 1998-99 season and leads the team in pins.

In other matches at the Tuesday triple dual, Warren-Alvarado-Oslo beat Red Lake County Central 42-22 and Crookston 37-33, with the Pirates picking up a 48-27 win over the Mustangs.

Shooting, rebounds add up to MCC loss

First and third quarters were okay, but Marshall County Central couldn't stay with Stephen-Argyle for a full 32 minutes Tuesday, losing a 65-39 girls high school basketball game at Newfolden.

The Storm, ahead just 17-14 at the first quarter break, had a 33-17 halftime cushion, maintained a 48-30 third quarter spread and pulled away again down the stretch.

"We had two good quarters, but you've got to play four quarters," offered Marshall County Central coach Alice Dahl. "They (Storm) shot really well in the second quarter, and we had nobody who could score."

Abbey Bergeron led a balanced Stephen-Argyle attack with 14 points. Kristi Kilen led Marshall County Central with a game-high 16 points.

From the field, Marshall County Central was 17-for-58 (29 percent), while Stephen-Argyle went 29-for53 (55 percent). The Nordics made 4 of 8 free throws, the Storm hit 6 of 14.

If Stephen-Argyle shooters did happen to miss, they were there for the rebound. A 42-24 advantage on the boards included 20 offensive rebounds. The winners also had more turnovers, 16-14.

The loss dropped the Nordics to 5-10.

Final minute scores lift Nordics to 57-51 win over Goodridge

Marshall County Central scored the final six points of the game to beat Goodridge 57-51 Friday (Jan. 22) in boys high school basketball.

The visiting Nordics had a 13-12 first quarter lead, fell behind 30-25 at halftime, but came back for a 41-41 third quarter tie.

It was still deadlocked at 51-51 with 1:20 left when Marshall County Central converted a Goodridge turnover into a three-point play. Moments later the Nordics' fast break produced a lay-up/free throw and a six-point scoreboard cushion.

"We played a really good first half and a decent second half," said Goodridge coach Eric Mickelson. "We played a good game except for the last couple of minutes. It was a disappointing finish. We made a couple of mistakes that really hurt."

Chad Johnson was 4-for-7 from 3-point range in a game-high 22-point performance for the 3-9 Huskies. As a team, Goodridge made 7 of 14 from 3-point range.

"That's the best we've shot threes all year," noted Mickelson.

Tyler Ryba had a 20-point outing for the 7-8 Nordics.

"We played real well in the fourth quarter," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland, whose team was 8-for-9 from the field in the final eight minutes. "We took care of the ball, got good shots, and made them. That's the best lead protection we've had all year."

Goodridge shot 41 percent from the field for the night (20/44) and made 8 of 14 free throw attempts. Marshall County Central shot 59 percent from the floor (24/43), but went only 5-for-19 at the free throw line.

Threat of storm results in area postponements

Threat of a winter storm Tuesday prompted officials to call off a handful of area high school athletic events.

Postponements included a Thief River Falls girls basketball game at Moorhead, a Thief River Falls boys swim meet at Park Rapids, a Goodridge boys basketball game vs. East Grand Forks Sacred Heart, and a Grygla-Gatzke boys basketball game at Kittson Central.

The Prowlers-Spuds game will be played Monday, Feb. 1.

The 6-8, 285-pound Myers anchored the Thief River Falls offensive and defensive lines.

He becomes the second member of the 1999 Thief River Falls senior class to earn a college athletic scholarship. Nicole Kopari announced earlier she would attend the University of Minnesota next year, where she will be a member of the women's track and field team.

Anderson all-star pick

Kyle Anderson, a 1998 Lincoln High School graduate who is currently playing for the Lincoln (Nebraska) Stars in the United States Hockey League, was selected to participate in the USHL all-star game in Rochester Tuesday (Jan. 26).

Anderson played for the North team that lost to the South squad 8-5.

Tyler Palmiscino of East Grand Forks, who plays for the Sioux City Musketeers, was also an all-star pick.

Other USHL teams include the Rochester Mustangs, Twin Cities Vulcans, Green Bay Gamblers, North Iowa Huskies, Thunder Bay Flyers, Fargo-Moorhead Ice Sharks, Des Moines Buccaneers, Omaha Lancers, Waterloo Black Hawks, and Dubuque Fighting Saints.

Kyle's older brother, Keith, had a goal and assist Friday in helping St. Cloud State sweep a Jan. 22-23 WCHA series from the University of Minnesota-Duluth 6-3, 5-3.

Anderson, a sophomore left wing, has two goals and four assists in 19 games for the Huskies.

Moorhead wins hockey match-up...

Spuds edge TRF 4-3

A tie-breaking power play goal with 4:19 remaining gave Moorhead with a 4-3 high school hockey win over visiting Thief River Falls Saturday (Jan. 23).

The Prowlers overcame a pair of two-goal deficits (2-0, 3-1) to pull even on goals by Casey Enge, Jayme Holmes and Tom Fogarty, with the equalizer coming at 5:11 of the third period.

Jon Rudnik scored the first two Moorhead goals in quick period opening fashion - just 14 seconds into the game and another at the 11 second mark of the second period. Gus Groslie and Dan Legreid got the last two Moorhead goals.

Both goalies were busy, with the Prowlers' Mike Dowers stopping 41 shots and the Spuds' Joe Negg making 31 saves.

Despite the loss, Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland liked what he saw, saying it was a "good" performance from a team struggling to come up with a win. "They (Prowlers) played hard," he said.

Thief River Falls played the game without forward Wade Chiodo, sidelined by a groin injury, and lost forward Jeff Rislov to a game disqualification call at 8:22 of the third period - a play that also wound up as a bench penalty and ejection of Bergland.

It was the fifth one-goal loss of the year for the Prowlers.

Stored grain at high risk for spoilage this winter

Grain in farm storage in the Upper Midwest this winger is at higher-than-normal risk of spoiling, according to Bill Wilcke, an engineer with the University of Minnesota Extension Service. Low grain prices and the unusually warm fall have increased the volume in storage and the risk.

"We have a lot of grain in storage, including some harvested in 1997," Wilcke said. "Much of this grain is too warm, and some is too wet for safe storage. Some is stored in structures and piles where there is inadequate aeration and poor protection from precipitation and soil moisture."

Because of the high spoilage risk, Wilcke recommends that stored grain manager check their bins more frequently than normal to catch insect and mold problems before they get out of control.

"When grain is stored for more than a year and the grain temperature is high during part of that storage period, there is a high probability of insect infestation," he said. "We have already heard a number of reports from grain managers who are finding insects in 1997 grain."

For those who find insects in stored grain during the winter, Wilcke recommends aerating the grain during cold weather to slow insect activity and perhaps even kill the insects.

"We normally suggest cooling the grain to 20-30 degrees F for winter storage," he says. "However, if there is an insect problem, it may be advisable to try cooling the grain to even lower than 20 degrees and holding it at that temperature for a few weeks. Most insects become inactive at low temperatures and many die. Cool the grain as fast as possible, because faster cooling gives insects less time to adjust to the temperature change and many more of them will die."

"Watch for frost build-up on screened roof vents in bins that have positive pressure aeration systems," he added. "A restricted vent area can lead to damaged bin roofs. Open roof hatches if frost starts to accumulate on vents."

If this low-temperature strategy is used to control insects, it is best to run the fans again later in the winter to bring the grain temperature up to 20-30 degrees, Wilcke said. It's important to reduce the temperature difference between the grain and outdoor air when the weather warms in the spring. Large temperature differences can lead to moisture migration and condensation.

Another way to reduce existing insect problems is to run grain through a grain cleaner when transferring grain. Cleaning removes many of the broken grain kernels that attract insects and also removes some of the insects.

Fumigating stored grain is generally not an option during winter, Wilcke said. The type of grain fumigant most commonly used on farms doesn't work well at low temperatures, and the label indicates it shouldn't be used at low temperatures.

"Try non-chemical strategies first," Wilcke said. "If they don't work, wait until spring to fumigate the grain. Fumigants are potentially dangerous materials that require use of safety and gas monitoring equipment, so consider hiring a commercial applicator if fumigation is necessary."

Since much of the fall was unusually warm and much of the 1998 crop was harvested in warm weather, there were few opportunities to cool grain to the normal target temperature of 20-30 degrees F.

"If grain hasn't been aerated since harvest, aerate it as soon as possible," Wilcke suggests. "If the grain was aerated, but the temperature was above 30 degrees F when the fan was on, complete another aeration cycle during 20-30 degree weather. If the bin isn't equipped for aeration, feed or sell the grain as soon as possible or move it to a bin equipped for aeration. Holding warm grain into cold weather is very likely to cause moisture migration. This leads to molding, crusting and possible insect infestation at the top center of the grain mass."

Some of the 1998 crop was also stored too wet for safe storage. The warm fall led to rapid field drying, and to save money, some farmers put crops (especially corn) straight into storage without any artificial drying. In some cases, the corn didn't get quite dry enough and is now in storage at 15-17 percent moisture. If cooled to 20-30 degrees F, corn at this moisture can be held through the winter without spoilage. However, it should be fed, sold or dried to less than 15 percent moisture before spring.

Part of the 1998 crop was stored in outdoor piles or in structures not originally designed for grain storage. "Keep an especially close watch on grain in these situations," Wilcke advises.

"In many cases the grain is exposed to precipitation or soil moisture, and aeration systems, if present, don't provide uniform air flow. If you see signs of moisture migration, mold or insects, aerate to try to control the problem and feed, sell or move the grain as soon as possible."

University offers beef cow course

Beef cow-calf producers can learn essential cow herd health management information through a new home study course from the University of Minnesota Extension Service. This is the second home study course offered to beef cattle producers this winter.

The course in "health Management" includes six lessons covering the basics of year-round herd health. It's designed to provide the information necessary for producers to make herd health decisions that will improve profitability. Lesson topics include pre-calving health, managing the newborn calf, breeding management, parasite control, feedlot preparation and receiving health programs, and beef quality assurance.

The course provides an educational opportunity for those who find it difficult to attend meetings due to work schedule, family commitments, or geographic location. Some 500 Minnesota producers took the first course, "Breeding Herd Nutrition." The Minnesota courses are adapted from a similar program that has achieved much success in Nebraska.

Class lessons will be mailed to participants every 8 to 10 days beginning in early February from the Pipestone County Extension office.

Registration fee for the health course is $20 on or before February 1 or $30 after that date. The fee covers the six lessons, a three-ring binder, supporting reference materials, and postage costs. Additional information and registration forms are available from the Pipestone County Extension office, 119 Second Avenue SW, Suite 2, Pipestone, MN: phone 1-800-967-2705 or 1-507-825-6715.

Grain growers urge EPA to register fungicide for scab

Wheat leaders from North Dakota, Minnesota and South Dakota have been assured by the Environmental Protection Agency that a key fungicide used to control fusarium head blight or scab in wheat and barley will be available for use next summer.

However, the product isn't expected to be fully registered until the year 2000.

Leaders of the Minnesota Association of Wheat Growers, North Dakota Grain Growers Association, and South Dakota Wheat Inc., met with Jim Jones, head of the registration division of the EPA's Office of Pesticide Programs, in Washington D.C. last week. They urged Jones to ensure that Folicur, a foliar fungicide manufactured by the Bayer Corporation, will be labeled for use by wheat and barley growers in the region next summer.

Research at North Dakota State University and the University of Minnesota indicates that Folicur applied at anthesis or grain flowering helps to suppress scab in wheat and barley, boosting yield and improving quality of harvested grain.

The EPA has granted Folicur a Section 18 label the past two years, which is temporary product registration for a specific production problem or pest and weather-related epidemic. NDGGA, MAWG, and SDWI leaders were hoping EPA would grant Folicur a Section 3 label for 1999, which is full federal label approval.

However, it appears that a full label won't be granted until 2000, and that Folicur will be granted another Section 18 for the 1999 crop year.

"The product is stuck in a backlog of the EPA's review process," says Richard Magnusson, a Roseau, producer and MAWG board member. "We were told that the EPA plans to approve labels for 15 new products in 1999, and label amendments of 100 existing products for additional or expanded crop uses. Folicur won't be one of them. I don't think they fully realized the effectiveness of this product on scab, since it's not higher on the EPA's priority list. It's frustrating that we won't get a full label for Folicur in the 1999 crop season, but at least we should get a Section 18."

Nevertheless, state agriculture officials must first request the exemption, a process that requires a needs assessment and documentation by plant scientists, then official EPA approval. "We have been promised a Section 18 for Folicur, but we won't rest until we get it. The manufacturer needs to know how much product to have on hand for the next crop season, and producers also need to know its availability as a treatment option so they can make production plans. We need to know early in the season whether Folicur will receive a Section 18, so EPA's approval timeliness is going to be important," says Jim Ostlie, a Northwood, ND, producer and NDGGA board member.

The EPA is considering extending the Section 18 label expiration to two years, Jones told NDGGA, MAWG, and SDWI leaders. A Section 18 now expires after one year and must be renewed annually.

Jones and the grain leaders also discussed the possibility of allowing "NAFTA labels" for pesticide products. In reference to the North American Free Trade Agreement, grain leaders want more harmonization of pesticide labels. A NAFTA label would allow, for example, a wild oat herbicide to receive the same label in the United States and Canada. Producers in the United States would be able to purchase the product in Canada, and vice versa.

"Cross-border harmonization of pesticide rules and cost is probably one of the biggest issues for producers in the Northern Plains right now," says Chet Edinger, a Mitchell, SD, producer and SDWI president.

Polaris notes increase in sales and earnings

Polaris Industries reported on Thursday that it had experienced an 11 percent increase in adjusted net income per diluted share on a 12 percent increase in sales for the year ending Dec. 31, 1998. The increase excludes a provision for litigation loss recorded in the third quarter.

Adjusted net income for the year totaled a record $70,624,000 or $2.72 per diluted share, compared to a net of $65,383,000 or $2.45 per share in 1997. Sales for the year totaled $1,175,520,000 compared to $1,048,296,000 in 1997.

For the fourth quarter ended Dec. 31, 1998, Polaris reported net income of a record $22,674,000—up 23 percent from $18,430,000 in the comparable 1997 period. Sales for the 1998 fourth quarter grew 18 percent to a record $330,947,000 from $280,346,000 in the final three months of 1997.

Adjusted net income and adjusted net income per share do not include the effects of a one-time provision for litigation loss recorded in the third quarter of 1998 totaling $61,409,000 and resulting in an after-tax charge of $39,609,000 or $1.53 per diluted share.

This provision for litigation loss related to the resolution of a trade secret misappropriation claim brought by Injection Research Specialists, Inc., against Polaris in 1990 and has no effect on the company's ongoing operations, according to W. Hall Wendel, Polaris chairman and chief executive officer.

Including the effects of the provision for litigation loss, Polaris reported 1998 net income of $31,015,000 or $1.19 per diluted share.

Contributing to the company's 10th consecutive year of record earnings, Wendel said, were strong sales growth in ATVs, successful launch of Victory motorcycles, a clean inventory pipeline in the personal watercraft business and the introduction of a broad new line of snowmobiles.

In looking forward to 1999, Wendel said he expects solid contributions from parts, garments and accessories and from financial services offered through Polaris Acceptance to join growth from core products in providing another strong year.

Baudette man named Honorary Premier Seedsman

Baudette - Otto Lee was named Honorary Premier Seedsman at the Minnesota Crop Improvement Association's 95th annual meeting banquet held recently in St. Louis Park.

The award was presented to Lee for exemplary service to the seed industry. He was the county extension director in Lake of the Woods county for 36 years, retiring in 1993. During that time, Lee started the Lake of the Woods Crop Improvement Association and assisted with seed procurement and distribution. The Northern Light

LOW school board fires contractor

Baudette - Lake of the Woods school board voted recently to fire the general contractor for its $3.3-million building project.

The decision follows months of delay in the construction of a swimming pool and recreation complex at Lake of the Woods School.

The first major delay was caused by a masonry subcontractor who simply did not get the job done. Other subcontractors have had problems getting paid, escalating to the point that in recent months most subcontractors have pulled their crews off the job.

The board's action threw the project into the lap of the construction company's bonding company. The Baudette Region

Students challenged to read 100,000 minutes

Mahnomen - "Personal Reading" is the theme as Mahnomen elementary students are challenged to read 100,000 minutes during the month of February. That is about 20 minutes per day, per elementary-age child.

When the students reach the goal of 100,000, they will be treated to a 50's sock hop. For every additional 25,000 minutes that they have read, a surprise will be added to their entertainment at the sock hop. Mahnomen Pioneer

Stephen/Argyle students rank 14th statewide in test

Stephen - Last year the third and fifth grade students at Stephen/Argyle Central took the Minnesota Comprehensive Assessments tests for the first time.

In an analysis put together by the WCCD Computer Center, school districts were ranked based on their average scores for each of the tests. Out of 353 school districts in the state, Stephen/Argyle students rank 14th. The Messenger

Blade man to be honored at retirement party

Grygla - Billy Wikert will be honored at a retirement party this evening (Saturday, February 6) from 6 to 8 p.m. at Fourtown.

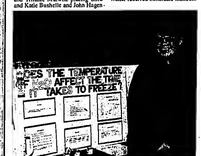
Wikert has operated a motor grader in the Grygla area for Beltrami county for many years and recently announced his retirement. Grygla Eagle

Spelling bee champion for School District 564 is sixth grader Tate Sorvig, son of Gary and Shelby Sorvig, who won the competition conducted Tuesday, February 2, in the Franklin middle school media center. At right is runner-up Alissa Kennedy, a seventh grader and the daughter of Craig and Laurie Kennedy. Both students will advance to the regional spelling bee Saturday, March 13, at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls. Tate outlasted 20 other contestants in the event, correctly spelling "bantam" and "cocoon" as the 154th and 155th words pronounced to win the championship.

25 students compete in Plummer science fair

Twenty-five students in grades four through nine competed in the annual science fair at the Plummer schools Thursday, according to Don Fox, science instructor who directs the event.

Fox said that he expects to offer all eight students in grades seven through nine who competed in the event an opportunity to exhibit at the regional science fair in Bemidji.



Judges awarded two blue first place ribbons in the division for grades seven through nine. Matt Schmitz earned a blue ribbon on his project The Effects Oil Spill Have On The Environment and Bethany Mages earned a first place award for her project entitled Does The Temperature of H_2O Affect The Time It Takes To Freeze? Both students are in eighth grade.

Kelsey Rewertz and Kyle Walter earned second place ribbons in the division with Chelsea Stockwell and Tiffanie Malwitz placing third and Katie Bushelle and John Hagen receiving honorable mention.

First place in sixth grade competition went to Riley Hemly with her project Where Mold Develops. Chase Stockwell was in second place, Amanda Schmitz in third and Brett Rewertz and Kristen Hagge earned honorable mention.

First place in the fifth grade division was awarded to Danielle Olson and her project entitled Three Different Meters. Three team entries received the other awards in the division with Matt Konickson and Adam Danielson second, Mary Cloud and Ashley Ramos third and Molly Hagen and Kristine Walter earning honorable mention.

Josh Hodgson earned a first place blue ribbon in the fourth grade division with his project entitled Does Light Affect Plants? Nicole Johanning placed second, the team of Brittanie Malwitz and Brittany Gustafson finished third and Marc Walter received honorable mention.

Bethany Mages, an eighth grader and the daughter of Raymond and Dorothy Mages of Red Lake Falls, was a first place winner in the seventh through ninth grade division of the Plummer school science fair. Her project was entitled "Does The Temperature Of H_2O Affect The Time It Takes To Freeze?"

Matt Schmitz, son of Arnie and Barb Schmitz of Plummer, earned a first place blue ribbon in the division for grades seven through nine at the Plummer science fair Thursday with his project entitled "The Effects Oil Spills Have On The Environment." He is in eighth grade.

"Get on Board" theme takes wing in Thief River Falls

by David Hilt
Associate Editor

"Get on Board" with Northwest at the Thief River Falls Regional Airport is the theme of a new promotion about to take flight on the airwaves and in the newspapers. The purpose of the jingle, which is sung by The Blenders, is to encourage area residents to take advantage of the air service offered in their own backyard.

Thief River Falls was recently notified by the Minnesota Department of Transportation, office of aeronautics, that it had been awarded a grant of $19,836 to be matched by the city to promote their local air service. The total amount to be spent on the promotion is $33,060, $13,224 of which is the responsibility of the city of Thief River Falls.

The marketing plan, designed by Flint Communications of Fargo, ND, is designed to promote the air service and airport, and increase enplanements.

"Why drive though this?", a newspaper advertisement encouraging the public to fly locally instead of driving through winter white-outs, has been appearing in newspapers for a number of weeks already.

The newspaper advertisement specifically touts advantages offered including a 30-34 passenger prop jet service with flight attendants, free, convenient parking, plug-ins for cars, 18-outbound flights per week, and local and national car rentals.

The story board for the television advertisements which will be produced by Neiland's in Thief River Falls, focus on the overall theme — "Get on Board" and a 30-second jingle sung by The Blenders. It is expected to begin showing on CNN, USA, ESPN and TNT in mid February.

At one time, yearly enplanements in Thief River Falls were as high as 13,000 per year. Don Stewart, community development director in Thief River Falls, said that was some time ago. When comparing the economy then with today's economy, the ag economy not withstanding, the region, especially Thief River Falls, is much better off, so why shouldn't enplanements increase.

Enplanements at the Regional Airport in Thief River Falls have been climbing. But, Stewart and Ron Lindberg, public works director for Thief River Falls, admitted that enplanements were nowhere near the 13,000 yearly enplanements of the late 1970s. During the past several years, the airport has been recording between 300 and 400 enplanements per month or roughly 3,000 to 4,000 per year. That appears to be changing. The number of enplanements has been nearly double what it was a year ago November, and according to Stewart and Lindberg, there is no reason it couldn't be triple what it was previously.

Favorable liquor vote allows Hobo Haus to serve greater selection

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

For 20 years he waited, and in November's general election he won. He'd hung in longer than most political hopefuls would. Ron Kragness would finally be able to serve and sell hard liquor at the Hobo Haus in Newfolden.

The liquor issue had appeared on the ballot in Newfolden every four to six years since Ron purchased the Hobo Haus in 1979, and it was defeated time and time again.

Prior to a previous election Kragness told voters that if they would support liquor sales in Newfolden, he would serve food in his establishment. The measure was defeated.

In late 1997 he decided to expand his business before the liquor issue appeared on the ballot again. Construction began in January of 1998 and was completed in May. Ron donned an apron and started cooking as Hobo Haus Bar & Grill became more than a "3.2 bar."

In the November election, the "yes" votes outnumbered the "no" votes in favor of liquor sales on the town's ballots. "The vote was quite decisive," Kragness says, and he credits the issue's victory to the number of younger people now making their home in Newfolden. The first drink was poured at the bar on Monday, February 1.

Ron Kragness is probably a natural entrepreneur. After graduating from high school in Halstad in 1975, he worked only two weeks at the American Crystal plant before he knew that type of labor wasn't what he wanted.

Recognizing that there wasn't anywhere for Halstad's young people to congregate, Ron opened a recreation center where he served soft drinks, snacks and pizza. Video games were new and popular in 1975 and the television versions were not yet available.

It isn't often that Ron Kragness has an opportunity to sit still. Ron is the owner of the recently expanded Hobo Haus Bar & Grill in Newfolden. As a result of a favorable vote in the November election, on and off-sale liquor is now available at Hobo Haus.

Members of snowmobile clubs from northwest Minnesota testified before the Minnesota Senate Environment and Natural Resources committee recently in opposition to the ban on studded tracks for snowmobiles and in favor of Sen. LeRoy Stumpf's bill to repeal the ban enacted in 1998. Pictured with Sen. Stumpf are (from left) Gary Satre, Grygla, Laura Love, Warroad; Darwin Klamar, Gatzke, Anita Vettleson, Oklee, Mylos Hogenson, Roseau, Ron Nelson, Thief River Falls, Michael Nelson, Thief River Falls, Greg Anderson, Roseau, and Joann Nelson, Warroad.

Baudette - Otto Lee was named Honorary Premier Seedsman at the Minnesota Crop Improvement Association's 95th annual meeting banquet held recently in St. Louis Park.

The award was presented to Lee for exemplary service to the seed industry. He was the county extension director in Lake of the Woods county for 36 years, retiring in 1993. During that time, Lee started the Lake of the Woods Crop Improvement Association and assisted with seed procurement and distribution. The Northern Light

LOW school board fires contractor

Baudette - Lake of the Woods school board voted recently to fire the general contractor for its $3.3-million building project.

The decision follows months of delay in the construction of a swimming pool and recreation complex at Lake of the Woods School.

The first major delay was caused by a masonry subcontractor who simply did not get the job done. Other subcontractors have had problems getting paid, escalating to the point that in recent months most subcontractors have pulled their crews off the job.

The board's action threw the project into the lap of the construction company's bonding company. The Baudette Region

Students challenged to read 100,000 minutes

Mahnomen - "Personal Reading" is the theme as Mahnomen elementary students are challenged to read 100,000 minutes during the month of February. That is about 20 minutes per day, per elementary-age child.

When the students reach the goal of 100,000, they will be treated to a 50's sock hop. For every additional 25,000 minutes that they have read, a surprise will be added to their entertainment at the sock hop. Mahnomen Pioneer

Stephen/Argyle students rank 14th statewide in test

Stephen - Last year the third and fifth grade students at Stephen/Argyle Central took the Minnesota Comprehensive Assessments tests for the first time.

In an analysis put together by the WCCO Computer Center, school districts were ranked based on their average scores for each of the tests. Out of 353 school districts in the state, Stephen/Argyle students rank 14th. The Messenger

Polaris notes increase in sales and earnings

Polaris Industries reported on Thursday that it had experienced an 11 percent increase in adjusted net income per diluted share on a 12 percent increase in sales for the year ending Dec. 31, 1998. The increase excludes a provision for litigation loss recorded in the third quarter.

Adjusted net income for the year totaled a record $70,624,000 or $2.72 per diluted share, compared to a net of $65,383,000 or $2.45 per share in 1997. Sales for the year totaled $1,175,520,000 compared to $1,048,296,000 in 1997.

For the fourth quarter ended Dec. 31, 1998, Polaris reported net income of a record $22,674,000 – up 23 percent from $18,430,000 in the comparable 1997 period. Sales for the 1998 fourth quarter grew 18 percent to a record $330,917,000 from $280,316,000 in the final three months of 1997.

Adjusted net income and adjusted net income per share do not include the effects of a one-time provision for litigation loss recorded in the third quarter of 1998 totaling $61,400,000 and resulting in an after-tax charge of $39,600,000 or $1.53 per diluted share.

This provision for litigation loss related to the resolution of a trade secret misappropriation claim brought by Injection Research Specialists, Inc., against Polaris in 1990 and has no effect on the company's ongoing operations, according to W. Hall Wendel, Polaris chairman and chief executive officer.

Including the effects of the provision for litigation loss, Polaris reported 1998 net income of $31,015,000 or $1.19 per diluted share.

Contributing to the company's 10th consecutive year of record earnings, Wendel said, were strong sales growth in ATVs, successful launch of Victory motorcycles, a clean inventory pipeline in the personal watercraft business and the introduction of a broad new line of snowmobiles.

In looking forward to 1999, Wendel said he expects solid contributions from parts, garments and accessories and from financial services offered through Polaris Acceptance to join growth from core products in providing another strong year.

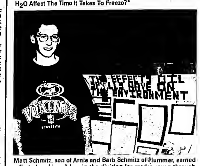
25 students compete in Plummer science fair

Twenty-five students in grades four through nine competed in the annual science fair at the Plummer schools Thursday, according to Don Fox, science instructor who directs the event.

Fox said that he expects to offer all eight students in grades seven through nine who competed in the event an opportunity to exhibit at the regional science fair in Bemidji.

Judges awarded two blue first place ribbons in the division for grades seven through nine. Matt Schmitz earned a blue ribbon on his project The Effects Oil Spill Have On The Environment and Bethany Mages earned a first place award for her project entitled Does The Temperature of H_2O Affect The Time It Takes To Freeze? Both students are in eighth grade.

Kelsey Rewertz and Kyle Walter earned second place ribbons in the division with Chelsea Stockwell and Tiffanie Malwitz placing third and Katie Bushelle and John Hagen receiving honorable mention.



First place in sixth grade competition went to Riley Hendy with her project When Mold Develops. Chase Stockwell was in second place, Amanda Schmitz in third and Brett Rewertz and Kristen Hagge earned honorable mention.

First place in the fifth grade division was awarded to Danielle Olson and her project entitled Three Different Meters. Three team entries received the other awards in the division with Matt Konickson and Adam Danielson second, Mary Cloud and Ashley Rumps third and Molly Hagen and Kristine Walter earning honorable mention.

Josh Hudgson earned a first place blue ribbon in the fourth grade division with his project entitled Does Light Affect Plants? Nicole Johanning placed second, the team of Brittanie Malwitz and Brittany Gustafson finished third and Marc Walter received honorable mention.

Bethany Mages, an eighth grader and the daughter of Raymond and Dorothy Mages of Red Lake Falls, was a first place winner in the seventh through ninth grade division of the Plummer school science fair. Her project was entitled "Does The Temperature Of H_2O Affect The Time It Takes To Freeze?"

Matt Schmitz, son of Arnie and Barb Schmitz of Plummer, earned a first place blue ribbon in the division for grades seven through nine at the Plummer science fair Thursday with his project entitled "The Effects Oil Spills Have On The Environment." He is in eighth grade.

Spelling bee champion for School District 564 is sixth grader Tate Sorvig, son of Gary and Shelby Sorvig, who won the competition conducted Tuesday, February 2, in the Franklin middle school media center. At right is runner-up Alissa Kennedy, a seventh grader and the daughter of Craig and Laurie Kennedy. Both students will advance to the regional spelling bee Saturday, March 13, at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls. Tate outlasted 20 other contestants in the event, correctly spelling "bantam" and "cocoon" as the 154th and 155th words pronounced to win the championship.

"Get on Board" theme takes wing in Thief River Falls

by David Hill
Associate Editor

"Get on Board" with Northwest at the Thief River Falls Regional Airport is the theme of a new promotion about to take flight on the airwaves and in the newspapers. The purpose of the jingle, which is sung by The Blenders, is to encourage area residents to take advantage of the air service offered in their own backyard.

Thief River Falls was recently notified by the Minnesota Department of Transportation, office of aeronautics, that it had been awarded a grant of $19,836 to be matched by the city to promote their local air service. The total amount to be spent on the promotion is $33,060, $13,224 of which is the responsibility of the city of Thief River Falls.

The marketing plan, designed by Flint Communications of Fargo, ND, is designed to promote the air service and airport, and increase enplanements.

"Why drive though this?", a newspaper advertisement encouraging the public to fly locally instead of driving through winter white-outs, has been appearing in newspapers for a number of weeks already.

The newspaper advertisement specifically touts advantages offered including a 30-34 passenger prop jet service with flight attendants, free, convenient parking, plug-ins for cars, 18 outbound flights per week, and local and national car rentals.

The story board for the television advertisements which will be produced by Netland's, in Thief River Falls, focus on the overall theme — "Get on Board" and a 30-second jingle song by The Blenders. It is expected to begin showing on CNN, USA, ESPN and TNT in mid February.

At one time, yearly enplanements in Thief River Falls were as high as 13,000 per year. Don Stewart, community development director in Thief River Falls, said that was some time ago. When comparing the economy then with today's economy, the ag economy not withstanding, the region, especially Thief River Falls, is much better off, so why shouldn't enplanements increase.

Enplanements at the Regional Airport in Thief River Falls have been climbing. But, Stewart and Ron Lindberg, public works director for Thief River Falls, admitted that enplanements were nowhere near the 13,000 yearly enplanements of the late 1970s. During the past several years, the airport has been recording between 300 and 400 enplanements per month or roughly 3,000 to 4,000 per year. That appears to be changing. The number of enplanements has been nearly double what it was a year ago November, and according to Stewart and Lindberg, there is no reason it couldn't be triple what it was previously.

Favorable liquor vote allows Hobo Haus to serve greater selection

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

For 20 years he waited, and in November's general election he won. He'd hung in longer than most political hopefuls would. Ron Kragness would finally be able to serve and sell hard liquor at the Hobo Haus in Newfolden.

The liquor issue had appeared on the ballot in Newfolden every four to six years since Ron purchased the Hobo Haus in 1979, and it was defeated time and time again.

Prior to a previous election Kragness told voters that if they would support liquor sales in Newfolden, he would serve food in his establishment. The measure was defeated.

In late 1997 he decided to expand his business before the liquor issue appeared on the ballot again. Construction began in January of 1998 and was completed in May. Ron donned an apron and started cooking as Hobo Haus Bar & Grill became more than a "3.2 bar."

In the November election, the "yes" votes outnumbered the "no" votes in favor of liquor sales on the town's ballots. "The vote was quite decisive," Kragness says, and he credits the issue's victory to the number of younger people now making their home in Newfolden. The first drink was poured at the bar on Monday, February 1.

Ron Kragness is probably a natural entrepreneur. After graduating from high school in Halstad in 1975 he worked only two weeks at the American Crystal plant before he knew that type of labor wasn't what he wanted.

Recognizing that there wasn't anywhere for Halstad's young people to congregate, Ron opened a recreation center where he served soft drinks, snacks and pizza. Video games were new and popular in 1975 and the television versions were not yet available.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere
email: gabriel@northernnet.com

Today's recipes are from my Silver Creek Lutheran church cookbook. I have to give equal space to all of the church cookbooks I have, since we all know that the best cooks put their recipes in those books. Today we're having some cold weather warm-up foods - warm up the tummy and you'll be warm all over.

This is a quick soup made with ingredients you usually have on hand:

HEARTY BEEF VEGETABLE SOUP
Yvonne Philipp

1 pound ground beef
1 cup chopped onion
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon crushed oregano
Pepper
1/4 teaspoon sage
1 (1 pound) can tomatoes, cut up
1 cup chopped celery
1 cup sliced, pared potatoes
1 cup sliced carrots, pared
1 cup coarsely chopped cabbage
1 cup diced, unpared zucchini (if desired)
1 (10 1/2 ounce) can condensed beef broth
2 beef bouillon cubes
4 cups water
1/3 cup uncooked regular rice

Cook beef in 6 quart Dutch oven. When meat begins to turn color, add onion. Cook until mixture is well-browned. Drain off excess fat.

Stir in salt, oregano, pepper, sage, tomatoes, celery, potatoes, carrots, cabbage, zucchini, beef broth, bouillon cubes and water. Bring to a boil, then reduce heat, cover and simmer 20 minutes. Add rice and simmer 15 minutes more or until rice is tender. (Makes about 2 1/2 quarts)

Here's another quick and easy soup that will warm up the innards:

BRATWURST SOUP
Sy Heath from Janet Torgerson Fisher

5 or 6 raw bratwurst, cut in 1 inch pieces
6 carrots, chopped
4 large potatoes, diced
1 large can tomatoes
2 can beans (kidney, butter, pinto, other, or any combination)
Water to cover above

Cook 1/2 hour, covered.

This sounds like a really tasty accompaniment to soup, and it can be raising while the soup is cooking:

DELI HAM AND TURKEY SANDWICHES
Lisa Torgerson Parent

1 frozen bread loaf, thawed
Slices of ham and turkey
Shredded Cheddar cheese
Honey and mustard sauce

Roll out 1/2 of the loaf of thawed dough. Put ham and turkey slices and shredded Cheddar cheese with honey mustard on the dough. Cover with the other half of the thawed loaf, pinching edges together. Roll up as for a jelly roll.

Let rise 2 hours in the fridge and then bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Slice in 1 inch wide slices and serve.

This sounds like a really large recipe, but wouldn't it be nice to have some stored in the freezer to go with a casserole or soup next week:

DARK BUNS
Beverly Rupprecht

1 1/2 cups boiling water
2 cups oatmeal
4 tablespoons shortening
2 packages yeast
1 3/4 cups lukewarm water
1 cup brown sugar
1/3 cup molasses
2 eggs, well beaten
6 cups flour

Pour hot water over oatmeal, salt and shortening in bowl. Let cool to lukewarm.

Dissolve yeast in the 1 3/4 cups lukewarm water and add to oatmeal mixture. Stir in molasses, sugar, eggs and then flour, kneading until smooth and satiny.

Let rise, punch down and let rise again. Form into buns, let rise, and bake 15 minutes at 400 degrees.

Here's one for those of you who have requested some diabetic recipes - and don't they sound good:

DIABETIC BRAN MUFFINS
Edna Rupprecht

1 egg, beaten
2 cups 100% bran
2 cups flour
1 cup milk
1 cup buttermilk
1/4 cup vegetable oil
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon soda

Mix in the order given. Bake in greased muffin cups. Bake at 350 degrees. Dough keeps many days in the refrigerator.

I think I'd love to have this batter in my refrigerator, ready for any time I want fresh muffins:

LON'S BRAN MUFFINS
Sharon Russell

2 cups boiling water
1 cup shortening
4 eggs, beaten
5 cups flour
1 1/4 teaspoons salt
4 cups 100% bran
2 cups chopped dates or raisins
2 cups sugar
1 quart buttermilk
5 teaspoons soda
2 cups 40% bran

Pour boiling water over raisins and mix remaining ingredients in order given.

Bake at 400 degrees for 20 minutes. Mixture will store in fridge for up to 6 weeks.

And here's another tasty addition to a meal of soup:

DILLY-OF-A-CORN MUFFIN
Doris Kaushagen

1 1/4 cups flour
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon soda
1 cup non fat dairy sour cream
3/4 cup fresh or frozen corn kernels
3 to 4 teaspoons fresh or 1 teaspoon dried dill
3/4 cup stone-ground white or yellow cornmeal
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup egg substitute
1/4 cup canola

Heat oven to 400 degrees. Coat muffin tin with non-stick spray.

Mix flour, cornmeal, sugar, baking powder, soda and salt. In another bowl, beat together the sour cream, egg substitute, corn, oil and dill.

Stir liquid ingredients into dry ingredients just until dry ingredients just until moistened. Spoon batter into muffin tins.

Bake 15 to 20 minutes until browned or until toothpick comes out clean.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To The Editor:

Three-fourths of Scott Noble's commentary on "The Loss of Truth in Education" (Northern Watch editorial, Jan. 30, 1999) focuses on issues of Math and Science. The key to raising American educational standards appears to be establishing a standard of truth as facts. Not once does he mention Writing, Literature, Social Studies or History, which are subjects where such a standard would be difficult if not impossible to maintain.

You cannot simply apply the logic of 2+2=4 to a poem or to making sense of the American Revolution. But that seems to be the only understanding of truth that Noble wants to admit.

Truth as standard, right answers that fit all aspects of education and all issues of life into neat boxes is a very limited understanding of truth. Truth cannot be simply equated with facts. Truth as facts or right answers can be found in simple math and in simple science. But if you get much beyond the basics of those subjects objective truth is less certain. Witness the debate around the science of global climate change.

His example of the child who got a 100 percent score on a math test while incorrectly adding every problem appears ludicrous. It may have happened, but I would want to see many more examples to support the conclusion that, "...this is certainly not an isolated example." That conclusion seems to imply that the example is more the norm than the exception. It is certainly not what I have experienced in observing my son's introduction to school.

I suspect that in writing for the "Minnesota Family Council," his ultimate goal is to apply a standard of truth from Math and Science to other areas, particularly "moral and ethical standards." I suspect he desires to apply a 2+2=4 standard of truth to moral and ethical standards. Tote out the Ten Commandments and strict discipline and the world will once again become a paradise. Fit every moral dilemma into an equation with a standard answer, teach it and enforce it, and America again will be number one.

Not even the Ten Commandments, as important as they are, can hold up to the logic of 2+2=4. "Thou shalt not bear false witness against they neighbor." Or, you shall not lie. Apply simple logic to this classic example. The Nazis come to your door asking if you know where any Jews are hidden. Do you tell them about the Jews hiding in your basement? Or is it right and ethical to break the simple logic for deeper truths? The ability to think about and process issues is essential.

So, before we completely discredit "process" let's think about the value of process for a moment. Being able to spit out right answers with no sense of process makes us little more than machines. A machine never needs to understand why it does what it does. It has no ethics or morals. It is supreme however, at spitting out standard answers.

But again, the machine can never move beyond standard answers to creativity. It's in creativity that we grow as a nation and improve or advance life on earth. It's in understanding process that we are able to correct mistakes we have made and build a better future for all living things.

I do not dispute the claims that America's educational standards are in decline. I do not think that imposing a simple standard of facts as truth will solve anything. Indeed, I think such an idea will undermine imagination, America's entrepreneurial spirit, and our most cherished freedoms—religion, speech, life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Resorting to a simple standard of facts as truth without dealing with process will make us ethically and morally impoverished.

What is the source of America's educational standards? I do not know, but I would venture a few guesses. Maybe we are more interested in being entertained than learning and thinking. Maybe we are more interested in quick answers than struggling with the issues. Maybe parents are not being parents (the ability to conceive a child does not make one a parent). Maybe too many adults made a decision to quit learning the day they got their diploma, and so maybe there are not enough teachers at home. Maybe we have just forgotten our history, the great stories of our people, and the struggles by which we became a great nation. Maybe we have tried to reduce all truth to 2+2=4.

Pastor Tim Bauer
Thief River Falls

To The Editor:

On February 3, 1999, an administrator from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service appeared before the House Natural Resources Committee to, in effect, accept a $20 million "takings" compensation check from the citizens of Minnesota.

Why is the state that elected Jesse "The Body" Ventura governor compensating the federal government? Because the Fish and Wildlife Service has determined that expansion of the Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport within one mile of the Minnesota Valley National Wildlife Refuge will negatively impact 4,000 of its 9,300 acres by flying over it.

According to the airport expansion project's environmental impact analysis, "the MSP Airport expansion will require the... constructive use of land from a wildlife refuge." Section 4(f) of the Department of Transportation Act of 1966 (49 U.S.C. 303), determines that, "A 'constructive use' can occur when proximity effects, such as noise, adversely affect the normal activity or aesthetic value of [a property] even though there may be no direct physical effect involving construction of transportation facilities."

Based on this interpretation, the USFWS wants the Minneapolis-St. Paul Airport to compensate the agency for not less than $20 million. Yet Section 4(f) does not accord the same compensation criteria to private property owners. According to a study done by the Congressional Research Service, overflights of private land become a taking "only if they are so low and so frequent as to be a direct and immediate interference with the use and enjoyment of the land" (Causby v. United States 328 U.S. 256, 266 (1946)), and only if it can be proved there is a substantial destruction of property or impairment of its use.

The courts have since determined that a taking of private property can occur when overflights are below 500 feet. In addition, Congress has established that, in congested areas, a taking occurs only under 1,000 feet.

In 1992, however, federal agencies determined that aircraft could not fly below 2,000 feet over wildlife refuges, national parks and BLM land. It is the later criteria that has determined the MSP Airport's expansion project will result in the "constructive use"—or taking—of federal land. And the USFWS wants to be compensated.

There is, however, no U.S. Constitution provision for such compensation. The Fifth Amendment states very clearly that "nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation." It does not read "nor shall public property be taken for public use without just compensation."

Furthermore, provisions for compensation to private landowners when partial takings occur have repeatedly met with resistance from the very administration that now demands compensation for a partial taking of public land! When H.R. 2275 proposed in 1995 to compensate landowners for habitat set aside under the Endangered Species Act, George Frampton, then Assistant Secretary for Fish, Wildlife and Parks under the Interior Department, claimed that such provisions "go far beyond any standard for 'taking' that has been established by the courts..."

More importantly, when John C. Dwyer, Acting Associate Attorney General, testified against H.R. 1534 (The Private Property Rights Implementation Act of 1997), he said: "Federal courts have long held that the validity of a takings claim depends on the effect of the challenged government action on the entire parcel of property the claimant owns.....The courts have rejected claimants' attempts to segment property into the affected and unaffected portions of the whole parcel."

Of course, federal agencies (and even the President of the United States) are exempt from the laws by which the rest of America must abide.

If the MSP Airport is allowed to compensate the USFWS for this so-called "taking," there will be nothing to prevent federal agencies from requiring private landowners adjacent to national parks and wildlife refuges to compensate the government when legitimate land use activities on private land adversely impact public resources. More importantly, MSP Airport intends to place the burden of paying that compensation on the backs of a select few—those who purchase airline tickets—via a surcharge.

The final environmental impact assessment concerning the MSP Airport's expansion project determined there is no conclusive evidence that overflights of the refuge will be harmful to the waterfowl that live there. Says the final EIS: "waterfowl appear to readily habituate to frequent aircraft overflights....It is concluded that aircraft noise within the affected environment would not significantly diminish the wildlife habitat in the refuge."

But such findings do not faze Director Jamie Clark and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. They want that $20 million check.

Contact the House Resources Committee at 202-225-2761 or http://www.house.gov/resources and tell them to reject the compensation proposal between the Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Sincerely,
Dave Zavoral
Grygla, Minnesota

Minnesota Kids Must Be Smarter Than U.S. Adults

Polls and surveys reported in the nation's media continue to point to a majority of public approval of U.S. President Bill Clinton despite his disreputable character and seeming disdain or at least disregard for the high office he holds. It would seem from these poll and survey reports that the U.S. adult population on average has its collective head screwed on backward.

Not so for Minnesota's high school students—at least according to a survey conducted by the Close Up Foundation of Alexandria, VA. Close Up is the organization which sponsors government study and historical review trips to Washington, DC, in which a number of Lincoln high school students from Thief River Falls participate each year.

Actually, the Close Up Foundation is the nation's largest nonprofit, nonpartisan citizenship education organization. More than 25,000 students and teachers take part in the Washington programs each year, while tens of thousands more take part in state and local government studies programs. In total, Close Up has welcomed nearly 500,000 students, educators and others to the nation's capital, including about 20,000 Minnesotans.

Close Up recently sought opinion from 506 high school students, primarily seniors, from Minnesota inner-city, suburban and rural schools in its Survey on Civic Interest and Awareness.

Asked to rank the most desirable characteristics of a government leader, 37 percent listed "high standards of personal ethics and integrity" as the number one trait. This was followed by "listening to constituents and acting on their behalf" (34%) and "has relevant educational and career background" (24%). Dead last on the list was "charismatic personality and appearance" (4%).

While students showed high concern for integrity and ethical conduct in government leaders, few expressed an interest in becoming one of those leaders. Less than one in 10 of those polled (8%) expressed a strong interest in running for public office or serving in a public service career. Sixty-five percent of those polled said they have little or no interest in such service.

Nearly seven out of 10 (65%) of students polled said they would definitely vote in the next U.S. presidential election. This compares with three out of 10 (31%) of 18-20-year-olds nationwide who actually did vote in the most recent presidential election. Minnesota traditionally has one of the highest percentages of people voting in the nation, although that was only 64 percent in the most recent presidential vote.

While only nine percent of the students polled felt they would not be able to influence government at any level, students overwhelmingly felt they were more likely to influence laws and election results at the local level. Sixty-seven percent felt they could have a local influence, while only 16 percent felt they could have state influence and eight percent thought they could be influential nationally.

Despite the reported popularity of the Internet, only 5.5 percent of the students said their political opinions were strongly affected by that phase of communications. Nearly half (44%) said their opinions were strongly affected by traditional media while 33 percent cited parents, 15 percent listed teachers and 14 percent said friends were strongly influential.

Idealistic or not, however, it is good to see that Minnesota high school students place their highest level of importance on personal ethics and integrity in political office holders. It shows they aren't allowing the bad influence of adult opinion to affect their better judgment.

Let's Not Be Too Tight With Highway Dollars

Tax cuts always have a certain amount of appeal, but the proposal to substantially reduce the cost of motor vehicle registration as proposed by Gov. Ventura and others should not be hastily enacted. Such a reduction would have strong implications beyond the tax relief provided.

Gov. Ventura's proposal to cut the motor vehicle license tab fee is projected to result in the loss of $200 million annually from the Highway User Trust Fund. Without finding some other way to replace that loss, Minnesota can ill afford what the cut will do to its highway construction and maintenance programs.

In fact, the cut could result in a double loss to the trust fund since the state must match available federal transportation funds. Loss of federal funds because of an inability to provide state matching funds would additionally cripple the Minnesota highway program. Good highways are critical to development in northwest Minnesota.

While no one likes to pay high license tab fees, the system used to determine those fees is not unlike the graduated income tax system. Income taxes are considered equitable taxes because you don't pay them unless you have the income. In the case of motor vehicle license fees, the cost goes up in accordance with the age and value of the vehicle. Those who choose—and can afford—to drive a newer, more expensive vehicle, pay a higher fee. That may not be equitable in relationship to the relative use of streets and highways, but the theory isn't all bad. Those who want to play with new or expensive toys pay a premium for the privilege.

There is a replacement option if it is deemed wise to severely cut vehicle registration fees. That is a diversion of some of the state sales tax on motor vehicle sales, which now goes totally into the state's general fund and amounts to some $440 million a year. We have long felt that a major portion of this revenue should be dedicated to highways. Even a 50 percent dedication would replace the highway fund losses from the Ventura proposal.

Before anything is done in the legislature to substantially reduce motor vehicle registration fees, a means to replace the lost revenue must be in place. We can't afford to let our highway system deteriorate in the name of tax relief.

DNR Commissioner Settles For 2nd Choice

Allen Garber's bid for Minnesota public service wasn't to be Commissioner of the Department of Natural Resources. Back in November he had applied to be Gov. Jesse Ventura's public safety director but was unsuccessful in that effort. This past week he became the governor's second appointee to head the DNR, following the resignation of the first appointee.

Garber's best endorsement for the job may be that nobody seems to be particularly overjoyed about him getting it. His background is in law enforcement, including lengthy FBI service and brief police chief experience. Sportsmen and environmental activists alike are apprehensive, since the new commissioner appears to have no alliances nor identity with either.

Given the volatility of the position, being DNR commissioner is no political plum. One might say that applying for the public safety director job and receiving the DNR commissioner appointment is like asking for a pony for Christmas and getting only a box of horse manure. Now we'll have to see, if Garber knows how to fertilize the garden.

Weather Or Not

Fifty-five percent of American television sets tune in to the Weather Channel at least once a day. That's a staggering number—somewhere in the neighborhood of 150 million TVs on any given Monday or Tuesday. Of course mine is one of them, you didn't actually expect some form of independent, free thinking from someone who has two children actively involved in local youth hockey, did you?

What I'm wondering, though, is if everyone who turns that channel on and waits patiently through the inexhaustible supply of commercials and melodramatic accounts of Phoenix's unvarying climate, looking for the Local Forecast, actually believes what they eventually see. Or am I the only stooge to be found out there?

I work outside. I like to have a clue as to what the weather is planning for the days ahead. Theoretically, anyway, it should give me an idea about the movements of the fish through Lake of the Woods. At the very least I want to know if I should wear long underwear or not.

So, every morning before I leave the house, I watch 10 minutes of the Weather Channel. And every night, when I return home, I shake my head and wonder just what percentage of the time a weatherman has to be right to get his forecasting certificate validated.

The predictions about the most recent "blizzard" is a good example. At 6 a.m. we were given a "flurries to an inch" forecast. By noon the update suggested " four to six inches of snow with considerable wind." That's O.K.; I can live with updates. Forecast at 4 p.m. brought "six to 10 inches with 30 mph north winds." Wow! By 8 p.m. that night we were back to "flurries" and the following day, without a cloud, much less a single flake in sight, we settled back into a "well above average pattern." No explanation, certainly no apologies.

I'm absolutely sure that I never heard a meteorologist blurt out anything to the effect of, "Boy! We really botched that one, didn't we? Ha, ha. Well, better luck next time!"

We're not talking long term here. I could see bungling a five-day extended shot. But this is a matter of 24 hours, and if you climb a tall tree you can actually see the weather coming on the horizon for that time period ahead! Perhaps the multi-million dollar Doppler Radar kits should come with a few tree spikes, just to insure reliability.

Which brings us to the real point here. As a public body, we seem to have not only accepted repeated failure, but actually reward it handsomely. Outrageously high professional baseball salaries, for example, are paid out every year to men who bat .300, or fail 70 percent of the time. State and federal prison costs continue to skyrocket despite a recidivism rate of nearly 80 percent. And now I'm addicted to a TV channel that can command in excess of $50,000 per ad minute even though its success rate at forecasting 48-hour weather patterns has got to be well below 20 percent while their "extended outlooks" must hover around the five percent mark! Nostradamus did a heck of a lot better than that!

Let's admit our mistakes and move on. The technology is obviously not capable of handling forces as fickle and powerful as global weather patterns. Scrap the computers. Scrap the weather people (they all seem just a little too smug, anyway). Apply the cash toward the fixing of Social Security or some foreign policy program that once again bails Canada out of its economic tailspin. Something worthwhile.

Keep the television station running on a bare bones basis. Instead of a high-tech set and well-dressed staff, though, let's locate a used couch and a cheap color TV. Get some overweight guy in a muscle shirt to lay back and watch ESPN all day. Supply him with beer, of course; maybe the occasional delivered pizza. Oh, and give him a silver dollar to flip once an hour—heads for clear weather, tails for precipitation. We could even spice it up a bit and do a coin toss on the half-hour for cold or warm. I think any oddsmaker would tell you he'll be right 50 percent of the time. I've got just the person in mind.

And to really emphasize the random nature of this whole weather thing, we could go way out on a limb and enlist the help of something from the animal world. Maybe a woodchuck or something to do the long range forecast. And we'll stick him in a hole somewhere in the middle of nowhere, like Pennsylvania.

And if he crawls out and sees his shadow, well then, well... I don't know, we'll figure it out. I mean, who's going to put any stock in a

LHS mock trial team tops W/A/O in first trial effort

Lincoln high school's mock trial team scored a 21-point victory over Warren/Alvarado/Oslo high school Wednesday in the first of two trials which will comprise the team's regular season. The trial was held in the new Roseau county courthouse in Roseau.

Second competition for the team will be Thursday, February 11, against Moorhead in the Hubbard county courthouse in Park Rapids. Team members will travel to Park Rapids on Wednesday and stay overnight at their own expense rather than leave Thief River Falls at 6 a.m. Thursday for the 9:30 a.m. trial as originally planned.

Teacher coach Cal Lindberg was pleased with his team's performance Wednesday in earning the 180-159 win. District Judge James R. Wilson gave the edge to Thief River Falls 87-79 while attorney Alan Fish, the second scoring judge at the trial, awarded 93 points to Thief River Falls and 80 to W/A/O.

Approximately half of the senior class at Roseau high school—55 students—was invited by Judge Wilson to attend the trial which began at 9:30 a.m. The other half of the class attended another mock trial in the afternoon. Three parents of team members also made the trip on somewhat slippery roads to attend the competition.

"All of our team members, both attorneys and witnesses, performed extremely well and received good scores from the judges," Lindberg said. "And the Roseau students attending were very attentive and maintained the decorum of the courtroom."

Lindberg also said he appreciated the hospitality and cooperation of Judge Wilson who met the teams at the courthouse door and gave them a tour of the new facility. The setting for the trial was also well organized in advance and the judge also spent about half an hour with the team members after the trial to critique their perfomance.

"And it's always a good experience to go up against the Warren/Alvarado/Oslo team," Lindberg added. "They are well coached and well prepared and certainly are highly competitive during the trial, but when the trial is over they are fun, fun to talk to and friendly. Our students appreciate that attitude and try to conduct themselves in the same manner."

Lindberg said the judges ruled that W/A/O, which had the more difficult task of representing the prosecution, won the prosecutive merit portion of the case but did not provide clear and convincing evidence which would lead to the defendant being waived into adult court.

At Park Rapids on Thursday the Lincoln team will represent the prosecution and Moorhead will represent the defense. Allen Bolar, Lesley Ihle and Rachel Greelis will be the attorneys and Iaryn Pream, Marisa Holmstrom and Kristine Knop the witnesses.

At Roseau Wednesday Bolar, Ihle and Greelis were the attorneys with Stephanie Wiseth, Brent Nelson and Kristine Knop as witnesses.

Liquor vote allows Hobo Haus to serve greater selection worked out to little more than $2 an hour. "But, it was all mine," he says. "It (the ice center) worked out pretty well."

Softball was what brought Ron to Newfolden. His brother David, a one-time Marshall County Central principal now in Warroad, played softball on a Hobo Haus sponsored team. Ron joined the team, driving from Halstad to wherever they were playing.

When Hobo Haus' previous owners suggested that he buy the bar, he spent a couple of weekends running the bar and decided to make the move. It was 1979, and Ron was 21 years old.

In 1980 he purchased a nearby building and moved the bar. Until last year, the business occupied only a partitioned portion of the building. If an event took place that required more room, tables were set up on a concrete floor.

Last year's building project added a second bar, kitchen, seating area, stage and dance floor.

Recently, a room was finished that will provide overflow seating space and room for private parties. Currently, carpenters and plumbers are building large new restrooms which are accessible to people who are handicapped. The original restrooms are at the opposite end of the building. The entire 7,200-square-foot area has been utilized, and Ron suddenly finds himself searching for nooks and crannies to use as storage space.

The pool table and dart area are still located in the original bar area. The new area includes attractive step-up pine booths around the perimeter of the room. A long bar with stools and tables and chairs occupy the floor space. Ron has done a wonderful job of blending the old with the new to create an appealing new Hobo Haus.

A glance at the cleverly designed menu almost creates hunger. The sturdy menu is contained within a brown paper bag that sports the establishment's name and cheerful 'hobo' logo. Entrees include rib-eye steaks, fettuccini with Cajun-seasoned chicken and a trademark "Hobo Dinner," a burger or chicken breast baked with potatoes, carrots and onions and served with a Kaiser roll. The menu also includes just about everything that can be served in a basket — hamburgers, chicken, shrimp and more.

The reverse side of the menu includes a long list of appetizers, homemade soup of the day and chili, and a children's menu that is every bit as alluring as the adult carte du jour. The beverage list includes flavorful "1919" tap root beer.

Ron is enjoying himself in the kitchen. "I was behind the bar for enough years," he says. Food quality is important to him. The steaks are cut and hamburger is ground at neighboring Sethre's Hartz every day. It took five grindings before they discovered just the right "recipe" for Ron's ground beef.

A "Bit-of-Each" with dip is included on the list of appetizers. The plate offers a sampling of all of the appetizers currently offered as well as new items. If customers respond favorably to the new offerings, the appetizers will be added to the regular menu.

Presentation is important, also. The steaks are served on "sizzler" plates, and the Hobo Dinner and Supreme Nachos are presented in cast iron skillets. The basket meals are offered with French fries, soup or coleslaw.

"If I've had any complaints, it's that there's too much food," Ron says. He likes to hear those comments in person and takes every opportunity to slip out of the kitchen and visit with his customers.

The young softball player who came to Newfolden in 1979 married and had a family. Ron and his wife, Julie, have three children, 17 and 15-year-old daughters and a 10-year-old son. Although he's still sporting a Hobo Haus softball jersey and baseball cap, Ron says that he now spends more time managing the softball team than playing the game.

While Julie completed her education at the University of North Dakota in 1991, Ron operated the Hobo Haus and performed many "Mr. Mom" duties. Then, when Julie taught in Sandstone for two years, Ron divided his time between his family in Sandstone and his business in Newfolden. Julie worked with the Early Childhood Family Education program at Marshall County Central for four years and is currently a kindergarten teacher in Climax.

Four years ago Julie was seriously injured in a car accident, and the couple made several trips to the Mayo Clinic. While in Rochester, they visited some of the many unique eating establishments found there. The experiences inspired them, and it was on the way home from a visit to Rochester that Ron and Julie came up with the Hobo Haus menu.

Ron is excited about his business. Entertainment will be offered about twice a month, and during the remainder of February the stage will be occupied on the 13th, 20th and 26th.

An influx of new business has been encouraging. The recently created trails near Newfolden have brought snowmobilers to the Hobo Haus, and the regular clientele has been joined by a new younger crowd.

Old traditions, however, will continue. A dart league meets at Hobo Haus on Tuesday evenings. The popular "Cartoon Kegger" will be held during the annual Newfest celebration.

The bar and off-sale open at noon Monday through Saturday. Food is served from 5 until 10 p.m. Monday through Friday and from noon until 11 p.m. on Saturdays. The establishment is closed on Sundays.

The hours are long and also involve bookkeeping, ordering, cleaning and maintenance. "By the time I walk from one end of the building to the other, I've thought of ten things I have to do!" Ron says. He has a dozen part-time employees.

If he could change one thing, the Hobo Haus would be open on Sundays and closed on Mondays, but that would require another vote. "It would probably be another 20-year battle," Ron laughs.

For now, with perseverance having paid off, he's happy with things just the way they are and optimistically looking forward to a bright Hobo Haus future.

Brateng, Johnson join Full-Tuition Scholar group

Philip Brateng of Grygla and Susan Johnson of Newfolden are members of the Organization of Full-Tuition Scholars at Bemidji State University for the 1998-99 school year.

Brateng is a freshman majoring in computer science and Johnson is a senior majoring in mathematics.

Purpose of the organization is to work with with BSU Foundation to promote and maintain the Full-Tuition Scholarship Program and provide a networking group to disseminate information and educational support.

Full-Tuition scholars earn the prestigious and competitive scholarship by entering the university with high academic credentials and maintaining high academic standards during their BSU career. The scholarship can be worth over $10,000 to qualified students.

Part of the reason for low enplanements has to be placed on the economy. During the late 70's and early 80's enplanements dropped significantly during a period of severe economic turmoil for the region. The size of planes, and high fares were also factors. The reason for the increase in enplanements lately, however, seems more to do with a larger plane, advertising and new rates offered by Northwest.

Northwest is offering a limited number of walk-up one-way tickets to Minneapolis/St. Paul at $99, and with a 21-day advance purchase, and a $138 round-trip ticket. (A number of conditions and restrictions apply, and customers should contact their travel agents for more details.)

Prior to June of last year, all airports served by Mesaba, the parent company of Northwest Airlink, except Thief River Falls and International Falls, were included in that special fare offering. Last June the low fares were extended to include Thief River Falls after months of local officials and legislators voicing their concerns.

Prior to the special fares, Lindberg said they wanted to market the airport, but high fares made it difficult to market. It was frustrating, he said. Residents would drive to Grand Forks and get on the same plane that stopped in Thief River Falls, and pay considerably less.

The effort to advertise the new rates and air service hit a stumbling block almost immediately. During the summer months, a pilot's strike played havoc with everyone's plans.

Enplanements are not expected to increase overnight. It takes time to build and develop ridership, Stewart said. They hope that this marketing plan will help get enplanements off the ground.

Stewart and Lindberg also said they plan to utilize generic advertising provided by the office of aeronautics in Minnesota, as well as any future materials provided by Northwest, which gives the impression that it is a cooperative effort. They agree it benefits the region, Thief River Falls, the airline industry, and Northwest.

The airport plays a vital part of the region's economy. From an economic development standpoint, Stewart said, it's important to have air service because it benefits everyone. Visitors and residents end up spending money here. Business and industry need it to move products and representatives.

Digi-Key is an example of our local business that relies on the airport and service to move their packages all over the world. Increasing demands for their business has resulted in increased traffic at the airport. Digi-Key is pleased because the next-day service it allows Digi-Key to provide will improve its ability to compete in Canada and the United States. Thief River Falls Airport personnel are happy because there is new business at the airport.

Airport personnel and Stewart and Lindberg all say they have received comments about the excellent facility at Thief River Falls. Many are surprised at what it has to offer. It seems the word is finally getting out and local promoters couldn't be happier.

The community of Thief River Falls has two committees working on promoting the airport. One committee, known as the Airport Advisory Committee consists of representatives of individuals and businesses using airport services regularly. The second committee, is an ad hoc committee appointed to market the airport. Members include: Dave Carlson, Annette Bergan, Pat Swanson, Julie Olson, Dave Strong, Jerry Wigness, Annette Bruggeman, Tami Hemmesch, Stan Springsteen, Pam Cwikla, Ron Lindberg, Roger DeLap, Don Stewart, and Mark Josephson.

continues to grow at 20 percent per year, he said that Polaris had its ninth consecutive year of increased ATV sales. And after several tough years for personal watercraft, he said, "it looks like the worst is behind us."

Poor snow conditions and warm temperatures in the early winter contributed to slower than expected snowmobile retail sales in the season to date, he added.

Second quarter run lifts Red Lake Falls past Grygla-Gatzke

There was nothing wrong with the Grygla-Gatzke performance Tuesday, according to Eagles head coach Vern Johnson. However, his boys high school basketball team still wound up losing a 64-59 decision at Red Lake Falls.

"It was a good performance, a solid effort on our part," said Johnson. "The kids hustled and worked hard."

Grygla-Gatzke had a 14-12 edge at the close of the first quarter, but Red Lake Falls doubled the visitors 18-9 over the next eight minutes to lead 30-23 at halftime. It was a 45-36 game at the third quarter break.

"They made a good run on us in the second quarter," noted Johnson. "They're a good team."

Red Lake Falls enjoyed a 10-point advantage with five minutes left, but with 30 seconds remaining, Grygla-Gatzke had the ball with a chance to tie the game. However, the shot was off the mark, and free throws helped the winners secure the win that reversed a 47-45 Grygla-Gatzke victory when the two teams met Jan. 9.

"We came back and gave ourselves a chance to tie or go ahead at the end," noted Johnson. "That's all you can ask."

A balanced Grygla-Gatzke offense featured Todd Sax and Garren Anderson with 12 points each, Barry Olson and Gavin Nordby with 10 apiece. Red Lake Falls' attack included Ben Largis with 17 points, Hopperstad 16 and Danny Gagner had 13.

Grygla-Gatzke was 24-for-55 from the field (44 percent) and 11-for-16 at the free throw line. Red Lake Falls went 21-for-47 from the floor (45 percent) and 16-for-23 at the line. Grygla-Gatzke had a 31-30 rebound edge. Red Lake Falls finished with more turnovers, 12-11.

Fourth straight loss for Grygla-Gatzke dropped the team to 4-12 for the year.

The puck bounced away from Thief River Falls forward Jeff Rislov, who had an open net in front of him after Bemidji goalie Andy LaCoursiere went down on the ice during Tuesday's high school hockey game at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center. The Lumberjacks won 4-3, picking up their second one-goal victory of the year over the Prowlers.

Bemidji 4-3 winner over TRF

Bemidji picked up its second one-goal win of the season over Thief River Falls Tuesday with a 4-3 high school hockey victory at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center. It was the 13th time in 18 starts the 5-10-3 Prowlers have been involved in a one-goal or tie hockey game.

The Lumberjacks, who won the first meeting 3-2 in overtime back on Dec. 18, scored in the final minute of the first period, the first minute of the third period and got the game-winner with 2:10 remaining.

Down 3-1, Thief River Falls pulled even on goals by Jarod Reierson and Wade Chiodo just 56 seconds apart late in the third period.

Second Thief River Falls goal of the night was set up when defenseman Dewey Warker kept the puck in the offensive zone by stepping around a Bemidji player who went down to block a shot from the point. That led to a scramble in front of goalie Andy LaCoursiere and Reierson was able to reach out, corral the loose puck and pop it in the net at 10:55.

A Bemidji penalty at 11:15 was converted into a game-tying Thief River Falls power play goal at 11:51 on a tip-in by Chiodo off a shot by Worker.

However, Thief River Falls' celebration was cut short just 59 seconds later when Isaac Marsolek picked up his own rebound after hitting the pipe on his first shot and scored the tie-breaker at 12:50.

The Prowlers, who pulled goalie Mike Dowers with 48 seconds to play in favor of an extra attacker, threatened to tie it again with a flurry of activity around LaCoursiere, but could not turn opportunities into goals.

"You've got to play 45 minutes, not four," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland. "We played all right in the second period, but we didn't play very well in the first period and the first five minutes of the third period. We didn't do a very good job moving our feet in our zone. Our center icemen and defenseman got beat to the puck."

Thief River Falls converted the first penalty of the game into a power play goal and a 1-0 lead when Worker picked up the first of his three assists by passing the puck to an open Dustin Melby on the right side. Melby scored from inside the face-off circle at 8:55 of the first period – just 17 seconds into the man-advantage opportunity.

Bemidji tied it at 11:03 as Rob Schneider gained possession of the puck behind the Thief River Falls net and put it out front, where Tony Smiar promptly converted the pass into a 1-1 game.

Ryan Welle got the go-ahead goal late in the first period when he was allowed to skate across the front of the goal with the puck. He fanned on his first shot, but still had time to put a soft backhand under the sprawling Dowers with just 31 seconds on the clock.

Welle's second goal, a quick 22 seconds into the second period, upped the difference to 3-1. It was a one-on-one situation down the middle of the ice. With the defender backing up, Welle had time to square up and crank a high hard one under the crossbar.

The loss kept the Prowlers from building upon a 4-3 overtime win at Lake of the Woods Saturday. "We would have liked to have been able to step up and put two games together," said Bergland. Instead, the Prowlers have one less card to deal when post-season seeding positions are announced Wednesday. The Section 8A tournament will be played Feb. 18, 19, 20, 22, and 25 in Thief River Falls.

Win over Hibbing keeps Northland in playoff picture

It was far from the Pioneers' best performance of the year, admitted Northland Community and Technical College women's basketball coach Mike Zachow, but it was good enough to net a 61-52 Saturday (Jan. 30) win over Hibbing.

Jenny Johnson scored 22 points and Becky Perreault had 13 as the Pioneers stayed in the race for a top four finish in the Northern Division and a Minnesota Community College Conference state tournament spot. The Pioneers took a 5-4 MCCC record and 6-11 overall mark on a weekend road trip to Vermilion and Mesabi. They host Central Lakes Wednesday in their final home game before finishing the regular season with games at Fergus Falls and Itasca.

"We need three more wins," said Zachow after the Hibbing game. "This one was not a pretty sight. We didn't shoot very well, but we rebounded really well and got a lot of second-chance baskets."

The Pioneers, who led 36-32 at halftime, shot just 27 percent from the field (23/85), but they beat the Cardinals on the boards 54-48 behind a 16-rebound performance by Jessica Johnson. Hibbing shot 30 percent (20/66).

Central Lakes and Vermilion began the week atop the MCCC Northern Division standings at 7-1 and 6-1, respectively, followed by Fergus Falls at 6-2, Rainy River 5-3, Northland 5-4, Mesabi 1-6, Hibbing 1-7, and Itasca 0-7.

Mustangs blitz Huskies 75-36

It was a close shave for Red Lake County Central boys high school basketball coach Chris McLean Tuesday. Not on the scoreboard, but in the locker room following the Mustangs' surprisingly one-sided 75-36 win over Goodridge at Plummer.

It was Spirit Week for the Mustangs, and to do his part, McLean agreed to follow the lead of the players and get a "buzz" cut – if they could put together a three-game win streak. Victories over Red Lake Falls 73-62 and Climax/Fisher 77-65 preceded the rematch with a Goodridge team that beat Red Lake County Central 43-41 earlier this winter.

"Originally it was five-in-a-row," explained McLean, in his second year as the Mustangs' head coach. "Then I said I would do it if they won three."

They did it in grand style by turning an 18-14 first quarter edge into a 41-23 halftime spread and a 54-25 third quarter gap. Nick Woldal led the way with a 28-point game, while Darren Vanek netted 12 and Mark Larenson 10. Lone Goodridge double figure scorer was Travis Scheef with 10 points.

"We played really well," said McLean. "We moved the ball really well and got some good inside shots." Twenty-four assists, noted McLean, shows what kind of passing performance his team turned in.

Red Lake County Central also did a number on the boards, out-rebounding Goodridge 45-30 as Larenson pulled down 12, Heath Rosten 8 and Waldal 7.

The Mustangs were 30-for-63 from the field (48 percent) and 11-for-20 at the free throw line. The Huskies made just 13 of 53 field goal attempts (25 percent) and went 8-for-13 at the line while topping the turnover charts 17-12.

It was the sixth straight loss for the 3-11 Huskies, who haven't won since beating Red Lake County Central back on Jan. 8. The Mustangs are 9-7.

Poor shooting costs Gators

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River shot just 33 percent from the field (19/57) and lost a 61-52 boys high school basketball decision to Roseau Tuesday.

The visiting Rams jumped out to a 17-6 first quarter lead and were able to hold off a second half comeback attempt by the Gators for their second win of the year in the home-and-home North Border Conference series.

It was 30-25 at halftime and 45-39 through three quarters. On two occasions the Gators had the ball and the chance to cut into a four-point third quarter deficit, but came up empty-handed.

"Our shooting was atrocious all night, and they shot well," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "We had a couple of chances, but we just couldn't get the shots down. We didn't make the shots when we needed them."

Part of the reason for the Gators' slow start, explained Sparby, was the fact they began the game with two starters – David Truscinski and Derek Fugleberg – on the bench with ankle injuries. Truscinski did not play at all. Fugleberg came in and scored 10 points.

Richard Wockenfuss led the Gators with 18 points. TJ Super matched Fugleberg's 10-point effort. Aaron Anderson and Isaac Lang provided the Rams with a 1-2 scoring punch by netting 21 and 20 points, respectively.

Roseau shot 49 percent from the floor (21/43), with a strong second half shooting performance boosting the percentage considerably.

Free throw shooting was a standoff, with the Gators hitting 13 of 21 and the Rams making 14 of 23. Roseau finished with a 37-31 rebound advantage, but also had more turnovers, 19-10.

The loss dropped the Gators below .500 at 7-8.

MCC boys fall prey to Wolfpack attack

Marshall County Central's climb to .500 fell victim to the potent offense of Kittson Central Tuesday as the Wolfpack out-scored the Nordics 83-68 in boys high school basketball at Newfolden.

Back-to-back wins over Goodridge and Grygla-Gatzke had evened the Nordics' record at 8-8, but they couldn't contain Aaron Austin (22 points), Mitch Deere (21), Jason Urbaniak (14), Ben Stechmann (13) and co.

"They have a good offensive team, no doubt about that," acknowledged Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "We have to do a better job defensively."

Urbaniak scored 7 of the first 8 Kittson Central points to help stake his team to a 26-15 first quarter lead. The Wolfpack were on top 46-32 at halftime and had a 63-41 third quarter cushion.

"They got out to a pretty good lead," noted Ueland. "But we scored fairly well ourselves, and it looked like we were ready to make a move in the third quarter. They (Wolfpack) are not a real deep team, and they were getting tired."

But just when the Nordics appeared to be in charge with their faster paced style of play, they started to pick up fouls, explained Ueland. Instead of forcing the Wolfpack to run even more, the whistle stoppages enabled them to catch their breath – and in the process sink nine straight momentum-turning free throws.

"We didn't do the things we needed to do to win the game," mentioned Ueland.

David Wilcox scored 22 points, Tyler Ryba 14 and Kyle Muetzel 11 for the Nordics, who were 28-for-66 from the field (42 percent) and 7-for-10 at the free throw line. Kittson Central went 30-for-55 from the floor (55 percent) and 19-for-28 at the line. The Nordics finished with a 33-27 rebound edge. The Wolfpack topped the turnover charts 15-14.

Roseau skates to 6-1 win over TRF

Roseau was a five-goal winner over Thief River Falls for the second time this season Thursday when the Rams beat the Prowlers 6-1 in a high school hockey game played at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

The two long-time rivals met in the 1998-99 season opener at Roseau back on Nov. 24 when the Rams won by a 7-2 margin. They were considered one of the best teams in the state in preseason polls, and have proven it with a 20-1 record that has earned them the No. 1 ranking in Class AA.

"They're awfully good," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland. But he was far from disappointed in the Prowlers' performance. "We played hard. They (Rams) knew they were in a hockey game."

Thief River Falls played Roseau on near-even terms the first period. It was scoreless until the Rams' Jesse Modal centered the puck from behind the net and Josh Olson one-timed it home at 10.55.

Just 62 seconds later it was 2-0 as a Thief River Falls defender got turned around on a Roseau 2-on-1 rush that resulted in a goal for Phil Larson.

"That first period we played about a perfect period of hockey," said Berglund. "We made two mistakes, and they capitalized on both of them."

Thief River Falls chopped the difference to 2-1 at 5:17 of the second period when Treavor Peterson caught the short side of the net – squeezing the puck between the pipe and goalie Jake Brandt's pads – as he came down the left wing.

Mike Klema rebuilt the two-goal Roseau lead at 8.16 as he skated down the right wing, then cut back to center ice and beat Thief River Falls goalie Mike Dowers top shelf.

Brandt figured in the fourth Roseau goal as he fielded a dump-in by the Prowlers, flipped a long pass up the boards to Bobby John Byfuglien, who promptly put the puck on Aaron Oegerness' stick in the middle of the rink to send him in alone at 11:44 of the second period.

Dowers came up with a dandy save on Nathan Berry in the third period, only to have Klema grab the rebound and patiently pick a spot over the sprawling netminder to make it 5-1 at 10.47.

Final goal came off the stick of Jesse Modahl, who scored on a high wrist shot from the slot at 13:51.

Dowers turned in a 25-save effort. Brandt stopped 15 shots, including a number of strong Thief River Falls third period scoring chances.

"We did a lot of good things," noted Bergland. "We played better defensively tonight than we did up there, and we had two-three good opportunities ourselves. If we put those shots in the net, who knows what might have happened."

The loss dropped the Prowlers to 5-11-3.

Scoring

First period - Roseau, Josh Olson (Jesse Modahl), 10:55. Roseau, Phil Larson (David Klema), 11:57.

Second period - TRF, Treavor Peterson (Jarod Reierson), 5.17. Roseau, Mike Klema (Olson), 8.16. Roseau, Aaron Oegerness (Bobby John Byfuglien-Jake Brandt), 11 44.

Prowlers hold off EGF to win 67-65

Kelly Cota scored 12 of his 29 points in the fourth quarter Thursday to help Thief River Falls hold off East Grand Forks 67-65 in boys high school basketball.

The Prowlers, who lost to the Green Wave 57-43 a month ago, had an 11-point lead with 2 1/2 minutes left in the rematch. But an East Grand Forks comeback took the game down to the final moments before a winner emerged.

Thief River Falls had a chance to build upon a 67-63 lead with 14 seconds remaining, but a miss on the front end of a bonus free throw opportunity led to an East Grand Forks rebound and fast break lay-up by Travis Lindgren.

The Prowlers were back at the free throw line with 7.3 seconds left. But two more misses were followed by another East Grand Forks rebound and fast break by Lindgren. However, this time Lindgren was called for an offensive charge as he took the ball to the basket with .4 seconds showing on the clock.

Coupled with a 70-59 victory over Climax/Fisher a week earlier, the outcome gave the 5-10 Prowlers back-to-back wins for the first time this winter.

Matt Myers and Collin Schafer joined Cota in double figures for the Prowlers with 14 and 12 points, respectively. East Grand Forks' one-two scoring punch of Justin Bruhn (30) and Lindgren (23) produced 53 of the visitor's 65 points.

Both teams were 7-for-12 at the free throw line.

University of Minnesota Extension specialists will address a number of management concerns including Roundup ready soybeans, white mold considerations and crop rotations, production costs, market outlook, fertility issues including iron chlorosis research, weed control and a weather outlook by climatologists Leon Osborne.

Other speakers include: Dale Hicks, U of M extension agronomist; Zach Fore, extension educator, Alternative Crops; Kent Olson, U of M extension economist; Craig Haugaard, U of M marketing specialist; Carlyle Holen, U of M crop pest management educator; Al Sims, soil scientist, Northwest Experiment Station; and Seth Naeve, U of M soybean specialist.

Investigation into death of Holmquist continues

Investigation into the death of 16-year-old Julie Holmquist continues. Kittson County Sheriff Ray Hunt said this week that they have eliminated a lot of leads, but they aren't ready to make an arrest.

Holmquist disappeared July 29, 1998 while in-line skating on a highway near Hallock. On August 20 her body was found by an individual scouting some property near Lancaster. At that time Sheriff Hunt released a statement that Holmquist had died of "homicidal violence". Hunt said this week that he wasn't going to elaborate while the investigation was continuing.

Hunt said a state BCA agent has been assigned to the case and other agents are available as needed.

Through the investigation, they continue to eliminate a lot of leads, but they aren't ready to make an arrest. Hunt said some old leads need more work and there are a number of individuals to re-visit. They aren't suspects at this point, he added.

Although he believes they have a long way to go before they solve this case, he said he isn't going to throw in the towel.

Fosston theatre robbed January 27

Fosston - "The thieves knew too much," said Ken Haugen, co-owner of the Lesdan Theatre in Fosston, of a recent robbery.

In the afternoon on January 27 robbers entered the side door of the theatre, went directly to the business office and found and took bank deposit bags containing between $500 and $800.

Haugen was in the family living area above the theatre when the robbery occurred. He had left the side door, living entrance of the building open in anticipation of a UPS delivery.

Nothing was taken from the cash register, concession area or video shelves. "These thieves knew what they wanted, where to go," Haugen noted, "and they didn't waste any time."

The burglary is under investigation by the Fosston Police Department. The Thirteen Towns

Two arrested after 140 mph chase

Detroit Lakes - Two people were arrested early Saturday morning after stealing a Corvette and leading Mahnomen county deputies on a chase at speeds up to 140 miles per hour.

The incident began near Waubun where deputies spotted a 1999 Chevrolet Corvette that had been stolen in Detroit.

The driver of the Corvette rammed one of the two squad cars that tried to pull the car over and then fled northbound on Highway 59 with deputies in pursuit at speeds up to 130 mph. Tire puncture devices laid on a bridge near Mahnomen proved useless and the chase continued east on Highway 200 at speeds higher than 140 mph.

The chase ended 18 miles east of Mahnomen when the driver of the Corvette lost control on a curve and got stuck in the snow. Two people in the vehicle were arrested without incident and are being held in the Becker county jail. Detroit Lakes Tribune

The grandparents were very proud as Nicole was crowned Minnesota's 1999 Junior Miss.

Nicole is the daughter of Curt and Fay Kuznis of Olivia. Her maternal grandparents are Elray and Edwige Riopelle of Argyle. Later in the year she will compete in America's Junior Miss pageant in Mobile, AL. The Messenger

Cabela's to face Holiday Mall

East Grand Forks - Representatives of Cabela's have decided that the 60,000 square foot facility will fit into downtown redevelopment plans better if it faces DeMers Avenue and the Holiday Mall. Originally, the entrance was expected to face the river.

Construction for the new facility is expected to begin in March, and officials are hoping Cabela's will be ready to open by October 1, 1999. The Exponent

Four producers share honors at DHIA banquet

Four dairy herd owners shared the six awards presented at the annual meeting and awards banquet of the Red Lake-Pennington Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA) Monday evening, February 8, at the Eagles hall in Thief River Falls. Supervisors for the association are Randy and Margaret Rasmussen.

The association, which was formed from a consolidation of two associations several years ago, also pared its board to what will be the continuing level of five members as the term of Larry Amundson of Thief River Falls expired.

Wayne Vettleson of Trail was elected president to succeed Vernon Neuschwander of Grygla, who was reelected to the board. Greg Zak of Angus was elected vice president to succeed Vettleson and Lucille Weiss of Red Lake Falls was reelected secretary/treasurer. The fifth board member is Joel Stolaas of Oklee.

Todd and Jay Johnston of Angus and Wayne and Debra Vettleson of Oklee each received two awards for their herds while Bob Schindler and Dale and Sherri Rupprecht of Thief River Falls each received one award.

Schindler's award was for the most improved herd over the 1998 year, as his herd record for the year showed an increase per animal of 2,698 pounds of milk, 91 pounds of fat and 86 pounds of protein.

Dale and Sherri Rupprecht were recognized for having the 1998 winner for lifetime butterfat production, a 12-year-old in her eighth lactation which had produced 221,487 pounds (more than 110 tons) of milk, 7,945 pounds of butterfat and 7,852 pounds of protein.

Todd and Jay Johnston received awards for the top herd average for the year (26,355 pounds of milk, 889 pounds of butterfat and 838 pounds of protein) and for the top individual cow, "Gigi," a four-year-old, produced 32,650 pounds of milk, 1,115 pounds of butterfat and 1,051 pounds of protein in a 305-day lactation.

Digi-Key gains foot hold in Canadian market

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Purolator, a rapid shipping service in Canada, has contracted with Perimeter Airlines of Winnipeg to begin shipping packages by air for Digi-Key, a multi-million dollar a year wholesale electronics parts distributor in Thief River Falls.

Purolator and Digi-Key have had a working relationship for a few years now, but this new arrangement makes many new things possible. Lorne Wendlandt, Digi-Key, explained that when shipping by truck, the cut off time for same day shipping to Canada used to be 6 p.m.

Purolator, which has had a working relationship with Digi-Key wanted to help Digi-Key improve service to its Canadian Customers. It soon reached an agreement with Perimeter Airlines of Winnipeg to begin flying freight for Purolator. This new arrangement allows Digi-Key to process same-day orders until 8 p.m.

Wendlandt said Digi-Key is excited about this arrangement because it gives them a better foothold in the Canadian market.

John Minion, pilot for Perimeter Airlines of Winnipeg, said Perimeter Air was excited about the new working relationship with Digi-Key and Purolator.

Perimeter Airlines has 15 Metros and four or five other planes with a flight school, including a Beechcraft Barron they flew into Thief River Falls Tuesday night. They fly into Thief River Falls nightly, Monday through Friday. Each flight has been full ever since they began shipping freight for Digi-Key and Purolator a couple of weeks ago.

Shipping the freight by air helped speed up the process, but they were still hindered by a requirement to stop in Warroad for customs — until recently. An arrangement has been worked out with Customs so that clearance can now take place in Winnipeg. Wendlandt said they are looking at electronic data interchange transmission to expedite the clearance process.

Joe Hoppe, major account executive for Purolator, said Purolator was very happy about the new arrangement and hopes to see the partnership grow. They want to continue to help Digi-Key serve their Canadian customers.

Digi-Key is also helping to serve their Canadian customers by providing a catalog in Canada which lists the cost of products in Canadian currency. That cost includes all duties and taxes. If the Canadian customer decides to purchase the products in U.S. currency the customer is responsible for all duties and taxes.

The whole focus of this process has been on the customer, which explains why Digi-Key is one of the fastest-growing electronic component distributors in the United States. The stimulus for this growth is Digi-Key's customer-centered business philosophy — "provide the customer with the absolute best service possible."

The new arrangement with Purolator and the new catalog printed by Quebecor in Canada represents a major market expansion, Wendlandt said Digi-Key is not satisfied to stop there, they are currently planning to expand into Japan, which after the United

SD 564 prepares for possible bus strike

In the event of a strike by school bus drivers in the district, School board of School District 564 will be sending notices to families who have or are eligible to have their children transported to and from school. These notices will contain additional information for transporting their children to and from school.

Last week the district received a Notice of Intent to Strike from the bus drivers and transportation assistants who are employed by the district and are members of the Minnesota School Employees Association (MSEA). The collective bargaining agreement with the employees expired on June 30, 1998.

School board and bus driver representatives have met on a number of occasions in an attempt to resolve disagreements. The last mediation session took place on Monday, February 15. Representatives of both groups have continued to indicate that they are willing to negotiate in good faith.

Nevertheless, the school district is taking steps regarding the transportation of students, including the issuance of these notices. School Superintendent Jerry Robicheau said in a recent news release that "All measures will be taken to assure the safety of children when they arrive at school and traffic controls in and around our schools will be monitored very closely to alleviate as many problems as possible."

Under state law, since the bus drivers have filed a Notice of Intent to Strike, they have the legal right to strike beginning at 12:01 a.m. on Wednesday, February 17. The legal right to strike ends at 11:59 p.m. on Monday, March 8.

Viking was once the Bachelor Capital of MN

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Move over Herman. Yours wasn't the first Minnesota town tagged Bachelor Capital of the state. Viking had the honor in 1948.

Several years ago Herman, a town of about 600, gained national media attention because of its high ratio of males to females. There just weren't enough women to go around.

In 1948 a similar situation existed in Viking. However, while Herman leaders did everything they could to attract females to the town, the single gents in Viking 51 years ago were supposedly content with things just the way they were.

Reverend C.T. Thompson, pastor of Viking Lutheran Church and a 35-year-old bachelor, organized a Bachelors' club, and the Minneapolis Tribune put Viking on the map when it devoted a full page in its Leap Year edition to a story about Viking's single men.

Fifty-one years ago Viking's spot on the map was a wee bit bigger than it is today. According to Mayor Wayne Peters, there were two general stores, a grocery store, two or three cafes, two garages/gas stations, a bulk gas business, an elevator, stockyard, locker plant, school and two churches. There was no drinking establishment in the town.

The Minneapolis Tribune story was penned by staff writer Evelyn Burke and appeared on the front page of the Women's News, Theaters, Travel, Art, Music and Books section of the Leap Year edition.

February 29, according to tradition, is the opening of the leap year season when bachelors are fair game and women are free to do the asking.

Burke reported "of the 180 souls who live in the town and the farms that fan out from it in a radius of seven to ten miles, 100 are bachelors." She later cautioned her female readers, "But before clapping on red caps, loading up the old shooting irons and heading Viking-ward, single lady hunters are warned that picking off their men in Viking isn't like shooting fish in a rain barrel."

Reverend C.T. Thompson was described as the "spark plug" for the Bachelors club and posed for a photograph in front of Zion Lutheran Church. At 35, he had a sturdy build and a good-natured look about him. A radiant smile highlighted his handsome face.

Scandinavians made up almost 100 percent of the town's population. There was one married Irishman and one Scotsman. Dan McMillan, who was the oldest member of the Bachelors club at 81. Stanley Larson, 21, was noted as the organization's youngest member.

A few of the bachelors were merchants, and one was a mechanic. Most were farmers who owned their own farms. The younger bachelors were nearly all former G.I.s.

Frequent bachelor dinners were organized by Rev. Thompson and held in the church basement. The meals were cooked by a handful of wives and Viking teacher Solveig Samuelson, one of the rare unmarried women in the town. They were served by high school girls. The hearty menus, however, were planned by the bachelors. A typical meal included beef stock soup, steak, potatoes and gravy, lettuce salad, homemade cake and ice cream and coffee. The minority number of husbands joined the bachelors for the occasions.

The evenings concluded with a program that included a prayer, a number of musical presentations and a guest speaker.

Without a tavern, night club or dance hall, the coffee shop served as the hangout for the older set while the younger generation, many just out of the service, gathered around the potbelly stove at a general store and exchanged war stories.

In her Tribune story, Burke explained that high school girls were not included in the town's male/female ratio "because it's an old Viking custom for them to shake the dust of the bachelor center when they get their high school diplomas

Investigation into the death of 16-year-old Julie Holmquist continues, Kittson County Sheriff Ray Hunt said this week that they have eliminated a lot of leads, but they aren't ready to make an arrest.

Holmquist disappeared July 29, 1998 while in-line skating on a highway near Hallock. On August 20 her body was found by an individual scouting some property near Lancaster. At that time Sheriff Hunt released a statement that Holmquist had died of "homicidal violence". Hunt said this week that he wasn't going to elaborate while the investigation was continuing.

Hunt said a state BCA agent has been assigned to the case and other agents are available as needed.

Through the investigation, they continue to eliminate a lot of leads, but they aren't ready to make an arrest. Hunt said some old leads need more work and there are a number of individuals to re-visit. They aren't suspects at this point, he added.

Although he believes they have a long way to go before they solve this case, he said he isn't going to throw in the towel.

Fosston theatre robbed January 27

Fosston - "The thieves knew too much," said Kea Haugen, co-owner of the Lesdan Theatre in Fosston, of a recent robbery.

In the afternoon on January 27 robbers entered the side door of the theatre, went directly to the business office and found and took bank deposit bags containing between $500 and $800.

Haugen was in the family living area above the theatre when the robbery occurred. He had left the side door, living entrance of the building open in anticipation of a UPS delivery.

Nothing was taken from the cash register, concession area or video shelves. "These thieves knew what they wanted, where to go," Haugen noted, "and they didn't waste any time."

The burglary is under investigation by the Fosston Police Department. The Thirteen Towns

Two arrested after 140 mph chase

Detroit Lakes - Two people were arrested early Saturday morning after steeling a Corvette and leading Mahnomen county deputies on a chase at speeds up to 140 miles per hour.

The incident began near Waubun where deputies spotted a 1999 Chevrolet Corvette that had been stolen in Detroit.

The driver of the Corvette rammed one of the two squad cars that tried to pull the car over and then fled northbound on Highway 59 with deputies in pursuit at speeds up to 130 mph. Tire puncture devices laid on a bridge near Mahnomen proved useless and the chase continued east on Highway 200 at speeds higher than 140 mph.

The chase ended 18 miles east of Mahnomen when the driver of the Corvette lost control on a curve and got stuck in the snow. Two people in the vehicle were arrested without incident and are being held in the Becker county jail. Detroit Lakes Tribune

Warren couple's granddaughter 1999 MN Junior Miss

Warren - Gertie and Louie Kuznia of Warren traveled to Bloomington recently to watch their granddaughter participate in the 1999 Minnesota Junior Miss Pageant.

The grandparents were very proud as Nicole was crowned Minnesota's 1999 Junior Miss.

Nicole is the daughter of Curt and Fay Kuznia of Olivia. Her maternal grandparents are Elfay and Edwige Riopelle of Argyle. Later in the year she will compete in America's Junior Miss pageant in Mobile, AL. The Messenger

Cabela's to face Holiday Mall

East Grand Forks - Representatives of Cabela's have decided that the 60,000 square foot facility will fit into downtown redevelopment plans better if it faces DeMers Avenue and the Holiday Mall. Originally, the entrance was expected to face the river.

Construction for the new facility is expected to begin in March, and officials are hoping Cabela's will be ready to open by October 1, 1999. The Exponent

Digi-Key gains foot hold in Canadian market

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Purolator, a rapid shipping service in Canada, has contracted with Perimeter Airlines of Winnipeg to begin shipping packages by air for Digi-Key, a multi-million dollar a year wholesale electronics parts distributor in Thief River Falls.

Purolator and Digi-Key have had a working relationship for a few years now, but this new arrangement makes many new things possible, Lorae Wendlandt, Digi-Key, explained that when shipping by truck, the cut off time for same day shipping to Canada used to be 6 p.m.

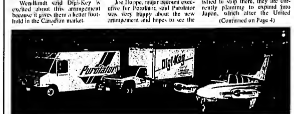
Purolator, which has had a working relationship with Digi-Key wanted to help Digi-Key improve service to its Canadian Customers. It soon reached an agreement with Perimeter Airlines of Winnipeg to begin flying freight for Purolator. This new arrangement allows Digi-Key to process same-day orders until 8 p.m.

Wendlandt said Digi-Key is excited about this arrangement because it gives them a better foothold in the Canadian market.

John Minion, pilot for Perimeter Airlines of Winnipeg, said Perimeter Air was excited about the new working relationship with Digi-Key and Purolator.

Perimeter Airlines has 15 Metros and four or five other planes with a flight school including a Beechcraft Barron they flew into Thief River Falls Tuesday night. They fly into Thief River Falls nightly, Monday through Friday. Each flight has been full ever since they began shipping freight for Digi-Key and Purolator a couple of weeks ago.

Shipping the freight by air helped speed up the process, but they were still hindered by a requirement to stop in Warroad for customs — until recently. An arrangement has been worked out with Customs so that clearance can now take place in Winnipeg. Wendlandt said they are looking at electronic data interchange transmission to expedite the clearance process.



Joe Hoppe, major account executive for Purolator, said Purolator was very happy about the new arrangement and hopes to see the partnership grow. They want to continue to help Digi-Key serve their Canadian customers.

Digi-Key is also helping to serve their Canadian customers by providing a catalog in Canada which lists the cost of products in Canadian currency. That cost includes all duties and taxes. If the Canadian customer decides to purchase the products in U.S. currency the customer is responsible for all duties and taxes.

The whole focus of this process has been on the customer, which explains why Digi-Key is one of the fastest-growing electronic component distributors in the United States. The stimulus for this growth is Digi-Key's customer-centered business philosophy — "provide the customer with the absolute best service possible."

The new arrangement with Purolator and the new catalog printed by Quebecor in Canada represents a major market expansion. Wendlandt said Digi-Key is not satisfied to stop there, they are currently planning to expand into Japan, which after the United Purolator, a rapid delivery service, is hauling packages via Perimator Airlines of Winnipeg for Digi-Key in Thief River Falls. The new arrangement opens the Canadian market to Digi-Key.

Four producers share honors at DHIA banquet

Four dairy herd owners shared the six awards presented at the annual meeting and awards banquet of the Red Lake-Pennington Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA) Monday evening, February 8, at the Eagles hall in Thief River Falls. Supervisors for the association are Randy and Margaret Rasmussen.

The association, which was formed from a consolidation of two associations several years ago, also pared its board to what will be the continuing level of five members as the term of Larry Amundson of Thief River Falls expired.

Wayne Vettleson of Trail was elected president to succeed Vernon Neuschwander of Grygla, who was reelected to the board. Greg Zak of Angus was elected vice president to succeed Vettleson and Lucille Weiss of Red Lake Falls was reelected secretary/treasurer. The fifth board member is Joel Stolaas of Oklee.

Todd and Jay Johnston of Angus and Wayne and Debra Vettleson of Oklee each received two awards for their herds while Bob Schindler and Dale and Sherri Rupprecht of Thief River Falls each received one award.

Schindler's award was for the most improved herd over the 1998 year, as his herd record for the year showed an increase per animal of 2,698 pounds of milk, 91 pounds of fat and 86 pounds of protein.

Dale and Sherri Rupprecht were recognized for having the 1998 winner for lifetime butterfat production, a 12-year-old in her eighth lactation which had produced 221,487 pounds (more than 110 tons) of milk, 7,945 pounds of butterfat and 7,852 pounds of protein.

Todd and Jay Johnston received awards for the top herd average for the year (26,355 pounds of milk, 889 pounds of butterfat and 838 pounds of protein) and for the top individual cow. "Gigi," a four-year-old, produced 32,650 pounds of milk, 1,115 pounds of butterfat and 1,051 pounds of protein in a 305-day lactation.

SD 564 prepares for possible bus strike

In the event of a strike by school bus drivers in the district, School board of School District 564 will be sending notices to families who have or are eligible to have their children transported to and from school. These notices will contain additional information for transporting their children to and from school.

Last week the district received a Notice of Intent to Strike from the bus drivers and transportation assistants who are employed by the district and are members of the Minnesota School Employees Association (MSEA). The collective bargaining agreement with the employees expired on June 30, 1998.

School board and bus driver representatives have met on a number of occasions in an attempt to resolve disagreements. The last mediation session took place on Monday, February 15. Representatives of both groups have continued to indicate that they are willing to negotiate in good faith.

Nevertheless, the school district is taking steps regarding the transportation of students, including the issuance of these notices. School Superintendent Jerry Robicheau said in a recent news release that "All measures will be taken to assure the safety of children when they arrive at school and traffic controls in and around our schools will be monitored very closely to alleviate as many problems as possible."

Under state law, since the bus drivers have filed a Notice of Intent to Strike, they have the legal right to strike beginning at 12:01 a.m. on Wednesday, February 17. The legal right to strike ends at 11:59 p.m. on Monday, March 8.

Viking was once the Bachelor Capital of MN

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Move over Herman. Yours wasn't the first Minnesota town tagged Bachelor Capital of the state. Viking had the honor in 1948.

Several years ago Herman, a town of about 600, gained national media attention because of its high ratio of males to females. There just weren't enough women to go around.

In 1948 a similar situation existed in Viking. However, while Herman leaders did everything they could to attract females to the town, the single gents in Viking 51 years ago were supposedly content with things just the way they were.

Reverend C.T. Thompson, pastor of Viking Lutheran Church and a 35-year-old bachelor, organized a Bachelors' club, and the Minneapolis Tribune put Viking on the map when it devoted a full page in its Leap Year edition to a story about Viking's single men.

Fifty-one years ago Viking's spot on the map was a wee bit bigger than it is today. According to Mayor Wayne Peters, there were two general stores, a grocery store, two or three cafes, two garages/gas stations, a bulk gas business, an elevator, stockyard, locker plant, school and two churches. There was no drinking establishment in the town.

The Minneapolis Tribune story was penned by staff writer Evelyn Burke and appeared on the front page of the Women's News, Theaters, Travel, Art, Music and Books section of the Leap Year edition.

February 29, according to tradition, is the opening of the leap year season when bachelors are fair game and women are free to do the asking.

Burke reported "of the 180 souls who live in the town and the farms that fan out from it in a radius of seven to ten miles, 100 are bachelors." She later continued her female readers, "But before clipping on red caps, loading up the old shooting irons and heading Vikingward, single lady hunters are warned that picking off their men in Viking isn't like shooting fish in a rain barrel."

Reverend C.T. Thompson was described as the "spark plug" for the Bachelors club and posed for a photograph in front of Zion Lutheran Church. At 35, he had a sturdy build and a good-natured look about him. A radiant smile highlighted his handsome face.

Scandinavians made up almost 100 percent of the town's population. There was one married Irishman and one Scotsman. Dan McMillan, who was the oldest member of the Bachelors club at 81. Stanley Larson, 21, was noted as the organization's youngest member.

A few of the bachelors were merchants and one was a mechanic. Most were farmers who owned their own farms. The younger bachelors were nearly all former G.I.s.

Frequent bachelor dinners were organized by Rev. Thompson and held in the church basement. The meals were cooked by Ethel ... wives and Viking teacher Solveig Samuelson, one of the rare unmarried women in the town. They were served by high school girls. The hearty menus, however, were planned by the bachelors. A typical meal included beef steak soup, steak, potatoes and gravy, lettuce salad, homemade cake and ice cream and coffee. The minority number of husbands joined the bachelors for the occasions.

The evenings concluded with a program that included a prayer, a number of musical presentations and a guest speaker.

Without a tavern, night club or dance hall, the coffee shop served as the hangout for the older set while the younger generation, many just out of the service, gathered around the potbelly stove at a general store and exchanged war stories.

In her Tribune story, Burke explained that high school girls were not included in the town's male/female ratio "because it's an old Viking custom for them to shake the dust of the bachelor center when they get their high school diplomas."

Sunday is Valentine's Day - how about making your Valentines something special for that special day. Today's recipes are from my Silver Creek Lutheran Cookbook again.

CHERRY DESSERT
Esther Fuller

16 graham crackers
1/4 cup butter
1/4 cup sugar
1 cup whipping cream, whipped
4 cups miniature marshmallows
1 cup cherry pie filling (from a can)

Crush graham crackers. Add butter and sugar and mix well. Reserve small amount for topping and pat remainder in pan.

Whip cream. Add marshmallows. Place half of this mixture on crust and then add cherry pie filling. Add remainder of cream mixture and then sprinkle with reserved crumbs. Refrigerate.

Here's another red and white Valentine dessert - this one with strawberries - yum:

STRAWBERRY DESSERT
Sue LeMoine

1 cup flour
1 stick margarine or butter (1/2 cup)
1/2 cup sugar

Mix as for pie crust. Pat into 9x13 inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes. Remove from oven and break into crumbs. Cool and pat down.

3/4 cup milk
24 large marshmallows
1/2 pint whipping cream, whipped

Heat milk and marshmallows over low heat or in microwave. Cool.

Whip cream and add to cooled marshmallow mixture. Place on top of crumbs.

2 packages strawberry gelatin
2 cups boiling water
2 packages frozen strawberries

Mix gelatin and boiling water well. Add frozen strawberries and mix. Spread over marshmallow layer and chill. Serve with whipped cream.

Oh, my, a fancy rich dessert made especially for that loved one:

ITALIAN LOVE CAKE
Stacie Skibicki

Marble cake mix
2 pounds ricotta cheese
3/4 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 eggs

Mix cake mix according to directions on box. Pour into a 9x13 inch prepared pan.

Mix cheese, sugar, vanilla and eggs. Pour over first batter and bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour. Cool for at least 4 hours before icing.

Icing

1 (8 ounce) carton frozen whipped topping, thawed
1 package instant chocolate pudding
1 cup milk

Mix pudding and milk and add Cool Whip, mixing well. Spread over very cooled cake.

Another "lovely" dessert that's just right for Valentine's Day, even if it isn't red and white:

LEMON LOVIN' CREAM PIE
Margaret Nelson

1 stick pie crust mix
1 1/2 teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon nutmeg
2 tablespoons dairy sour cream

Filling

1/2 cup (small package) instant lemon pudding
1 1/4 cups milk
3/4 cup dairy sour cream
1 tablespoon powdered sugar

In small bowl, combine pie crust stick, sugar, nutmeg and sour cream. Roll out a pie shell, flute edge, and bake at 450 degrees for 8-10 minutes. Cool.

Prepare filling by mixing pudding and milk as on package. Fold in sour cream and powdered sugar. Mix creamy. Pour into cooled crust and refrigerate at least 1 hour. Serve with whipped cream.

Here's a honey bar your honey will love on Valentine's Day:

HONEY DATE BARS
Maryanne Fuller

1 cup honey
3 eggs
1 1/3 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 pound pitted and chopped dates
1 cup chopped nuts

Beat eggs well. Add honey. Sift in flour, baking powder and salt. Add vanilla, dates and nuts, mixing well.

Spread THINLY in a shallow, greased pan. Cool and cut.

Something dreamy for that dream guy or gal - I've made these bars and they are very rich and very good and, of course, one of my favorites:

DREAM BARS
Edna Gunderson

1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup butter
1 cup flour

Mix together and pat into 9x13 inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 5 minutes.

2 eggs, beaten
1 cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups coconut
1 cup nuts

Mix all ingredients together and spread over baked top layer.

Bake at 350 degrees for 20-25 minutes. Cool slightly before cutting.

The writer says these cookies are chewy, gooey, ultra-chocolately - perfect for your Valentine and you - I think I'll have to try them this weekend:

CHOCOLATE COVERED CHERRY COOKIES
Esther Fuller

1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 cup cocoa
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon soda
1/2 cup softened butter
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
1 (10 ounce) jar maraschino cherries
1 (6 ounce) package chocolate chips
1/2 cup sweetened condensed milk

In large bowl, mix flour, cocoa, salt, baking powder and soda.

In another bowl, beat together butter and sugar until fluffy. Add egg and vanilla and beat well.

Add dry ingredients from large bowl and mix well.

Shape dough into 1 inch balls and place on ungreased cookie sheet. Press in center and place a drained cherry on each cookie.

In small saucepan, combine chocolate chips, and condensed milk (or use microwave). Stir in 1 tablespoon of cherry juice.

Spoon 1 tablespoon of chocolate mixture over each cherry. Bake 10 minutes at 350 degrees.

One more recipe, this a very simple one with no baking that the kids can make for the family this Valentine's Day:

CHOCOLATE KISSES
Beverly Rupprecht

3 cups oatmeal
3 tablespoons cocoa
1/3 cup nuts
1/3 cup coconut

Mix together in bowl.

2 cups sugar
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup milk

Mix in saucepan and bring to a boil.

Add sugar mixture to oatmeal mixture, mixing well. Drop by spoonfuls onto waxed paper.

Digi-Key gains foot hold in Candian market

States, is the second largest market for electronic components in the world. There are a number of issues to address before the expansion into the Japan begins, such as catalogs in the Japanese language, which once again focuses on the customer. An aggressive goal for this expansion has been set for July 1999, but a more realistic goal might be by the year 2000.

The new arrangement between Digi-Key and Purolator seems to be a win-win situation all the way around. The customer benefits. Digi-Key benefits. Purolator benefits, and Perimeter Airlines benefits. Thief River Falls Regional Airport personnel and representatives of Thief River Falls, are also pleased about the arrangement. They are pleased that Digi-Key is continuing to grow, and that it is bringing new business to the Thief River Falls Regional airport. In fact, it's the first new business at the airport in many years.

In the past five years, Digi-Key has moved into the Top 20 among the more than 1,500 electronic distributors in the United States. It employs about 850 people and is located in Thief River Falls. It can be reached at 1-800-344-4539 or <www.digi-key.com/>

Winter storm blows into NW Minnesota

Early Friday morning strong winds created problems in Northwest Minnesota.

Minnesota State Patral reported several roads closed and were advising no travel. Roads closed included Highway 1, 11, 2, State Aid 3, and County road 21. They were expecting roads to open by late morning, but were advising motorists not to travel.

Marshall County Sheriff's department was reporting that a number of drivers were ignoring advisories and were finding themselves in the ditch because of icy roads and or low visibility. As of 9:30 a.m. the Marshall County Sheriff's department reported Highway 1 and 75 closed at Oslo, Stephen, Argyle, Alvarado, and Warren.

This storm carried with it very little snow, but what did fall was being blown about, reducing visibility, creating pillow drifts and adding to the problems of icy roads.

Red Lake walleye plan will get Senate hearing

A plan for recovery of the walleye fishery in Upper and Lower Red Lake will receive a hearing from the Minnesota Senate Environment and Natural Resources committee, according to Sen. Bob Lessard of International Falls, who chairs the committee.

When contacted by the Times/Northern Watch Thursday, a staff member in Sen. Lessard's St. Paul office said that no date has been set for the hearing yet, but that he expects it will be arranged in the near future, probably within the next week or two.

The senator announced his plans to conduct a hearing after he had read news reports which he said indicated the walleye population on the lakes "had been virtually destroyed and there is not currently a sustainable resource."

Under a draft agreement, restocking of the lakes would occur and there would be no harvest until the walleye population recovers. That recovery could take five to 10 years, according to estimates made by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

Sen. Lessard said he doesn't feel the issue has received adequate debate and wants it to go through the legislative process for input.

"The Red Lake plan may have a positive impact on the lake's fishery, but will it impact other progroms?" Sen. Lessard asked. "I'm sure others have similar questions. We need those answered before the plan is carried out."

All of Lower Red Lake and most of Upper Red Lake are within the boundaries of the Red Lake Indian Reservation and are under control of the tribal council of the Red Lake Band of Chippewa Indians. A portion of Upper Red Lake lies outside the reservation and is subject to regulation by the Minnesota DNR.

While the portion of Upper Red Lake outside the reservation has been open to public fishing and several resorts are located in the area, the portion of both lakes on the reservation has not been open to non-members of the Red Lake Band. The lakes have been fished commercially by tribal members.

Sen. Lessard said unanswered questions include: "How did this happen in the first place and didn't anyone see it coming? If the restocking plan is implemented, what is the long-term plan to ensure the fish population is not destroyed again? What impact will a zero-harvest on walleyes have on the resorts and what, if anything, can we do to help them? Will other programs suffer? Where would the fry have gone had they not decided to restock the population taken from Lake Vermillion?"

The senator said he is hopeful a hearing will open the door to public involvement and will provide a review and answers to many of the questions being asked. Persons with questions may contact his office at 651-296-4136.

No Limits To The Local Voice

We live up here because we like being headstrong and opinionated and removed from the standard conventions of the mainstream and we like not being told what to do. (At least I'm pretty sure that's why I live up here, and when I'm done with this column I'll check with my wife to confirm that.)

It seems we have an instinctive grasp of the notion that smaller, at least on the American political scene, is more powerful. We like ordering our own lives. So it is with more than a little concern that I hear the recent rumblings about statewide changes in the gamefish limits.

The general DNR discussion revolves around reducing limits by about half. For example, the possession limit for walleyes would be reduced from six to three, perch would go from 100 to 30, bass from six to three, and so on. You get the idea. About half.

The motivations for such a move arise, apparently, from creel surveys over the last few years indicating the fishing public in Minnesota was less than satisfied with the Minnesota fishing experience. Only a small number of anglers (less than 10 percent) actually catch their limit now, anyway, contends the DNR; maybe we are setting unrealistic expectations for the resource. Limits adopted in 1939 do not acknowledge the present status of the fishery nor do they reflect modern numbers of fishermen. And while the DNR will admit that some minor conservation benefit will occur, the primary goal is readjusting our perception of the available outdoors bounty.

The arguments are convincing and appealing.

Enter Lake of the Woods. In terms of "catch rate" we stand at the highest end of the state spectrum. According to our local fisheries people, the lake continues to enjoy great health. Where else in this state can you go and actually expect to catch fish on a 12 months a year basis? The positive economic impact on the county is irrefutable and if Lake of the Woods can sustain the current levels of fishing pressure, where is the logic in reducing it?

The arguments are equally compelling.

Once again, the discussion here is only theoretical. No official move has been made yet to alter the state's gamefish limits. Why, then, do I bring up the subject of such nonexistent ghosts? Can't we address these issues in their more tangible future form? Well, I've stuck my head into the sand enough in the past to have learned that just ignoring sounds I didn't like isn't going to make them go away. A limit change is coming, and to wait until it has arrived before assessing its merits is a foolish act.

I have strong opinions on this subject and imaginative solutions to offer. Not here. Not this week, anyway. My objective at this juncture is merely to alert you to the potential changes and to emphasize the political power possessed by the county unit. Historical use policies are recognized by the federal government and have actually been established in several river and lake-related instances by a fore-thinking Lake of the Woods county board.

Precedents have already been set by a 1980's DNR for lake-specific regulations in response to economic pressure (remember Commissioner Joe Alexander's 10-fish limit?) or conservation necessity (we'll be limited to two walleyes on the Rainy this spring). Changes made because of marginal Twin Cities fishing don't have to be a fact of life in northern Minnesota. The county voice not only should be heard, but if it is sounded, it has to be heard.

Maybe six walleyes is a profligate limit. My job would certainly be less intense in the limit-crazed world of today if I only had to find three fish to make my guests happy. And it certainly seems to be a bit more crowded on the Big Traverse ever since the Canadian restrictions were imposed.

On the other hand, if the resource will continue to support it, why should we further restrict our take? Unexploited excess is not good in our capitalist system, it becomes waste. And why should local landowners take the bump just because Joe in Anoka keeps getting skunked?

Bug the local DNR for the accurate numbers; they publish a plethora of interesting releases. Bug your county board members with your own opinion; they can carry it further. And bug my wife for her thoughts on the subject; you'll be reading them in a future Lyon's Share.

Con-Con Controversy Not Really Anything New

Recent stories in daily newspapers and on radio and television around the state make it seem as though disagreement over handling of the Consolidated Conservation lands in northwest Minnesota is something new. The only thing new is the last-minute designation of some 175,500 acres of the area as Wildlife Management Area by retiring commissioner Rod Sando.

What Sando's unilateral action did was rekindle the fire under the Con-Con pot. Later action by acting commissioner Ray Hitchcock to suspend the order for six months covered the flame temporarily, but in truth, decisions over the land in question have smoldered for decades.

The lands in question in Roseau, Beltrami, Marshall, Koochiching and Lake of the Woods counties were sold to farmers in the 1920s and the counties sold bonds to pay for extensive ditching and drainage projects. When the area proved to be generally unsuccessful for agriculture and landowners went broke, the counties defaulted on the ditch bonds and forfeited the land to the State of Minnesota in 1929, 1931 and 1933.

For the most part, the lands have been under the general control of the Department of Natural Resources and its predecessor agencies without any official designation other than "state land." As "public" land the area has been available to the general public for hunting and other recreational activities and has had some state timber sales and very limited mineral study. To say that the land has been "managed" would be to use the term very loosely.

On January 4 of this year, Commissioner Rod Sando—on his way out of office under the new administration of Gov. Jesse Ventura— designated the lands as Wildlife Management Area. It was his final official act as commissioner —sort of like kicking the schoolyard bully in the shins at the end of recess on the last day of school when you know your family is moving to Alaska the next morning. Or lighting the fuse on the dynamite and remembering you had urgent business elsewhere.

Designation of the Con-Con lands as WMA has been discussed over the years but never came to pass for a number of reasons—not all of them from outside the DNR. Wildlife Management Areas are under control of the Division of Game and Fish, and this division has different views on land use than, say, the Division of Forestry.

Enter Acting Commissioner Ray Hitchcock, whose background as assistant commissioner is in the Division of Forestry. On January 27 he put a hold on former Commissioner Sando's order and has expressed the opinion that, "The first thing we need to do is look at the use of those lands for the public use and which designation is appropriate." Which is another way of saying he doesn't think WMA designation is appropriate.

Also enter Delray Larson of Gatzke, a Marshall county commissioner, who was quoted in several of the articles as stating: "It's very important to get this land back on our tax rolls. We feel there's some good recreational land hunters and sportsmen would like."

Delray isn't telling any secrets and he is far from alone in his opinion. He is simply voicing the convictions of many who live in close proximity to the Con-Con lands and consider them to be, in general, sort of useless as they presently exist. In fact, they are considered a detriment to private property owners because in areas of such things as roads and drainage they don't carry their share of the load taxwise.

There are others, like Arnold Stanley of Grygla, an advocate of using farmable land for agriculture, who has served on boards and commissions dealing with Con-Con lands for years and been totally frustrated by the ignored consensus and department stonewalling of any meaningful change in the status quo.

And there are some, like the local chapter of the Minnesota Deer Hunters Association, who will likely applaud Sando's declaration since it would effectively "lock up" the lands from private sale.

So what do we think?

We think that there is a certain amount of importance to maintaining a quantity of "public" land to which hunters and other recreational users of any economic status can have ready access. We think the Con-Con lands have an established heritage for that type of use that is valuable to many people.

We don't think it is necessary to designate these lands as WMA, for that brings with it the restrictions posted on signs surrounding current Wildlife Management Areas that curtail—perhaps excessively—the use of that property. We think there are areas in the Con-Con lands where timber harvest would be not only wise but beneficial in several ways.

We don't think the private agricultural sector needs any more land available for purchase at the present time, given the surpluses of product that have contributed to the decline in prices and the ability of farmers to earn a living. Similarly, we disagree with Delray that portions of the state lands should be sold to hunters and sportsmen. That would add two more signs to the property beyond what the WMA restrictions presently are —"No Hunting" and "No Trespassing."

We can sympathize with counties having large acreages of public lands which, if they were in tax-paying private ownership, would ease the tax burden on the existing taxpayers. Perhaps a means must be found to compensate local government for public lands to an extent closer to what private ownership would provide. It would not be unreasonable for the public in general which benefits to pay collectively for the privilege.

Many outdoor recreational pursuits involve costs beyond reach of many citizens and we should be careful not to reduce the opportunities which remain any more than absolutely necessary. We would be interested in hearing from anyone who has a strong opinion or individual insight on the current Con-Con situation. Our Public Opinion column is open to you.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Last Friday the Thief River Falls School District Bus Driver and Transportation Assistant Bargaining Unit filed an Intent to Strike notice with the school board. Never before, in our 20 years of negotiations with the school board, have we taken this action.

Our contract expired on June 30, 1998. Since then we have been meeting and negotiating with the school board. We are seeking a salary increase similar to other employee groups in the school district.

We sincerely hope that we can reach a fair settlement with the school board and avoid any work stoppage. We ask for public support to reach a fair settlement and public patience in the event that we are unable to reach fair and equitable settlement.

Sincerely,

Bus drivers and assistants: Lisa Aubol, Mary Bruggeman, Norman Busse, Deb Dahlen, James Dahlstrom, Howard Dalager, Jerry Erickson, Larry Etienne, Laurie Fayette, Maryanne Fuller, Brian Gerardy, Greg Harder, Linda Joppru, Dennis Kainz, Linda Kaushagen, Karen Knott, Tom Koop, Carol Larson, Evan Mapes, Clayton Mathson, Shirley McCray, Arlen Merrill, Thomas Miller, Donald Molskness, Gerald Odegaard, Lois Phillip, Peggy Seed, Kenneth Ulrich, and Brendon Wilde.

Swedish Heritage Society meeting flips on pancakes

Agassiz Swedish Heritage Society's noon luncheon Tuesday, February 16, at Brown hall on the University of Minnesota campus at Crookston will turn on a best pancake contest to be judged by University of Minnesota president Mark Yudof, who is also guest speaker for the event.

Members of the Society are asked to bring five pancakes three to four inches in diameter to be judged at the event. Marilyn Hagerty, writer for the Grand Forks Herald, will head the panel of judges that will pare the entries down to five for Dr. Yudof to sample. He will make the final selection.

Those planning to attend are asked to make reservations with Berneil Nelson, 423 Woodland Avenue, Crookston, MN; phone 218-281-2838.

In Loving Memory Of
RANDY BENGTSON
April 11, 1959 - Feb 11, 1996

It's already a year since God took you home
Our thoughts are always of you wherever we roam
Our hearts are still aching we still miss you so Wonderful memories of you forever will flow
Though sorrow and pain has stared us in the face
We've kept our faith strong and not slowed our pace
Without you our lives will never be the same
What a comfort to know that our loss is Heaven's gain
To be among angels in your eternal rest
We all know that God only takes the best!

Viking was once the Bachelor Capital of MN

and seek fame and fortune in larger communities where jobs are more plentiful."

While Viking's bachelors "made the best of their singleness" by doing a lot of hunting, fishing and partying in each other's homes and at the church, Rev. Thompson described the feelings of his townsmen as "regretful" and wishful that "there were more opportunities to keep daughters closer to Viking home fires." The bachelors, however, weren't going around singing "Nellie Gray dirges or why-did-you-leave-me blues."

In addition to the photographs of Rev. Thompson and a number of others showing handsome Viking bachelors in various poses, the well-illustrated Tribune feature included a photograph of the young waitresses as they were briefed of their duties by teacher Solveig Samuelson and one of the wives, Mrs. Egbert Malberg.

The seven high school girls in the photograph were an attractive lot. They were dressed in white blouses and dark skirts with large coordinating bows at their necklines. White waitress' caps topped their fashionably permed tresses as they beamed for the camera.

Did all of Viking's pretty young women escape? Were all of the town's single men hellbent on bachelorhood? What became of the Bachelors club?

The Minneapolis Tribune story was only the beginning of the publicity that the Viking bachelors received.

In a story clipped from another publication, Harold S. Kahm wrote, "Something has happened in Minnesota that has psychologists fascinated and females going crazy."

The humorously written column described Viking as a "man's world . . . where men hunt, fish, play baseball and hold stag parties." He portrayed Viking's bachelors as normal, healthy young men who liked girls but didn't like marriage.

A psychologist at the University of Minnesota concluded the story with a strong statement. "It's rebellion," he said. "It's the first overt action by American men against the ruthless, possessive domination of American wives."

Wow! Those were some powerful words considering that Viking's Bachelors club was, in actuality, little more than a farce!

Young Chuck Barr was one of town's bachelors. "I was just out of the service," he said. It was Chuck's father, W.W. Barr, who wrote to Cederick Adams at the Minneapolis Tribune and told him about Viking's bachelors and the club that had formed. The Tribune jumped on the story.

The Bachelors club never really materialized, but because of the publicity, the eligible men received a lot of mail from various parts of the country. The letters were first delivered to Rev. Thompson who distributed them to the bachelors.

Some of the Viking males began relationships through the mail, and several marriages resulted from the correspondence. One of the unions didn't work out, but two of the couples lived happily ever after in the Viking area.

The wedding of Stanley Larson was covered by Life magazine, an experience that Earl Erickson describes as "quite an adventure."

Chuck Barr remained in Viking, first as manager of the locker plant and then as postmaster. He later met the girl of his dreams. Vi was from White Bear Lake, and he didn't think she would be able to handle "life in the tundra" so he resigned from his postmaster position and moved to the Twin Cities. Chuck "hooked right back up with the post office," and he and Vi made their home in the Twin Cities until they retired in Thief River Falls in 1982.

Chuck says that the bachelor situation in Viking 51 years ago wasn't any different from that of other same-size communities. Many of the young women moved on after graduating from high school because the small towns offered them few employment opportunities. "They either married farmers or left town," Chuck says.

They didn't all get away, however. Joyce Hanson was one of the pretty high school waitresses who posed for the Tribune photograph. Earl Erickson was pictured with Chuck Barr and other Viking bachelors gathered around the stove at the general store. Earl and Joyce were married in 1951 and have since made their home on a farm along Highway 1 south of Viking.

Reverend Thompson eventually left Viking and went on to congregations in Wisconsin and then South Dakota. He remained a bachelor and died about 25 years ago.

The publicity Viking's bachelors received in 1948 created interesting experiences and enjoyable memories. For the town's centennial celebration in 1983 Chuck Barr reworded the song, "Thanks for the Memories," and added a line about how Viking's bachelors had "dibs in the Trib."

The town's churches remain. Viking School houses kindergarten through third grade. Al Klum's Hartz Store & Cafe make up the commerce of the town. According to the last census, the population of Viking is 91. There isn't an overabundance of bachelors.

Folks still gather to pass the time of day at the cafe. Mayor Peters brags about the establishment's good food, and if everyone in town is as enthusiastic as he is, Viking might still be the kind of town the late Rev. Thompson described to the Minneapolis Tribune.

"We all get together and have a good time. And when anyone needs a helping hand the rest are eager to pitch in. I can truthfully say it's the most friendly, jovial and cooperative community I've ever lived in."

Comprehensive assessments to take place in March

Minnesota Graduation Standards testing for written composition was completed January 20. Testing basic standards for reading was completed February 2, and on February 4, basic standards testing on mathematics was completed.

There are two components to Minnesota's Graduation Standards, the basic standards testing just completed and the High Standards. Testing of Preparatory High standards, described as Minnesota Comprehensive Assessments, will take place in March for elementary school students.

The Minnesota Department of Children, Families and Learning explained, the Basic Standards ensure that no student leaves high school without learning the basic skills in reading, mathematics, and written composition that every adult needs in order to live and work in today's society.

The High Standards define what students should know, understand and be able to do to demonstrate a high level of achievement. Preparatory standards focus kindergarten through eighth grade learning opportunities on important concepts, skills and ideas needed to achieve the high school level High Standards.

The Minnesota Comprehensive Assessments are third and fifth grade tests that measure how well a student has mastered the math, reading, and writing standards as described in the Preparatory High Standards. All third and fifth grade students are tested in reading and math. In addition, fifth graders take a written composition test.

Assessments will be conducted at Minnesota elementary schools on the following dates:

• March 9-10, 1999 - Minnesota Comprehensive Assessments in Reading, for all public school third and fifth graders.

• March 11, 1999 - Minnesota comprehensive Assessments in Written Composition, for all public school fifth graders.

• March 16-17, 1999 - Minnesota Comprehensive Assessments in Mathematics, for all public school third and fifth graders.

The Minnesota Department of Children, Families and Learning, explained the 1997 statewide testing law called for the creation of a comprehensive assessment system and the use of statewide tests. These statewide tests chart the progress of schools and districts over time, generate information for school improvement and school accountability and allow for comparison of schools and districts in Minnesota. These tests indicate the effectiveness of existing programs as we shift to a new system of accountability and consistent expectations for all. Teachers and parents can use the results as a tool to make decisions that will improve achievement.

Complete copies of the MCA test specifications are available at <cfl.state.mn.us>.

Viking was once the Bachelor Capital of MN

and seek fame and fortune in larger communities where jobs are more plentiful.

While Viking's bachelors "made the best of their singleness" by doing a lot of hunting, fishing and partying in each other's homes and at the church, Rev. Thompson described the feelings of his townsmen as "regretful" and wishful that there were more opportunities to keep daughters closer to Viking home fires. The bachelors, however, weren't going around singing "Nellie Gray dirges or why did you leave me blues."

In addition to the photographs of Rev. Thompson and a number of others showing handsome Viking bachelors in various poses, the well-illustrated Tribune feature included a photograph of the young waitresses as they were briefed of their duties by teacher Solveig Samuelson and one of the wives, Mrs. Egbert Malberg.

The seven high school girls in the photograph were an attractive lot. They were dressed in white blouses and dark skirts with large coordinating bows at their necklines. White waitress caps topped their fashionable permed tresses as they beamed for the camera.

Did all of Viking's pretty young women escape? Were all of the town's single men hellbent on bachelorhood? What became of the Bachelors club?

The Minneapolis Tribune story was only the beginning of the publicity that the Viking bachelors received.

In a story clipped from another publication Harold S. Kahm wrote, "Something has happened in Minnesota that has psychologists fascinated and females going crazy."

The humorously written column described Viking as a "man's world ... where men hunt, fish, play baseball and hold stag parties." He portrayed Viking's bachelors as normal, healthy young men who liked girls but didn't like marriage.

A psychologist at the University of Minnesota concluded the story with a strong statement. "It's rebellion," he said. "It's the first overt action by American men against the ruthless, possessive domination of American wives."

Wow! Those were some powerful words considering that Viking's Bachelors club was, in actuality, little more than a farce!

Young Chuck Barr was one of town's bachelors. "I was just out of the service," he said. It was Chuck's father, W.W. Barr, who wrote to Cedrick Adams at the Minneapolis Tribune and told him about Viking's bachelors and the club that had formed. The Tribune jumped on the story.

The Bachelors club never really materialized, but because of the publicity, the eligible men received a lot of mail from various parts of the country. The letters were first delivered to Rev. Thompson who distributed them to the bachelors.

Some of the Viking males began relationships through the mail, and several marriages resulted from the correspondence. One of the unions didn't work out, but two of the couples lived happily ever after in the Viking area.

The wedding of Stanley Larson was covered by Life magazine, an experience that Earl Erickson describes as "quite an adventure."

Chuck Barr remained in Viking, first as manager of the locker plant and then as postmaster. He later met the girl of his dreams. Vi was from White Bear Lake, and he didn't think she would be able to handle "life in the tundra" so he resigned from his postmaster position and moved to the Twin Cities. Chuck "hooked right back up with the post office," and he and Vi made their home in the Twin Cities until they retired in Thief River Falls in 1982.

Chuck says that the bachelor situation in Viking 51 years ago wasn't any different from that of other same-size communities. Many of the young women moved on after graduating from high school because the small towns offered them few employment opportunities. "They either married farmers or left town," Chuck says.

They didn't all get away, however. Joyce Hanson was one of the pretty high school waitresses who posed for the Tribune photograph. Earl Erickson was pictured with Chuck Barr and other Viking bachelors gathered around the stove at the general store. Earl and Joyce were married in 1951 and have since made their home on a farm along Highway 1 south of Viking.

Reverend Thompson eventually left Viking and went on to congregations in Wisconsin and then South Dakota. He remained a bachelor and died about 25 years ago.

The publicity Viking's bachelors received in 1948 created interesting experiences and enjoyable memories. For the town's centennial celebration in 1983 Chuck Barr reworded the song, "Thanks for the Memories," and added a line about how Viking's bachelors had "fibs in the Trib."

The town's churches remain. Viking School houses kindergarten through third grade. Al Klein's Hartz Store & Cafe make up the commerce of the town. According to the last census, the population of Viking is 91. There isn't an overabundance of bachelors.

Folks still gather to pass the time of day at the cafe. Maynr Peters brags up the establishment's good food, and if everyone in town is as enthusiastic as he is, Viking might still be the kind of town the late Rev. Thompson described to the Minneapolis Tribune.

"We all get together and have a good time. And when anyone needs a helping hand the rest are eager to pitch in. I can truthfully say it's the most friendly, jovial and cooperative community I've ever lived in."

Comprehensive assessments to take place in March

Minnesota Graduation Standards testing for written composition was completed January 20. Testing basic standards for reading was completed February 2, and on February 3, basic standards testing on mathematics was completed.

There are two components to Minnesota's Graduation Standards: the basic standards testing just completed and the High Standards Testing of Preparatory High Standards, described as Minnesota Comprehensive Assessments, will take place in March for elementary school students.

The Minnesota Department of Children, Families and Learning explained, the Basic Standards ensure that no student leaves high school without learning the basic skills in reading, mathematics and written composition that every adult needs in order to live and work in today's society.

The High Standards define what students should know, understand and be able to do to demonstrate a high level of achievement. Preparatory standards focus kindergarten through eighth grade learning opportunities on important concepts, skills and ideas needed to achieve the high school level High Standards.

The Minnesota Comprehensive Assessments are third and fifth grade tests that measure how well a student has mastered the math, reading, and writing standards as described in the Preparatory High Standards. All third and fifth grade students are tested in reading and math. In addition, fifth graders take a written composition test.

Assessments will be conducted at Minnesota elementary schools on the following dates:

• March 9-10, 1999 - Minnesota Comprehensive Assessments in Reading, for all public school third and fifth graders.

• March 11, 1999 - Minnesota Comprehensive Assessments in Written Composition, for all public school fifth graders.

• March 16-17, 1999 - Minnesota Comprehensive Assessments in Mathematics, for all public school third and fifth graders.

The Minnesota Department of Children, Families and Learning, explained the 1997 statewide testing law called for the creation of a comprehensive assessment system and the use of statewide tests. These statewide tests chart the progress of schools and districts over time, generate information for school improvement and school accountability and allow for comparison of schools and districts in Minnesota. These tests indicate the effectiveness of existing programs as we shift to a new system of accountability and consistent expectations for all. Teachers and parents can use the results as a tool to make decisions that will improve achievement.

Complete copies of the MCA test specifications are available at <cfl.state.mn.us>.

Green Wave beats TRF for No. 2 spot

To the victors belong the spoils. East Grand Forks edged Thief River Falls 2-1 Tuesday in a late-season high school hockey showdown and was rewarded with the No. 2 seed in the upcoming Section 8A tournament. The Prowlers, who had been eyeing that second seed themselves, wound up falling to No. 4 when the coaches met the next day to vote upon post-season positions.

A scoreless stalemate was broken with a goal by East Grand Forks' Ryan Blazek at 2:19 of the second period. Less than two minutes later Thief River Falls was on the board with a goal by Treavor Peterson.

It remained deadlocked until the 11:15 mark of the third period when Pat Knutson of the Green Wave came up with the game-winner.

Thief River Falls goalie Mike Dowers turned in a 30-save game. East Grand Forks netminder Tom White stopped 28 shots.

"We played all right," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland. "I think we had the better scoring opportunities. They (Green Wave) maybe had a few more shots, but we had some quality chances."

It was the seventh one-goal loss of the year, to go along with three ties, for the 6-12-3 Prowlers, who lost to the Green Wave 4-0 earlier this winter.

Scoring

First period - none

Second period - EGF, Ryan Blazek (Mich Skyberg-Justin Hochil), 2:19. TRF, Treavor Peterson (Jarod Reierson), 4:00

Third period - EGF, Pat Knutson (un.), 11:15

Goalie saves - TRF, Mike Dowers 10-8-12-30; EGF, 8-11-9-28

Prowlers pess on team portion of Section 8AA wrestling tournement

A list of injuries and illness prompted Thief River Falls coach Rick Yanke to withdraw his squad from the team portion of the 1998 Section 8AA high school wrestling tournament being hosted today (Saturday) by Cass Lake-Bena.

A young team that has had to contend with two cases of pneumonia, two broken arms and a concussion would have little chance to be competitive in a post-season tournament draw, according to Yanke, who is in his first year as Prowlers head coach.

"It was my decision to withdraw," said Yanke Thursday morning after the announcement was made. "I contacted the people who ran the section and let them know what we were doing. Two other teams (East Grand Forks, Greenway/Nashwauk-Keewatin) are doing the same thing."

The tournament's top seed went to Cass Lake-Bena. Rest of the remaining field, in order of their seeding positions, include Detroit Lakes, Roseau, Park Rapids Area, Walker-Hackensack-Akeley/Nevis, Deer River/Northland, Mahnomen/Waubun, Fosston/Bagley, Crookston, and Red Lake County Central.

Thief River Falls would have been matched up against Walker-Hackensack-Akeley/Nevis in a first-round encounter.

Yanke's decision to take the Prowlers out of the team competition will not affect their status for the individual portion of the tournament, scheduled Feb. 19-20 at Fosston.

Championship team and top two finishers in each weight class of the individual tournament will advance to the state meet Feb. 25-27 at the Target Center in Minneapolis.

Defense keys 55-41 TRF win

Defense covered Thief River Falls' early-game struggles on offense, giving the Prowlers time to come up with some scoring and setting up a 55-41 boys high school basketball win over Tri-County.

With their first seven possessions producing three turnovers and 0-for-4 shooting, it took the Prowlers 4:10 to get on the board. But hard work at the other end of the court kept the Wildcats from getting away. The result was a low-scoring 5-5 first quarter draw.

"We maybe didn't start the game with the same level of intensity we had against East Grand Forks and Bemidji," admitted Thief River Falls coach Bob Johnson. "I hope that will teach the kids a lesson – they have to come ready to play every night."

However, the defensive part of it was still there. "Our kids did a good job stepping out defensively to cut off their passing lanes," explained Johnson. "We took them out of their offense by picking up people on the weave."

Thief River Falls finally snapped out of it offensively with a 10-0 surge early in the second quarter and led the rest of the game. A bucket by Kelly Cota tied it at 7-7 and two free throws by Brian Loe gave the Prowlers their first lead of the night. Loe followed with a drive through the middle, Matt Myers scored from underneath and Collin Schafer pulled up on a fast break to hit a short jumper, making it 15-7 with 4:47 remaining in the first half.

It was 23-16 at intermission and 38-26 through three quarters.

Tri-County managed to chop a 46-33 spread to 46-38 with 2:49 left as Luke Freeman hit a short jumper from the side, then added a free throw that was followed by a drive by Aaron Olson.

But the Prowlers met the challenge when Schafer connected from the side and Cota scored on a rebound to rebuild a 50-38 cushion with just 1:17 to go.

A 3-point basket by Olson was followed by five straight game-ending Thief River Falls free throws – the first two by Schafer and the last three by Cota.

The 6-8 Myers (17 points) and 6-5 Cota (13) controlled the inside, where most of the Prowlers' offense came from, and Schafer (15) added the short jumper to the arsenal. "Our four seniors – Myers, Cota, Schafer and (Darin) Bjerknes are doing some really good things for us on both ends of the court," said Johnson, "and the younger kids are picking up on that."

Freeman, a 6-5 senior, scored 12 points, and Olson, a 5-9 junior, netted 12 for the Wildcats.

Thief River Falls was 20-for-47 from the field (43 percent) and 15-for-21 at the free throw line, which included a 12-for-16 second half. Tri-County went 16-for-48 from the floor (33 percent) and 7-for-14 at the line. The taller Prowlers finished with a 33-21 rebound advantage. They also had more turnovers, 12-10.

Third win in their last four starts boosted the Prowlers' record to 6-11.

Rosten leads RLCC by NCE

Tracy Rosten scored 22 points and pulled down 14 rebounds Tuesday to lead Red Lake County Central past Norman County East 64-48 in girls high school basketball at Plummer.

It was another in a string of strong outings for Rosten, 5-10 junior, pointed out Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto. "She is really playing well," he said. "She has stepped it up."

The Mustangs led only 14-12 and 26-25 at the first two quarter stops, but opened up a 49-38 third quarter spread.

"We played a pretty decent second half," noted Koivisto. "They (Eagles) handled our press in the first half, but we got to them in the third quarter. We hope that eventually happens, so even if the press isn't real effective early in the game, we stay with it and hope it eventually catches up to them. We went a little deeper on the bench than they did, and I think that helped."

Sylvia Hilgeman joined Rosten in double figures for the Mustangs with 15 points. Three Eagles hit double digits in the scoring column, led by Kim Pinske with 14 points.

Red Lake County Central shot 48 percent from the field (29/61) and went 6-for-15 at the free throw line. Norman County East shot 50 percent from the floor (21/42) and was 4-for-9 at the line. The Mustangs out-rebounded the Eagles 35-28. Norman County East topped the turnover charts 25-14.

The Mustangs are 14-5.

Nordics out-score Gators 76-71

David Wilcox scored 29 points Tuesday to highlight a 76-71 Marshall County Central win over Badger/Greenbush-Middle River in a boys high school basketball game played at Newfolden.

"He (Wilcox) has been in a zone lately," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "He's been playing really well."

Marshall County Central led by 10 early and was ahead at the quarter stops 18-16, 38-31 and 56-48. Misses at the free throw line cost the Nordics a chance to put the Gators away down the stretch and made for a closer-than-needed-be finish, according to Ueland. "We didn't manage the clock very well at the end," he said. "We made some poor decisions the last three-four minutes. We shot free throws poorly in the fourth quarter, but they didn't capitalize."

The Nordics' offense also included Kyle Muetzel with 13 points and Tyler Ryba 10, while Nick Wilcox and Nico Bennett both netted 9. Bennett added four steals and five rebounds in an attention-grabbing performance off the bench.

A balanced Badger/Greenbush-Middle River attack was led by TJ Super with 15 points, David Truscinski 14, Richard Wockenfuss 11, and Brian Wilhelmi 10.

The Nordics were 22-for-51 from the field (43) percent and a busy 27-for-40 at the free throw line. The Gators went 26-for-67 from the floor (39 percent) and 14-for-24 at the line. Marshall County Central had more rebounds (34-31) and turnovers (15-12) than the Gators.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River won the first meeting of the year between the two 68-58.

"We've made some pretty good progress," mentioned Ueland. "We're pleased with where we're at."

Lumberjacks win girls game 57-51...

Shooting separates Bemidji, TRF teams

Fifty-five percent shooting by Bemidji (23/42) and a 35 percent shooting by Thief River Falls (19/54) spelled the difference on the scoreboard Tuesday as the Lumberjacks beat the visiting Prowlers 57-51 in girls high school basketball.

"They're big, and they worked it inside on us," explained Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "They have good perimeter people, too, and I thought we did a good job defending them. But they just put the ball inside, and scored. We got the ball inside, too, but our shooting percentage in the paint has to improve."

Bemidji led 14-13 at the end of the first quarter and turned a 22-20 edge into a 30-22 spread with an 8-2 first half finish. The Lumberjacks added a run of eight straight points in the third quarter to lead by as many as 14 before settling for a 42-31 cushion at the break.

The Prowlers closed the gap over the final eight minutes, but couldn't overtake the 13-4 Lumberjacks, who beat them 46-28 earlier this season.

Nicole Kopan scored a game-high 21 points to lead the Thief River Falls attack, with Sara Jensen netting 10. Tracy Depew was the lone Bemidji scorer in double figures with 17 points.

It was the tenth straight loss for the Prowlers, dropping them to 6-13 for the year. Still, Loe liked what he saw. "It was a good game," he said. "I thought our kids played well. That's as good as I've seen them play since before Christmas."

Mustangs turn back upset bid by Eagles

Red Lake County Central out-scored Grygla-Gatzke 21-11 in the fourth quarter Tuesday to overtake the Eagles 67-59 in boys high school basketball at Oklee.

A 3-point basket by Mark Lorenson midway through the final quarter ignited the game-winning stretch run for the Mustangs, who wrapped things up with free throws.

Red Lake County Central led 20-15 at the end of the first quarter and maintained a five-point edge at halftime, 36-31. Grygla-Gatzke had a 48-46 lead at the close of the third quarter.

"They (Eagles) really controlled the tempo in the second half," explained Red Lake County Central coach Chris McLean. "They slowed it down and did a good job moving the ball around, looking for the shots they wanted. They really made us play defense."

Two Jarrod Johnson 3-point baskets in the third quarter kept the Mustangs in the game, pointed out McLean. Johnson finished with 13 points to join Nick Waldal with 22, Lorenson 14 and Darren Vanek 10 in double figures for the winners.

The Eagles also had four double digit scorers as Barry Olson netted 13 points, Gavin Nordby 12, Alex Holte 10, and Garrett Anderson 10.

"We played them tough," said Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson, whose team lost to the Mustangs 73-44 in early December. "We had a chance to win. But we got into foul trouble, and that hurt our rotation toward the end. We weren't able to give our kids the rest they needed, and they got tired."

Red Lake County Central, thanks to 11 first half lay-ups, shot 54 percent from the field for the night (22/41). "We did a good job playing transition basketball in the first half," said McLean. The Mustangs were 18-for-33 at the free throw line.

Grygla-Gatzke shot 33 percent from the floor (18/55) and made 15 of 22 free throws. The Eagles finished with a 28-27 rebound edge. The Mustangs had more turnovers, 13-10.

It was another case for the 4-14 Eagles, explained Johnson, where they played well against a good team, but could not come up with a win. "We've improved a lot," he said, "but we've got to take that next step."

Huskies drop three games in five days

Climax/Fisher, East Grand Forks Sacred Heart and Red Lake Falls beat Goodridge in boys high school basketball over a five-day, Friday-through-Tuesday span, stretching the Huskies' losing streak to nine games.

Goodridge fell to Climax/Fisher 70-45 in the Friday (Feb. 5) match-up, dropped a 64-55 overtime decision to Sacred Heart in a Monday make-up game, and lost to Red Lake Falls 71-54 Tuesday.

The Huskies are 3-14, but Goodridge coach Eric Mickelson said the team has played better than what the record shows. "We've played decent ball," he said. "We hung right in there with Red Lake Falls. It was a pretty good, solid effort on our part."

Climax/Fisher trailed 32-30 at halftime, but out-scored Goodridge 20-2 in the third quarter. The Knights shot 50 percent from the field (24/48) and cashed in on 18 of 28 free throw opportunities. The Huskies shot 43 percent from the floor (16/37) and went 10-for-19 at the line. Goodridge had a 32-21 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 26-16.

Chad Johnson hit two 3-point shots in the final 40 seconds of regulation time to pull the Goodridge even with Sacred Heart, only to have the Eagles' Nick Kulas going 8-for-10 at the free throw line in overtime. A top-of-the-line shooting performance by Sacred Heart included a 24-for-44 showing from the field (55 percent) and a 13-for-18 effort at the free throw line. Goodridge went 22-for-46 from the floor (48 percent) and 5-for-10 at the line. The Huskies beat the Eagles on the boards 34-14, but again topped the turnover charts, this time 25-19.

Four Red Lake Falls scorers reached double figures against the Goodridge defense, led by Ben Largis with 18 points. Both teams did well offensively, with the Eagles shooting 55 percent (28/51) and the Huskies hitting 54 percent (26/48) from the field. Red Lake Falls 8-for-12 at the free throw line, where Goodridge went 3-for-7. The Huskies out-rebounded the Eagles 22-19. Turnovers were even at 17-apiece.

NCTC women's basketball...

Playoff hopes to be on the line Monday

Northland's chances of extending its season into the Minnesota Community College Conference women's state basketball tournament took a hit Wednesday when the Pioneers lost a 64-53 decision to Central Lakes.

It was the final home appearance of the year for the Pioneers, who will close out the schedule with games at Fergus Falls Monday and at Itasca Friday.

Top four regular season finishers in the MCCC Northern Division earn state tournament trips. The week started with Central Lakes on top with a 9-1 record, followed by Fergus Falls at 9-2, Vermilion 8-2, Rainy River 5-4, Northland 6-5, Hibbing 2-8, Mesabi 1-8, and Itasca 0-10.

Northland lost to Fergus Falls 54-53 Jan. 25 in Thief River Falls. The Pioneers own two one-sided wins over Itasca – 74-28 during the Hibbing Invitational Dec. 19 and 89-36 at home Jan. 22.

The Pioneers, who suffered a 78-50 loss when they met Central Lakes earlier at Brainerd, played the Raiders to a 53-53 tie through the first 37 minutes of the rematch, only to be out-scored 11-0 over the final three minutes.

"We actually played great basketball," said Northland coach Mike Zachow. "I don't know if we ran out of gas or what at the end, but other than the game against Fergus Falls, that's the best we've played all year."

After a 3-point basket by Jenny Johnson produced the 53-53 tie, the Pioneers finished 0-for-11 from the field and 0-for-2 at the free throw line. At the same time, the Raiders were hitting 3 of 5 field goals and 5 of 8 free throws.

Sarah Nagel, a Central Lakes freshman center from Walker-Hackensack-Akeley who had just been named Northern Division Player of the Week, led all scorers with 21 points. Becky Perreault scored 12 points and Shanna Keskitalo had 10 for Northland.

The Pioneers were 20-for-62 from the field (32 percent) and 9-for-14 at the free throw line. The Raiders went 23-for-69 from the floor (33 percent) and 13-for-21 at the line. Central Lakes had a 52-44 rebound advantage and topped the turnover charts 16-15.

Northland is 6-14 overall. "We've got to win the last two," noted Zachow. "The big one is going to be at Fergus Falls. We'll have to do a better job shooting the ball than we did last time we played them, and we'll have to stop their transition game."

SPORTS BRIEFS

Andi Noel earns honor

Andi Noel, granddaughter of Tress Noel and Mae Breiland of Thief River Falls, was named the North Dakota State University women's track and field team Athlete of the Week for her efforts in the recent Run with the Herd meet at Fargo.

Her performances that day included a first in the long jump (18-8, No. 6 on the school record list), third in the 55-meter hurdles (8.40, No. 5 on the school charts) and a sixth in the long jump (4-10, season-best). She was also a member of a first place mile relay team.

Other early-season efforts for Noel include a second place showing in a pentathlon meet (high jump, long jump, 55-meter hurdles, shot put, 800-meter run) at the University of Minnesota, where the winner was 1998 Junior National Champion Kendra Riemer of Texas A&M. She is No. 2 on the NDSU all-time pentathlon scoring chart.

Zach Olson led the field en route to a first place finish in the 200 freestyle during Thursday's Thief River Falls duel meet boys high school swimming encounter with Moorhead at the Franklin Middle School pool. Olson won both the 200 and 500 freestyle races and swam the anchor leg on two first place relay teams, but the Prowlers still lost to the Spuds 96-76.

B/G-MR holds off LOW final quarter rally to win 53-46

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River let Lake of the Woods off the hook in the fourth quarter Thursday, but managed to hang on for a 53-46 boys high school basketball win.

The Gators built leads of 12-4, 25-14 and 38-25 at the first three quarter stops. They led by as many as 20 points in the third quarter, but had a defensive letdown over the final eight minutes, according to head coach Eldon Sparby.

"We played good defense in the first half," noted Sparby, "but we took the fourth quarter off. We won, but it was ugly."

The make-up contest (from a Jan. 22 postponement) was similar to an earlier meeting between the two teams when the 10-9 Gators again had a big lead and held on at the end for a 44-38 win.

The Gators' offense was led by TJ Super with 14 points, Richard Wockenfuss 11 and David Truscinski 10. Marty Humeniuk of the Bears led all scorers with 16 points.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River shot 39 percent from the field (20/51) and went 6-for-11 at the free throw line. Lake of the Woods shot 35 percent from the floor (19/54) and had a 5-for-8 night at the line. The visiting Bears finished with a 37-33 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 16-12.

RLCC boys challenge Patriots

Red Lake County Central tried to knock Win-E-Mac out of the unbeaten ranks in boys high school basketball Thursday, but fell just short as the Patriots held off the Mustangs 67-63 at Oklee.

Nick Waldal scored a game-high 30 points for the upset-minded Mustangs, who trailed by narrow margins at the quarter stops, 14-13, 33-27 and 42-41.

"We played well," said Red Lake County Central coach Chris McLean. "We were happy with the way we played, but disappointed with the outcome. The kids thought they had a real chance to win this one."

Mark Lorenson joined Waldal in double figures for the Mustangs with 18 points. A balanced Win-E-Mac attack featured four players in the 12-to-14-point range, with Kyle Ness getting the 14.

Red Lake County Central was 25-for-56 from the field (45 percent) and 9-for-11 at the free throw line. Win-E-Mac went 22-for-60 from the floor (37 percent) and 12-for-16 at the line. The Patriots out-rebounded the Mustangs 36-26, getting 13 of those on the offensive boards. The winners also topped the turnovers charts 17-14.

"Those offensive rebounds hurt," noted McLean. "That was probably the key stat in the game. We had a little lull in the third quarter when we didn't play so well, but other than that we did a good job."

Red Lake County Central is 10-9.

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke went 25-for-37 at the free throw line Thursday en route to a 57-25 girls high school basketball win over East Grand Forks Sacred Heart at Goodridge.

"We took it to the basket, and they fouled us," noted Wolverines coach Mike Gast, whose team had quarter leads of 13-4, 22-6 and 41-14.

Kathryn Stanley was 13-for-17 at the line as part of her game-high 19 point performance. The winners, who are now 9-11, played without freshman forward Natalee Holte, who will be out the rest of the year with a knee injury.

MCC girls win 47-34

It wasn't a complete game, but it was close enough to produce a win Thursday as Marshall County Central beat Warroad 47-34 in girls high school basketball at Newfolden.

"We had three really good quarters," reported Marshall County Central coach Altee Dahl. "It was a real good team effort."

The Nordics led at the quarter stops 9-5, 25-9 and 30-18.

Kristi Kilen scored 14 points and Alicia Halvorson 10 for the winners. Warroad did not have a double figure scorer.

Marshall County Central was 15-for-45 from the field (33 percent) and 15-for 26 at the free throw line. Warren went 13-for-35 from the floor (37 percent) and 8-for-15 at the line. The Nordics finished with a 24-14 rebound advantage, giving up just three offensive rebounds. "We did a real good job on the defensive boards," noted Dahl, whose team is 7-13.

Warroad, beaten by the Nordics earlier this year in similar 53-40 fashion, topped the turnover charts 24-19.

Prowlers' rally falls short against Wolfpack, 57-50...

Slow start costs TRF girls

Thief River Falls tried, but couldn't overcome a poor start Thursday as the Prowlers fell behind 22-6 in the first quarter and lost a 57-50 girls high school basketball game to Kittson Central.

The host Wolfpack maintained a 16-point spread at halftime, 38-22. The Prowlers managed to trim the difference to 46-37 by the close of the third quarter.

"We got off to a real slow start," said Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "We missed some easy shots early, and they took it to us. We just weren't mentally ready to play."

The comeback did ease some of the disappointment, acknowledged Loe. "I was proud of the way we did fight back," he said. "They didn't throw in the towel. They kept playing hard."

Thief River Falls' second half full court pressure defense created some problems for Kittson Central, producing a portion of the 27 Wolfpack turnovers, but the Prowlers lost the ball 21 times themselves, and following a season-long trend, ran into a problem at the free throw line. Kittson Central made 14 of 19 foul shots, while Thief River Falls was a quiet 1-for-4 at the line.

"We're just not aggressive enough offensively," noted Loe. "We're not getting the ball inside and taking it to people like we should."

The Prowlers were 21-for-60 from the field (35 percent), including a 7-for-16 showing from 3-point range. The Wolfpack went 14-for-45 (42 percent) from the floor. Kittson Central finished with a 33-24 rebound advantage.

Thief River Falls is 6-14, which includes a current 11-game losing streak.

Bob Schindler of Thief River Falls earned a trophy for the most improved dairy herd over a one-year period when the Red Lake-Pennington DHIA held its annual meeting Monday, February 8, at the Eagles club rooms in Thief River Falls.

Todd Johnston accepted two awards for the dairy herd operated by him and his brother Jay at the annual meeting of the Red Lake-Pennington DHIA Monday evening, February 8. The Johnston herd had the high production average in the association as well as the top individual cow.

Wayne and Debra Vettleson earned two awards from the Red Lake-Pennington DHIA at its annual meeting Monday, February 8, in the Eagles club rooms in Thief River Falls. The Trail area dairy farmers had the top producing two-year-old in the association and the most improved herd average over a three-year period.

DHIA banquet

Wayne and Debra Vettleson earned awards for the top two-year-old in the association in 1998 and the most improved herd record over a three-year period. The two-year old, "Bogey," produced 27,910 pounds of milk, 934 pounds of butterfat and 831 pounds of protein in her first 305-day lactation.

The average yearly increase per cow in the Vettleson herd over the past three years was 2,194 pounds of milk, 80 pounds of butterfat and 61 pounds of protein per cow. The Vettleson herd had 143 cows in 1998 and was milked three times per day.

At the end of 1998 the Red Lake-Pennington association had 43 herds with 3,898 cows—an average of 91 cows per herd—but only six herds in the association had more than 90 cows. Smallest herd on test was the Sylvester Schmitz herd at Red Lake Falls with 16 cows. Largest was Excel Dairy, owned by Larry and Rhonda Amundson of Thief River Falls, with 1,188 cows.

Other herds in the association with more than 100 cows were Walter Bros. Farm, Plummer, 261; David Oslund, Wannaska, 233; Wayne Vettleson, Trail, 156; Warren Malwitz Dairy, Red Lake Falls, 118; and Northwest Experiment Station, Crookston, 110.

Of the top 100 producing cows in the association for 1998, all of the top 10, all but two of the top 20 and 79 of the top 100 came from the top four herds in the association based on herd average. Broadcast from TRF centers on the farm crisis

MPR's Mainstreet Radio's Mark Steil will host a special broadcast exploring the farm crisis in Minnesota on Wednesday, February 24, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. from the community room at the Soo Line Depot in Thief River Falls.

Years of poor weather, flooding and crop disease have not only strained the lives of farmers, they have created a farm crisis that affects the economies and emotional well-beings of entire rural communities. During MPR's broadcast from Thief River Falls, guests will discuss the impact of the crisis on both individual families as well as rural economies and communities.

The first hour of the broadcast begins with a story from Dan Gunderson on the farm crisis in Argyle and a discussion with Bob Bergland, former U.S. Secretary of Agriculture and lifelong farmer.

The second hour provides a forum to talk candidly about the psychological and emotional tolls brought on by farm-life and the current depressed economy. Winnie Stoltman, a counselor with the Disaster Response Network based in East Grand Forks, will be addressing the issues that rural communities face.

The broadcast can be heard on 102.7 FM.

Red Lake Falls youth charged with homicide

Timothy Harland Sigdahl, 18, Red Lake Falls, has been charged with criminal vehicular homicide and murder in the second degree in connection with the death of Davis Gustafson of Aneta, ND.

On November 30, 1998, the Red Lake County Sheriff's department was contacted by a nurse from Riverview Hospital in Crookston stating that they were treating an individual injured in a motor vehicle accident that happened November 29. The injured party, Davis Gustafson, died on December 6 at Altru Hospital in Grand Forks where he had been transferred for treatment of his injuries. An autopsy revealed that he died from traumatic head injuries.

The sheriff's department conducted numerous interviews and have concluded in the criminal complaint that Gustafson was 'car surfing', standing on top of a van while it was being driven down the road. Gustafson fell off the van after Timothy Sigdahl, who was driving it on a county road, applied the brakes.

Sigdahl appeared in a Red Lake County court on February 11. Bond was set at $5,000. His next court appearance has been scheduled for February 24.

School bus drivers for School District 564 went on strike at 12:01 a.m. Wednesday, February 17, and were picketing Wednesday morning at Challenger elementary school (above), Franklin middle school, Lincoln high school and the school district service center. A spokesman for the drivers said early Friday that an offer to settle was being presented to the board of education and a meeting on Saturday morning was confirmed by school administration. The strike involves about 35 drivers and assistants and has inconvenienced many parents and others who rely on buses to bring children to and from school, daycare and extra-curricular activities. Increased traffic in school areas and major intersections was also a problem for law enforcement.

School bus drivers remain on strike

"Friendliest strike in Minnesota" may end following negotiations this weekend

by David Hill
Associate Editor

School bus drivers and transportation assistants in School District 564, Thief River Falls, remained on strike as of Friday, but had offered a proposal to settle early Friday morning and were planning to meet with the school board Saturday. After negotiations failed to result in an agreement, the school bus drivers and transportation assistants went on strike at 12:01 a.m. on February 17.

The collective bargaining agreement with the Minnesota School Employees Association (MSEA), the union representing the bus drivers and bus assistants, expired on June 30, 1998. Several meetings have been held since then in an attempt to reach an agreement. On December 22, the MSEA on behalf of school bus drivers and assistants in Thief River Falls, filed a mediation petition which stated its intent, in accordance with state law, to strike. According to a statement from the Bureau of Mediation Services, "1. The legal right to strike begins at 12:01 a.m. on Wednesday, February 17. 2. The legal right to strike ends at 11:59 p.m. on Monday, March 8."

Chris Schaefer, MSEA union representative from St. Cloud, explained that February 17-March 8 was a legal window of opportunity to strike. It does not mean that the strike will end on March 8. The strike can continue beyond March 8.

Both sides are hoping to resolve the dispute soon.

District

Superintendent of Schools Jerry Robicheau said that he had been at all three schools in the district during the first morning of the strike. Robicheau said that traffic was flowing smoothly at all three buildings. Picketers, he said, who were at all three buildings and the school district service center, seemed very respectful.

The issue "comes down to economics," said Robicheau. It seems to be an honest disagreement regarding "cost" in the settlement. As he sees it, what the board was offering was in line with what they have offered other negotiating units — a percentage increase and a cost of living adjustment. He explained it further as a misinterpretation of what "equal" positions are when comparisons are made.

Robicheau said the school board members remain ready to return to the bargaining table to negotiate in good faith as they feel they always have. He said they are disappointed that the strike happened and apologize to parents and students for any inconvenience.

Bus driver/assistants

Schaefer, said the drivers and assistants were extremely disappointed that they could not avoid a strike. On the other hand, Schaefer said, this seems to be the friendliest strike he has seen. No one seems ready to vilify the other, which is good. They remain hopeful that it will be wrapped up real soon, he said.

Schaefer said essentially, the dispute boils down to money. In new dollars to the district, the school bus drivers want $12,000 over two years. In terms of hourly rates, the district, he said, is willing to give 50 cents per hour, and the bus drivers want a $1 per hour increase. In comparison to bus drivers in Roseau, Warroad, Red Lake, Bemidji and Blackduck, he said, bus drivers in this district earn less.

The bus drivers and assistants have been distributing fliers describing their position on the strike. It describes their average salary, and the fact that members of the bargaining unit do not receive any insurance or paid holidays. Their work shifts often vary from day to day and include night shifts, and routes for extra-curricular activities. The average annual salary of a member of the Thief River Falls bargaining unit is $8,000. On the back of the flier is a bar graph that shows that bus drivers would receive only a four percent increase for 1998-2000 while other employees would receive eight percent.

There are about 35 bus drivers and transportation-assistants in the district. They work split shifts, roughly 4.2 hours per day, 20 and one-half hours per week, which is real standard, according to Schaefer. (This is the first time in 20 years of negotiations with the school board, that the bus drivers have taken this step.)

On the picket line during the first day of the strike, Schaefer said a number of people honked in support of the bus drivers, and some glared but that's all. The public seems very receptive and understanding, said Schaefer. There haven't been very many negative reactions.

School board

Steve Young, chairman of School District 564 board of education, said it is unfortunate that they're at this point and it is surprising, personally, because he has been involved in the negotiation process since this summer. He added that he hopes there will be the least amount of disruption and inconvenience to parents and staff, but the number one concern is the safety of all children.

Young said that he did have

Bus drivers offer proposal

Minnesota School Employees Association issued a press release early Friday morning stating that they had made an offer to settle the bus drivers and bus assistants strike in Thief River Falls.

The statement reads: "Earlier this evening the Thief River Falls bus drivers and bus assistants made a proposal to the school board in the hope of reaching an agreement and ending this strike. The school board responded by requesting to meet and negotiate on Saturday, February 20, 1999. This meeting has been scheduled for 11 a.m., and will take place without Gary Rogers, state mediator. MSEA is hopeful that this meeting will result in progress towards a settlement."

School District Superintendent Jerry Robicheau said "We're committed to seeing this wrapped up." Robicheau said it will be resolved, (regardless of what happens Saturday) because the board is dealing with people who are dedicated to education.

Education is a high priority of residents in the district. Robicheau said he noted that the strike has not had an impact on attendance because parents have been committed to getting their children to school. That's not a reflection of their opinion for or against the bus drivers strike, he said, but an indication of their support for education.

Haviland crusades against eating disorders

Eating Disorders Awareness Week events planned for Thief River Falls next week

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Anorexia. Bulimia. Obesity. We've heard the words, and nearly all of us knows someone or knows of someone affected by one of these diseases. Statistics tell us that more than 10 million people in the country suffer from eating disorders, and more than 50,000 will die from them.

An energetic Thief River Falls woman has taken up a passionate crusade to fight eating disorders. Alicia Haviland, R.N., B.S., M.S., is the coordinator of the new Adolescent/Eating Disorders program at Northwest Medical Center.

Eating Disorders Awareness Week is February 20-27, and an open house will be held at the Adolescent Issues/Eating Disorders Clinic at Northwest Medical Center from 2 to 4 p.m. on Monday, February 22.

The clinic occupies three rooms on Northwest Medical Center's first floor. Knowing what kind of pain eating disorders cause, Haviland decorated the area with the client's comfort in mind.

The first room is where feelings are shared. All of the senses are nurtured in the comfortable living room-type setting. Eyes focus on the soothing flow of a lava lamp. The air is filled with the stress-reducing scent of lavender as soft uplifting music plays in the background.

Another room features books, pamphlets and posters—a library that will tell you everything you want to know about eating disorders. A scale and a chair occupy one corner of the room and provide a private place where physicians can screen patients away from the exposure of a more public clinical setting.

Haviland's office occupies the third room, and a calendar on her desk is packed with speaking engagements. She has shared her one-hour presentation at numerous schools and community education sites. Thursday she traveled to Perham, speaking to students during the day and holding a community forum in the evening. Next week she will present her Community Outreach program at Challenger school on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Haviland will also be heard on KTRF's Coffee Time on Monday morning and appear on WDAZ's HealthNet that day at 5 p.m. An informational session at Falls Book Company on Thursday from noon to 1 p.m. is one of the other activities Alicia has planned for the busy week.

School bus drivers remain on strike

Several meetings have been held since then in an attempt to reach an agreement. On December 22, the MSEA on behalf of school bus drivers and assistants in Thief River Falls, filed a mediation petition which stated its intent, in accordance with state law, to strike. According to a statement from the Bureau of Mediation Services, "1. The legal right to strike begins at 12:01 a.m. on Wednesday, February 17. 2. The legal right to strike ends at 11:59 p.m. on Monday, March 8."

Chris Schaefer, MSEA union representative from St. Cloud, explained that February 17-March 8 was a legal window of opportunity to strike. It does not mean that the strike will end on March 8. The strike can continue beyond March 8.

Both sides are hoping to resolve the dispute soon.

District

Superintendent of Schools Jerry Robicheau said that he had been at all three schools in the district during the first morning of the strike. Robicheau said that traffic was flowing smoothly at all three buildings. Picketers, he said, who were at all three buildings and the school district service center, seemed very respectful.

The issue "comes down to economics," said Robicheau. It seems to be an honest disagreement regarding "cost" in the settlement. As he sees it, what the board was offering was in line with what they have offered other negotiating units — a percentage increase and a cost of living adjustment. He explained it further as a misinterpretation of what "equal" positions are when comparisons are made.

Robicheau said the school board members remain ready to return to the bargaining table to negotiate in good faith as they feel they always have. He said they are disappointed that the strike happened and apologize to parents and students for any inconvenience.

Bus driver/assistants

Schaefer, said the drivers and assistants were extremely disappointed that they could not avoid a strike. On the other hand, Schaefer said, this seems to be the friendliest strike he has seen. No one seems ready to vilify the other, which is good. They remain hopeful that it will be wrapped up real soon, he said.

Schaefer said essentially, the dispute boils down to money. In new dollars to the district, the school bus drivers want $12,000 over two years. In terms of hourly rates, the district, he said, is willing to give 50 cents per hour, and the bus drivers want a $1 per hour increase. In comparison to bus drivers in Roseau, Warroad, Red Lake, Bemidji and Blackduck, he said, bus drivers in this district earn less.

The bus drivers and assistants have been distributing fliers describing their position on the strike. It describes their average salary, and the fact that members of the bargaining unit do not receive any insurance or paid holidays. Their work shifts often vary from day to day and include night shifts, and routes for extra-curricular activities. The average annual salary of a member of the Thief River Falls bargaining unit is $8,000. On the back of the flier is a bar graph that shows that bus drivers would receive only a four percent increase for 1998-2000 while other employees would receive eight percent.

There are about 35 bus drivers and transportation assistants in the district. They work split shifts, roughly 4.2 hours per day, 20 and one-half hours per week, which is real standard, according to Schaefer. (This is the first time in 20 years of negotiations with the school board, that the bus drivers have taken this step.)

On the picket line during the first day of the strike, Schaefer said a number of people honked in support of the bus drivers, and some glared but that's all. The public seems very receptive and understanding, said Schaefer. There haven't been very many negative reactions.

School board

Steve Young, chairman of School District 564 board of education, said it is unfortunate that they're at this point and it is surprising, personally, because he has been involved in the negotiation process since this summer. He added that he hopes there will be the least amount of disruption and inconvenience to parents and staff, but the number one concern is the safety of all children.

Young said that he did have

Bus drivers offer proposal

Minnesota School Employees Association issued a press release early Friday morning stating that they had made an offer to settle the bus drivers and bus assistants strike in Thief River Falls.

The statement reads: "Earlier this evening the Thief River Falls bus drivers and bus assistants made a proposal to the school board in the hope of reaching an agreement and ending this strike. The school board responded by requesting to meet and negotiate on Saturday, February 20, 1999. This meeting has been scheduled for 11 a.m. and will take place without Gary Rogers, state mediator. MSEA is hopeful that this meeting will result in progress towards a settlement."

School District Superintendent Jerry Robicheau said "We're committed to seeing this wrapped up." Robicheau said it will be resolved, (regardless of what happens Saturday) because the board is dealing with people who are dedicated to education.

Education is a high priority of residents in the district. Robicheau said he noted that the strike has not had an impact on attendance because parents have been committed to getting their children to school. That's not a reflection of their opinion for or against the bus drivers strike, he said, but an indication of their support for education.

Haviland crusades against eating disorders

Eating Disorders Awareness Week events planned for Thief River Falls next week

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Anorexia. Bulimia. Obesity. We've heard the words, and nearly all of us knows someone or knows of someone affected by one of these diseases. Statistics tell us that more than 10 million people in the country suffer from eating disorders, and more than 50,000 will die from them.

An energetic Thief River Falls woman has taken up a passionate crusade to fight eating disorders. Alicia Haviland, R.N., B.S., M.S., is the coordinator of the new Adolescent/Eating Disorders program at Northwest Medical Center.

Eating Disorders Awareness Week is February 20-27, and an open house will be held at the Adolescent Issues/Eating Disorders Clinic at Northwest Medical Center from 2 to 4 p.m. on Monday, February 22.

The clinic occupies three rooms on Northwest Medical Center's first floor. Knowing what kind of pain eating disorders cause, Haviland decorated the area with the client's comfort in mind.

The first room is where feelings are shared. All of the senses are nurtured in the comfortable living room-type setting. Eyes focus on the soothing flow of a lava lamp. The air is filled with the stress-reducing scent of lavender as soft uplifting music plays in the background.

Another room features books, pamphlets and posters—a library that will tell you everything you want to know about eating disorders. A scale and a chair occupy one corner of the room and provide a private place where physicians can screen patients away from the exposure of a more public clinical setting.

Haviland's office occupies the third room, and a calendar on her desk is packed with speaking engagements. She has shared her one-hour presentation at numerous schools and community education sites. Thursday she traveled to Perham, speaking to students during the day and holding a community forum in the evening. Next week she will present her Community Outreach program at Challenger school on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Haviland will also be heard on KTRF's Coffee Time on Monday morning and appear on WDAZ's HealthNet that day at 5 p.m. An informational session at Falls Book Company on Thursday from noon to 1 p.m. is one of the other activities Alicia has planned for the busy week.

Computers donated to Bagley school

Bagley - Thirty new computers were delivered to Bagley High School recently, courtesy of Product Research and Development (PRD) of Bagley.

Principal Tom Ohman was excited about the gift and noted how the 30 computers set the school's technology timetable ahead. The annual budget for computer purchases would have required two or three years for a similar purchase.

PRD management said that the company wanted to improve the education opportunities for students. When PRD managers toured the new Bagley High School they noted how outdated the computer technology was. The company also awards scholarships to graduating seniors. Farmers Independent

Street signs coming to Kennedy

Kennedy - Soon, residents of Kennedy won't have to refer to a certain landmark to explain where they live.

City enhancements were the main topic of discussion at a recent city council meeting, and the city is looking at the possibility of installing street signs and numbering the houses by May 1, 1999. North Star News

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere
email: gabriel@northernnet.com

Since I started with some delicious muffins I found, we'll continue with more brunch and/or breakfast recipes, some of which would also be good for Saturday or Sunday suppers or luncheons.

I found another bran muffin recipe that is really good. I tried to find bran for the recipe I had a couple of weeks ago, but couldn't figure out what was 100 per cent and what was 40 per cent, so I just bought Bran Buds and went home and found the following recipe. It is delicious and so handy to have on hand for sudden guests. This one makes a huge batch, which is fine if you have someone else at home eating the muffins. Since I don't, I halved the recipe and that measurement is in parentheses. This recipe is from the St. Paull cookbook:

REFRIGERATOR BRAN MUFFINS
Sharon Bugge

1 1/2 cups Bran Buds (3/4)
1 1/2 cups oatmeal (3/4)
10 ounces boiling water (5 ounces)
1/2 cup oil (1/4 cup)
1 1/2 cups sugar (3/4 cup)
2 eggs (1 egg)
1 pint buttermilk (1 cup)
2 1/2 cups flour (1 1/4 cups)
1 1/2 teaspoons salt (3/4 teaspoon)
2 1/2 teaspoons soda (1 1/4 teaspoons)
Raisins (or chocolate chips)

Mix bran, oatmeal and boiling water and set aside.

In another bowl, cream oil, sugar, eggs and buttermilk. Add bran mixture and mix.

Stir in flour, salt and soda. Store in refrigerator. Keeps 6 weeks.

Stir gently the first time used, and then it isn't necessary to stir any more because raisins or chips should be suspended in batter after the one stirring. Bake in muffin cups about 17-18 minutes at 400 degrees.

The following recipes are from the Silverton cookbook - this dish would be good for a lazy-supper day as well as for brunch or breakfast:

HAM AND POTATO BREAKFAST
Ann Nelson

1 package hash brown potatoes (recipe says Betty Crocker, similar recipes say 1 package frozen hash brown potatoes)
1 1/2 cups shredded cheese
1 cup chopped cooked ham
1/2 cup green onion
1 1/2 cups water
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 teaspoon dry mustard (optional)
5 to 6 eggs, beaten

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Mix all ingredients in large bowl. Pour into ungreased baking dish (12x7). Bake, uncovered, 40-45 minutes. Serves 6 to 8.

Since I love broccoli, this dish caught my eye - it sounds delicious:

BRUNCH SOUFFLÉ
Beverly Rupprecht

6 eggs, beaten
2 cups milk
2 slices bread, cut into cubes
2 cups shredded cheese (part American and part Cheddar)
2 cups bacon, fried crisp and crumbled
2 cups chopped broccoli, thawed and salted

Stir all ingredients together and place in 9x9 inch pan. Refrigerate overnight and sprinkle with slightly crushed corn flakes.

Bake 1 hour at 350 degrees. Cut and serve.

Serving Suggestion: Serve with biscuits and fruit salad.

If you want a little fancier breakfast fare, try this same morning and surprise everyone:

SUNDAY BRUNCH QUICHE
Pauline Augustine

Prepared pie shell, unbaked
1/2 pound bacon, cooked crisp and drained or 1/4 pound diced ham
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 small onion, chopped
5 eggs
1 cup cream
1/2 teaspoon cream
1/2 pound grated cheese.

Line pie shell with bacon or ham. Set aside.

Sauté onion in butter until clear. Cool.

Beat eggs, cream and salt for 1 minute. Add grated cheese and pour mixture into the lined pie shell.

Bake 10 minutes at 450 degrees, then reduce heat and bake 25 minutes at 325 degrees until firm. Serve warm. (Good with baked tomatoes.)

And here are the baked tomatoes that would be a wonderful accompaniment to any meal - great recipe to save for your garden bounty this summer:

BAKED TOMATOES
Pauline Augustine

6 medium tomatoes
1 1/2 slices of bread
Melted butter
Pinch of cayenne or red pepper

Cut one-fourth off top of tomatoes. Set in baking dish.

Cover top of each tomato with 1/4 slice of bread which has been crumbled very fine. Sprinkle with melted butter and a pinch of cayenne or red pepper.

Bake at 350 degrees for 7 to 10 minutes. Serve hot.

Here's a fancy Finnish pancake you can make for breakfast or for a different dessert:

PANNUKAKKUA
(Ann Nelson)

4 eggs, well beaten
1/2 cup sugar
3/4 teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
1 scant cup flour
1/3 cup butter

Place butter in 9x13 inch pan and let melt in heating oven. Don't burn.

Beat eggs. Add remaining ingredients and mix. Swirl butter all around in pan so batter does not stick to sides.

Bake at 450 degrees for 15 minutes. Then turn oven to 350 degrees for another 20 minutes or until nice and golden brown on edges. Top with syrup or strawberries and whipped cream.

County sheriff announces start of scholarship

Pennington County Sheriff Mike Hruby has announced the commencement of the Minnesota Sheriff's Association Scholarship Program for 1999. Sheriff Hruby proudly announced that the MSA has established a scholarship fund totaling $9,000 for the awarding of 15 $600 scholarships for this year. It is anticipated that the MSA scholarship program, which is promoted by the 87 sheriffs of Minnesota, will be expanded in the years to come.

The members of the Minnesota Sheriff's Association give recognition to the lack of financial assistance available to students attending the mandated peace officers skills course or two/or four year law enforcement degree school. The policy adopted by the MSA indicated it was their feeling that enforcement of the law in a democratic society is a complex task. The ability of a peace officer to render effective service responsive to the public's need depends heavily upon job knowledge and skills. The MSA recognizes the importance of pre-entry training to the accomplishment of these re-requisites. It also recognizes that some candidates need outside help in meeting the costs of such training, even though they excel academically. To that end, the association stands ready to offer financial assistance in the form of these scholarships, as funds will allow.

The scholarship committee, in making its selection of awards, intends to achieve representation from all geographical areas of the state. Applications will be received until March 5 of each year, with scholarships being awarded by May 1 of the same year. Application forms and a statement of procedures are available at the Pennington County Sheriff's office. Scholarships are only available to students in one of the following four categories:

1. Mandated skills program.
2. Two-year law enforcement program.
3. Vocational-technical police program.
4. Four-year college criminal justice course.

Students meeting this criteria are invited to obtain a scholarship application blank from the sheriff's office and to actively participate in the competition.

Meetings focus on corn varieties and methods

Last year was an excellent corn year and new production records were set in Northwest Minnesota. With new varieties and production methods corn might be an option in the rotation.

A series of corn meetings will take place Tuesday, February 23 including: Warren, at Bremer Bank, 9:00 a.m. and Roseau County Courthouse meeting room at 2 p.m. Meetings will also take place on Wednesday, February 24, at St. Hilaire in the office of Northwest Grain Elevator at 9:00 a.m. and in Ada, at the VFW, at 2:00 p.m.

Dr. Carlyle Holen, Integrated Pest Management Specialist, will talk about herbicides in corn and about the corn borer. Zachary Fore, Cropping Systems Educator, will address corn in the crop rotation and crop budgets. Bill Bergland, Croplan Genetics, will provide information on plant population, fertilizer requirement, planting date, fertilizer placement and other management issues. Dr. Hans Kandel, U of M Extension, (in Warren, Roseau and St. Hilaire) and Kenneth Pazdernik, U of M Extension, (in Ada) will address corn variety selection, U of M corn trials, drying and storage. A local producer will share what has worked for him on his own farm.

Farming is becoming more and more complex and a better knowledge about production on the part of the producer will help to make better management decisions. Producers and others interested in agriculture are encouraged to participate in the corn meetings, which are free and open to the public.

For more information contact Kenneth Pazdernik at 218-784-7183 or Hans Kandel 1-800-770-1244.

Women's Hall of Fame to have three inductees

Selections have been made by the Women's Center at Bemidji State University and the Northwest Minnesota Women's Fund of the Northwest Minnesota Foundation for the Northwest Minnesota Women's Hall of Fame 1999 inductees.

To be named to the Hall of Fame during the opening ceremony of Women's History Month February 27 will be the late Coya Knutson, Oklee, the state's first and only Congresswoman; Helen Gill, Bemidji, businesswoman, entrepreneur and community activist; and Hazel Wahlberg, Roseau, teacher and author.

The opening ceremony "Uppity Women: Putting Our Stamp On America" will be held in the Beaux Arts Ballroom on the Bemidji State University campus from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. on February 27 and includes a luncheon. In addition to the Hall of Fame ceremony, the featured speaker is Lt. Gov. Mae Schunk and a Reader's Theatre presentation of The First Lady's White House Conference on the Status of Women will take place.

Cost of the event including the luncheon is $10. Tickets can be purchased through the Northwest Minnesota Foundation office by calling 1-800-659-7859.

A summary of the inductees into the Hall of Fame includes the following:

Coya Knutson—Born Aug. 23, 1912, she received her degree from Concordia College in Moorhead and taught high school for 16 years. She also took postgraduate studies at Moorhead State University and from Juilliard School of Music in New York City.

Knutson began her political career as chair of the Red Lake county DFL party in 1948. She was elected to the Minnesota House of Representatives in 1950 and 1952, then served as the Representative in the U.S. Congress from the Ninth District from 1955 through 1959.

She was the first woman to serve on the House Committee on Agriculture and initiated federal student loans, federal fund allotment for cystic fibrosis and introduced the first bill for income tax check off to fund Presidential campaigns.

Helen Gill—As co-owner of "Gill's Brothers Clothing in Bemidji and a partner in Gill Shoe and Luggage, she became the first woman to serve on the Board of Menswear Retailers of America and the first regional vice president of that association. She served on the advisory committee for the Minnesota Department of Vocational Rehabilitation.

Helen Gill was an originator of Art in the Park, the sixth largest tourist attraction in the state. She is one of four lifetime members of the Paul Bunyan Playhouse and served as a board member of the BSU Foundation. She also worked as a pre-delinquent mentor and sponsor at the Gilfillan Center.

Hazel Wahlberg—Hazel began writing history books in 1971 after retiring from a long and dedicated teaching career. Her books provide insight into the history, people and folklore of Roseau county.

She and her late husband Carl have contributed to the community through donations for computer systems in the library, through the written stories of families and individuals and through theatrical performances inspired by her work.

Snowmobile association officer comments on stud ban repeal

(Editor's Note: The following article was submitted to the Northern Watch and is being published in the general public interest.

by Bob Linn, Vice President Minnesota United Snowmobilers Association

If you listen to the rhetoric, snowmobilers have been portrayed as the obstacles in getting the stud ban legislation repealed in the Senate. If you look at the facts, that's hardly the case.

The group I represent (MnUSA), with a membership of nearly 20,000 snowmobiling families in Minnesota and approximately 60,000 snowmobilers, has been negotiating with the Department of Natural Resources' Parks and Trails Council and the stud manufacturers since early December to come up with a resolution on this issue. We hope we can achieve it in the current legislative session.

MnUSA has had two clear objectives this year: salvage the loss of tourism to the 1998-99 snowmobile season because of the stud ban, and develop a comprehensive solution to the stud ban law.

On the first objective, we attempted to salvage the snowmobile season by getting a repeal of the stud ban on fast-track legislation. Within the first two weeks of the session, the House passed a bill repealing last year's stud ban law that sent a message to snowmobilers in neighboring states that Minnesota was indeed serious about a repeal of the stud ban.

Unfortunately, however, the stud ban law repeal has become bottled up in the Senate, as the snowmobile season slips away. Even if the Senate were to vote on a measure today and send it back to the House, it could likely be March 1 before there is any repeal of the stud ban law and a bill is on Gov. Ventura's desk. By then, MnUSA believes, we've lost our window of opportunity to attract snowmobilers who've told us they are staying away from Minnesota because of the law. The economic harm is done. We can only focus on making next season better.

With that a reality, we can proceed to the second objective, which is to address all of the issues of a statewide stud ban law that was poorly conceived last year. MnUSA still believes a repeal of the statewide stud ban is critical because the law is much more sweeping than it needs to be. But rather than taking a hard line on this issue, we are coming to the table with suggestions for how we can solve the problem. To that end, I believe the Legislature should consider the following points:

- Limit restrictions to public paved trails. That amounts to several hundred miles of trails, compared to the restriction on thousands of miles of trails under the current law.
- Permit snowmobiles with studded tracks on portions of public paved trails, as the DNR deems necessary, to allow for trail connections. This is critical for easy movement between the state's trail system loops and local trails.
- Incorporate educational materials on responsible stud use in all snowmobile safety training programs. We've done an excellent job with overall snowmobile safety training; we can add this training as well. A general fund appropriation to the DNR for public education through grants to local units of government, in partnership with local snowmobile clubs, can make this happen easily.
- Appropriate funds for trail management by the DNR to protect surfaces for all users. There are a variety of trail management techniques, such as spreading wood chips over asphalt and maintaining adequate levels of snow cover, which can minimize trail damage.
- Develop a realistic estimate of damage caused by unlawful stud use, and impose a sales tax surcharge on the sale of studs in Minnesota. This fee should create adequate revenue to pay for asphalt trail damage, and it would be better than the unilateral $50 penalty imposed by the current law.
- Realistic and enforceable penalties for law enforcement. We believe the current law allowing snowmobile forfeiture is inappropriate—and not being enforced anyway.

Although not a part of the stud ban discussion, but still related issues that need discussion and airing, are two items. First, we encourage the state to consider natural trails rather than the current proliferation of asphalt trail building that is going on. Second, we would also encourage other trail users, such as bicyclists and in-line skaters, to consider instituting user fees to cover their use of public trails. This would make them dues-paying stakeholders in our state trail system.

We believe these ideas go a long way toward moving forward on the repeal of the stud ban. The existing ban was poorly conceived and has cost Minnesota millions of dollars in lost tourism revenue this winter. We hope the 1999 Legislature will embrace a fair process for all snowmobilers and other citizens to present views on all of the issues to policy committees in both the House and Senate. It is our hope that in this deliberative manner the issues can be fairly resolved and that snowmobilers will not be treated as second-class citizens.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

I don't have anything against snowmobiles; after all, the snowmobile industry has been my major source of income for the last 15 years. However, the privilege to own and operate a snowmobile should not infringe on my rights as a property owner to protect its boundaries and preserve its tranquility.

Last Sunday evening, February 14, was just such a case when approximately 20 or more snowmobiles crossed private lands in Grimstad and Palmville townships, from northeast to southwest, to the Roseau and Marshall county line, and from there south toward Thief Lake.

As we stood in our yard, our dogs barking, we watched as several snowmobiles crossed our field at high speed, about 200 yards from our house. In the direction they came from our field's perimeters are planted in small trees.

Angry, my wife and I drove from the yard to intercept them on the township road that leads into our farm. We managed to stop one at the road and told him they couldn't cross our field, and asked him to tell the others. We told him we had trees planted out there, and that they should stay in the ditches and not drive across our fields.

The man on the snowmobile obligingly backed up and turned his snowmobile around to tell the others in the procession following him. How many he did tell was hard to say, as many more were coming in the distance behind him, as we could see by their headlights crossing the cemetery road to the north and on the neighbor's fields beyond.

A mile north of us, in Grimstad, all of these snowmobiles had passed within 20 feet of a neighbor's wind break that bordered his yard. Then they went across the end of his driveway and across the county road, cutting a wide trail across the gravel that was plain enough for the deputy sheriff to see an hour later. Then they drove diagonally across my neighbor's fields and mine, then across to another neighbor's field, the whine of their engines fading in the distance.

My wife and I have put a lot of work into the tree rows that border our land. We've transplanted hundreds of trees by hand to replace trees in the rows that have died. Trees die for many reasons, especially during the winter months, and I accept that as part of the hardship of raising trees—but my wife and I can't accept the injury caused them by snowmobiles trespassing on our property.

Now I can understand being in country where you are not familiar, and I can understand following a leader from point A to point B to get to your destination, but each of you followers knows the rules of the trail. Someone has to take the initiative to follow the rules rather than break them, even if it means you break out of line to do what is right. This is just common sense.

When you know you are trespassing on agricultural lands, get out and ride in the ditches instead. At least stay on the field edge if the ditch is too rough—don't cross our field and drive over our trees. Please. We would respect your property and only expect the same in return.

Incidents like this are what gives snowmobiling a bad name. Here in Roseau county and other counties across northern Minnesota we can boast the finest groomed trails in the state, but they aren't always the fastest way to get to your destination. Before you consider cutting corners as these folks did, to save a little time and a few miles, consider whose corners you're cutting. Please stay on the trails.

Sincerely,
Steven G. Reynolds
Wannaska, Minnesota

Minnesota Criminals May Not Be Bright, But Some Are Educated

General perception of a criminal population often is that of an uneducated group of people without the smarts to make an honest living or the social skills to avoid conflict with others. We're not sure about the social aspect, but in Minnesota prisons the inmates aren't necessarily without education.

According to a summary of state prisons and prisoners compiled by the Minnesota House of Representative Public Information Office from various state reports and publications, only six percent of Minnesota's prison inmates ended their formal education before ninth grade. Nearly a third (31.9%) ended formal education between ninth and 11th grades while 15.1 percent had received a college degree.

Indications from those statistics would be that more than six out of 10 convicted criminals in prison in this state had been at least seniors in high school or high school graduates. We are somewhat surprised by that number. It is also surprising that two and one-half times as many prisoners have college degrees as those who ended formal education before ninth grade.

In 1975 adult inmates in Minnesota totaled 1,509—a 30-year low. By July of last year that number had increased to 5,507 and the number is projected to rise to 6,420 by the year 2000. Main reason for the increase is the 1,062 new prison beds planned to be added statewide by 2000.

The mid-1998 total included 5,234 adult males and 273 adult females. In addition, 224 juvenile males and 19 juvenile females were in state prisons in July of last year.

Of the total adult prison inmates last July, 20 percent were imprisoned for sex offenses, 16.6 percent for homicide and 12.8 percent for drug offenses. This translates in numbers to 1,101 sex offenders, 914 persons convicted of killing others and 705 drug dealers. Nearly 50 percent of the prison population is comprised of law-breakers in these three areas.

Keeping criminals behind bars is an expensive proposition. Average per-day cost for one adult male inmate in 1998 was $82 and for one adult female was $116. Cost per inmate at the Red Wing correctional facility was $138 per day and at the Sauk Centre juvenile correctional facility was $185 per day. At contract facilities, however, costs for one adult male were $55 per day.

According to the statistical compilation, whites comprised 93.4 percent of the state's population, 48.6 percent of the adult inmate population and 53.5 percent of the juvenile inmate population. African Americans comprised 2.8 percent of the state population, 36.6 percent of the adult inmate population and 22.6 percent of the juvenile inmate population. American Indians comprised 1.2 percent of the state population, 6.5 percent of the adult [illegible] population and 14 percent of the juvenile inmate population.

Estimated construction cost for the Rush City facility is placed at $89 million. It will house 950 prisoners at an average construction cost of $93,684 per prisoner. It has been said that the $89 million would have been better spent on education than incarceration. Perhaps, but according to the prisoner statistics, such expenditure likely would only increase the education level of the criminals in prison. Probably most people who have been victims of these inmates and are still alive believe the cost of keeping prisoners off the street is money well spent.

Legislature Keeps Busy Correcting Past Mistakes

Never fear that the state legislature will run out of things to do. If nothing else it can spend a good deal of time trying to correct the mistakes it made in the past.

Notable this year are repeal of the ban on studs in snowmobile tracks and terminating the much touted but widely rejected Profile of Learning.

Most recent to come down on the latter with all four feet is Education Minnesota—the successor organization to the merged Minnesota Education Association and the Minnesota Federation of Teachers. The four feet belong in pairs to Judy Schaubach and Sandra Peterson, co-presidents of Education Minnesota, who told the House Education Policy Committee earlier this month that there should be an immediate halt to implementation of the Profile until a number of serious flaws are fixed to make it workable for teachers.

Education Minnesota surveyed more than 600 of its teacher members statewide, about a third each in elementary, middle school and high school instruction. It found that while 87 percent support the Basic Standards portion of the Graduation Rule, 63 percent oppose the Profile of Learning and only 30 percent support it.

Schaubach and Peterson objected to "suffocating record-keeping and paperwork" and said teachers would have to be provided "the time and resources they need to integrate the standards into locally-determined curriculum." They said it does not help teachers help students and unless it would be changed dramatically it would not survive.

Recommendations by Education Minnesota included a paragraph which states: "The staff development provided by the Department of Children, Families and Learning (DCFL) has been both inconsistent and inadequate, and has provided conflicting and inaccurate information to teachers and school districts."

Minnesota's Basic Standards are well accepted by the profession, however. "The standards and tests alike are clear, consistent, credible measures of students' basic skills in reading, writing and math," Education Minnesota said.

The Catholic Defense League recently issued a statement calling on legislators to reject the entire Goals 2000, Profiles of Learning and School-to-Work programs, claiming inherent rights of parents are given over to the state in these programs.

"Goals 2000 is a federally designed, cradle-to-grave education and work program controlled by the state/federal governments," stated Peg Cullen, president emeritus of the League. "It is a completely incompatible and unacceptable education system for a free society and for the State of Minnesota."

Being a legislator is not an easy job. Sometimes the only way to determine that legislation is good is if about the same number of people on either side of the issue are angry at you. But legislators could make it a lot easier on themselves if they put a bigger premium on quality than quantity in bills passed and took the time to let the dust settle so they could see the likely results of their potential actions. "That's Why They Put Erasers on Pencils" is not a good creed for the legislature to follow.

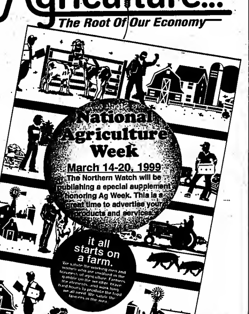
TRF Education Foundation has awarded several grants

Several grants from funds administered by the Thief River Falls Education Foundation have been awarded recently, according to Judy Dimich, executive director for the foundation.

A "Grow Can" has been purchased for the newly-offered agriculture instruction program at Lincoln with assistance by the Foundation and other groups. This will allow students to study plant growth and development more closely.

Three grants were awarded from the Swenson Endowment Fund. These include:

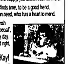
• Funds to complete a classroom set, of computer based lab equipment for the science department at Lincoln. The equipment enables students to run tests and make comparisons and is used by all of the science classes as well as being available to students competing in the local and regional science fair. One recent experiment conducted by students tested various insulation materials to discover which has the greatest insulating value.



• A computer purchased for the Lincoln media center completes the research stations available in the media center to all students. Classes as well as individual students make daily use of this resource.

• Close Up received a grant for its program which this year will send approximately 20 Lincoln high school students to Washington, DC, for a week to study government with other students from around the United States.

The Swenson Endowment is funded with gifts from Lowell and Marge Swenson and administered by the TRF Education Foundation. In general the endowment is used only for items beyond the scope of the school district's regular instructional program.



The Thief River Falls Foundation is a nonprofit foundation which promotes excellence in opportunities in School District 564. For information or to join, contact the office at 230 LaBree Avenue South or call 681-8711.

To Our Special Angel Elliot,

As each day passes, our lives are challenged with having to go on without you. Things haven't been easy, but with help from you we somehow have made it this far. We are very thankful that we have wonderful memories of the short time you were with us and will treasure them and hold them close to our hearts for eternity.

You accomplished so much in your life. You were destined to "make things happen," as it's been said before, you were truly a driver in life—in so many ways! For that, your footstone will always remind us.

As the giving person you were, you have continued on with your gifts and are living on in some precious lives whom without you wouldn't have gotten a second chance.

We are longing for the day we get to see you again, but until then, our dreams will be filled with your smiling face and warm touch. We love you and miss you very much.

Love,
Kris, Mom,
Ladora & Desirae

Grand Forks man faces criminal sex charge in TRF

Enoch Cooper, 33, Grand Forks, was charged with criminal sexual conduct in the first degree Tuesday, February 16. A public defender was appointed to Cooper, and bond was set at $40,000.

The charge against Cooper stems from an alleged sexual attack on a female, between the ages of 16 and 17, in Thief River Falls on December 21, 1998. Following the investigation into that incident, a warrant was issued for his arrest. Cooper was located by authorities in Grand Forks and placed under arrest on December 24, 1998. Cooper contested extradition to Minnesota, but extradition was approved and Cooper was brought to Thief River Falls where he appeared in court on February 16.

The next hearing for Cooper is scheduled for 9 a.m. on February 22.

The Widening Grin

Initially the paranoia was all my own and I was happy with it that way. Then it grew into more of a business and community-wide concern. My personal woes were rudely set aside and squashed by these revelations. The growth process didn't stop there, however, as the State of Minnesota started taking aggressive hits and eventually, the United States itself.

I figured it could go no further and settled back into the comfortable happiness that comes from seeing the outer limits of the misery around oneself. But wouldn't you know it, just when I thought I had this thing all sorted out, the good from the bad and exactly how much pain was to be dished out and upon which parties and such, there goes Ontario again, throwing a monkey wrench into the big picture and skewing my entire perspective on everything.

By canceling the spring bear hunt in near random fashion, Ontario's ministry has completely unsettled my take on who is actually out to get whom.

The province's dislike for me was an easy one. A disheveled, rank-smelling, mouthy American guide who could catch fish in far greater numbers and size than any of their Canadian produced anglers. It must have been embarrassing for them, kind of like the way my recent successes with curling rocks must now stick in their nationalistic craw.

The on-the-water jealousy manifested itself in far too frequent and impolite checks by Kenora-based game wardens and the annoying institution of an Ontario specific work permit. I must have been good, my young ego thought, to have been addressed in such heavy-handed ways.

My little world was quickly left behind, however, as the 18 fish per boat limit, user fees and an unwieldy Customs and Immigration procedure put the entire lake community on the defensive. Oang, I remember thinking, I'm no longer public enemy number one. It must be all Lake of the Woods county residents they're after.

Then came the impositions on a state level. Staying in a Minnesota bed was bad, at least from an Ontario perspective. Aha, I figured, they're out to get Arne Carlson!

And then came the closed-mouth responses to petitions from Washington. The violations of international agreements, our elected officials have argued, are occurring. Once again Ontario turns a deaf ear.

As humble and off-base as my original thoughts about the whole argument might have been, it was at least nice to know that we'd arrived at the end. It was the entirety of the American public that Ontario meant to attack all along and I could go back to enjoying the peaceful paranoia of the north woods. They were out to get all of us and my misery certainly enjoyed having company.

And then comes this bloody bear business. No spring bear hunt in Ontario? The logic behind the move is ill-conceived to say the least (orphaned cubs!?), but that's not the concern here. The timing behind the move is even worse than the logic, with deposit money and seasonal planning already firmed up.

Which brings us to the real focal point of my disquiet: Isn't it the Canadian groom that's getting the bureaucratic boot slammed into it in this case? Aren't they all in this anti-American conspiracy together up there or have I, once again, poorly misread the true motives of the Ontario Provincial Parliament? And it's not just one or two Canadians who are getting kicked here, this thing goes deep.

For sure there will be some outraged Ontario outfitters and all the ancillary people who will benefit from the traditional spring bear hunt. And there will also be a bunch of unhappy provincial and federal taxpayers who will have to fund the compensation to those outfitters as the country struggles with the guilt of having haphazardly shut down a significant local industry for fairly questionable reasons.

And then will come the mournful cries from the outdoor industry nationwide—aren't Canada's natural resources the reason that the weak northern dollar raises its head above the 70-cent mark each August? And every gun-toting, rod-wielding, money-spending American with an NRA card is sure to join the Ted Nugent Canadian boycott and then the taxpayers will scream even louder as they're forced to dig deeper into their pockets to compensate even more of the unemployed and.....well, you get the gist.

I'm simply trying to get a grip on this thing. It's not just me who Ontario is out to get, and I can deal with that snubbing. And I understand that they have bigger fish to fry than simply Baudette or even the State of Minnesota. The entire U.S. was a nice, neat package of a whipping boy; it made everything so symmetrical.

But apparently the Ontario need to annoy, torment and castigate goes beyond even that geographical boundary, as they now indiscriminately swing a heavy foot to the collective groin of their own flesh and blood.

But my selfish question remains: Does it end there, or will I have to share my paranoia with even more of North America in the future and again reassess my world view?

Rural McIntosh woman killed late Wednesday

Alice Knight, 72, rural McIntosh was killed Wednesday evening during an incident at her rural McIntosh residence. Steven Knight, 49, is hospitalized with a gunshot wound, and William Hughes Knight, 52, is in custody at Northwest Regional Corrections Center in Crookston.

William Knight was charged Thursday with two counts of murder in the second degree, one count of attempted murder in the second degree, one count of assault in the first degree, and one count of assault in the second degree. Bond was set at $500,000. His next court appearance has been scheduled for 9 a.m. on Monday, February 22.

Polk County authorities said they received a report of a disturbance at about 11:30 p.m. Tuesday, February 16. When they arrived they found Alice Knight dead, and Steven Knight injured from gunshots. Steven was hospitalized. William was taken into custody. William and Steven are sons of Alice and it is believed that both had been living on the family farm.

Polk County Sheriff Doug Qualley said the incident remains under investigation. Officers from Polk County, the Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension, Fosston Police department and the State Patrol were investigating.

Communities may qualify for free paint for projects

Approximately six awards of free paint will be made for community fix-up and restoration projects in northwest Minnesota, according to Ruth Edevold, executive director of the Northwest Minnesota Foundation (NMF).

Selection will be based on the visual impact of the proposed projects, potential advantages to the public, volunteer participation and support, intended use of the restored building and benefit to the needy.

Projects that might qualify for an award include, but are not limited, to, those involving historic structures, senior citizen and community centers, facilities for the handicapped, publicly owned buildings and murals or other visual impact designs. Projects that would not qualify include those dealing with denominational churches, city maintenance or private properties.

The project is a joint effort of NMF, Valspar Corporation and the Minnesota Beautiful "Picture-It-Painted" program.

Applications are due by March 1 and awards will be announced on March 22. Applications can be obtained by contacting NMF at 218-759-2057 or 1-800-659-7859.

Ratzlaffs to be honored at Agassiz banquet

Mike and Tara Ratzlaff, Newfolden will be honored for their commitment to leadership and their community at the Agassiz Leaders Awards Banquet on Saturday, February 27, 1999 at the University of Minnesota Crookston. They, along with leaders from fifteen other counties in northwestern Minnesota, will participate in the program and receive recognition for their involvement.

Mike works for the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service as the District Conservationist. He works with farmers, agencies, and local units of government to promote conservation of soil, water and other natural resources. As the Red Lake County Highway Engineer, Tara oversees the functioning of a sixteen employee department and works with county officials, other agencies, contractors and the general public. They are members of Newfolden Evangelical Free Church and serve on numerous community and statewide organizations.

Mike and Tara have been Pennington County's representatives in the Red River Valley Emerging Leadership Program where they have taken part in educational sessions since last fall. Those sessions used on personal leadership styles, media relations, community leadership, the future of agriculture in our region, legislative issues and goal-setting.

The Red River Valley Emerging Leadership Program was developed in 1985 by a small group of people who felt there was a need to help individuals develop their leadership potential. The program was funded on the idea that effective leadership can be learned and that leaders grow into positions of leadership, motivated by a sense of responsibility for themselves and their communities.

Ultimately the benefits of the leadership training go to the people and the communities of the Red River Valley as participants learn to access information about current issues and public policies, improve their leadership skills and develop relationships with other leaders who will support and challenge them in the years ahead. One recent participant of the program summed up the value in this way:

"The Emerging Leadership Program is a great vehicle to building social networks (and lasting friendships) in our region as well as developing leadership potential at a time when rural areas desperately need it."

The educational program is sponsored by the University of Minnesota Extension Service. Major financial contributions for the program come from the Red River Valley Development Association, West Central Initiative Fund, Pioneer Hybrid International Inc., Farm Credit Services, Farmer's Union, RRV Sugar Beet Growers Association, Operation Round-up, Cenex/Land O Lakes, Farm Bureau, Harvest States and numerous foundations and agri-businesses in the participating counties.

Mike and Tara Ratzlaff of Newfolden will be honored for their commitment to leadership and their community at the Agassiz Leaders Awards Banquet on Saturday, February 28, at the University of Minnesota at Crookston.

NWRDC disaster relief loan fund targets business

Because northwestern Minnesota businesses have experienced the impact of the farm crisis and weather-related disasters over the past few years, Northwest Regional Development Commission (NWRDC) is focusing the disaster relief loan fund on the economic distress and injury felt by main street businesses, according to Linda Nelson, loan fund manager at the NWRDC.

The loan funds may be used to help commercial businesses with their cash flow needs and with debt management. For example, by working with the local bank, a portion of existing debt may be refinanced at a lower interest rate (currently 4.0 percent). The loans have flexible terms and the regular loan fee may be waived.

Businesses in Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau counties can apply for loans ranging from $5,000 to $150,000. The interest rate will be four points below the prime lending rate to a minimum of four percent. Agricultural production projects are not eligible for this financing.

To be eligible, the business must show that it is viable and that it suffered a loss in sales or financial damage. Applicants must also show that no other financing is available or feasible for the business at affordable terms. A bank or other private financing source must match a loan from the Disaster Relief Loan Fund on a one-to-one basis.

TRF turns back MCC challenge

■ Prowlers respond to Nordics' rally, win 55-40

Double figure point production off the bench from Ben Myers and Josh Gallagher helped lead Thief River Falls past Marshall County Central 55-40 Tuesday in boys high school basketball.

With Myers and Gallagher netting 10 points each, the Prowlers' bench out-scored the Nordics' reserves 22-6.

Thief River Falls' first three-game win streak of the 1998-99 season and fifth win in six games boosted the Prowlers to 8-11. A .500 finish for a team that began the year 3-10 could be reached by doubling the win streak in the final three starts against Warren-Alvarado-Oslo, Roseau and Detroit Lakes – the last two at home Tuesday and Friday.

"The kids really believe in themselves," said Thief River Falls coach Bob Johnson. "They play to win every time they step on the court."

Thief River Falls led Marshall County Central, a team that has also made major strides through the course of the season according to Nordics coach Ron Ueland, from start to finish. Both sides had a tough time offensively in the first half when the 25 percent shooting Prowlers (8/32) managed to lead the 24 percent shooting Nordics (6/25) 11-3 at the first quarter stop and 22-17 at intermission.

Marshall County Central did not get on the board until Kyle Muetzel came off the bench to complete a 3-point play 4:17 into the game. However, the Nordics, after falling behind 17-5, were back within 21-17 when Justin Underdahl hit a 3-point shot with 24.3 seconds to go in the first half.

The Nordics' comeback continued when the visitors pulled within 24-23 following a short jumper by Nick Wilcox with 5:34 remaining in the third quarter.

But the Prowlers met the challenge by scoring the next 11 points. It was 35-23 when Brian Loe turned a steal into a fast break lay-up with 3:08 still left in the quarter.

"That was a critical point in the game," said Ueland. "We just let the opportunity slip away."

Thief River Falls led 37-27 as the third quarter came to a close.

"Our defense kept us in it and allowed us to turn some transition baskets," explained Johnson. "I really like the way we're playing defense right now. The kids are taking a lot of pride in their defense."

Matt Myers scored 15 points to lead the Prowlers' offense, but Ueland was more than satisfied with the Nordics' efforts against the 6-8 University of North Dakota football recruit. "We did as good as we can defensively on their big people," he said. "But the bottom line was that we just could not get the ball to drop. Offensively we settled for some shots we shouldn't have taken. If we would have played a little more cautious we could have kept it closer."

David Wilcox of the Nordics shared game-high scoring honors with Matt Myers by netting 15 points. Nick Wilcox had 12.

Thief River Falls shooters warmed up slightly to 35 percent for the night (23/65). Marshall County Central remained less than lukewarm from the field with a 26 percent showing for the game (13/50). The Prowlers were 7-for-10 at the free throw line where the Nordics went 12-for-15. The Prowlers won the rebound battle 37-25. The Nordics had more turnovers, 18-13.

TRF - Matt Myers 15, Kelly Cota 6, Collin Schafer 6, Brian Loe 2, Gerin Bjerknes 2, Ben Myers 10, Josh Gallagher 10.

Marshall County Central junior David Wilcox (5) looked for room inside, but had to contend with Thief River Falls defenders Collin Schafer (left) and Brian Loe if he wanted to take the ball to the basket during Tuesday's high school basketball game in the Lincoln gym. The Nordics' Tyler Ryba was also involved in the play. The Prowlers won 55-40.

Sacred Heart downs Grygla-Gatzke 61-46

East Grand Forks Sacred Heart out-scored Grygla-Gatzke 34-14 in the second half Tuesday and won the boys high school basketball match-up 61-46.

Grygla-Gatzke, a 61-52 winner when the two met in the 1998-99 season opener back on Dec. 3, led 20-15 at the end of the first quarter and carried a 32-27 edge into halftime. Sacred Heart went ahead 43-39 in the third quarter and pulled away down the stretch.

"We played a pretty good first quarter and part of the second quarter," said Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "But they started to play tougher defense and took things away from us. And we didn't respond. They played really solid defense."

Four Sacred Heart scorers hit double figures, led by Ben Horken with 17 points. Nate Bonderud 13, Bill Brien 12 off the bench, and Tom Ebertowski 10. Gavin Nordby scored 13 points and Barry Olson had 11 for Grygla-Gatzke.

The winners were 23-for-56 from the field (41 percent) and 12-for-17 at the free throw line. Host Grygla-Gatzke made just 17 of 51 shots from the field (33 percent) and was 10-for-15 at the line. Grygla-Gatzke had a 35-30 rebound edge, but also finished with more turnovers, 11-7.

Grygla-Gatzke is 5-15.

RLCC comeback falls short vs. Greyhounds

Fosston withstood a game-ending long-range shooting assault by Mark Lorenson of Red Lake County Central and held on to a 60-59 win over the visiting Mustangs in Tuesday boys high school basketball.

Ahead 60-50, the Greyhounds watched Lorenson hit three straight 3-point shots – the last one just before the buzzer – to close out a 31-point performance.

The Mustangs are 10-10, with their last three losses by a combined margin of just seven points.

Fosston led 14-12 at the end of the first quarter and held on to a 33-31 halftime edge before opening up a 51-41 third quarter gap.

Nick Waldal joined Lorenson in the big-number offensive category with 21 points, giving those two 52 of the Mustangs' 59 points. Fosston center Travis Quam answered with a 25-point game.

"We started out well, but then we got away from running our offense," explained Red Lake County Central coach Chris McLean. "And they did a good job getting the ball into Quam."

Red Lake County Central shot 39 percent from the field (23/59) and made 7 of 11 free throws. Fosston shot 38 percent from the floor (22/58) and was 12-for-20 at the line. The Greyhounds finished with a 27-22 rebound edge. The Mustangs topped the turnover charts 12-11.

B/G-MR girls beat Warroad by 54-42

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River didn't play at the level that head coach Tom Neibauer was looking for, but the Gators still came up with a 54-42 girls high school basketball win at Warroad Tuesday.

"We didn't play well at all," said Neibauer. "It was pretty disappointing."

However, the Gators still built quarter leads of 14-6, 21-16 and 35-24. Giving up 18 fourth quarter points didn't set very well with Neibauer, who was also disappointed in the number of traveling calls whistled by the officials against his post players. "One of the joys of playing on the road," he noted.

Kelsey Foldesi scored 14 points and Melissa Smith had 12 to lead the Badger/Greenbush-Middle River offense. Randi Gryskiewicz led Warroad with 12 points.

The Gators shot 48 percent from the field (19/40) and went 16-for-26 at the free throw line, where Warroad was 4-for-5.

TRF swim team will compete in Section 4A meet at Hibbing

Members of the Thief River Falls boys high school swim team, after finishing the 1998-99 regular season schedule at the Grand Forks Invitational Saturday (Feb. 13), are preparing for the Section 4A meet Feb. 25 and 27 in Hibbing.

Swimming prelims will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. Diving prelims will not be held until Saturday at 11 a.m. Top 16 prelim finishers in each event advance to the Saturday's 3 p.m. swimming and diving finals. Top four finishers in the finals qualify for the Class A state meet March 4-6 at the University of Minnesota Aquatics Center in Minneapolis.

Thief River Falls' best chances for advancement, according to head coach John Vukmanich, include juniors Zach Olson and Roy Hoven in the 200 and 500 freestyle; junior Sam Kezar in the 50 freestyle; and a 200 freestyle relay team featuring eighth grader Nathan Browning, senior Colin Browning, Olson and Kezar.

Vukmanich is looking forward to seeing how the Prowlers perform in post-season competition. "Almost everybody dropped times at Grand Forks," he pointed out. "That was great to see because we had been stuck in place for a while. That showed they've had tired bodies for three-four weeks."

With a taper that features a lighter workout load in practice now in place, Vukmanich is looking for rested swimmers to make noticeable improvements at Hibbing.

Minot won team honors at Grand Forks with 418 points, followed by West Fargo with 365.5, Mandan 329, Moorhead 237, Fargo North 174.5, Grand Forks 166, Fargo South 157, Bismarck Century 127, Jamestown 118, Bismarck 94, Thief River Falls 87, and Crookston 52.

TRF 3-1 hockey winner over Bears...

Prowlers move into 8A semifinal round

Goalie Mike Dowers and center Wade Chiodo came up with top-of-the-line performances Thursday to lead Thief River Falls past Lake of the Woods 3-1 in the Section 8A high school hockey tournament quarterfinals at the Hack Olson Memorial Civic Center.

Dowers produced an endless supply of big stops in a 34-save effort against a Lake of the Woods team that takes a back seat to nobody when you line up their top three or four hockey players.

And he got the offensive support needed for the win from Chiodo, a swift senior who had a hand in all the Thief River Falls scoring – two goals and an assist.

The match-up of the No. 4 (Prowlers) and No. 5 (Bears) seeds looked to be the best draw in the quarterfinal field, and it lived up to its pregame billing. Thief River Falls led 1-0 after one period and 2-0 after two. Lake of the Woods scored midway through the third period to set the stage for a nail-biting finish that didn't lose its edge until Chiodo hit an open net with 25 seconds left.

Chiodo set up the first goal of the night as he drove down the middle of the ice and got off a point-blank shot. Lake of the Woods goalie Mark Medwechuk made the save, but Jeff Rislov was there for the rebound at 12:02 of the opening period.

A power play goal put the Prowlers up 2-0 just 36 seconds into the second period as Chiodo let loose with a hard slap shot as he hit the top of the face-off circle to the left of Medwechuk. The puck caromed off the bottom of the cross bar and fell across the goal line.

The Bears chopped the lead in half with a power play goal of their own at 7:16 of the third period when a major scramble in front of Dowers finally ended with Nels Hanson slipping the puck into the net.

Game-clinching goal came after Lake of the Woods pulled the goalie for an extra attacker with 45 seconds remaining. Chiodo won the battle for a bouncing puck just inside the Thief River Falls blue line and broke into the open to put the game away.

The win improved the Prowlers' record to 7-12-1 and sends them into the semifinals tonight (Saturday) against top-seeded Warroad.

■ Semifinals Monday, Feb. 22 - East Grand Forks or Park Rapids Area vs. Crookston or Red Lake Falls, 7:30 p.m.

■ Championship Thursday, Feb. 25 - 7:30 p.m.

"It was a good game, but we made too many mistakes," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland. "We have yet to play our best game. We'll have to play better Saturday."

The Dowers-Chiodo combination did earn post-game praise from Bergland. "Mike played well, and Wade is Wade," he said. "They came up big for us."

Ahead 2-0, Thief River Falls survived a five-minute major and game disqualification penalty assessed Brady Anderson at 3:40 of the second period that will keep the junior forward/defenseman out of the semifinals. Hanson also got a five-minute major and game disqualification, but his penalty for a stick to the face came in the final seconds.

The visitors from Baudette were forced to make a goalie change near the midway mark of the second period when Chiodo, who created all kinds of problems for Lake of the Woods during their five-minute power play opportunity, broke into the Bears' zone with the puck and two defenders on his heels. He was knocked down on the play and bowled into Medwechuk, who was helped off the ice and did not return the rest of the night. But his replacement, Garrett Gamsby, did not give up a goal in relief.

Lake of the Woods, beaten by Thief River Falls 4-3 in overtime Jan. 30, finished the year 9-12-1.

"They're a good team," said Bergland of the Bears. "They're scary."

Thief River Falls girls split latest JV games

Thief River Falls girls lost to Kittson Central 66-39 but pulled out a final-shot 59-57 win over Fertile-Beltrami in recent junior varsity high school basketball action.

Kittson Central led at the quarter stops 14-11, 31-19 and 51-25 in a Feb. 11 game at Hallock. Meghan Nelson scored 10 points for the Prowlers.

A hurried, well-executed length-of-the-court fast break in the final five seconds set up a Katy Olson shot from underneath that beat the buzzer in the Thief River Falls win at Fertile-Beltrami. Katy Hook scored 11 points, while Kylie Rogalla and Nelson both had 9 for the winners, who trailed 17-8 and 32-25 at the first two quarter stops, but carried a 45-38 lead into the final eight minutes.

Gators lose big lead, fall to Wildcats 46-45

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River let one get away Tuesday. Up 14 at home with five minutes to play, the Gators watched a mixture of Tri-County 3-point baskets and free throws add up to a remarkable come from behind 46-45 Wildcats win.

Only Tri-County lead of the night came on the game-winning basket by Josh Gunderson, who hit a long 3-point shot with six seconds to play to erase a 45-43 deficit.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River led at the quarter stops 10-7, 25-11 and 34-18 before the bottom fell out.

"We played excellent basketball the first three quarters – probably the best we've played all year," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "All we had to do was play average basketball in the second half. And we couldn't do it."

The Gators, who shot 50 percent in the first half and just 25 percent in the second half, ran into fourth quarter foul trouble. With two starters carrying four fouls each, Sparby was forced to play zone down the stretch. The Wildcats responded by hitting five 3-point shots in the fourth quarter.

Still ahead three with 1 1/2 minutes left, Badger/Greenbush-Middle River went into a clock-eating delay game. That forced Tri-County into a must-foul situation. But the Gators contributed to the Wildcats' rally by missing the free throws with the game on the line.

"We missed some free throw opportunities, and they (Wildcats) hit some," offered Sparby. "We had the chance to win it at the line and didn't make the free throws."

Seven Tri-County final quarter free throws, coupled with the Wildcats' outside shooting, set up the game-winner. The Gators had the top two Tri-County shooters – Kyle Kuznia and Aaron Olson – covered, leaving it up to Gunderson to launch the NBA-length attempt.

"We started to play not to lose," noted Sparby. "That led to us not attacking the basket like we were earlier in the game."

Kuznia led all scorers with 18 points. Derek Fugleberg scored 12 points and Richard Wockenfuss had a 10-point, 12-rebound game for the Gators.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River wound up 16-for-44 from the field for the game (36 percent) and 10-for-13 at the free throw line. Tri-County went 15-for-50 from the floor (30 percent) and 12-for-17 at the line. The 10-10 Gators finished with a sizeable 44-24 rebound advantage, but also had a lot more turnovers than the Wildcats, 21-5.

Huskies end losing streak with a 45-44 victory over Eagles

Goodridge snapped a nine-game losing streak with a 45-44 Friday (Feb. 12) home court boys high school basketball win over East Grand Forks Sacred Heart.

The Huskies' Travis Scheef made the first of a bonus free throw situation with three seconds left to break a 44-44 deadlock. The Eagles controlled the rebound when Scheef's second attempt came off the rim, but was not able to put themselves in position for a buzzer-beating shot.

Chad Johnson turned in a 19-point, 10-rebound game for the winners and was joined in the double-double category by Scheef, who finished with 13 points and 10 rebounds. Aaron Gregoire led Sacred Heart with 16 points.

Goodridge had quarter leads of 20-15, 31-28 and 41-38.

The Huskies were 18-for-39 from the field (46 percent) and 8-for-12 at the free throw line. The Eagles went 19-for-40 from the floor (48 percent) and 3-for-5 at the line. Goodridge wound up with a sizeable 40-17 rebound advantage. Seth Vettleson gave the Huskies three double figure rebounders by matching the 10 boards pulled in by Scheef and Johnson.

TRF turns back MCC challenge

■ Prowlers respond to Nordics' rally, win 55-40

Double figure point production off the bench from Ben Myers and Josh Gallagher helped lead Thief River Falls past Marshall County Central 55-40 Tuesday in boys high school basketball.

With Myers and Gallagher netting 10 points each, the Prowlers' bench out-scored the Nordics' reserves 22-6.

Thief River Falls' first three-game win streak of the 1998-99 season and fifth win in six games boosted the Prowlers to 8-11. A .500 finish for a team that began the year 3-10 could be reached by doubling the win streak in the final three starts against Warren-Alvarado-Oslo, Roseau and Detroit Lakes — the last two at home Tuesday and Friday.

"The kids really believe in themselves," said Thief River Falls coach Bob Johnson. "They play to win every time they step on the court."

Thief River Falls led Marshall County Central, a team that has also made major strides through the course of the season according to Nordics coach Ron Ueland, from start to finish. Both sides had a tough time offensively in the first half when the 25 percent shooting Prowlers (8/32) managed to lead the 24 percent shooting Nordics (6/25) 11-3 at the first quarter stop and 22-17 at intermission.

Marshall County Central did not get on the board until Kyle Muetzel came off the bench to complete a 3-point play 4:17 into the game. However, the Nordics, after falling behind 17-5, were back within 21-17 when Justin Underdahl hit a 3-point shot with 24.3 seconds to go in the first half.

The Nordics' comeback continued when the visitors pulled within 24-23 following a short jumper by Nick Wilcox with 5:33 remaining in the third quarter.

But the Prowlers met the challenge by scoring the next 11 points. It was 35-23 when Brian Loe turned a steal into a fast break lay-up with 3:08 still left in the quarter.

"That was a critical point in the game," said Ueland. "We just let the opportunity slip away."

Thief River Falls led 37-27 as the third quarter came to a close.

"Our defense kept us in it and allowed us to turn some transition baskets," explained Johnson. "I really like the way we're playing defense right now. The kids are taking a lot of pride in their defense."

Matt Myers scored 15 points to lead the Prowlers' offense, but Ueland was more than satisfied with the Nordics' efforts against the 6-8" University of North Dakota football recruit. "We did as good as we can defensively on their big people," he said. "But the bottom line was that we just could not get the ball to drop. Offensively we settled for some shots we shouldn't have taken. If we would have played a little more cautious we could have kept it closer."

David Wilcox of the Nordics shared game-high scoring honors with Matt Myers by netting 15 points. Nick Wilcox had 12.

Thief River Falls shooters warmed up slightly to 35 percent for the night (23/65). Marshall County Central remained less than lukewarm from the field with a 26 percent showing for the game (13/50). The Prowlers were 7-for-10 at the free throw line where the Nordics went 12-for-15. The Prowlers won the rebound battle 37-25. The Nordics had more turnovers, 18-13.

The Nordics' Tyler Ryba was also involved in the play. The Prowlers won 55-40.

Sacred Heart downs Grygla-Gatzke 61-46

East Grand Forks Sacred Heart out-scored Grygla-Gatzke 34-14 in the second half Tuesday and won the boys high school basketball match-up 61-46.

Grygla-Gatzke, a 61-52 winner when the two met in the 1998-99 season opener back on Dec. 3, led 20-15 at the end of the first quarter and earned a 32-27 edge into halftime. Sacred Heart went ahead 43-39 in the third quarter and pulled away down the stretch.

"We played a pretty good first quarter and part of the second quarter," said Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "But they started to play tougher defense and took things away from us. And we didn't respond. They played really solid defense."

Four Sacred Heart scorers hit double figures, led by Ben Horken with 17 points. Nate Bonderud 13, Bill Brien 12 off the bench, and Tom Ebertowski 10. Gavin Nordby scored 13 points and Barry Olson had 11 for Grygla-Gatzke.

The winners were 23-for-56 from the field (41 percent) and 12-for-17 at the free throw line. Host Grygla-Gatzke made just 17 of 51 shots from the field (33 percent) and was 10-for-15 at the line. Grygla-Gatzke had a 35-30 rebound edge, but also finished with more turnovers, 11-7.

Grygla-Gatzke is 5-15

RLCC comeback falls short vs. Greyhounds

Fosston withstood a game-ending long-range shooting assault by Mark Lorenson of Red Lake County Central and held on to a 60-59 win over the visiting Mustangs in Tuesday boys high school basketball.

Ahead 60-50, the Greyhounds watched Lorenson hit three straight 3-point shots – the last one just before the buzzer – to close out a 31-point performance.

The Mustangs are 10-10, with their last three losses by a combined margin of just seven points.

Fosston led 14-12 at the end of the first quarter and held on to a 33-31 halftime edge before opening up a 51-41 third quarter gap.

Nick Waldal joined Lorenson in the big-number offensive category with 21 points, giving those two 52 of the Mustangs' 59 points. Fosston center Travis Quam answered with a 25-point game.

"We started out well, but then we got away from running our offense," explained Red Lake County Central coach Chris McLean. "And they did a good job getting the ball into Quam."

Red Lake County Central shot 39 percent from the field (23/59) and made 7 of 11 free throws. Fosston shot 38 percent from the floor (22/58) and was 12-for-20 at the line. The Greyhounds finished with a 27-22 rebound edge. The Mustangs topped the turnover charts 12-11.

B/G-MR girls beat Warroad by 54-42

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River didn't play at the level that head coach Tom Neibauer was looking for, but the Gators still came up with a 54-42 girls high school basketball win at Warroad Tuesday.

"We didn't play well at all," said Neibauer. "It was pretty disappointing."

However, the Gators still built quarter leads of 14-6, 21-16 and 35-24. Giving up 18 fourth quarter points didn't set very well with Neibauer, who was also disappointed in the number of traveling calls whistled by the officials against his post players. "One of the joys of playing on the road," he noted.

Kelsey Foldesi scored 14 points and Melissa Smith had 12 to lead the Badger/Greenbush-Middle River offense. Randi Gryskiewicz led Warroad with 12 points.

The Gators shot 48 percent from the field (19/40) and went 16-for-26 at the free throw line, where Warroad was 4-for-5.

TRF swim team will compete in Section 4A meet at Hibbing

Members of the Thief River Falls boys high school swim team, after finishing the 1998-99 regular season schedule at the Grand Forks Invitational Saturday (Feb. 13), are preparing for the Section 4A meet Feb. 25 and 27 in Hibbing.

Swimming prelims will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. Diving prelims will not be held until Saturday at 11 a.m. Top 16 prelim finishers in each event advance to the Saturday's 3 p.m. swimming and diving finals. Top four finishers in the finals qualify for the Class A state meet March 4-6 at the University of Minnesota Aquatics Center in Minneapolis.

Thief River Falls' best chances for advancement, according to head coach John Vukmanich, include juniors Zach Olson and Roy Hoven in the 200 and 500 freestyle, junior Sam Kezar in the 50 freestyle, and a 200 freestyle relay team featuring eighth grader Nathan Browning, senior Colin Browning, Olson and Kezar.

Vukmanich is looking forward to seeing how the Prowlers perform in post-season competition. "Almost everybody dropped times at Grand Forks," he pointed out. "That was great to see because we had been stuck in place for a while. That showed they've had tired bodies for three-four weeks."

With a taper that features a lighter workout load in practice now in place, Vukmanich is looking for rested swimmers to make noticeable improvements at Hibbing.

Minot won team honors at Grand Forks with 418 points, followed by West Fargo with 365.5, Mandan 329, Moorhead 237, Fargo North 174.5, Grand Forks 166, Fargo South 157, Bismarck Century 127, Jamestown 118, Bismarck 94, Thief River Falls 87, and Crookston 52.

TRF 3-1 hockey winner over Bears...

Prowlers move into 8A semifinal round

Goalie Mike Dowers and center Wade Chiodo came up with top-of-the-line performances Thursday to lead Thief River Falls past Lake of the Woods 3-1 in the Section 8A high school hockey tournament quarterfinals at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

Dowers produced an endless supply of big stops in a 34-save effort against a Lake of the Woods team that takes a back seat to nobody when you line up their top three or four hockey players.

And he got the offensive support needed for the win from Chiodo, a swift senior who had a hand in all the Thief River Falls scoring – two goals and an assist.

The match-up of the No. 4 (Prowlers) and No. 5 (Bears) seeds looked to be the best draw in the quarterfinal field, and it lived up to its pregame billing. Thief River Falls led 1-0 after one period and 2-0 after two. Lake of the Woods scored midway through the third period to set the stage for a nail-biting finish that didn't lose its edge until Chiodo hit an open net with 25 seconds left.

Chiodo set up the first goal of the night as he drove down the middle of the ice and got off a point-blank shot. Lake of the Woods goalie Mark Medwechuk made the save, but Jeff Rislov was there for the rebound at 12:02 of the opening period.

A power play goal put the Prowlers up 2-0 just 36 seconds into the second period as Chiodo let loose with a hard slap shot as he hit the top of the face-off circle to the left of Medwechuk. The puck caromed off the bottom of the cross bar and fell across the goal line.

The Bears chopped the lead in half with a power play goal of their own at 7:16 of the third period when a major scramble in front of Dowers finally ended with Nels Hanson slipping the puck into the net.

Game-clinching goal came after Lake of the Woods pulled the goalie for an extra attacker with 45 seconds remaining. Chiodo won the battle for a bouncing puck just inside the Thief River Falls blue line and broke into the open to put the game away.

The win improved the Prowlers' record to 7-12-1 and sends them into the semifinals tonight (Saturday) against top-seeded Warroad.

Section 8A Hockey

■ First round Tuesday Feb 16 - Kittson Central 6, Bagley-Fosston 2; Park Rapids Area 15, Indus 1

■ Quarterfinals Thursday Feb 18 - Warroad 7, Kittson Central 1; Thief River Falls 3, Lake of the Woods 1

■ Quarterfinals Friday Feb 19 - East Grand Forks vs. Park Rapids Area 6 p.m.; Crookston vs. Red Lake Falls 8:15 p.m.

■ Semifinals Saturday Feb 20 - Warroad vs. Thief River Falls 7:30 p.m.

■ Semifinals Monday Feb 22 - East Grand Forks or Park Rapids Area vs. Crookston or Red Lake Falls 7:30 p.m.

■ Championship Thursday Feb 25 - 7:30 p.m.

"It was a good game, but we made too many mistakes," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland. "We have yet to play our best game. We'll have to play better Saturday."

The Dowers-Chiodo combination did earn post-game praise from Bergland. "Mike played well, and Wade is Wade," he said. "They came up big for us."

Ahead 2-0, Thief River Falls survived a five-minute major and game disqualification penalty assessed Brady Anderson at 3:40 of the second period that will keep the junior forward/defenseman out of the semifinals. Hanson also got a five-minute major and game disqualification, but his penalty for a stick to the face came in the final seconds.

The visitors from Baudette were forced to make a goalie change near the midway mark of the second period when Chiodo, who created all kinds of problems for Lake of the Woods during their five-minute power play opportunity, broke into the Bears' zone with the puck and two defenders on his heels. He was knocked down on the play and bowled into Medwechuk, who was helped off the ice and did not return the rest of the night. But his replacement, Garrett Gamsby, did not give up a goal in relief.

Lake of the Woods, beaten by Thief River Falls 4-3 in overtime Jan. 30, finished the year 9-12-1.

"They're a good team," said Bergland of the Bears. "They're scary."

Thief River Falls girls split latest JV games

Thief River Falls girls lost to Kittson Central 66-39 but pulled out a final-shot 59-57 win over Fertile-Beltrami in recent junior varsity high school basketball action.

Kittson Central led at the quarter stops 14-11, 31-19 and 51-25 in a Feb. 11 game at Hallock. Meghan Nelson scored 10 points for the Prowlers.

A hurried, well-executed length-of-the-court fast break in the final five seconds set up a Katy Olson shot from underneath that beat the buzzer in the Thief River Falls win at Fertile-Beltrami. Katy Hook scored 11 points, while Kylie Rugalla and Nelson both had 9 for the winners, who trailed 17-8 and 32-25 at the first two quarter stops, but earned a 45-38 lead into the final eight minutes.

Gators lose big lead, fall to Wildcats 46-45

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River let one get away Tuesday. Up 14 at home with five minutes to play, the Gators watched a mixture of Tri-County 3-point baskets and free throws add up to a remarkable come from behind 46-45 Wildcats win.

Only Tri-County lead of the night came on the game-winning basket by Josh Gunderson, who hit a long 3-point shot with six seconds to play to erase a 45-43 deficit.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River led at the quarter stops 10-7, 25-11 and 34-18 before the bottom fell out.

"We played excellent basketball the first three quarters – probably the best we've played all year," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "All we had to do was play average basketball in the second half. And we couldn't do it."

The Gators, who shot 50 percent in the first half and just 25 percent in the second half, ran into fourth quarter foul trouble. With two starters carrying four fouls each, Sparby was forced to play zone down the stretch. The Wildcats responded by hitting five 3-point shots in the fourth quarter.

Still ahead three with 1 1/2 minutes left, Badger/Greenbush-Middle River went into a clock-eating delay game. That forced Tri-County into a must-foul situation. But the Gators contributed to the Wildcats' rally by missing the free throws with the game on the line.

"We missed some free throw opportunities, and they (Wildcats) hit some," offered Sparby. "We had the chance to win it at the line and didn't make the free throws."

Seven Tri-County final quarter free throws, coupled with the Wildcats' outside shooting, set up the game-winner. The Gators had the top two Tri-County shooters – Kyle Kuznia and Aaron Olson – covered, leaving it up to Gunderson to launch the NBA-length attempt.

"We started to play not to lose," noted Sparby. "That led to us not attacking the basket like we were earlier in the game."

Kuznia led all scorers with 18 points. Derek Fugleberg scored 12 points and Richard Wockenfuss had a 10 point, 12-rebound game for the Gators.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River wound up 16-for-44 from the field for the game (36 percent) and 10-for-13 at the free throw line. Tri-County went 15-for-50 from the floor (30 percent) and 12-for-17 at the line. The 10-10 Gators finished with a sizeable 44-24 rebound advantage, but also had a lot more turnovers than the Wildcats, 21-5.

Huskies end losing streak with a 45-44 victory over Eagles

Goodridge snapped a nine-game losing streak with a 45-44 Friday (Feb. 12) home court boys high school basketball win over East Grand Forks Sacred Heart.

The Huskies' Travis Scheef made the first of a bonus free throw situation with three seconds left to break a 44-44 deadlock. The Eagles controlled the rebound when Scheef's second attempt came off the rim, but was not able to put themselves in position for a buzzer-beating shot.

Chad Johnson turned in a 19-point, 10-rebound game for the winners and was joined in the double-double category by Scheef, who finished with 13 points and 10 rebounds. Aaron Gregoire led Sacred Heart with 16 points.

Goodridge had quarter leads of 20-15, 31-28 and 41-38.

Red Lake County Central was 25-for-54 from the field (46 percent) and 11-for-21 at the free throw line. Sacred Heart went 13-for-38 from the floor (34 percent) and 17-for-22 at the line. The Eagles won the rebound battle 29-23, but also had more turnovers, 27-15.

Wolverines top Wildcats

Four Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke scorers hit double figures Thursday as the Wolverines closed out the 1998-99 regular season girls high school basketball schedule with a 65-56 win over Tri-County at Goodridge.

Dana Wiseth, who hit a couple of 3-point shots to jump start the Wolverines' offense in the first quarter, led the winners with 24 points. She was joined in the offensive parade by Kathryn Stanley with 18 points, DaNae Wiseth 12 and Angela Gast 10. Stanley and Gast also had double figure rebounds with 11 and 10, respectively.

The Wolverines led at the quarter stops 16-10, 25-24 and 48-38.

"We played all right," said Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach Mike Gast. "It was nice to see four players in double figures."

Afton Hanson of the Wildcats led all scorers with 26 points, but Gast still credited Kelsie Johnsrud for a good defensive effort against the Tri-County standout.

The Wolverines were 26-for-51 from the field (51 percent) but only 10-for-for-27 at the free throw line. The Wildcats went 23-for-58 from the floor (40 percent) and 7-for-19 at the line. The 10-12 Wolverines finished with a 36-24 rebound advantage.

Marsholl County Central started with a 15-8 first quarter lead and had the 17-point halftime cushion. But Stephen-Argyle cut it to 37-30 by the end of the third quarter, then capped the rally at the free throw line in the final moments.

"We played an excellent first half," said Marshall County Central coach Alice Dahl. "It just slowly, piece by piece fell apart on us in the second half."

Tera Davidson and Kristi Kilen scored 14 points each to lead the Nordics, who finished the regular season 8-14.

Marshall County Central was 18-for-47 from the field (38 percent) and 10-for-18 at the free throw line. Stephen-Argyle went 16-for-39 from the floor (41 percent) and 17-for-24 at the line. The Storm had a 28-21 rebound edge and topped the turnover charts 24-18.

School bus driver, and assistants go on strike

contact with one parent who expressed the viewpoint that bus drivers are very valuable employees because parents and the district entrust the care of their children into their hands. Young said there is no argument. The district considers bus drivers as very valuable — as it does all employees, regardless of the evaluation or negotiation process.

As far as the percentages and figures being bantered about, Young said the district will continue to look at the total package settlement. It's the way they have done it with other bargaining units and any deviation would have severe ramifications for the district in terms of future negotiations with other bargaining units.

Young was concerned that residents of the district would accept the bus drivers' claim that they were only being offered a four percent increase versus an eight percent increase that other employees in the district received. He's not sure he received a full explanation of the claim (portrayed in a bar chart on the back of a flier), but he said he feels such a comparison does not address the total package settlement cost, and is not a valid comparison.

He also explained that when looking at an hourly increase, there are "step" movements involved as well. It's confusing, he said, but he explained that the board has to take into account not only hourly rate increases, but step increases and the total package in terms of the whole district as well.

The school board remains ready to negotiate a settlement at any time.

Picketing

Picketing has been taking place at Challenger, Franklin, and Lincoln high schools and the School District Service Center.

Picketers are restricted to picketing on public access areas. They cannot picket on school district or private property, nor can they block entrance to nor egress from school district property.

Further Negotiations

As of Thursday, no further negotiations had been scheduled. Gary Rogers, a state mediator from the Bureau of Mediation Services, said that another meeting had not been scheduled. At the end of Tuesday night's discussions, the parties seemed proportionately far apart, he said, and until he gets some kind of indication that one or both parties were willing to compromise then there was no reason to schedule another meeting. He said he would be in touch with both sides on the weekend.

On the other hand, Rogers said that as far as strikes go this is about the friendliest strike he has ever seen. There has been no personalizing, nor anger expressed during meetings and both sides have been very professional and conducted themselves very well.

Rogers held his first meeting as mediator with the two sides on February 3.

Transportation Difficulties
Notice to Parents

In anticipation of a strike, the school district publicly notified residents of the intent to strike, and the intent to keep schools open during the strike. The notification to parents of students included instructions on how district officials wanted students dropped off at the schools, so that everyone was aware of the concerns for the safety and welfare of all students. Robicheau noted one addition — that an extended supervised time after 3:45 p.m. would be made available for students who could not be picked up by their parents at that time. Parents, however, need to call the principal's office and notify them that the students would remain at the school after 3:45 p.m.

The following instructions were provided to parents of all students in the district:

"1. At Challenger 4th and 5th grade students should be dropped off and picked up on the north side of the building. Kindergarten, 1st, 2nd, and 3rd grade students should be dropped off and picked up on the south side of the building. Drop-off times for Challenger will be from 7:45 a.m. to 8:30 a.m. If you need to drop your child or children off before 7:45 a.m., please contact the principal's office at Challenger to indicate your needs. Pick-up times at Challenger will be from 3 to 3:45 p.m.

"2. At Franklin, students can be dropped off and picked-up in front of the building between the hours of 7:45 and 8:30 a.m. and 3 to 3:45 p.m. If you need to drop your child or children off before 7:45 a.m., please contact the principal's office at Franklin to indicate your needs.

"3. At Lincoln, students can be dropped off or picked up on either the north or east side of the building between the hours of 7:45 and 8:30 a.m. and 3 and 3:45 p.m.

"4. Extra-curricular activities will still be held. However, it will be the responsibility of parents to transport their students to and from these activities including out-of-town games and activities. Please be as patient as possible understanding that the school district is doing everything in its power to make arrangements as quickly as we can so that each family will have as much notice of any circumstances to schedule family involvement in activities.

"5. School buses driven by management personnel will transport students who are required to have special transportation; i.e. handicapped students."

Day Care Providers

Discovery Place Child Care Center workers reported that they have 60 children who use the bus service throughout the day. On the first day, they reported that parents had been very cooperative. Only one child did not come to the day-care provider Wednesday because the child did not have transportation. Discovery Place reports that the biggest frustration parents face right now is turning off Nora and either crossing at First Street or attempting to turn onto First Street. With the additional traffic, it's worse than it has ever been.

At Kathy's Care Center and at Rose Wold's Day Care, there won't be much of a problem. Neither have too many children in school, and where they do, grandparents seem to be picking up the slack or the day care providers were willing to take the children earlier or later. Rose said she had visited with some of the other day care providers who are faced with a problem, and she said they mentioned that some parents were trying to organize car pools.

It will present a problem for Judy Inglis at Judy's Learn and Play. She has three children who need to be picked up at school. Because parents work, they would be forced to take off work to pick up their children, and that's not always possible. Judy said she's lucky because she has an assistant and will be able to pick up the children at school. She said she plans to do that until the strike is over. She noted that it must be stressful on parents. She also anticipated that Latch Key at the school will be hit particularly hard by the strike. When it comes to discussing the strike, Judy said they couldn't pay her enough to drive the bus and watch the children at the same time.

Traffic Issues

Police Chief Ken Froschheiser asked residents Thursday morning to be patient. Froschheiser said he had an opportunity to observe traffic at Nora and Pennington and near Challenger Thursday morning. As he was doing this, he said, he noticed some things that disturbed him and he asks motorists to remember a few basic things:

• Use turn signals;
• Turn on lights to improve visibility;
• Be patient. About 1,000 students attend Challenger and the way it looks, he said, nearly 1,000 cars are transporting the students. He said he knows that some people have begun car pooling, and he appreciates the effort. That will greatly help reduce traffic congestion.
• Plan routes. Individuals coming in from Highway 59 south, for example, can use County Road 8 rather than driving into town and adding to the traffic congestion.

Other than a few problems, Chief Froschheiser said everything is going really well. Other problems he observed included passing on the right on Pennington Avenue at Evergreen. That's very dangerous, he said. The shoulder of the road is not a passing lane, He asks that everyone be patient and it will all go just fine.

Chief Froschheiser said officers will be directing traffic at Nora and Pennington on week days, morning and afternoon, during the strike. He said he received a number of requests to install a temporary stop sign at Nora and Pennington, but after examining state guidelines last summer, the city council came to a conclusion that the intersection did not warrant a stop sign.

While he was directing traffic at the intersection of Pennington and Nora, Chief Froschheiser said people seemed very supportive.

One thing he noticed at Challenger that he really liked, he said, was teachers holding up handmade signs to let parents know where to meet children.

Chief Froschheiser concluded that patience is the name of the game.

Alicia Haviland has dedicated her days and nights to helping teens, pre-teens and young adults beat the monster she calls "ED"— her shortened form for eating disorders. "ED really isn't a disease about food but more the issue of self-esteem," she says. "We all have some kind of an eating misconception or relationship with food. It is when it becomes unhealthy that ED steps in."

While anorexia and bulimia are the diseases that come to mind when one thinks of eating disorders, Haviland says there are many other forms of the disease, including obesity. Any time a person uses food and/or dieting as a way of coping with personal problems or controlling his or her life, an eating disorder is present.

Troubled relationships can be a catalyst for eating disorders as can depression, anxiety, loneliness, anger or physical, emotional or sexual abuse. Researchers believe that in some cases the cause is biological. The chemicals in the brain controlling hunger, appetite and digestion become unbalanced.

"From the minute we are born people judge us and evaluate us by our weight," Haviland says."The first question asked when a baby is born is 'Is it a boy or a girl?' followed by 'How much did he (or she) weigh?'"

In school children are tagged with cruel nick-names based on their appearances. Boys and girls call each other names like "Fatso," "String Bean," and "Thunder Thighs." "Names hurt," Haviland says, "and leave painful wounds that last forever."

The Adolescent Issues/Eating Disorders clinic is a place where hurting young people can go for comfort and help.

The treatment at the clinic is individualized for each client. In most cases the client is introduced to a doctor if he or she does not already have one. Based on a physical and psychological diagnosis, a customized wellness program is created.

Haviland's job is to act as a resource contact, creating an individualized network of support and intervention for each client. Often, this includes referral to a primary care physician, nutritionist, psychologist and/or psychiatrist.

Clients also have access to a wealth of information in the program's library, enabling them to build their knowledge and a base of support for their disorders.

The program also offers individual and group counseling sessions, adolescent groups and multi-family groups as well as intervention/prevention educational outreach programs for people of all ages.

The goal of treatment is to assist the client in learning to live peacefully with food and use food as a healthy, life-sustaining tool.

The program, which started in January, is funded by a two-year grant from Northwest Medical Center, Northwest Service Cooperative, Blue Cross/Blue Shield and the Minnesota Initiative Fund. At this time, the networking and information services are free. Doctor's fees are covered by personal insurance.

A more detailed article about different types of eating disorders, causes, signs and treatments and the program at Northwest Medical Center will appear in the Community Focus section of The Times on March 3.

Information about the Adolescent Issues/Eating Disorder clinic can be obtained by calling (218) 681-4240, ext. 380 or (218) 683-4380. E-mail addresses include ahaviland@nwmc.org. or nwmc@nwmc.org. Information about the program also can be accessed on NWMC's website at http://www.nwmc.org.

When you attend the open house of the Adolescent Issues/Eating Disorders Clinic at Northwest Medical Center on Monday, you will find more than information. You will find a tireless crusader in Alicia Haviland, and she looks forward to visiting with you and telling you about her mission—to beat the monster she calls "ED."

Ericksons earn Farmer, Homemaker recognition

By Kathl Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Making the most of every day and every situation is the unspoken motto of Sheldon "Snooky" Erickson. "I just love my job," he says of his position as branch manager and loan officer at Border State Bank in Badger. He also loved being a Roseau county extension agent and before that, a farmer.

Snooky and his wife, Helen, were recently selected as Roseau county's 1999 Valley Farmer and Homemaker, and they will be honored at a special banquet this evening (Saturday, February 27) at the University of Minnesota Crookston.

Each year, an outstanding rural couple from each of the counties in northwestern Minnesota is selected to receive the award from the Red River Valley Development Association. The award was formerly a part of the Red River Valley Winter Shows before it disbunded two years ago.

This isn't the first time the Ericksons have traveled to Crookston to receive an award. Snooky was named the Red River Valley Winter Show's ninth King Agassiz during the 1960's. As a Land O'Lakes Young Farmer, Snooky represented five states at the National Milk Producers Federation. Other awards include the Clean Farmer award for the Fourth District in 1971 and the Sportsman Farmer award from the Soil & Water Conservation District in 1988.

"Snooky" has been Sheldon's nickname for as long as he can remember and is the name most folks know him by. He is one of ten children born on the farm his grandfather homesteaded after emigrating from Sweden at the age of 16.

After graduating from high school in Badger, Snooky attended the University of Minnesota where he earned a Bachelor of Science degree in agriculture. After college he returned to Badger and purchased his dad's farm in 1960.

Helen grew up in Roseau and worked as a beautician prior to her marriage to Snooky.

On the farm the couple developed a herd of 130 registered Holsteins. They milked 60 cows and

Farmer's market proposed in DL

Detroit Lakes - Efforts are under way to start a farmer's market in Detroit Lakes as early as June.

According to organizers, the operation would feature a variety of area-grown and homemade products. The market would not include products trucked in from other states. The committee is currently exploring several possible locations for the market which will be open two days a week.

Commodities typically sold at such markets include fresh vegetables, berries, eggs, honey, maple syrup, jams and jellies, wild rice, plants, cut flowers, dried flowers and handcrafted items. Becker County Record

Book increases HIV/AIDS awareness

Ada - Ada native Rebecca Lee and photographer Kay Tartakoff recently published the book, An Alphabet About Families Living with HIV/AIDS.

The book was published by Children's Legacy, a nonprofit agency that works with children who have life threatening diseases like cancer, AIDS and genetic disorders. Donations and funding has allowed the Children's Legacy to distribute the book to hospitals, clinics and AIDS outreach programs across the country.

Rebecca is a 1968 graduate of Ada High School and began writing about 10 years ago. It was an outlet, she said, as she learned to cope with her daughter's debilitating handicap from cerebral palsy. Norman County Index

Ventura name claim to fame for twins

Oklee - Having the same last name as Minnesota's governor and a shared interest in wrestling has resulted in a flurry of attention and publicity for Oklee twins, Jeremy and Jason Ventura.

The high school sophomores have been interviewed by the Grand Forks Herald, and appeared live on Fargo's 790AM radio. They were also featured in a Crookston Daily Times article, and Channel 5 from Minneapolis traveled to Oklee to video tape a segment to be shown in the Minneapolis area.

According to the Grand Forks Herald story, Jesse Ventura's nicknames are split between the boys. Their wrestling coach calls Jason "The Body" and Jeremy "The Mind".

Both boys wrestle for the Red Lake County Central team, Jason at 160 pounds and Jeremy at 171. The Oklee Herald

Saturday sales at Winger Sales Barn

Winger - Sales are no longer held on Mondays at the Winger Sales Barn. With new owners, the sales have been changed to Saturdays.

Ed Bilden and his wife Lillian sold the sales barn to Joe and Diane Varner recently, and the Varners will add their new business to the list of sales barns they already own in Pierz, Motley and Bagley.

The first Saturday sale was held February 20. Sales begin at 1 p.m. with hogs followed by cattle. The McIntosh Times

US West to sell access lines

US West has announced plans to sell approximately 500,000 access lines, 45 of which are in Minnesota and include the exchanges for Thief River Falls, Crookston, Bemidji, Mahnomen and Detroit Lakes.

The sale of approximately 500,000 access lines represents about three percent of its total 16.5 million lines. The sale is part of US West's plan to increase its investment in new technologies and services for customers across its region.

According to US West a purchase agreement is expected by late April. The sales should be final in 12 to 18 months, pending state and federal regulatory review.

The company plans to offer a portion of its access lines, central office and outside plant equipment in 10 of its 14 states, including Arizona, Colorado, Iowa, Idaho, Minnesota, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska and Wyoming.

Over the next several weeks, detailed information will be distributed to qualified companies with financial strength, expertise and experience to operate telecommunications networks. US West has retained Lehman Brothers as its exclusive financial advisor with respect to the sales.

Kim Bothun, public relations, US West, said it is the intent of US West to make the transition appear as seamless as possible. US West is not announcing any layoffs, she added. Employees in communities where access is being sold will be offered a variety of options. (US West has 102 full-time equivalent employees in Minnesota.)

"We will be looking at companies that have the financial and operational ability to provide high-quality telecommunications services — including the ability to provide the advanced services that customers are demanding," said Betsy Bernard, executive vice president, Retail Markets, US West.

"In most cases, these companies will be able to offer a full range of services, including long-distance, to meet customers' desire for one-stop shopping. This offering also will help US West increase our investments in innovative technologies and services to better meet the needs of our customers. It will be a 'win-win' for communications consumers throughout our region."

VIP receives additional grants

Funds recently awarded by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and the Otto Bremer Foundation have boosted the total of the Violence Intervention Project's building fund to nearly 64 percent of its goal, according to Denise Sevigny, executive director.

Funds received to date total $634,000 toward the $1 million goal to construct a new building in Thief River Falls to house a crisis center, supervised visitation center and temporary housing for victims of domestic violence in the seven-county northwest Minnesota region.

Most recent grant announced was $50,000 from the Otto Bremer Foundation. The foundation assists charitable efforts in the areas where Bremer banks are located. VIP serves Polk and Marshall counties and Bremer banks are located in Crookston and Warren.

Previously VIP had been awarded $315,000 by HUD with $200,000 of the total to be used toward construction of transitional housing. The grant specifies use of $60,000 for program and $55,000 for operating expenses.

Also received a short time ago was $50,000 from the Minnesota Department of Children, Families and Learning for construction of the supervised visitation center.

The total includes about $12,000 from individuals in communities throughout the seven-county area who have donated to the project in

Lincoln choir concert: One World Many Voices

One World Many Voices has been selected as the theme for this year's multi-cultural vocal concert to be performed by Lincoln high school choirs under the direction of Darcy Reese Tuesday, March 2, at 7 p.m. in the Lincoln auditorium. Doors open at 6:15 p.m. and there is no admission charge.

Members of the Varsity Singers, Choraliers, Swingsations jazz choir and Concert Choir have been preparing for the concert since early January and will present music from eight countries—South Africa, Australia, Korea, Israel, Romania, India, Mongolia and the United States.

According to Mrs. Reese, the concert opens with a reading about the significance of the drummer. A percussion ensemble accompanies the reading, followed by a Nigerian piece that involves all 145 singers.

The percussion ensemble includes Matt Winjum on bongos, John Danielson on congas, Anders Brown on an African drum called a djembe, and Sam Kezar on cowbell. Katie Christensen is the soloist for this song called Betelehemu.

Varsity Singers and the Choraliers present two more African pieces. The first is entitled Mbiri Kuna and features Tyler Bosh on the djembe and Kelly Bendickson on the cowbell. The girls finish off the African set with a playful piece entitled Ning Wendete.

Varsity Singers will be taking the audience to Korea. Kelsi Holland will be featured in costume, singing a song that was sent to her from Korea one month ago. Carissa Hendrickson will accompany on flute, Karen Christensen on piano and Eric Bjornstad on guitar. Nodle Kangbyon, Korean Lullaby and Ahrirang will be the other Korean songs accompanied by Cathy Hagen.

Choraliers will transport the audience to Israel, performing three Israeli pieces on their journey. The first selection is entitled Simona MiDimona and is accompanied by Cathy Hagen on piano and Brent Fulton on conga drums. S'vivon is the second selection and features Brittany Larson and Hannah Kelly on violins. Final number is an a cappella Israeli folk song that Mrs. Reese learned while on a trip to Israel.

A new segment of the concert will feature Mrs. Reese's first year music theory students performing three compositions that they composed especially for this concert. The first selection is entitled Prayer of the Rainmaker, followed by Ethnic Dance and Interpretation on 1945. Student composers include Janna Unbehaun, Andy Sorvig, Matt Winjum, Rachel Mathson, Heather Juhl, Shaun Fort and Leah Kenner.

Swingsations jazz choir will take the audience to India and Mongolia with two very rhythmically challenging pieces that are exciting to sing and to hear, Mrs. Reese said. The colors in the music are very different from the other countries, as are the diction and tone.

Concert Choir will whisk the audience away to Romania by performing Chindia, a monosyllabic piece that twists the tongue and quickens the pace. Mrs. Reese said she has been looking for this music for quite some time and is very eager for the listeners to hear the choir's accomplishments on it.

The Concert Choir will also

contact with one parent who expressed the viewpoint that bus drivers are very valuable employees because parents and the district entrust the care of their children into their hands. Young said there is no argument. The district considers bus drivers as very valuable ... as it does all employees, regardless of the evaluation or negotiation process.

As far as the percentages and figures being bantered about, Young said the district will continue to look at the total package settlement. It's the way they have done it with other bargaining units and any deviation would have severe ramifications for the district in terms of future negotiations with other bargaining units.

Young was concerned that residents of the district would accept the bus drivers' claim that they were only being offered a four percent increase versus an eight percent increase that other employees in the district received. He's not sure he received a full explanation of the claim (portrayed in a bar chart on the back of a flier), but he said he feels such a comparison does not address the total package settlement cost, and is not a valid comparison.

He also explained that when looking at an hourly increase, there are "step" movements involved as well. It's confusing, he said, but he explained that the board has to take into account not only hourly rate increases, but step increases and the total package in terms of the whole district as well.

The school board remains ready to negotiate a settlement at any time.

Picketing

Picketing has been taking place at Challenger, Franklin, and Lincoln high schools and the School District Service Center.

Picketers are restricted to picketing on public access areas. They cannot picket on school district or private property, nor can they block entrance to nor egress from school district property.

Further Negotiations

As of Thursday, no further negotiations had been scheduled. Gary Rogers, a state mediator from the Bureau of Mediation Services, said that another meeting had not been scheduled. At the end of Tuesday night's discussions, the parties seemed proportionately far apart, he said, and until he gets some kind of indication that one or both parties were willing to compromise then there was no reason to schedule another meeting. He said he would be in touch with both sides on the weekend.

On the other hand, Rogers said that as far as strikes go this is about the friendliest strike he has ever seen. There has been no personalizing, nor anger expressed during meetings and both sides have been very professional and conducted themselves very well.

Rogers held his first meeting as mediator with the two sides on February 3.

Transportation Difficulties
Notice to Parents

In anticipation of a strike, the school district publicly notified residents of the intent to strike, and the intent to keep schools open during the strike. The notification to parents of students included instructions on how district officials wanted students dropped off at the schools so that everyone was aware of the concerns for the safety and welfare of all students. Rohrich noted one addition that an extended supervised time after 3:45 p.m. would be made available for students who could not be picked up by their parents at that time. Parents, however, need to call the principal's office and notify them that the students would remain at the school after 3:45 p.m.

The following instructions were provided to parents of all students in the district:

"1. At Challenger 4th and 5th grade students should be dropped off and picked up on the north side of the building. Kindergarten, 1st, 2nd, and 3rd grade students should be dropped off and picked up on the south side of the building. Drop-off times for Challenger will be from 7:45 a.m. to 8:30 a.m. If you need to drop your child or children off before 7:45 a.m., please contact the principal's office at Challenger to indicate your needs. Pick-up times at Challenger will be from 3 to 3:45 p.m.

"2. At Franklin, students can be dropped off and picked-up in front of the building between the hours of 7:45 and 8:30 a.m. and 3 to 3:45 p.m. If you need to drop your child or children off before 7:45 a.m., please contact the principal's office at Franklin to indicate your needs.

"3. At Lincoln, students can be dropped off or picked up on either the north or east side of the building between the hours of 7:45 and 8:30 a.m. and 3 and 3:45 p.m.

"4. Extra-curricular activities will still be held. However, it will be the responsibility of parents to transport their students to and from these activities including out-of-town games and activities. Please be as patient as possible understanding that the school district is doing everything in its power to make arrangements as quickly as we can so that each family will have as much notice of any circumstances to schedule family involvement in activities.

"5. School buses driven by management personnel will transport students who are required to have special transportation; i.e. handicapped students."

Day Care Providers

Discovery Place Child Care Center workers reported that they have 60 children who use the bus service throughout the day. On the first day, they reported that parents had been very cooperative. Only one child did not come to the day care provider Wednesday because the child did not have transportation. Discovery Place reports that the biggest frustration parents face right now is turning off Nora and either crossing at First Street or attempting to turn onto First Street. With the additional traffic, it's worse than it has ever been.

At Kathy's Care Center and at Rose Wold's Day Care, there won't be much of a problem. Neither have too many children in school, and where they do, grandparents seem to be picking up the slack or the day care providers were willing to take the children earlier or later. Rose said she had visited with some of the other day care providers who are faced with a problem and she said they mentioned that some parents were trying to organize car pools.

It will present a problem for Judy Inglis at Judy's Learn and Play. She has three children who need to be picked up at school. Because parents work, they would be forced to take off work to pick up their children, and that's not always possible. Judy said she's lucky because she has an assistant and will be able to pick up the children at school. She said she plans to do that until the strike is over. She noted that it must be stressful on parents. She also anticipated that Latch Key at the school will be hit particularly hard by the strike. When it comes to discussing the strike, Judy said they couldn't pay her enough to drive the bus and watch the children at the same time.

Traffic Issues

Police Chief Ken Froschheiser asked residents Thursday morning to be patient. Froschheiser said he had an opportunity to observe traffic at Nora and Pennington and near Challenger Thursday morning. As he was doing this, he said, he noticed some things that disturbed him and he asks motorists to remember a few basic things:

- Use turn signals;
- Turn on lights to improve visibility;
- Be patient. About 1,000 students attend Challenger and the way it looks, he said, nearly 1,000 cars are transporting the students. He said he knows that some people have begun car pooling, and he appreciates the effort. That will greatly help reduce traffic congestion.
- Plan routes. Individuals coming in from Highway 59 south, for example, can use County Road 8 rather than driving into town and adding to the traffic congestion.

Other than a few problems, Chief Froschheiser said everything is going really well. Other problems he observed included passing on the right on Pennington Avenue at Evergreen. That's very dangerous, he said. The shoulder of the road is not a passing lane. He asks that everyone be patient and it will all go just fine.

Chief Froschheiser said officers will be directing traffic at Nora and Pennington on week days, morning and afternoon, during the strike. He said he received a number of requests to install a temporary stop sign at Nora and Pennington, but after examining state guidelines last summer, the city council came to a conclusion that the intersection did not warrant a stop sign.

While he was directing traffic at the intersection of Pennington and Nora, Chief Froschheiser said people seemed very supportive.

One thing he noticed at Challenger that he really liked, he said, was teachers holding up hand-made signs to let parents know where to meet children.

Chief Froschheiser concluded that patience is the name of the game.

Alicia Haviland has dedicated her days and nights to helping teens, pre-teens and young adults beat the monster she calls "ED"— her shortened form for eating disorders. "ED really isn't a disease about food but more the issue of self-esteem," she says. "We all have some kind of an eating misconception or relationship with food. It is when it becomes unhealthy that ED steps in."

While anorexia and bulimia are the diseases that come to mind when one thinks of eating disorders, Haviland says there are many other forms of the disease, including obesity. Any time a person uses food and/or dieting as a way of coping with personal problems or controlling his or her life, an eating disorder is present.

Troubled relationships can be a catalyst for eating disorders as can depression, anxiety, loneliness, anger or physical, emotional or sexual abuse. Researchers believe that in some cases the cause is biological. The chemicals in the brain controlling hunger, appetite and digestion become unbalanced.

"From the minute we are born people judge us and evaluate us by our weight," Haviland says. "The first question asked when a baby is born is 'Is it a boy or a girl?' followed by 'How much did he (or she) weigh?'"

In school children are tagged with cruel nick-names based on their appearances. Boys and girls call each other names like "Fatso," "String Bean," and "Thunder Thighs." "Names hurt," Haviland says, "and leave painful wounds that last forever."

The Adolescent Issues/Eating Disorders clinic is a place where hurting young people can go for comfort and help.

The treatment at the clinic is individualized for each client. In most cases the client is introduced to a doctor if he or she does not already have one. Based on a physical and psychological diagnosis, a customized wellness program is created.

Haviland's job is to act as a resource contact, creating an individualized network of support and intervention for each client. Often, this includes referral to a primary care physician, nutritionist, psychologist and/or psychiatrist.

Clients also have access to a wealth of information in the program's library, enabling them to build their knowledge and a base of support for their disorders.

The program also offers individual and group counseling sessions, adolescent groups and multi-family groups as well as intervention/prevention educational outreach programs for people of all ages.

The goal of treatment is to assist the client in learning to live peacefully with food and use food as a healthy, life-sustaining tool.

The program, which started in January, is funded by a two-year grant from Northwest Medical Center, Northwest Service Cooperative, Blue Cross/Blue Shield and the Minnesota Initiative Fund. At this time, the networking and information services are free. Doctor's fees are covered by personal insurance.

A more detailed article about different types of eating disorders, causes, signs and treatments and the program at Northwest Medical Center will appear in the Community Focus section of The Times on March 3.

Information about the Adolescent Issues/Eating Disorder clinic can be obtained by calling (218) 681-4240, ext. 380 or (218) 683-4380. E-mail addresses include ahaviland@nwmc.org or nwmc@nwmc.org. Information about the program also can be accessed on NWMC's website at http://www.nwmc.org.

When you attend the open house of the Adolescent Issues/Eating Disorders Clinic at Northwest Medical Center on Monday, you will find more than information. You will find a tireless crusader in Alicia Haviland, and she looks forward to visiting with you and telling you about her mission—to beat the monster she calls "ED."

Farmer's market proposed in DL

Detroit Lakes - Efforts are under way to start a farmer's market in Detroit Lakes as early as June.

According to organizers, the operation would feature a variety of area-grown and home-made products. The market would not include products trucked in from other states. The committee is currently exploring several possible locations for the market which will be open two days a week.

Commodities typically sold at such markets include fresh vegetables, berries, eggs, honey, maple syrup, jams and jellies, wild rice, plants, cut flowers, dried flowers and handcrafted items. Becker County Record

Book increases HIV/AIDS awareness

Ada - Ada native Rebecca Lee and photographer Kay Tartakoff recently published the book, An Alphabet About Families - Living with HIV/AIDS.

The book was published by Children's Legacy, a nonprofit agency that works with children who have life threatening diseases like cancer, AIDS and genetic disorders. Donations and funding has allowed the Children's Legacy to distribute the book to hospitals, clinics and AIDS outreach programs across the country.

Rebecca is a 1968 graduate of Ada High School and began writing about 10 years ago. It was an outlet, she said, as she learned to cope with her daughter's debilitating handicap from cerebral palsy. Norman County Index

Ericksons earn Farmer, Homemaker recognition

By Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Making the most of every day and every situation is the unspoken motto of Sheldon "Snooky" Erickson. "I just love my job," he says of his position as branch manager and loan officer at Border State Bank in Badger. He also loved being a Roseau county extension agent and before that, a farmer.

Snooky and his wife, Helen, were recently selected as Roseau county's 1999 Valley Farmer and Homemaker, and they will be honored at a special banquet this evening (Saturday, February 27) at the University of Minnesota Crookston.

Each year, an outstanding rural couple from each of the counties in northwestern Minnesota is selected to receive the award from the Red River Valley Development Association. The award was formerly a part of the Red River Valley Winter Shows before it disbanded two years ago.

This isn't the first time the Ericksons have traveled to Crookston to receive an award. Snooky was named the Red River Valley Winter Show's ninth King Agassiz during the 1960's. As a Land O'Lakes Young Farmer, Snooky represented five states at the National Milk Producers Federation. Other awards include the Clean Farmer award for the Fourth District in 1971 and the Sportsman Farmer award from the Soil & Water Conservation District in 1988.

"Snooky" has been Sheldon's nickname for as long as he can remember and is the name most folks know him by. He is one of ten children born on the farm his grandfather homesteaded after emigrating from Sweden at the age of 16.

After graduating from high school in Badger, Snooky attended the University of Minnesota where he earned a Bachelor of Science degree in agriculture. After college he returned to Badger and purchased his dad's farm in 1960.

Helen grew up in Roseau and worked as a beautician prior to her marriage to Snooky.

On the farm the couple developed a herd of 130 registered Holsteins. They milked 60 cows and

A series of articles from an interview with Engalstad by Thief River Falls Times editor Marvin Lundin will begin in the Wednesday, March 3, issue of the Times.

Sheldon "Snooky" and Helen Erickson were recently named Roseau county's Valley Farmer and Homemaker. Greenbush woman to be honored at state BB tournament

Greenbush - Ninety-one-year old Oline Erickson will be honored at the Minnesota State Girls' Basketball Tournament along with other women who contributed to the sport before 1942.

A 1924 graduate of Greenbush High School, Oline recalls playing on the 1924 team. In those days, teams traveled to the games by train, and usually a social, with food and dancing was held after the game. In 1924 the Greenbush team was the local and district champion. "We didn't get to go to state then," Oline said. The Tribune

State park a possibility in East Grand Forks

East Grand Forks - East Grand Forks city officials have been working closely with the Department of Natural Resources in possibly landing a state park within the city.

Although no site has been selected, the Griggs Park area is one potential location. The DNR has expressed interest in building a $2 million interpretive center in the park. The center would house an amphitheater, greenway information and other natural resource information.

Currently, East Grand Forks is one of only a handful of Minnesota cities that isn't within a 30-mile radius of a state park. The Exponent

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere
email: gabriele@northernnet.com

I had a call about the Honey Date Bars from the Feb. 13 Watch Soupeon. There are no baking instructions in the recipe. If you can't wait to try them, try baking them for about 20 minutes at 350 degrees and then make sure they are puffed and golden. And would someone who knows the baking directions or knows Maryanne Fuller, who put the recipe in the Silver Creek cookbook, please call me at 681-4427 (after 4:30) and let me know the baking time so I can publish it as soon as possible? Sorry about that and thanks.

Here are some inexpensive dishes you can make for your family or guests, using some of those "bargain" meats available.

Pork is such a bargain now - why not make your own "stuffed" pork chops this weekend:

STUFFED PORK CHOPS
1 1/2 cups bread crumbs
1/2 cup celery, diced
2 tablespoons butter, melted
1/4 teaspoon poultry seasoning
Dash of garlic salt
Dash of onion salt
Salt and pepper
Milk

Put 1/2 inch of milk in bottom of skillet or casserole. Put layer of pork chops, salt and pepper, layer of filling, then pork chops, then filling, etc. Bake at 325 degrees for 2 hours or until chops are done.

A lot like barbecued ribs, this dish will be much neater and easier to eat:

SAVORY PORK CHOPS
6 pork chops
1 medium onion, sliced
3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1 cup mushroom soup
3 tablespoons ketchup

Brown chops, seasoning with salt and pepper. Drain off fat.

Combine remaining ingredients and pour over chops. Cover and bake at 350 degrees for 60 minutes or until chops are tender.

One more barbecued meal, this one with that old favorite, chicken:

BARBECUED CHICKEN
1 (3 pound) fryer chicken, cut up
Cooking oil
2 medium onions, sliced
1/2 cup celery
1 cup water
2 or 3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 cup ketchup
1/4 cup lemon juice
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 tablespoons mustard

Brown chicken slowly in minimal amount of cooking oil. Remove and drain chicken, leaving oil in pan. Place chicken in buttered baking dish.

Add onion and celery to oil and cook until tender. Add remaining ingredients and simmer 10 minutes, adding salt, if needed. Skim off excess fat.

Pour sauce over and bake uncovered in 350 degree oven until done, basting occasionally.

This is another inexpensive meal, made with hamburger and pork sausage, that is fancy enough to serve guests:

SAUCY MEAT ROLL
1 1/2 pounds hamburger
1/2 pound pork sausage
1 beaten egg
1/8 cup ketchup
Dash of pepper
1/2 cup onion, chopped
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup celery, chopped
1 can cream of mushroom soup
3 cups bread (large crumbs or cubes)
3-4 tablespoons water

Combine hamburger, pork sausage, egg, ketchup, pepper, onion, pepper and salt. Roll out into a rectangle (probably best formed on waxed paper or plastic wrap).

Mix bread and celery. Moisten with water until of consistency to spread over meat mixture. Roll as jelly roll, seal edges, and place in 9x13 inch loaf pan. Cover with mushroom soup.

Bake at 350 degrees for 1 1/2 hours.

Use an inexpensive cut of beef and make it into a quick, but elegant, dinner dish - cook it in your wok, if you have one:

BEEF AND GREEN PEPPER DISH
1 pound of some type of beef steak or roast, uncooked and sliced into thin strips (freeze partially for easy slicing)
1 tablespoon flour
2 tablespoons green onion, chopped
2 tablespoons oil
1 cup green pepper, chopped
1 tablespoon soy sauce

Slice beef and cook slightly in cooking oil. Add mixture of flour, green pepper, onions and soy sauce. Cook, stirring, 15-20 minutes. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Serve over hot rice.

Seeing Purple

The sauger quest can become a near tunnel-visioned obsession in late February. With the weeks of redundant winter having turned into months of redundant winter, this time of year can cause those of us in the daily-pursuit-of-fish-business to lose our perspective. Like a junkie looking for his next fix, "just one more sauger" is the foremost and constant refrain in my brain, taking precedence over most other forms of rational thought.

There is a tendency to become oblivious to the surrounding world, and significance in anyone or anything is gauged by their relationship to ice fishing. I wonder if they ice fish in Iraq? Is Governor Ventura as good with a fishing line as he is with a spoken one? Is the plan to impeach or impeach the President?

My family has come to recognize the annual symptoms and now generally insists on some form of pre-Spring diversion to freshen up the daily patterns in our life. And each year I peacefully go along with their efforts, but continue to quietly fixate on fishing.

Last week's trip to Thief River Falls for dinner and high school tournament hockey was the family's suggested distraction this year. I nodded my head obediently, grateful that a single evening away was a short enough time to keep the ice fishing industry on Lake of the Woods from crumbling during my absence.

As we drove west into the brilliant purples of the setting sun, my daughter pointed out the unusual line-up of Venus, Jupiter and the moon. The brightness of the planets, sandwiched between the breathtaking sunset and the waning crescent moon gave a unique perspective to the solar system. My daughter thought it was "neat." My wife asked me to slow down so she could take her eyes off my driving for a moment to enjoy the skyscape. My six-year-old son actually acknowledged, between bites of a Twix bar, that something out of the ordinary was going on up there. I found myself wondering if the unique celestial arrangement would affect tomorrow's sauger bite.

Our dinner at the Chinese buffet went well. I'm a sucker when it comes to anything labeled "all you can eat"—it appeals to my need to overeat and to my innate Midwestern frugality. Plus, I like good Chinese fare.

My daughter thought the food was "great." My wife asked me to slow down my eating so she could enjoy what she felt was an excellent meal without having to rush through it. My six-year-old son babbled on about the food through numerous helpings of tea cakes and Chinese doughnut things. I found myself wondering why there was no fish served on the buffet.

As we left the restaurant, the uniqueness which had graced the western skies an hour earlier, was now replaced by a spectacular display to the north and east. The Northern Lights, which had been absent for so long, chose this evening to burst back onto the scene. Complete with color and movement, the panorama was more than any casual southern visitor could ever have hoped for.

My daughter said "Wow!" My wife asked me to slow down as we walked back to the car; she wanted to watch for a minute or two. My six-year-old son pointed up and mumbled something incoherent through a mouthful of fortune cookie. I found myself wondering if the burbots would bite better tonight in response to such brilliant artificial lighting.

The hockey game was everything high school hockey should be. With a crowd of 2,500, an all-state player on each side and a brick wall of a goalie in the Thief River Falls nets, even a die-hard basketball fan would have been swept up in the excitement.

My daughter thought it was "wild." My wife wished the pace of the game would slow down a bit so she could enjoy it even longer. My six-year-old son cheered the entire first period between handsful of popcorn. I found myself wondering if the compressor being used to freeze the sheet of ice in the Huck Olson arena could be put to use in extending the lake ice during a warm March.

And then my children pointed out the kid in the purple t-shirt playing in the TRF pep band. The band itself was annoying enough. It was loud and the members were energetic and they were actually very good. Apparently no one had clued them in that being a band member was a chore and that sounding on-key was completely missing the spirit of the responsibility.

And there was this kid in the center of the whole maelstrom having more fun than anyone in the arena. Each musical number found him assigned to a new percussion instrument and each instrument sent him into even wilder gyrations. He seemed oblivious to the game. As a matter of fact, he seemed oblivious to the band, bobbing and weaving to each new "thump" of his drum. He was simply having fun. I have no doubt that he would have been just as happy and tireless in an empty arena.

My daughter thought his efforts were "exciting." My wife felt that his antics were a real plus for the event and hoped he wouldn't slow down over the course of the game. My six-year-old son took the lollipop out of his mouth and proclaimed him "funny." I found myself quietly thanking the kid in the purple t-shirt for taking my mind off saugers for a short while.

Lioness club seeks donated rummage for March 14 sale

Moonlighters Lioness club is seeking donated items for its annual rummage sale to be held in conjunction with the St. Hilaire Lions annual auction Sunday, March 14, at the National Guard Armory in Thief River Falls.

Items can be donated or consigned by dropping them off at the armory Saturday, March 13, between 9 a.m. and noon or by calling Sherry at 681-7703 or Gloria at 681-3423 to arrange for pick-up. Items may also be brought to the armory on Sunday morning.

Chartered in 1983, the Lioness club has conducted its rummage sale with the St. Hilaire Lions auction since 1993. Sale proceeds and other money raised by the Lioness club was donated in 1998 to the Angel Tree and to the Lions Eye Bank, Leader Dog and Hearing Foundation programs.

Donations in prior years have gone to Camp Courage, Fine Line Dancers, Close-Up program, Little Brother/Little Sister, Hospice and the Save the Depot fund.

Crop loss disaster program sign-up deadline extended

Sign-up deadline for the single and multi-year crop loss disaster program administered by the federal Farm Service Agency (FSA) has been extended from March 12 to April 9.

County FSA directors and staff members around the area greeted the announcement with a sigh of relief, according to Jodell Poolman, director of the Marshall county FSA office in Warren.

"Most FSA offices have started taking applications manually since we still do not have the capability to take them on our computers," she said. "We are still waiting to receive our crop data table which has our rates and yields for the single year disaster program."

Producers who have not yet scheduled an appointment or have questions regarding eligibility should contact their local FSA office and schedule an appointment as soon as possible, Poolman suggested.

Plans going ahead for Northwest Dairy Day

by Marvin Lundin
Northern Watch Editor

Preliminary meeting to permit continuation of Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls took place Thursday, February 25, at The Lantern Restaurant in Thief River Falls with officers of the Northwest Dairy Improvement Association and others interested in perpetuating the annual dairy promotional event participating.

The 50th annual Dairy Day is being planned for 1999 in conjunction with An American Festival, the Thief River Falls community's Independence Day celebration. Last year the Dairy Day program was held for the first time in connection with An American Festival.

Consensus was reached at the meeting Thursday that Northwest Dairy Improvement Association, which has sponsored Dairy Day since its inception, should be continued with an infusion of new directors drawn from those who put on last year's 49th annual event.

A meeting was set for March 19 at 1 p.m. in the Pennington county courthouse to reorganize the board and make additional plans for the 50th annual promotion to be held at the Pennington county fairgrounds.

Two years ago the board of the Northwest Dairy Improvement Association voted to discontinue Northwest Dairy Day after 48 years due to rapidly declining dairy herd numbers in northwestern Minnesota and a seeming lack of interest in dairy showmanship and promotion indicated by a poll of area dairy families.

Rather than see a strong dairy tradition for the area fall by the wayside two years prior to its 50th anniversary, a group of concerned area dairy farmers arranged with the previous sponsoring group to make arrangements for a Northwest Dairy Day as part of An American Festival. For the previous 48 years, Dairy Day had been held on the second Tuesday in June as a kickoff for the observance of June Dairy Month.

Originally held in downtown Thief River Falls on Second Street between Main and Knight avenues, Northwest Dairy Day quickly grew into a prestigious dairy show for 4-H club and FFA members. Its purpose was to encourage improved quality in northwest Minnesota dairy herds, and a purebred dairy calf has been awarded each year to the showman of the champion grade dairy animal of the show. Several times when rain was encountered, the show was moved inside the hockey arena on Second Street. A parade of entries was held at the end of the day's judging and every young showperson received a participation award.

Over the years the parade was discontinued because both cattle and their owners were tired at the end of the day and many exhibitors had lengthy distances to travel back to their farms. Location was also moved to Floyd B. Olson park west of Knight Avenue where half of the block was a surfaced parking lot used for the event.

In recent years the dairy show had been held at the Pennington county fairgrounds where a large dairy barn removed much of the weather problem which was always an uncertainty. Showing was conducted outside when weather permitted—which was most of the time—but was held inside the facility when it rained.

Since 1955 a regional Northwest Dairy Princess contest was held as part of the event with the regional winner advancing to state competition for the title of Princess Kay of the Milky Way—a state spokesperson for the dairy industry. When the area of Minnesota American Dairy Association's Region I expanded to include more counties, the regional princess contest alternated annually between Thief River Falls and a site further south in the region.

Last year Thief River Falls again served as the site for the regional contest, but it was held earlier in June, separately from the Northwest Dairy Day dairy cattle show. Jenny Kinnunen of Menahga in Wadena county was crowned Region I Princess and returned to Thief River Falls as an active assistant with the dairy show. Last fall she was crowned the new Princess Kay of the Milky Way and currently holds that title. It has not been determined at this time where the regional contest will be conducted this year.

Despite the changes during the history of Northwest Dairy Day, it has been perpetuated as a place for young people to show their dairy animals on a multi-county basis, receive an award for participating and, if they and their animals were good enough, to earn significant awards and recognition.

Quality of dairy animals shown improved remarkably as years went by and for many years judges consistently remarked favorably on the quality of cattle exhibited.

Ability of the sponsoring organization to adjust to changes in the industry and community along with the persistence of interested dairy people and financial support from banks, creameries and other businesses in the region have resulted in continuance of an established area tradition. As a result of Thursday's meeting, the tradition seems to have cleared another hurdle and is heading toward its 50th anniversary in good hands.

Finseth appointed to Ag. Education leaders council

Speaker of the House Steve Sviggum has appointed Rep. Tim Finseth of Angus, to the Minnesota Agriculture Education Leadership Council.

"I am honored to serve on the council," Finseth said. "Agriculture supports 40 percent of the state's economy. We need to make sure that current and future farmers have the education and tools they need."

The council was created in 1997 to improve and restructure vocational agriculture education in Minnesota at all levels. The 16-member council represent various public, private and government entities with an interest in agriculture education. The council provides information and technical assistance to vo-ag teachers, agriculture based organizations and local schools.

"I hope that being on the council can give me even more insight on what the current agricultural education concerns are, and how we can work to improve them," Finseth continued. "Just last week the agriculture and rural development committee heard testimony on how the University of Minnesota is actively involved in the research and development of pseudo-rabies vaccines, pollution and odor control solutions and many other agriculture based research."

Finseth is the chair of the agriculture and rural development policy committee. He also serves on the agriculture and rural development finance, environment and natural resources policy, and finance and ways and means committees.

David Waterworth of Newfolden receives his Outstanding Forage Producer Award at the annual forage conference of the Minnesota Forage and Grassland Council in Rochester recently.

David Waterworth receives Forage Producer Award

David Waterworth, who raises 600 acres of hay each year on his farm five miles northwest of Newfolden, has been recognized for forage production leadership by the Minnesota Forage and Grassland Council.

At the council's annual forage conference February 10 in Rochester, Waterworth was one of eight producers to receive the Outstanding Forage Producer Award and the American Forage and Grassland Council Outstanding Grassland Farmer Certificate.

As a member of the select group of forage leaders representing all areas of the state, he summarized his forage production practices in a presentation at the conference.

Waterworth has been producing hay for commercial sale for the past 14 years in addition to raising some cattle on his own farm. He puts up the hay in large square bales and does his own trucking. He was nominated for the award by Gregg Webster of Hillsboro, ND.

The Minnesota Forage and Grassland Council was organized in 1975 to encourage more efficient, profitable production and use of Minnesota's eight million acres of forage crops. In addition to the recent conference, the council sponsors the annual Minnesota Alfalfa and Forage Expo, which will be held this year on July 13 and 14 near Fosston.

Look for patterns when evaluating crop yield maps

Crop yield maps made with data collected from combine yield monitors can be a useful tool for making management decisions. But the maps require careful evaluation and interpretation, says George Rehm, soil scientist with the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

"In evaluating yield maps, it's important to look for repeating or definite patterns rather than focus on small differences," says Rehm. "Unless there is an obvious reason for yield differences, too much attention to the small differences can lead to errors in management decisions."

Rehm says straight line patterns of yield differences that occur in the direction of planting are likely to be the result of producer management. The cause may be differences in planting date, change in hybrid or variety, switch in herbicide, skips in herbicide application or soil compaction.

Straight line patterns that occur across the rows may be the result of existing tile lines, old traffic patterns, manure applications to previous fields, old fence rows or buried cables.

Irregular yield patterns that are likely to be due to natural factors over which the producer has little or no control. Among the causes may be changes in soil type, insect damage, differences in disease pressure, iron chlorosis in soybeans and non-uniform manure application.

If yield differences appear on the map as irregular patches, the cause could be changes in soil type, natural drainage patterns, weed infestations, insect damage, disease pressure or major changes in fertility.

Collect yield maps from a field for more than one year before using yield map information to make a management change, says Rehm. "Keep an open mind and be willing to consider several factors that could cause yield differences," he adds. "Using yield map technology effectively requires a commitment of time and resources."

"Fleecing Of America" Should Feel Sheepish

NBC television network talking heads should feel a little sheepish about at least one of their Fleecing of America segments on the Nightly News program. This 'rip-off report' is apparently intended to disturb Americans about a number of government or private programs which waste public money or cheat or take advantage of Joe Citizen.

In early December, one of the Fleecing of America segments aired was in regard to an audit by the U.S. Office of Inspector General (OIG) of the Milk Processor Education Program, referred to by the acronym of MilkPEP. At issue in particular was a national promotional campaign which featured, among others, a number of sports and show business personalities sporting milk mustaches.

American Dairy Association/Dairy Council of the Upper Midwest notes that the story contained "several serious factual errors." In fact, had the report been accurate, there would have been no "fleecing" story at all.

"For example," the ADA rebuttal states, "the report claimed that the milk mustache campaign is funded by taxpayer dollars and alleged wrongdoing with government money. The report further claimed that the campaign is not successful.

"In fact, the milk mustache campaign is funded by the nation's milk companies, not by consumers, nor by dairy farmers. Milk processors pool their advertising funds to pay for this generic campaign.

"Although milk sales are not yet as high as the dairy industry would like, the milk mustache campaign has clearly been successful. Milk now has a new, more contemporary image. Research shows there have been significant improvements in consumer attitudes toward milk. In spite of being vastly outspent by the soft drink companies, the dairy industry has halted the decline in fluid milk sales. With improvements in packaging and development of new flavors, we expect the sales outlook to improve in the years ahead."

The industry organization also pointed out some other facts that the public as well as dairy farmers should know:

• The audit of MilkPEP is unrelated to farmer-funded dairy promotion programs. In fact, in 1996, the national farmer-funded dairy promotion program received "the second cleanest audit ever issued by the OIG."

• The MilkPEP audit did not indicate any mismanagement or misuse of funds. It focused on procedural issues which have already been addressed by its board.

• In 1999, even though the fluid milk promotion program will be integrated with MilkPEP in a marketing sense, dairy farmer dollars will continue to be collected, managed and accounted for separately from milk processor dollars. USDA provides strict oversight of (these) programs.

• Overall, USDA reports that on average, total milk sales have steadily risen since 1984, when the farmer-funded checkoff program began. Today, dairy surpluses are virtually non-existent and 200 billion more pounds of milk have been sold compared to what USDA projected would be sold during that period.

So it is that NBC Nightly News stubbed its toe repeatedly in the Fleecing of America segment and is guilty of misrepresenting both its information and a law-abiding, hard-working, innovative industry and its promotional program. The celebrities in milk mustache ads only had milk on their faces. Tom Brokaw and his NBC Nightly News cohorts have egg on theirs.

No Stickers On Antique Boats

We noted in a recent editorial that the State Legislature would have no trouble keeping busy just repealing bad legislation it had passed previously. Add to that type of activity the fussing around with laws that make little if any sense in the first place.

On February 15 the House passed a bill that would permit owners of boats built before July 1, 1959, to affix their boat's license numbers and decals to a detachable device instead of directly to the boat itself. This would involve boats owned solely as collector's items.

Rep. Jim Rostberg of Isanti, who sponsored the bill, said it would allow owners of those boats to participate in parades or events without having to place stickers on the front of their boats and defacing the valuable craft. Vote on the bill was 125-0 and it was moved on to the Senate.

While it makes sense not to require self-adhesive modern license stickers and numbers to be attached to collector's boats more than 40 years old, the question properly may be asked why it is necessary to license the craft at all. Why diddle around with a detachable license? Maybe someone in the Senate will ask that question and another bill can be repealed.

Hey! Here's A New Pledge of Allegiance!

Tired of that same old Pledge of Allegiance to the flag of the United States? Is it too old-fashioned and out of tune with modern education? Does it inhibit little Johnny's ability to reason with his classmates about where he wants to place his allegiance and make little Josephine feel uncomfortable? Maybe it's time to bury that old idea of patriotism to one country and acknowledge that we are all citizens of one big, wide world.

We recently received a copy of the Earth Pledge which—as ludicrous as it may seem—is apparently being used in some schools and even in place of the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag. No, we don't know for sure if it is being used or where, but even if it isn't being used now, it could be typical of the kind of thing coming down the pike with mandated federal programs in education. See how you like it:

I pledge allegiance to our earth
(The planet on which we live)
And to fresh air, pure water, healthy dirt,
Life-giving plants and all the animals.
One earth—four oceans—seven continents—
thousands of lakes and rivers.
And I accept my duty to be an honorable citizen of this earth, with respect and consciousness toward all.

Has a nice, generic little ring to it, doesn't it? Wouldn't you love to have your child or grandchild proudly recite it for you as what he or she learned in school? Sure beats that restrictive old nationalism that has characterized America since the Revolutionary War.

It couldn't happen in the United States?

Only if you don't let it happen.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

When the State of Minnesota overcollects taxes, citizens deserve to receive rebates for the entire amount over what covers the state's planned spending. Unfortunately, this is not how the state often operates.

Indeed, many legislators advocate spending the state's budget surplus, ignoring the fact that the money rightfully belongs to the people who earned it, not to the politicians in St. Paul.

The taxpayers of State Senate District 1 should know that Senator LeRoy Stumpf is one of those politicians who seems to believe that state budget surpluses are his to spend. Last week, he voted not to return 100 percent of the current budget surplus to the taxpayers (HF 1, amended). In fact, he voted to spend much of the current surplus on pork projects, thereby making it impossible to send 100 percent back to the taxpayers.

Citizens should call Senator Stumpf and let him know that they do not approve of political spendthrifts squandering their hard-earned wages, and that they want 100 percent of their overcollected tax dollars back right away. He can be reached at 651-296-8660.

Sincerely,
David Strom,
Legislative Director
Taxpayers League of Minnesota

To The Editor,

On behalf of the Girls' Hockey Parent Group and players, I would like to thank the entire school board for its assistance and support in sanctioning girls' hockey for the 1999-2000 school year.

All board members should be commended on their proactive approach to meeting the needs of "all" students within our district and their willingness to listen and rationally discuss the various issues at hand.

The decisive action taken by this board should be an example to area communities in resolving the Title IX gender equity issues in a positive and fair manner. We would again like to extend our sincere gratitude and appreciation.

Sincerely,
Paul Johnson, representative
TRF Girls' Hockey Parent Group

Prowlers lose 2-1 Section 8A title game

Scott Bergland spent a good part of the 1998-99 season trying to convince people that Thief River Falls had a good high school hockey team. Even though the Prowlers never spent a day above .500, the second-year head coach said his club "would be there at the end." There were doubters. Teams who are 4-8-3 in late January do not draw a lot of support. But now maybe they'll believe him. State trip dreams ended with a 2-1 Thursday Section 8A tournament championship game loss to East Grand Forks at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center, but it was obvious the coach knew what he was talking about.

The win advances 14-10-1 East Grand Forks to the state tournament at the Target Center in Minneapolis, where the Green Wave will meet Section 7A champion Silver Bay in the 12:05 p.m. Class A quarterfinal round opener Wednesday. The loss ended the Thief River Falls season at 8-13-4.

"We played hard," said Bergland on the bench after the game. "We definitely deserved to be here. A bounce or two and we could have won it. I'm awfully proud of the kids."

Eight one-goal losses and four overtime ties left the Prowlers tantalizing close, but nevertheless distanced from the teams who were regularly appearing in the state rankings. However, the almost nightly down-to-the-wire finishes helped provide Thief River Falls with the confidence to play in pressure situations, and evened the scales in the finals against an East Grand Forks team that was the reigning Section 8A champion.

The No. 2-seeded Green Wave beat the No. 4-seeded Prowlers twice during the regular season, 4-0 and 2-1, and the third meeting was a dandy. The loud, overflow crowd was treated to championship-caliber hockey from start to finish.

All the scoring took place in the first period, but there was enough action over the final 30 minutes to keep the fans, most of whom were in the building shortly after the doors opened at 6 p.m. for the 7:30 game, on the edge of their seats – if they had a seat.

East Grand Forks opened the scoring at 4:05 on a goal by Adam Hanson. The play started with a shot from inside the face-off circle to the left of the Thief River Falls net. Goalie Mike Dowers got a piece of the puck, but the chest-high shot came loose and was tapped across the goal line.

Thief River Falls tied it with a power play goal by Jarod Reierson, who tipped in a Casey Enge slap shot from the point at 13:26.

But the Prowlers' celebration was short-lived. Just 41 seconds later Patrick Knutson of the Green Wave scored what would prove to be the game-winner. Standing on the edge of the goal crease, Knutson slammed home a rebound off a weak backhand shot from the slot by Sam Brown – making the Prowlers pay dearly for a brief defensive breakdown.

"It's tough to give up one right away after you score," noted Bergland. "We were undisciplined in our end, and it cost us. That's the breaks of the game."

Dowers and East Grand Forks goalie Tommy White kept the score from changing the rest of the night. Dowers, who finished with 25 saves, came up with back-to-back major league stops late in the second period when he made a point-blank pad save on Knutson at 11:14 and robbed Kyle Cash with a quick glove at 11:27.

Three minutes later White, who wound up with 17 saves, produced his biggest play of the night when he turned back a shorthanded breakaway by Thief River Falls scoring leader Wade Chiodo.

Thief River Falls continued to apply pressure in the third period, until East Grand Forks ate up the final minute with a game-clinching display of puck-hungry hockey.

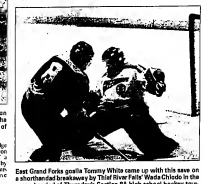
The Prowlers called a time-out with 1:13 remaining, but never cleared their zone until there were just five seconds left.

"Except for that last minute, we played some good hockey in the third period," said Bergland. "We hit a couple of pipes and had some other chances. But it wasn't meant to be. It was a good hockey game. Both teams played as hard as they could."

It was Prowlers' first appearance in the tournament finals since 1983, when they also lost a one-goal game - 1-0 to Roseau. They were bidding for their first trip to state since 1965.

Scoring

First period - EGF, Adam Hanson (Ryan Blazek, Aaron Eckhoff), 4:05. TRF, Jarod Reierson (Casey Enge, Dewey Worker), 13:26. EGF, Patrick Knutson (Sam Brown, Jon Hussey), 14:07.



Second period - none.

Third period - none.

Goalie saves - TRF, Mike Dowers 7-8-10–25. EGF, Tommy White 3-8-6–17.

A glove save was made by Thief River Falls goalie Mike Dowers as teammate Justin Barron looked on during Thursday's Section 8A high school hockey tournament championship game against East Grand Forks at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center. The Prowlers lost to the defending champion Green Wave 2-1 in front of an overflow crowd.

East Grand Forks goalie Tommy White came up with this save on a shorthanded breakaway by Thief River Falls' Wade Chiodo in the second period of Thursday's Section 8A high school hockey tournament championship game at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center. The Green Wave beat the Prowlers 2-1.

Opponents shooting at a high percentage clip against Huskies

Goodridge, after shooting 56 percent from the field and losing a Friday boys high school basketball match-up with unbeaten Win-E-Mac 90-48, came back with a 60 percent 24-for-40 shooting performance in the 1998-99 regular season finale against Clearbrook-Gonvick Tuesday, and lost again. This time 68-54.

The problem is, while the Huskies have been shooting the lights out, the competition has been doing even better. The Patriots shot 72 percent from the floor and the Bears had a 68 percent 25-for-37 outing, including 8-for-12 shooting from 3-point range.

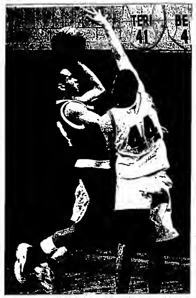
"They (Bears) shot very well," acknowledged Goodridge coach Eric Mickelson, who said defense, not offense, was the Huskies' strength most of the year. "We've been up and down defensively at times, but generally our defense has been pretty fair most of the year. We've struggled more on offense than defense."

Clearbrook-Gonvick opened up an early 10-point lead and held that double-digit edge most of the night. The Bears were up 17-7 at the end of the first quarter, 32-21 at halftime and 50-30 through three quarters.

"They got up on us early, and it just kind of stayed there," noted Mickelson. "Every time we made a little run at them, they hit a shot or two and opened things up again."

Four Bears hit double figures, led by Kevin Pietschett with 21 points. Chad Johnson scored 18 points to lead the Huskies.

Clearbrook-Gonvick was 10-for-16 at the free throw line, where Goodridge had an 0-for-4 night. The Huskies finished with a 22-21 rebound edge and topped the turnover charts 14-12.



Goodridge will take a 4-17 record into Sub-Section 31A tournament play.

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	T
Clearbrook-Gonvick	17	15	18	18	68
Goodridge	7	14	9	24	54

C-G - Paul Gustafson 13, Kevin Pietschett 21, Nathan Watha 4, Jon Gerlofs 12, Chris Westrum 2, Matt Berg 12, Brandon Bergman 4.

Roseau defender Aaron Anderson went up in an attempt to stop Thief River Falls guard Arron Hendricks from getting off this shot during Tuesday's boys high school basketball game in the Lincoln gym. The Prowlers beat the Rams 67-47.

TRF wrestlers have a tough time in 8AA

Misfortune played a rule in ending the 1998-99 season for Thief River Falls wrestlers who had hoped to land state tournament spots.

The Prowlers did move five wrestlers into second-day competition at the Feb. 19-20 Section 8AA individual tournament in Fosston. But their best hopes to make it to Minneapolis ran into trouble.

First, eighth grader Jeremy Anderson had to contend with health-related respiratory problems and was pinned in the semifinals at 103 pounds by eventual champion Joey Chelmo of Detroit Lakes. He was also pinned by Dan Essing of Deer River/Northland in the third place match.

Freshman Beau Abrahamson figured to have a shot to advanced at 112 pounds, but he wound up in a weight class loaded with top-notch wrestlers, pointed out Thief River Falls coach Rick Yanke. Abrahamson lost to eventual champion Tim Klein of Blackduck/Cass Lake-Bena 13-2 in the semifinals and was pinned by Jerry Pihlaja of Park Rapids Area in the third place match.

Another Thief River Falls hopeful, freshman Jon Swanson, probably had the toughest luck when he had a tooth knocked out in a freak accident while working with a teammate during warm-ups just moments before taking the mat for a 145-pound quarterfinal encounter with Brandon Gruchow of Roseau. Yanke scrambled in an attempt to rig up some kind of protective mouth gear, but the injury and the distractions were too much to overcome as Swanson lost 12-7. He defaulted a scheduled fourth place match.

"Things went kind of sour on us Saturday," said Yanke. "But I'm very proud of the kids. They all wrestled well. With a little luck I'm sure we would have qualified some kids for state."

Thief River Falls boys beat Roseau 67-47...

Fourth quarter run nets win

Transition basketball means turning defensive stops into offensive opportunities. Thief River Falls had the defense part down pat most of the night, but it wasn't until the Prowlers' offense kicked into high gear over the final eight minutes was the package complete Tuesday. Putting the two pieces together resulted in a 67-47 boys win over Roseau at the Lincoln High School gym.

Thief River Falls led only 38-35 at the close of the third quarter. But by adding some offense to their stifling defense and a dominating rebounding performance, the Prowlers blew the Rams out of the water down the stretch when they out-scored the visitors 29-12.

A three-point play off a rebound basket by Kelly Cota and a rebound bucket by Matt Myers got the final quarter run going. Roseau standout Isaac Lang scored on a drive, but the Prowlers collected the next nine points, beginning with a free throw and basket by Collin Schafer off a Roseau technical foul. Myers then scored from underneath, while Schafer and Cota both took the ball to the basket on drives to make it 52-37 with 2:59 remaining.

Roseau could not come up with an answer to the Thief River Falls outburst and continued to watch what had been a highly-competitive back-and-forth contest turn into a rout.

"Our defense was pretty steady all night, and our transition game picked up in the fourth quarter," explained Thief River Falls coach Bob Johnson, whose team was coming off a disappointing showing in a 51-43 Friday loss to Warren-Alvarado-Oslo. "This was a great effort by our kids, especially after we struggled offensively against Warren. Down the stretch, we started shooting the ball with some confidence."

The first half was a toss-up. The lead changed hands seven times and there were six ties in 16 minutes of basketball that never produced a point spread bigger than three. A tough-angle shot in traffic by Lang with 2.2 seconds left put the Rams up 10-8 at the end of the first quarter. A fast break basket by Cota off a Roseau turnover closed out the first half scoring, sending the Prowlers into intermission ahead 23-22.

Both teams put together third quarter streaks, but couldn't shake the competition. A 3-point basket by Brian Loe capped a 7-0 Thief River Falls second half start. Roseau answered with a 9-0 run that put the Rams ahead 31-30 on a Lang free throw with 4:01 to play, but two inside baskets by Matt Myers and a fast break bucket by Ben Myers rebuilt a 36-31 Thief River Falls edge – a lead they never relinquished.

Cota finished with 18 points, Matt Myers 16 and Schafer 13. Lang scored 13 points and Justin Hendrickson netted 11 for the Rams.

Thief River Falls shot 55 percent from the field (29/53) and with Matt Myers grabbing 15 rebounds, controlled the boards 42-17. Roseau shot 36 percent from the floor (19/53) and went 6-for-15 at the line. The Prowlers topped the turnover charts 18-12.

The Prowlers took a 9-12 record into their 1998-99 regular season finale Friday at home against Detroit Lakes. First round North Sub-Section 8AAA tournament play will be Thursday, March 4.

MCC girls beat Wolverines in Sub-Section 31A...

Nordics win semifinal game

Marshall County Central was able to avoid a season-long trap, but Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke didn't, and the result was a 56-43 Nordics win over the Wolverines in the Sub-Section 31A girls high school basketball tournament semifinals Thursday at Crookston High School.

For much of the 1998-99 season, the Nordics were victimized by slow second half starts, while the Wolverines battled to get the ball to drop in the basket. Marshall County Central, after jumping out to a 19-9 first quarter lead and ahead 31-19 at halftime, got through the third quarter in good shape, and even widened the gap to 46-30.

"We had a very good first quarter, and our third quarter was amazing," said Marshall County Central coach Alice Dahl. "We've had trouble coming out in the third quarter all year, but we really played well this time."

Kristi Kilen scored 18 points and Tiffany Bring had 11 for the Nordics, and they gained valuable support from the bench, according to Dahl. "We had a lot of players come off the bench and do a great job for us," she said, pointing to offensive help supplied by players like Jessica Anderson, Emily Kragness and Christa Hagen.

Meanwhile, the Wolverines' season-long shooting woes carried over into post-season play with a 28 percent 17-for-60 showing from the field. They were led by Angela Gast with 18 points and Kathryn Stanley with 10.

Marshall County Central was 21-for-50 from the field (42 percent) and 12-for-22 at the free throw line, where Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke had a 9-for-13 night. Rebounds were even at 29-apiece. The Wolverines beat the Nordics 17-9 on the offensive boards, but couldn't turn those opportunities into points. Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke topped the turnover charts 22-18.

It was the fourth meeting of the year between the two teams. The Wolverines won a 67-65 overtime decision in the season opener, but the Nordics came up with a 54-49 victory when they met in the Northland Community and Technical College Invitational, and won a second regularly-scheduled match-up 68-54.

Marshall County Central takes a 9-14 record into the Sub-Section 31A title game against defending champion Red Lake Falls tonight (Saturday) at the University of Minnesota-Crookston. Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke season ended at 10-13.

Gators beaten by Storm 38-28

The defense that carried Badger/Greenbush-Middle River throughout the 1998-99 girls high school basketball season was there again Thursday. But unfortunately for the Gators, the offense wasn't, and they wound up losing a low-scoring 38-28 Sub-Section 32A tournament semifinal decision to Stephen-Argyle at Northland Community and Technical College.

The two teams split a pair of games during the year, with the Storm winning the first encounter 47-43 and the Gators taking the Jan. 18 rematch 49-30.

Amy Kuznia (15) and Abbey Bergerson (12) combined for 27 of the 38 Stephen-Argyle points as the Storm posted quarter leads of 11-6, 20-10 and 25-18.

Unable to get the ball inside against a Stephen-Argyle defense designed to collapse on centers Melissa Smith and Kelsey Foldesi, the Gators did not have a double figure scorer, and unable to hit the outside shot, struggled through a 20 percent 9-for-46 shooting night. They had a quiet 4-for-9 night at the free throw line, where the Storm went 13-for-18.

It was just the fifth loss against 18 wins for the Gators, who close out the year with a third place game against Tri-County today (Saturday).

Fourth quarter run puts RLCC in final

Red Lake County Central earned a spot in the Sub-Section 30A girls high school basketball tournament championship game Thursday with a 65-51 semifinal over Fertile-Beltrami at the University of Minnesota-Crookston.

Tracy Rosten had a 22-point, 14-rebound game and Sylvia Hilgeman netted 13 points as the Mustangs pushed their record to 18-5. They beat the Falcons by a similar 69-54 margin in a single regular season meeting back on Dec. 8, but it took a fourth quarter surge to secure the post-season win.

Fertile-Beltrami led 12-8 at the end of the first quarter and finished the first half with a 7-0 run to lead 31-28 at intermission. The game was tied 45-45 through three quarters, but the Mustangs pulled away down the stretch.

"We played real well in the fourth quarter," said Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto. "We pressed the whole game. It maybe didn't force a lot of turnovers, but I think we wore them down. They (Falcons) looked tired at the end."

Candice Solie scored 15 points and Tanya Erickson added 12 for the Falcons, but Solie only scored four points and Erickson just three in the second half.

■ Championship Saturday, Feb. 27 - (at UMC) Fosston vs. Red Lake County Central, 6 p.m.

Red Lake County Central was 26-for-59 from the field (44 percent) and 13-for-18 at the free throw line. Fertile-Beltrami went 21-for-59 from the floor (36 percent) and 6-for-11 at the line. The Mustangs had a sizeable 37-18 rebound advantage. The Falcons topped the turnover charts 20-17.

The second-seeded Mustangs meet top-seeded Fosston in the 6 p.m. title game tonight (Saturday). The Greyhounds beat the Mustangs twice during the year, 58-46 and 57-44.

Ericksons earn Farmer, Homemaker recognition

raised forage and some grain. Helen operated a ceramics business out of their home. The Ericksons have one son, Joel.

Snooky's farming career was cut short in 1977. It was a mild, rainy day, and he thought it would be a good time to do some work in the silo. Not realizing that the rain had turned to ice, he slipped and fell 50 feet onto concrete. "It was right before Christmas," Helen said. "I went south for six months that winter," Snooky jests. South was to Grand Forks, and the six months were spent in the hospital. Although considered a paraplegic, Snooky walks with the use of two canes.

Helen milked the cows by herself for a year, and then Joel, a student at North Dakota State University, returned home to take over the farm.

Today, Joel is the only dairy farmer left in the township. He lives on the farm with his wife, Lisa, and their four-year-old daughter, Hannah. "She has grandpa wrapped right around her little finger," Snooky laughs. Hannah also has much of grandma's attention. Helen goes to the farm every day to care for her while her mother Lisa instructs band at Middle River School.

Axel, a 14-year-old German shepherd, rounds out the Erickson family. "One of the neighbors brought him over when he was a pup and asked if we would take him because he wouldn't stay at home," Snooky said. "We tied him up for about half an hour, and he's been with us ever since." The calm canine is never far from his owners and accompanies them nearly everywhere they go. Axel waits patiently in the car when they're in church or shopping and goes with Helen every day when she goes to the farm to care for Hannah.

Snooky's agricultural degree came in handy years later. He worked for the Roseau County Extension Service as an agricultural mediator in 1987-88. The farm crisis of the 1980's necessitated the creation of the position, and Snooky acted as a "go-between" between farmers and lending institutions. His employment with the extension service continued through July of 1996 when he went to work as the branch manager and loan officer at Border State Bank in Badger.

The list of ag related organizations Snooky has been a member of over the years is long and impressive and includes the Roseau County Extension Commission, Farm Bureau, Land O'Lakes board, American Dairy Association, Farmers Union, Dairy Herd Improvement Association, Red River Valley Dairymen's Association, Holstein Association, Northwest Dairy Day and the Federal Land Bank's advisory board. Often, he assumed roles of leadership.

During his stint on the Badger School board Snooky served as chairman for three years and was on the advisory board of Crookston Technical College. He has also served his church in a variety of capacities, and he and Helen were 4-H leaders for over 10 years.

Snooky's slowing down a bit these days. After more than 20 years, 1998 was his last year on the Roseau County Fair Board. "I'm getting out of things, and she's getting in," he says, referring to his wife.

Gardening is Helen's passion, and she especially enjoys flowers. She is active in the activities of Badger's Grow-rite garden club and the 13th District Horticultural Society, and she enjoys exhibiting her flowers and plants at the county fair and area horticultural shows.

Five years ago the Ericksons built a new home a mile from the farm. The open floor plan gives the beautifully decorated smaller home a feeling of spaciousness. Lush, leafy houseplants are evidence of Helen's green thumb.

White wicker furniture decorates the sunroom that faces the backyard. From there, the couple can enjoy a view of Helen's gardens in the summer and spend quiet winter evenings watching the deer that come in for the feed they provide.

Snooky is an avid reader. "I read everything I can get my hands on," he says. Currently, he's reading a series of historical accounts in an attempt to understand why his grandfather chose to immigrate to America. He's also reading Tom Brokaw's Greatest Generation. "I even take a book with me when I'm on the tractor," Snooky says. "If I get stuck, I'll read until someone comes to get me out."

Snooky comes from some hearty Scandinavian stock. His grandfather lived to be 94, and his father, Andy, died five years ago. His mother, Olme, lives in Greenbush and at 91 is an active member of the local garden club. According to a story in this week's Greenbush Tribune, she's also looking forward to a trip to the Minnesota State Girls' Basketball Tournament where she and other women who contributed to the sport before 1942 will be honored. Olme was a member of the 1924 Greenbush girls' basketball team, winning the local and district championships. "She's quite the lady," Helen says when talking about her mother-in-law.

With regard to the current agricultural crisis, Snooky's words are heartfelt. "It's a shame," he says. He foresees that much of the land being brought out of CRP will remain idle, at least for a while, because few have the money to bring it back into production. "Somehow, we've got to get some money into the hands of the farmers," he says. He also notes that had it not been for industries like Polaris, Marvin Windows, Arctic Cat and Digi-Key employing farm family members, many farmers would already have been out of business.

Snooky's common sense and agricultural experience are surely an asset at Border State Bank where he truly enjoys working with and helping people. "And sometimes that means turning them down," he says. Kindness is his most obvious personality trait.

While quieter than her husband, Helen shares his thoughtful nature, and that gentle kindness is reflected in their comfortable home and easy hospitality. It's no wonder Axel had no desire to roam!

Dedicated to the spirit of the farm, their family and community, Snooky and Helen Erickson are good people and an excellent choice to represent Roseau county as Valley Farmer and Homemaker.

Mock trial team has first defeat; loses regional

Fergus Falls successfully defended its regional title Thursday in edging the Lincoln high school mock trial team from Thief River Falls by a score of 185-182 at the Clay county courthouse in Moorhead.

Presiding judge Lisa N. Borgen scored the trial 94-92 for Fergus Falls and scoring judge John T. Goff gave the edge to Moorhead 91-90. Lincoln represented the prosecution in the case and defending state champion Fergus Falls the defense.

A summary of the trial will be published in the March 3 edition of the Thief River Falls Times.

GAHS operates senior center in Goodridge

The agreement obligates the historical society to provide maintenance and repair of the senior center which is used for many events and occasions each month.

Dawn Hanson will continue to schedule events at the senior center and may be contacted at 378-4328. Persons who have other questions about the agreement or suggestions for the center may call 378-4380.

Lincoln choir concert: One World Many Voices

transport the audience to Australia by presenting Ngana, a selection again full of different choral colors. The gentlemen start out imitating an Australian musical instrument while the girls call the sharks and fish that swim in the translucent waters off Australia.

"It is a haunting and energetic piece," Mrs. Reese said. "The lady section breaks up into four separate parts that are only half a beat behind one another, which makes for a very rhythmically challenging piece."

Male voices from the Concert Choir will open the American segment of the concert with a traditional song entitled Vive L'Amour, featuring baritone soloist Andy Janisch. "The harmonies are rich and the gentlemen do a fine job bringing out the colors of this piece," the director said.

Janna Unbehaun and Katie Christensen will be featured on the American spiritual titled Didn't My Lord Deliver Daniel. The finale will be a beautiful arrangement of America the Beautiful, again featuring all 145 voices with accompaniment by Cathy Hagen.

Flags from each of the countries will set the stage with color as authentic recordings are played to represent each of the various countries as the singers enter the stage area.

Mrs. Reese also notes that her music students will be performing the musical Grease March 26-28 at Lincoln. More information on this "exciting and totally cool" musical will be presented in later editions of the Northern Watch and Thief River Falls Times.

VIP receives additional grants

amounts ranging from $250 to $1,000. Among these donors are the Beito Foundation and Steiger Foundation of Thief River Falls which have contributed $1,000 each.

Director Sevigny said that the organization has completed purchase of Lot 3 and Lot 4 comprising approximately 1.4 acres of land from Jake Barnick in the area east of Slumberland Furniture off Highway 59 southeast. Purchase of Lot 2—a smaller, irregular parcel owned by Slumberland and fronting on Greenwood Street—is expected to be completed in the next few days. The latter purchase is expected to better facilitate placement of the new building on VIP property.

Design and drawings for the building are rapidly progressing by Stegner Phelps Architects and a contract has been signed with Construction Analysis Management of the Brainerd area to serve as construction manager for the project.

"It has been a very busy time but we feel that much is being accomplished and we are heartened by the support of the public, foundations and agencies," Sevigny said.

"We have had offers of some substantial volunteer labor from employees of a local business, and we continue to appreciate both financial donations in any amount and those who want to provide needed labor and other services."

Sevigny said VIP is on course to meet its schedule to begin construction of the new building in 1999.
